Over the past 10 years, while the Vietnamese people were concentrating their strength on healing the wounds of war, restoring and developing the economy, and improving their living conditions, the enemy persistently continued to brutally sabotage Vietnam in may respects. Nevertheless, closely uniting as one around the party Central Committee led by Comrade Le Duan, the entire Vietnamese party, army, and people defeated the aggression committed by the Chinese expansionists and hegemonists and their henchmen, thus firmly defending their socialist fatherland. Meanwhile, they have fulfilled their lofty internationalist obligations by helping to save the fraternal Cambodian people from the danger of genocide and helping them rebuild the country in accordance with the line of advancing toward socialism.

In other spheres, the Vietnamese people have accomplished important successes in restoring and developing the economy and developing culture in accordance with socialism.

Comrade Le Duan was an outstanding and close student of beloved and respected President Ho Chi Minh. He was a talented leader and a creative theoretician. He always resolutely struggled to preserve the purity of Marxism-Leninism and opposed various [word indistinct] tendencies. Various works of Comrade Le Duan on the national liberation revolution and socialist revolution, particularly those at the early stage of the transition toward socialism, were extremely precisous and were a great contribution to the storehouse of Vietnam's revolutionary theories and a valuable lesson for the revolution of the Lao people as well as other nations currently struggling against colonialism and neocolonialism and for national independence and freedom and for directly advancing toward socialism without going through the period of capitalist development.

Comrade Le Duan was a revolutionary who always correctly and skillfully coordinated true patriotism with pure proletarian internationalism. He made a very important contribution to consolidating and strengthening the special solidarity and comprehensive cooperation among Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia and to consolidating and developing the all-round cooperation and fraternal friendship between Vietnam and the Soviet Union and other countries in the socialist community. He persisted in strengthening the militant solidarity of the international communist and workers movement on the basis of various principles of Marxism-Leninism. Comrade Le Duan always paid attention to supporting and assisting the national liberation and independence movements. He was a resolute activist for peace and friendship among nations. Throughout his revolutionary activities, Comrade Le Duan always heightened his revolutionary perserverance.

He never became reluctant or discouraged by any difficulty or obstacle, and he persistently struggled for the revolutionary ideal, for the independence and freedom of the fatherland, for the happy and plentiful life of the people, and for the victory of socialism and world peace. At the same time, Le Duan served as a clear mirror reflecting precious principles, love for and confidence in the people, love for comradeship, and a simple and modest lifestyle.

Comrades and friends, Comrade Le Duan was a great, intimate, and faithful friend of our Lao people. The Lao communists and people are well aware of the comrade's spirit of profound love for our people's just cause. From the day he became one of the leaders of the Indochinese Communist Party to the day he assumed the top position of the CPV, he always paid close attention to supporting and assisting the Lao revolution and made important contributions to strengthening and nourishing the special solidarity and militant alliance between Laos and Vietnam which were built and promoted by the two parties and President Ho Chi Minh. This has become a law deciding the survival and development of our two countries. Comrade Le Duan once said: The special relationship between Vietnam and Laos is forever the pride of our two countries. This relationship is exemplary, rare, extremely pure, very faithful, unswerving in spite of difficulties and obstacles, and unshakable in the face of bombs and shells.

Comrade Le Duan also said: The Vietnam-Laos special relationship, built on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, has built a miraculous spiritual and material strength enabling the peoples of the two countries to be aware of the enemy and his heinous schemes, to surmount various difficulties, to defeat all reactionary forces, and to lead the two countries toward their glorious goals.

The comrade's statements, which are filled with the spirit of profound love, reveal a truth in the international relations of the present era. Comrade Le Duan always paid attention to training, educating, and advising Vietnamese party members, cadres, and people to strive to strengthen the militant solidarity, mutual trust, and permanent cooperation and mutual assistance in all respects with the Lao people, thereby permanently linking the two countries, which have been linked in the cause of national liberation, and in the cause of socialist construction and national defense vfor the prosperity and happiness of the people of each country.

The Lao party, state, and people of all ethnic groups wish to remember forever the great meritorious deeds of Comrade Le Duan.

The pure example set by Comrade Le Duan, who dedicated his whole life to the revolutionary cause, is a great encouragement for us in firmly advancing in the cause of defending the country and building socialism.

We pledge to Comrade Le Duan that we will continue to safeguard and nourish the special solidarity, great friendship, militant alliance, and comprehensive cooperation between Laos, Vietnam, and Cambodia, which is the precious heritage of the three parties, and we will strive to educate and train our next generations to build and nourish forever the special relationship between Laos, Vietnam, and Cambodia.

At this sorrowful moment, we would like once again to share the grief of the party, state, and fraternal people of Vietnam and with the family and relatives of the late Comrade Le Duan.

Beloved Comrade Le Duan, you have left us forever, but your fame and name will forevoer remain in the hearts of the Lao people. We would like to bow in a last tribute to you with profound grief and sadness.

PASASON MARKS KPRP ANNIVERSARY WITH EDITORIAL

BK031626 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0500 GMT 28 Jun 86

[28 June PASASON editorial: "35 Years in the Decisive Role for Progress, Development, and All Victories of the Cambodian Revolution"]

[Text] The role of the KPRP is decisive in determining the progress, development, and all victories achieved in each stage of the Cambodian revolution. The KPRP continuously pursues the precious revolutionary cause of the Indochinese Communist Party, which was founded by President Ho Chi Minh — the top-level revolutionary and great teacher of the laboring people of Indochina who brought the beacon of Marxist-Leninist thought and of the Russian Great October Socialist Revolution to this peninsula. Under the leadership of the Indochinese Communist Party, the Indochinese revolutionary fighters have profoundly understood the need to fight their common enemies together to liberate their nations and societies, to gain independence for each country, and to develop the special solidarity in the revolutions of the three Indochinese countries.

Later, to enhance the strength of the party's organizational system, guidance, and leadership in each country, the second congress of the Indochinese Communist Party in March 1951 decided to divide the Indochinese Communist Party into three parties in the three countries — Cambodia, Laos, and Vietnam. On 28 June 1951, the Cambodian party organization convened its first congress and announced the founding of its party, the Khmer People's Revolutionary Party, with Comrade Son Ngoc Minh and Comrade Tu Samut as leaders. Under the correct leadership of the Khmer People's Revolutionary Party, the Cambodian people's revolutionary movements have been developed and strengthend with each passing day. The Cambodian people have closely combined their movements with those of the Lao and Vietnamese people. They have together carried out the difficult and complicated struggle against the French colonialists and U.S. imperialists and have systematically achieved victories.

Following the victory of April 1975, encouraged by the great victories of the movements to liberate southern Vietnam and of the Lao revolution, the patriotic Cambodian forces successfully liberated the country from the dominating yoke of the old regime — lackey of the U.S. imperialists. it is regrettable that the Cambodian people have not yet enjoyed the gains of their victory in the revolution because the genocidal Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique of murderers, who hid themselves in the party, seized power. After the liberation in 1975, the resentful Pol Pot-Ieng Sary-Khieu Samphan clique, which opposed the nation and Marxism-Leninism, carried out its genocidal policy in a very brutal and barbarous manner. Under Maoist slogans, the Pol Pot clique drove the people from their houses and destroyed all forms of production and ownership, including private ownership and rights of ownership in money, markets, schools, hospitals, and temples. The entire country became a vast detention camp. The Pol Pot clique systematically killed the people. Throughout the 3 years of suffering more than 3 million Cambodian people were killed or came up missing. They included farmers, workers, state employees, ethnic minorities clergy members, educated people, and others. Along with this, the Pol Pot clique strongly attacked the revolutionary party. Ninety percent of party members who were loyal to Marxism-Leninism were executed.

Nevertheless, the cause of revolutionary struggle and genuine members of the KPRP will never be eliminated. The patriotic Cambodian revolutionaries and people then united, unanimously set up the United Front for National Salvation in 1978, and began heroically struggling against the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary clique — faithful lackeys of the Beijing reactionaries.

Later, with the support and assistance of the fraternal Vietnamese Army, the genuine Cambodian revolutionaries and the United Front for National Salvation led the Cambodian people and revolutionary armed forces to promptly launch attacks against the enemies and completely liberate the country on 7 January 1979. As a result, the Cambodian nation has marched toward a new era -- an era of genuine independence and freedom.

On 5 January 1979, the party meeting, which was attended by remnant Marxist-Leninist party members from throughout the country, announced its decision not to recognize the so-called third party session organized by the Pol Pot clique. Instead, they decided to restore the revolutionary tradition of the party that originated in the Indochinese Communist Party and use the old name of the party -- the KPRP. They then studied methods of rebuilding the party to increase its qualifications as a genuine Marxist-Leninist Party. Over the past 7 years, under the correct leadership of the KPRP, the Cambodian people have made glorious and great achievements in many fields in carrying out the revolution. Noteworthy are their achievements in performing the tasks of defending the country and maintaining revolutionary gains. Worthy of note is that in the 1984-85 dry season, with the coordination of the Vietnamese volunteer forces, the Cambodian people and armed forces completely destroyed various positions of the Pol Pot clique and the Cambodian reactionaries along the Cambodian-Thai border.

Along with this, through movements to restore and build new life in recent years, the national economic establishments have been restored, promoted, and expanded in many fields, particularly in agriculture and food production. As a result, Cambodia is now self-sufficient in food. Industrial and handicrafts production was also increased three times in 1985 compared with that in 1980. Communications and transport routes -- cars, railroads, waterways, and airways -- have also been consolidated effectively, thus guaranteeing travel and transportation services. The financial, trade, educational, and public health works have also been satisfactorily developed, while the fine cultural establishments of the Cambodian nation have been restored along with the enthusiastic building of socialist foundations.

The marvelous achievements of the past 7 years, on the one hand, clearly prove the invincible strength of the three Indochinese nations and the correct leadership of the KPRP, which has applied Marxist-Leninist theory to the concrete conditions in Cambodia in a very creative manner, and on the other, they show the growth and comprehensive strength of the PRK. The achievements clearly show the firm steps of the heroic, fraternal Cambodian people, who are translating into reality the resolutions of the Fifth KPRP Congress to successfully fulfill the first state plan and lead the nation continually forward along the path that cannot be obstructed by any reactionary power.

As comrades-in-arms fighting in the same trenches, the Lao people wholeheartedly hail the glorious achievements and victories of the fraternal Cambodian people and regard these achievements and victories as their own. At present, the international situation is changing in a furious and complicated manner while the situation in Southeast Asia remains tense, directly threatening peace and stability in the region. This is because the big-nation expansionists and hegemonists have colluded with the U.S. imperialists and other reactionaries in pursuing their dark schemes with the hope of dominating Asia. For example, they have used the ultrarightist reactionaries in the Thai ruling circles to continuously carry out an undeclared war against the Cambodian people with a view to helping the genocidal Pol Pot clique return to massacring the Cambodian people.

In light of this situation, the Lao people of various tribes, under the clear-sighted leadership of the LPRP with Comrade General Secretary Kaysone Phomvihan as head, pledge to do their utmost to profoundly promote and expand and further strengthen the special solidarity, militant alliance, and comprehensive cooperation between Laos, Vietnam, and Cambodia and between Laos and Cambodia to guarantee victory for the revolution in the new stage in each country. The Lao people also pledge to promote and expand solidarity and comprehensive cooperation with the Soviet Union and other socialist countries in the interests of peace and socialism in this region and the world.

On the founding anniversary of the KPRP -- a genuine Marxist-Leninist party -- the LPRP and the Lao people would like to share the joy and happiness of the party and fraternal people of Cambodia and would like to wish the fraternal Cambodian people, under the ledership of the KPRP with Comrade Heng Samrin as general secretary, new and ever greater successes in the cause of building and defending their beloved country. The Lao party, state, and people are firmly convinced that the elegant honor of the KPRP, the honor, prestige, and reputation of the PRK, and the well-known motherland of Angkor Wat of the Cambodian people will certainly be securely defended, further promoted and expanded, and become ever more beautiful with each passing day.

May the special solidarity, militant alliance, and comprehensive cooperation between Laos, Cambodia, and Vietnam and between the two parties, two states, and two people of Laos and Cambodia last forever!

U.S. DESIGNS IN THAILAND, FAR EAST CONDEMNED

BK150505 Vientiane Domestic Service in Lao 0530 GMT 11 Jul 86

[Unattributed commentary: "Monopolists of the Creation of Tension in Southeast Asia"]

[Text] Dear listeners, the U.S.-Thai joint military exercise has now begun and will drag on until August this year. The on-going exercise, codenamed "Cobra Gold-86," appears to be the largest war game ever staged by the two countries and is being staged closer to the Cambodian-Thai border than any previous years. It is being jointly carried out by some 500 U.S. servicemen and 3,500 Thai soldiers. In addition, (?seven) F-16 aircraft from the U.S. air base in South Korea, the "USS New Jersey," some Thai warships, and an estimated 58 U.S. and Thai warplanes have also taken part in the exercise. The target of the exercise is landing of forces on a beach near Rayong provincial town in eastern Thailand in mid-August with support from ground troops.

To the world's people this war game clearly shows who is monopolizing the creation of tension and the threatening of peace and stability in Southeast Asia with a view to expanding the battleground and strengthening the forces engaging in the undeclared war against the Cambodian people, as well as the Lao and Vietnamese peoples.

On several occasions, such as during the meeting between the ASEAN foreign ministers and their counterparts of some Western capitalist countries, including U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, the imperialists and the ultrarightist reactionaries in certain ASEAN countries have tried to deceive their people to believe that the Cambodian problem has obstructed the efforts to turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace free from nuclear weapons. Nevertheless, they cannot hoodwink anyone.

Everyone is fully aware that the Cambodian problem is the internal affair of the Cambodian people. It must be resolved by the Cambodian people without external provocations and threats. The threats against peace and stability in the countries in this regin have stemmed from Reagan's warmongering policy as well as the reactionary policy pursued by some ASEAN countries currently building up military forces and serving the schemes of foreign powers. The Philippine people in particular can tell us very well themselves whose interests the U.S. bases in the Philippines are serving. In addition to pursuing a militarist and warmongering policy, as can be seen from their attempt to establish an Asia-Pacific community which, in fact, is a new-type of militay alliance in Asia and the Pacific, the U.S. imperialists have used their economic power to pressure the ASEAN countries, such as Thailand, to join in the orbit of their arms race. Recent U.S. cooperation with and military assistance to Thailand clearly testify to this fact. For example, the Thai Government has signed an agreement with the United States to purchase modern war weapons, including F-16 aircraft, a mobile radar system, and other war materiel. In recent years, U.S. military assistance to Thailand has tremendously increased while its economic assistance, which is much needed by Thailand has been on the decline. While making preparations to restore U.S. bases in Thailand, the two sides have agreed to establish a U.S. arms stockpile in Thailand.

Thus, their decision to increase the size and scope of the annual "Cobra Gold" joint exercise is nothing new in the militarist and warmongering policy pursued by the U.S. imperialists and their henchmen.

Therefore, the staging of the "Cobra Gold-86" military exercise in Rayong Province near the Cambodian-Thai border clearly shows that the United States has used the exercise to directly train the Thai ultrarightist reactionaries and to render support to and restore the Pol Pot genocidal reactionaries and their colleagues, thus enlarging the battleground for the undeclared war against the Cambodian people themselves as well as the revolutions in the three Indochinese countries.

Such acts of the U.S. imperialists and their lackeys are a direct threat not only to the PRK but also to peace and run counter to the aspirations of the peoples in this region, who want to turn Southeast Asia into a nuclear-free zone with genuine peace, stability, and cooperation.

DEFENSE WORK IN SOUTHERN PROVINCES REVIEWED

[Feature: "National Defense Work in Four Southern Provinces Developed in First Half of 1986"]

[Text] At the conference held between 20 June and 3 July by Division E in southern Laos to review work in the first half of 1986, the situation in the world, region, and country, particularly in the four southern provinces, was discussed. Although the country and people of all nationalities as well as our military units are living in peace, the country's enemies continue to carry out multilateral sabotage schemes against our peaceful life. These enemies are mainly the U.S. imperialists and the Beijing expansionists and hegemonists colluding with the Thai ultrarightist reactionary powerholders.

In the past 6 months they have continued to group, feed, organize, and command exiled Lao agents and bandits. They have organized training centers at various points along the Lao-Thai border and sent these agents and bandits to sabotage the people's peaceful life in many localities.

In addition to the provocative military schemes, they have vigorously carried out political, economic, cultural, and social activities to disturb the tranquil life of our cadres, workers, youths, and people of various nationalities and to sow discord between the Army and people.

Being firmly confident in the party's line and policies, and resolutely performing the two main tasks of defending the country and building socialism, various regular, regional, and militia-guerrilla units in the south have been consolidated. They have also strengthened both quality and quantity and the political and ideological spheres and have raised their military capability. They have closely cooperated to carry out the task of national defense and public security in their localities, checked the enemy's activities, and advanced to consolidate their forces in many localities, thus basically pacifying the local situation and building confidence among the people. Each combatant has daily gained more and more experience in carrying out work, thus helping strengthen various units and combat corps.

Recalling the work carried out in the past 6 months, various infantry units have become strong forces in coordinating with regional and militia-guerrilla units to attack the enemy and build grass-roots establishments. They have destroyed many nests of the bandits and exiled Lao reactionaries and captured a quantity of equipment. Meanwhile, various units and combat corps attached to schools, hospitals, factories, and plants have adopted plans to defend their positions and depots. During the period, they captured two enemy spies and one weapon, thereby helping defend the country's territory at the front and in the rear and ensuring security for various national festivals and local and foreign guests.

The most outstanding achievements were recorded by various armed forces in the south, which repeatedly attacked the enemy during the period. In the past dry season, the armed forces of Champassak Province have attacked the enemy on six occasions, wiped out a number of the enemy, and captured 19 weapons. The regional forces of Saravane Province attacked the enemy on 13 occasions, wiped out a number of enemy agents, sank 2 boats, and captured or destroyed 18 weapons and 5 land mines. The regional forces of Attopeu Province have also repeatedly carried out activities in the rear line. They have launched 3 attacks against the enemy, killing some enemy agents and capturing 3 weapons. In addition, the regular, regional, and public security forces have closely cooperated to attack the enemy in all respects and build the all-people's national defense networks in a comprehensive and extensive manner, thus firmly defending the local administration and country and completely ensuring transportation in localities

Promoting this tradition and these achievements in the plan for the second half of the current year, various units under Division E as well as various regional armed forces based in the south regard the task of combat readiness as an important task. For this reason, they have mapped out plans to keep vehicles and equipment ready for the combat readiness task and received military and political training so that various units will clearly understand the enemy's sabotage schemes. This is to instill profound patriotism in Army officers and men; strengthen close internal unity; build confidence in the party's leadership; provide for a high sense of combat readiness, the maintenance of sufficient combat units, and the defense of peace and security in localities; and score achievements to welcome the forthcoming Fourth Party Congress.

PHOUOMI VONGVICHIT EULOGIZES FAIDAING LOBALIAYAO

[Eulogy by Phoumi Vongvichit, member of the LPRP Central Committee Political Bulreau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and vice chairman of the funeral organizing committee, delivered at the funeral ceremony for Faidang Lobaliayao in Vientiane on 14 July -- recorded]

[Text] Beloved distinguished guests, beloved compatriots: Today, we hold a gathering here to bid the last farewell to Faidang Lobaliayao, vice chairman of the SPC, vice chairman of the Lao Front for National Construction, a great patriotic figure, and an honorable representative of the Lao Soung tribal people in our Lao national community.

Faidang Lobaliayao was born in Ban Phanoi, Sandon Canton, Nonghet District, Xieng Khouang Province, on 5 April 1910. He was a son of Lobaliayao, a prominent leader of the Lao Soung tribal people in northern Laos. In the period before 1945, he joined the resistance against the French colonialists and Lao feudalist reactionaries. He led the people to carry out struggles, both legal and semilegal, to oppose tax collection, labor exploitation, and other acts of oppression and intimidation. Throughout 1945, when the Japanese fascists invaded and occupied our Lao country, he also led the people to struggle against the Japanese fascists until they were compelled to leave. Afterwards, he took part in the revolution against the French colonialists by joining with the fraternal Vietnamese comrades and friends in carrying out activities along tht Lao-Vietnamese border. He served as the leader in guiding the Lao refugees to carry out daily activities and earn their living in Vietnam.

Following his activities in resolutely carrying out the patriotic struggle as mentioned above, on 13 August 1950 the National Congress of People's Representatives elected him as the first vice chairman of the Lao Itsala Front and concurrently a minister in the resistance government until complete victory was achieved in the cause of resistance against the French colonialists in 1954. Later, in 1956, in the conference to set up the Lao Patriotic Front, Faidang Lobaliayao was elected one of the vice chairmen of the front. In the second congress of the Lao Patriotic Front in 1964, he was also reelected vice chairman of the front. Throughout the period of the persistent, fierce, and furious national salvation struggle against thte United States, Faidang Lobaliayao joined other leaders in striving to consolidate the strength of national unity while upholding the banner of national independence, consolidating and building political foundations, building the Armed Forces, and accelerating the struggle to liberate the country and securely defend the liberated areas. As a result, his name was well known both at home and abroad.

In the National Congress of the People's Representatives, held on 1 and 2 December 1975 to announce the overthrow of the old administration and the establishment of the LPDR, Faidang Lobaliayao was also elected vice chairman of the SPC of the LPDR -- the position he held until the day he died. In the congress of the National United Front for establishment of the Lao Front for National Construction in 1979, he was also elected one of the vice chairmen of the Lao Front for National Construction.

Throughout the period of his patriotic and revolutionary activities, both before and after joining the revolution and both in the past period of national-democratic revolution and in the present period of the cause of defending the country and building socialism, Faidang Lobaliayao tirelessly devoted his energy and intelligence to the cause of consolidating and enhancing the strength of national unity and guaranteeing the fulfillment of various revolutionary tasks in each stage.

To commend, recognize, and remember his meritorious deeds, great achievements, and contributions to the nation and people, our party, state, and people awarded him with a second class Itsala medal a third class Itsala medal, a first class medal of victory, a second class labor medal, an anti-French medal, an anti-U.S. medal, and a 5-year achievement medal. In the recent past, despite the fact that the party and state -- together with a team of exprienced doctors and families of relatives -- attentively did their best in curing and taking care of him, due to his serious illness and old age, Faidang Lobaliayao passed away at 1700 on 12 July 1986.

Beloved and respected Faidang Lobaliayao, you have left us for good, but your meritorious deeds, ideals, reputation, and venerable example will be etched forever in our hearts -- the hearts of the Lao people of all tribes. The meritorious deeds and all achievements you scored throughout the period of your tireless, revolutionary, and patriotic activities will be remembered by the Lao people of various tribes forever. The Lao people of all tribes pledge to learn the good models, the profound spirit of patriotism, the spirit of nourishing and promoting the unique solidarity among the various fraternal tribes of the Lao national community, and the loyalty, spirit, and resolute determination to serve the national revolutionary cause that you have left as a heritage. We Lao people of all tribes also pledge to educate and train the next generation to learn and follow this heritage. The Lao people of all tribes pledge to follow and translate into reality the lofty cause and ideas that you have left behind. We also pledge to do our best to attentively take care of and assist your family.

Amid this atmosphere of grievous sorrow, the LFRP Central Committee, the SPC, the Council of Ministers, and the Lao Front for National Construction's Central Committee call on the compatriots of all tribes to strengthen their unique solidarity, turn their grievous sorrow into strength, and determinedly and gloriously fulfill the tasks of defending the country and building socialism to bring the nation to a firm march forward along the path of prosperity and happiness for the entire Lao people.

Beloved and respected Faidang Lobaliayao, in this moment of sorrow we would like to bow to pay last homage to you. May your soul follow the right path and reach paradise!

OFFICIAL ON PROPOSALS TO FIGHT IMPACT OF FARM ACT

BK170115 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 17 Jul 86 p 17

[Text] The subcommittee to study the impact from the Farm Act has recently worked out two proposals to fight within the frame-work of GATT (General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) against impacts on Thai rice by the act, Mr Kroekkrai Chiraphaet, Deputy Director-General of the Business Economics Department said yesterday.

He said that the two proposals have been passed on to the Prime Minister via the Foreign Ministry.

The two proposals, he said, were:

-- Asking the United States, which is a member of GATT to comply with GATT'S charter which says that member country is able to ask other countries to refrain from subsidising their exports, or if there are so, subsidy should be at a fair rate that will not affect other exporting countries, and GATT must be informed of all measures used.

-- As a matter of fact, the enactment of Farm Act is meant only against the EC and Japan. However, it is turn causes a heavy blow to third countries which adopt free trade policies. A concerted effort from all 14 non-subsidising countries, which held a recent meeting in Phatthaya, hence was an initial expression of protest that should be continued.

Meanwhile, he said that the rice prices announced by the United States on Tuesday remained stable for the past three weeks.

POLAND'S SZALAJDA ON TRADE ECONOMIC COOPERATION

BK170139 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in Enlish 17 Jul 86 p 11

[Text] Poland is looking for wider trade and economic cooperation with Thailand in both the public and private sectors, visiting Polish Deputy Prime Minister Zbigniew Szalajda said yesterday.

He made the statement at a luncheon hosted in his honour by Metro Group chairman Sawang Laohathai and President Plengsak Prakatphesat at the Ambassador Hotel's Hong Te restaurant.

"The visit to Thailand serves to stimulate mutual contact, and entering into contracts which can provide trade for our two nations."

He said that the visit will be an opportunity to exchange views.

Meanwhile, Mr Plengsak said that he firmly believes that the Polish mission's visit can broaden the relations between the two countries in terms of economic and social cooperation.

The Metro Group has been trading with Poland for more than 20 years, importing pesticides, synthetic rubber, plastics and chemicals.

"Recently UMC [United Machinery Company] has also exported rice and textiles to Poland. In the near future, we wish to expand our export of high quality natural rubber and maize. We are also interested in importing Polish Machinery and hope to receive full support, to shorten the usual lengthy development of capital goods in the Thai market."

Meanwhile, the Polish Deputy Prime Minister told the BANGKOK POST that he met Foreign Minister ACM [Air Chief Marshal] Sitthi Sawetsila yesterday morning and talked about promoting economic cooperation between the two countries.

Mr Sawang said that Poland is a big market for our goods, adding that we have to increase the trade volume gradually.

Mr Szalajda is accompanied by Minister of foreign Trade, Andrzej Wojcik, and 10 other high ranking Polish government officials. They visited Malaysia and Indonesia before coming to Thailand. The party will return to Poland today.

AMNESTY GROUP ASKS LAOS TO PROBE BORDER RAID

[Text] Amnesty International has called on Laos to order an immediate investigation into allegations that its troops massacred 35 refugees in Phayao Province on June 14.

The London-based human rights organisation urged Laotian leader Kaysone Phomvihan to initiate a full investigation by an independent body into the allegations that Laotian government forces were responsible for the attack.

Urging Vientiane to make public the findings of such an investigation, Amnesty said it has asked Thai authorities to provide information regarding the incident.

The group said: "According to reports published in the local and international press and information from other sources, 35 Laotians were killed when armed elements attacked a settlement where they were living illegally in Phayao.

"According to these reports and information, it has been alleged that the attack was carried out by the armed forces of the neighbouring Democratic People's Republic of Laos, and may have been intended to punish them and other Laotian refugees resident in the settlement for having left Laos and for suspected involvement with armed anti-government political activities.

"Available reports state that of those killed, 11 were women and 18 were children (three girls and 15 boys), and that in addition 15 other Laotian nationals were wounded. The victims were reported among some 140 Laotians residing in a makeshift settlement near the village of Ban Huai Pong, in Chiang Kham District, and located approximately eight kilometers from the border with Laos' Sayaboury Province."

Amnesty said it was "concerned at allegations from several sources that the attacks were elements of the People's Liberation Army of Laos dispatched from Sayaboury Province on a planned operation, the purpose of which was to punish these refugees for having left Laos and for their suspected involvement with the activities of armed anti-government organisations".

In June, the Government presented an official note to the United Nations, blaming Laotian government troops for the attack and protesting at the violation of Thai sovereignty.

ATHIT ON REDUCTION OF CAPITAL SECURITY COMMAND

[Text] Supreme Commander Gen Athit Kamlang-ek said yesterday security work by the Capital Security Command [CAC] should be scaled down but suggested the command continue its public welfare activities.

Last week acting Chief-of-Staff Lt-Gen Wanchai Ruangtrakun said the CSC would be reorganized and would in future concentrate more on development and public service activities as requested by the Government.

The CSC under Gen Athit's guidance has centralised control over several elite units in the three armed services and the police.

Gen Athit, who is due to retire August 31, is still CSC commander. He said he wanted to hand over th command's leadership to new Army Commander-in-Chief Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyut but was asked to keep the post.

Defending the CSC, Gen Athit said the command was still useful and could coordinate social welfare work by government agencies.

The CSC was set up after the abortive coup staged in 1981 by a group of young Turk army officers. Gen Athit, then First Army Region Commander, serves as commander and retained the post after being promoted to the position of Army Commander-in-Chief.

GOVERNMENT TO INVEST IN TANTALUM PROJECT

[Text] The Cabinet yesterday approved a proposal for the government to invest in the multi-million-baht tantalum project as recommended by a committee led by PM's [Prime Minister's] Office Minister Michai Ruchuphan.

The government will also provide a soft loan to suport the company's financial position which was weakened by the damage caused to its factory in Phuket Province when a riot erupted against the company on June 23.

The company is unlikely to claim compensation from insurance which does not cover riots, though the factory was damaged by fire.

The government, according to the recommendation, will also locate a new site for the factory probably on the Eastern Seaboard which has been marked for industrial development.

Other measures include more paid-up capital to be carried out by the company to demonstrate that its shareholders are willing to go ahead with the project.

OFFICAL POLL INDICATES 2-PARTY COALITION

[Text] The post-election government will compromise at least two political parties as no single party is expected to hold an absolute majority in Parliament, according to an official opinion poll.

The poll also pointed out that all candidates of the same tickets in 50 constituencies nationwide will get elected in the July 27 general election.

R. Niyom Purakham, secretary general of th National Statistical Office (NSO), said the poll, based on interviews with 45,000 persons throughout the country, reported that Lower House seats in each of 88 constituencies out of a total 138 will be split among various political parties while those in the rest 50 constituencies will be grabbed by the same parties.

As a result of the predicted election outcome, a coalition government with up to two political parties will be formed after the voting, he said.

The poll, completed last month, found that about 15 per cent of the interviewees have yet to be informed of the date of the forthcoming election and a myriad of them got confused of the names and numbers of candidates in their respective constituencies.

People in the South received the least election-related information because they could hardly keep abreast of the election news due to the language barrier. Many of the southerners were also illiterate, he said.

The poll also revealed that people in provinces tended to choose candidates on the party rather than individual basis unlike Bangkokians who placed an emphasis on the party basis.

Niyom dismissed as "impossible" the 90 per cent voter-turnout target set by some polling units He also recommended that registration households and lists of eligible voters be prepared a month ahead of the scheduled election.

HANOI COMMENTS ON MALAYSIAN TRAINING OF CAMBODIANS

BK170244 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 2300 GMT 16 Jul 86

[Text] BBC has quoted the 10 July issue of FAR EASTERN ECONOMIC REVIEW as saying that Malaysia has clandestinely trained 60 military instructors for the Sihanoukist forces. Malaysia plans to train an additional 40 such instructors.

With this action, Malaysia has interfered in the internal affairs of Cambodia. This will only benefit the move to incite confrontation now being advocated by those forces hostile to the three Indochinese countries. This also runs counter to the trend toward dialogue now developing in Southeast Asia and contradicts Malaysia's claim that it has goodwill toward finding a political solution to the Cambodian issue.

BIRTH, POPULATION GROWTH 'MARKEDLY' DECREASES

OW141839 Hanoi VNA in English 1628 GMT 14 Jul 86

[Text] Hanoi VNA July 14 -- According to Nguyen Cong Thang, general secretary of the National Commission for Population and Family Planning, the birth rate and population growth rate has decreased markedly in the whole of Vietnam since the family planning campaign was launched in 1970. Vietnam's population stood at 59,650,000 in 1985, nearly one million less than projected by foreign demography specialists. The birth rate dropped from 3.1 per cent in 1980 to 2.85 percent in 1985.

In the same period, the poppulation growth rate decreased nationwide from 2.4 per cent to 2.1 per cent. Also in 1985 the number of women with three children upward made up 47.99 per cent of the child-bearing women, compared with 54 per cent in 1980.

Many families have actively responded to the slogan "no more than two children".

Nguyen Cong Thang further said that the campaign for family planning is both a scientific and social problem. If it is well conducted, Vietnam may stabilize its population situation at the turn of the century and avoid a population explosion.

HCM CITY DRUG REHABILITATION MEASURES CITED

[Text] Hanoi VNA July 16 -- Do Kim Son, 30, a native of Ho Chi Minh City, was tossing in bed. The doctor-teacher on his bedside said that he was having a withdrawal which needed an immediate acupuncture.

He gradually came on. Speaking to V.N.A., he said that he was not married, jobless and got addicted since before liberation. Every day, he needed three drug injections. Each injection of drug, oftem opium or morphine, in Ho Chi Minh City now costs 30 dong (Vietnamese currency) compared to the monthly salary of 350 of an average factory worker. To get the money for drugs, an addict is ready to do anything, even commit crimes.

Only a few months after the liberation of South Vietnam in 1975, the "new youth labour training school" was established in Saigon now rebaptized Ho Chi Minh City. Its prime objective is to receive and cure drug addicts and educate them into useful men and women.

The drug addicts admitted to the school are first administered with acupuncture to stop seizures, then they are given psychological education designed to arouse in them their self-confidence and reinforce their belief in the success of the cure and also to sow in them the hatred for the drug pushers; they are also assisted in taking lessons on deep breathing to redress the physical balance; and finally, they are trained in a simple craft to prepare themselves for a productive job.

Speaking to V.N.A., Nguyen Quang Van, 55, director of the school, said that the school has had 17,000 admissions of drug addicts to date.

It has now a population of about 600 men and women aged from 20 to 70 with the majority under 40. They are admitted to the school in three ways: 10 per cent come of their own free will, 20 percent are sent by their families; and 70 per cent are turned in by police.

At first, most of them did not want to stay, even though they went to be helped out of addiction.

There have been about five to six escapes each year which often involve newcomers. Asked why they did so, most said they never expected any real compassion from others. But the stories of former students choosing to remain with the teaching staff as well as the daily care they receive from the teachers have changed their thinking.

After six months of medical treatment the school inmates begin to learn some crafts such as tailoring, carpentry, or wickerwork and are sent to the school workshop. They also go out to work at various state-owned farms in the neighbourhood. They are all paid according to the work done.

According to statistics left by the old regime, by 1975, there were 100,000 drug addicts and more than 2,000 drug dens in South Vietnam.

At present, Ho Chi Minh City still has about 3,000 to 4,000 drug addicts and about 100 drug dens.

The drug mostly comes from the "Golden Triangle" area and also by sea from other countries.

Besides its own efforts, Vietnam needs international assistance in medicine and equipment to cure and rehabilitate the drug addicts. It also needs close international cooperation in checking and eliminating drug trafficking.

AUSTRALIA

HAYDEN WARNS OF 'UNRAVELING' OF COMMONWEALTH

BK130906 Melbourne Overseas Service in English 0830 GMT 13 Jul 86

[Text] The foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, says Australia and Canada should try to encourage Commonwealth countries to adopt what he called a fairly extensive set of sanctions against South Africa. Speaking on commercial television, Mr Hayden said Australia and Canada should take the lead in the debate on possible sanctions when Commonwealth leaders meet in London next month to discuss the issue of southern Africa. He said the price of not taking effective measures to force South Africa to abandon apartheid could be what he called the unraveling of the Commonwealth. This was a concern that Canada shared with Australia.

Mr Hayden said he could not be specific about what Australia would be proposing at the London meeting. He said cabinet has approved a comprehensive range of possible measure Australia could take against South Africa. However, the prime minister, Mr Hawke, would have to assess the mood of the meeting deciding which of these measures would be most effective. Mr Hayden added that he did not believe peaceful change could be achieved in South Africa through dialogue without sanctions -- the policy being followed by Britain.

Talks Held With UK Official

[Text] Australian Government officials have held talks in Canberra on the issue of southern Africa with a senior official from the British Foreign Office, Mr Derek Thomas. A spokesman said the talks were in preparation for the forthcoming meeting of British Commonwealth leaders to discuss the issue. That meeting results fron the initiative of athe Commonwealth eminent persons group which recommended taking specific action against South Africa. The spokesman in Canberra said there had been an exchange of views on what specific action could be taken as well as the future of Namibia. A Radio Australia Canberra reporter, Graham Dobell, says the head of Australia's Foreign Affairs Department, Dr Stuart Harries, briefed Mr Thomas on the newly adopted policy of the Labor Party. That policy called for economic and diplomatic sanctions against South Africa as a means of forcing it to abandon apartheid. It is expected that the prime minister, Mr Hawke, will use the policy as a guide at the London meeting. Among the measures suggested by the Labor Party were the closure of the South African Consulate in Sydney, the withdrawal of landing rights for South African Airways, and a ban on new investment in South Africa by Australian companies.

THATCHER BLAMED FOR COMMONWEALTH GAMES BOYCOTT

[Text] Canberra, July 14 (AFP) -- The Australian Government Monday expressed disappointment at the boycott of the Edinburgh Commonwealth games this month and said British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's government was to blame. Sport Minister John Brown said in a statement that the boycott would not have occurred if Mrs Thatcher had indicated she would consider increased Commonwealth actions against the "discredited" South African Government.

"Whilst the (Australian) Government recognises the withdrawal of a number of countries will have some negative impact on the level of competition at Edinburgh, we fully understand the actions taken by those states," Mr. Brown said. He said Prime Minister Bob Hawke would take a tough stand at the Commonwealth meeting on South Africa in London next month, in which he is expected to push for wide-ranging economic sanctions against the white minority regime. "If Mrs. Thatcher had indicated Britain would consider some form of increased Commonwealth action against apartheid then the current boycotts wouldn't have occurred," Mr. Brown said.

Hayden Opposes Boycott

[Text] The foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, has said Australia should not join the growing list of countries boycotting the Commonwealth Games in Edinburgh. Instead, Mr Hayden said Australia should be trying to encourage other countries to support the games. The boycott of the games is in protest against Britain's refusal to impose sanctions against South Africa as a means of forcing it to abandon its apartheid policy. Mr Hayden said Australia believed the way to apply productive pressure on Britain and on South Africa was through contact and argument, not by boycotting the games.

[Begin Hayden recording] I proposed to my department that they speak with British high commissioner, Sir John Leahy, who is in Canberra, today to express our concern on this matter because we are very deeply concerned about it. And if the white minority government of South Africa would demonstrably move in areas like releasing Nelson Mandela, perhaps recognizing the ANC as a contact group, I think considerable pressure could be take off this very difficult situation. LABOR CONFERENCE PASSES RESOLUTION ON EAST TIMOR

[Text] The national conference of the Australian Labor Party has accepted what it described as the reality of the Indonesian takeover of East Timor. However, the resolution also expressed concern at the way the incorporation proceeded and regret that there has not been an act of self-determination. Indonesia annexed the former Portuguese colony in 1976. The foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, said the party had to back the prime minister's statement last year that the Labor government accepted the takeover.

[Begin Hayden recording] No government, this government included, has revoked that commitment. Now, in those circumstances, it prevailed, and even if it were revoked, it would be regarded as a massive act of hostility and confrontation. It would be a very serious act in terms of international relations to do that. [words indistinct] circumstances, it could be argued that one should revoke an earlier declaration. But, I do not see what would ever be served by doing this on this occasion. First, it would be a repudiation of a prime minister, and not unimportant and secondly, it would put into reverse all of the positive contact that we had been able to establish in relation to East Timor through the Indonesian Government. [end recording]

The foreign minister said that human rights violation had occurred on both sides of the conflict in East Timor between the Indonesian forces and the Fretelin resistance movement.

Mr Hayden said Fretelin was pillaging and alienating East Timorese citizens in a substantial way. He warned the Labor conference delegates against criticizing neighbors and Australia's tendency to irritate people by moralizing. The conference adopted a further resolution recognizing the vital importance of developing a closer and more understanding relationship with Indonesia. The national conference is the supreme policy making forum of the Labor Party.

Backs Government Economic Line

[Text] The federal Labor Party government has won endorsement for its tighter economic policies from the national conference of the Labor Party being held in Hobart. A motion at the conference by left-wing delegates calling for change in economic strategy was soundly defeated. Here's Graham Dobell reporting from Hobart:

[Begin Dobell recording] The conference adopted a resolution put by the president of the Austrian Council of Trade Unions, Mr Crean, which reaffirmed the principles of the accord between unions and the Hawke government. Mr Crean said during the 3 years since it was created, the accord had worked better than anyone had expected. It had delivered record economic and employment growth along with reduced unemployment and inflation. There had been a signficant reduction in strikes and an improvement in international competitiveness. Mr Crean said the accord could now be used to deal with Australia's growing international debt caused by deteriorating terms of trade. The left-wing resolution called on the government to restrain nonessential imports, put more emphasis on Australian manufacturing, stabilize the currency exchange rate, and control the outflow of funds from investors. The motion was defeated by 60 votes to 39. The prime minister, Mr Hawke, said the left wing resolution was irrelevant, dangerous, economic nonsense. [end recording]

Conference Ends

[Text] The national conference of the Australian Labor Party has closed in Hobart. The conference finished after debate on two issues which had met with strong opposition within the Labor Party. These are powers for police to conduct telephone intercepts to help combat the drug trade and the introduction of a national identity card, the Australian Card. The card would have to be carried by all Australians. The conference endorsed the introduction of the card with a photograph and accompanying legislation protecting the privacy of individual. A Radio Australia reporter, Will Atkins, said the conference also called for strict safeguard for telephone tapping, especially relating to the use by state police.

[Begin Atkins recording] As expected, there were calls from the left for total opposition to any extension of powers because of civil liberaty problems. That move failed as did another left-wing suggestion that a national telephone tapping authority be set up which could pass on information to police forces. The proposal that won the day was that the government not to decide on any extension to state forces until it has fully considered a report into the matter by a parlilamentary committee. If the government did agree to the widening of powers, th tapping procedures would have to be in accordance with national legislative guidelines. These would encompass stringent civil liberty safeguards.

The left's animosity toward ASIO [Australian Security Intelligence Organization] also raised its head at the conference with a call for the scrapping of the security organization. However, there was no support from other factions and the move was lost. [end recording]

Their action has brought to eight the number of nations which have said they will not be sending athletes to the games. The Papua New Guinea prime minister, Mr Wingthi, said Britain had threatened the very existence of the Commonwealth by its refusal to impose sanctions against Pretoria over its apartheid racial policy. He said that more than 60 Papua New Guinea athletes, who were to leave for the games which are to start in Edinburgh next week, would not now go, and four who already had left would be recalled. Father Lini said Vanuatu was a Christian democracy with principles completely contrary to communist perceptions. He said small Pacific states were reviewing their relationships in a period of change in the region. MOKHTAR MEETS U.S. OFFICIAL, NOTES LE DUAN DEATH

FK111330 Jakarta Domestic Service in Indonesian 1200 GMT 11 Jul 86

[Text] At his office in Jakarta this morning, Foreign Minister Mokhtar Kusumaatmaja met with visiting U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for Economic and Business Affairs Douglas McMinn. Mokhtar told newsmen later that his meeting with McMinn was a follow-up to talks held in Bali on the protection of international copyright. Mokhtar said Indonesia is considering the U.S. request that the country pay more attention to copyright law. In this connection, Indonesia is now drafting a new copyright law. Speaking on the cassette piracy committed by an Indonesian businessman in New York, Mokhtar said it should be settled in accordance with the existing laws. However, he regretted the fact that the case had been blown out of proportion by international copyright organizations.

[Begin Mokhtar recording] I regard the case of Darmawan who attempted to sell cassettes illegally in the United States. [words indistinct] However, it is wrong to say that the Indonesian Government was involved in the illegal sale. This is just a single case affecting one Indonesian businessman. [end recording]

Meanwhile, the U.S. assistant secretary of state for economic and business affairs stressed that the U.S. Government has never accused Indonesia of masterminding the recent cassette piracy in New York. He told newsmen this evening that the U.S. Government never interferes in the affairs of the judiciary. Therefore, the cassette piracy case is the New York court's business. During his meeting with other Indonesian ministers, McMinn explained President Reagan's efforts to combat protectionism and open U.S. markets to developing countries' products. He also requested the Indonesian Government to provide more protection to copyright holders, but he did not encourage Indonesia to join international copyright organizations. He stressed that his meetings with Indonesian leaders are useful in boosting mutual understanding in economic and business affairs.

Commenting on the death of Communist Party of Vietnam Secretary General Le Duan, Mokhtar said it was too early to predict the impact on Vietnam's stand on the Cambodian problem, adding that decisions in Hanoi were made by the party's Politburo, not by individuals.

KADIN CHAIRMAN VIEWS PROGRESS OF TRADE WITH PRC

BK150241 Jakarta THE INDONESIA TIMES in English 4 Jul 86 p 2

["By our reporter"]

[Text] The time has still not come to open an Indonesian trade representative [office] in Beijing, the capital city of the People's Republic of China (PRC) or a representative [office] of PRC's China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) in Jakarta, the General Chairman of the Indonesian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (Kadin), Sukamdani S. Gitosarjono, said Thursday.

Gitosarjono said this following the first year's commemoration of the Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) between Kadin and CCPIT in Singapore in July last year. However, he said, efforts in that direction were still being made.

So far, he said, Kadin has firstly tried to improve the capability of commodity groups and pool them into a consortium, explaining that such would strengthen the Kadin members internally. To avoid social jealousy, he said, the consortium is expected to be joined by all scales of Kadin members companies, including exporters, importers, bankers, insurance and transportation companies.

The Kadin General Chairman considered the bilateral trade relations between Indonesia and the PRC still in fair condition. He admitted that the trade activities had posed stumbling blocks in the past, such as in the survey procedures for imported goods in the respective countries.

However, he said, the difficulties were already solved with an understanding between both sides. He explained that only for imported soybeans, is Indonesia's appointed surveyor, Societte Generale de Survaillance (SGS) permitted to examine at the ports of departure in PRC. While, other imported commodities, SGS will examine the goods at the Hong Kong port. The balance of trade between Indonesia and PRC until July this year shows favourable records for Indonesia. According to Kadin's data, Indonesia exported in that period more than US$200 million worth of goods, while its imports was reported less than the export figure. But no data were available.

Indonesia exported plywood, sawn timber, fertilizers, crumb rubber, steel and cement to the PRC and imported cotton, soybeans, animal feed, machineries and coal.

[Text] President Suharto held a 2-hour discussion with a number of cabinet ministers and some officials from the agriculture department at Bina Graha Palace this morning on steps to be taken to speed up development projects which are funded by foreign countries, especially the Asian Development Bank [ADB] and the World Bank. Junior Minister Murdiono, concurrently cabinet secretary, told newsmen that at the meeting, the speeding up of development projects, which is important for the country's development, was discussed. In addition to this, the country should take full advantage of foreign countries' trust through the funds that had been allocated. Murdiono said President Suharto has given guidelines to follow so that the objectives can be achieved and the funds used in a smooth manner. The minister, who replied to newsmen's questions, said that the development projects involve six fishery projects, four plantation projects, two animal husbandry projects, and a food production project which are funded by the ADB.

More on Suharto Meeting

[Text] Jakarta, July 16 (AFP) -- President Suharto met with cabinet ministers and senior agricultural officials Wednesday to seek ways to accelerate the disbursement of some six billion U.S. dollars in project loans. Cabinet Secretary Murdiono told journalists the meeting was a bid to maintain foreign lenders' trust in the Indonesian Government. He said the development projects reviewed Wednesday, all of them in the agricultural sector, were mainly funded by the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank (ADB). He added that the meeting was held at Indonesia's own initiative and was not the result of any rebuke or warning by the banks, which have frequently urged speedier disbursement of concessional development funds.

The latest World Bank report on Indonesia, issued last month, shows more than four billion U.S. dollars of World Bank loans listed as undisbursed and almost two billion U.S. dollars in undisbursed ADB funds. "Indonesia has to pay an annual commitment fee of 0.75 percent for every committed project which is not yet implemented," Mr Murdiono explained, saying that the country "would have to pay a large sum if implementation of project commitments continues to be stalled." "The government is aware that there is a slowness in the use of funds for foreign aided projects," Mr Murdiono said, but he denied that delays were due to a lack of local funds. The minister referred to a presidential speech last March that pledged the provision of local funds for foreign-aided projects would be a priority in the current budget year which started April 1. Pinpointing weaknesses present in foreign aid project implementation, Mr Murdiono cited cases of inadequate project planning, weak management and incomplete project reporting. The ADB is financing some 3.45 billion U.S. dollars worth of development projects in Indonesia mainly in education, mining, energy, transmigration and agriculture, while the World Bank has provided the country with between 500 million U.S. dollars and 1.1 billion U.S. dollars annually in recent years. The Wednesday meeting concentrated on the agricultural sector, and Mr Murdiono said that similar meetings would be held with other ministries in the near future.

FOUR COMMUNISTS ARRESTED IN CENTRAL JAVA

[Text] Jakarta, July 15 (AFP) -- Four Indonesian communists trained abroad have been arrested by security troops in central Java, a provincial military commander was quoted as saying Tuesday. Three of the group received military training abroad before infiltrating the country, and the fourth even succeeded in getting enrolled in the police academy in Semarang, the provincial capital, Major General Harsudiyono Hartas, central Java commander, was quoted by the Jakarta newspaper as saying. He made the disclosure at a meeting with executives of private universities in Semarang last week.

The general gave no dates or precise details of the arrest, nor did he give any indication whether they were in any way connected to another arrest announced in October of a man identified only as a doctor who had studied in Nanking. He told the meeting that one suspect named Hans Dimyati went to school in Moscow and underwent military training in Nanking before coming to Indonesia. Another named Sambungan Simanjuntak allegedly came in through Hong Kong and had received military training in Albania, Burma, and China. The third to have received military training abroad, Tangis Darmono, came to Indonesia from Cambodia after attending military courses in Vietnam, the commander said. The fourth man detained was identified as Tohari, but no details were given on his background.

Security agencies in the province have a complete file of the names and activities of former communists and others suspected of involvement in an aborted coup in 1965, totaling some 1.6 million, including their families, in central Java alone, he said. The Home Ministry said in December that 1.5 million former political detainees suspected of involvement in the aborted coup had been released into society subject to constant surveillance.

The decision is taken by the cabinet at its weekly meeting today [16 July]. Cabinet spokesman Datuk Rais Yatim says the boycott is consistent with the stand taken by the country during the last Commonwealth heads of Governments meeting held in the Bahamas. It proves the tough stand of the government's in line with that of other Commonwealth countries.

MAHATHIR SECURITY, REDUCING MILITARY BUDGET

BK150913 Kuala Lumpur International Service in English 0800 GMT 15 Jul 86

[Text] Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamedhas reiterated that the contentment of the people is a major factor in determining the security of the country. He said when a choice has to be made, the country would place emphasis on development over armament. This is because the national security is dependent on political stability, economic success, and social harmony. He said, in any case, as the cost and sophistication of arms and military equipment escalate beyond the reach of the nation, Malaysia has no choice but to scale down its budget for the armed forces. The prime minister was speaking when opening a 3-day national conference on security organized by the Institute of Strategic and International Studies in Kuala Lumpur today [15 July].

Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir said, Malaysia also placed emphasis on close cooperation with friendly countries and neighbors with the view to make as few enemies as possible. He admitted that Malaysia is incapable of defending itself against powerful enemies in a conventional war. However, the prime minister is confident that the Malaysian security forces are capable of bloodying the nose of anyone trying to attack the country. He also stressed the importance for the country to place emphasis on total security. He said in this modern world, national security should not be the responsibility of just the government agency, it should be the responsibility of all citizens. The prime minister stressed that apart from the communist terrorists, Malaysia did not have enemies at the moment although there were certain forces or nations that were consciously or otherwise undermining the country's security.

ENRILE REPORTS KIDNAPPERS' DEMANDS TO AQUINO

HK151104 Hong Kong AFP in English 1059 GMT 15 Jul 86

[Text] Manila, July 15 (AFP) -- Moslem rebels Tuesday demanded 100,000 dollars in ransom for 10 Filipino nuns as officials met with another group holding an American missionary on Mindanao, Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said. The Roman Catholic Carmelite nuns and reverend Brian Lawrence, a Protestant missionary, were kidnapped by separate groups Friday and Saturday in mainly Moslem Marawi City, some 800 kilometers (500 miles) southeast of here.

Mr. Enrile told President Corazon Aquino in a report released by the Defense Ministry that renegade Moslem separatists had demanded two million pesos (about 100,000 dollars) for the freedom of the nuns, who were taken from a convent. Their other demands were implementation of a 1976 agreement granting political autonomy to the Mindanao-based Moslem minority and a constitutional provision guaranteeing such autonomy. A commission appointed by Mrs. Aquino is currently drafting a new constititution for the predominantly Catholic Philippines.

Mr. Enrile said the nuns were still being held in a village of Yanagi town near Narawi as of Tuesday afternoon. Meanwhile, negotiations were being conducted by civilian and military officials, along with Moslem community leaders, with emissaries of the group who were holding Mr. Lawrence at an unknown place, Mr. Enrile said. Mr. Enrile said a Moslem princess instrumental in the release of a French missionary abducted by Moslems last month has agreed to help again in the negotiations. Mr. Lawrence was kidnapped from his apartment near the Mindanao State University in Marawi by men linked to a local warlord. The same group had kidnapped a French Catholic missionary, Father Michel de Gigord, at the university last month. They freed him after two weeks.

The official PHILIPPINE NEWS AGENCY (PMA) said the ransom note was given to Brigadier General Rodrigo Gutang, the military chief of central Mindanao, who relayed it to the Defense Ministry in Manila. It quoted the general as saying both abductions were apparently made in response to the failure of Moslem emissaries who had worked for the priest's release to pay a 20,000-peso (1,000-dollar) ransom. The report was the first indication that the kidnappings may be connected.

Brig. Gen. Gutang would not say how the government would handle the demands, although it has been firm in its policy not to yield to terrorist demands in the past, PNA said. A spokeswoman for the Carmelite order in Manila told AFP they were unaware of the ransom note.

In Iligan City, north of Marawi, Army Brigade Commander Colonel Raul Aquino told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE in a telephone interview that Ali Dimarporo, a Moslem warlord who holds sway in the area, pledged Monday to work for the victims' release. Mr. Dimaporo told Col. Aquino he had sent two of his most trusted men to two towns near Marawi where the captives are thought to be, to negotiate with their kidnappers, the official said.

In the central city of Cebu, Ricardo Cardinal Vidal, president of the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines, issued an appeal Tuesday to the kidnappers of the Carmelite nuns. "I'd like to appeal to the people behind this regrettable happening to bring back the sisters," he said. He told a press conference in Cebu that he did not want to speculate about the motives of the kidnapping. There was no immediate reaction available from the Presidential Palace.

Ransom Demand Rejected

HK160327 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 15 Jul 86

[Text] President Aquino yesterday [15 Jul] took a tough stance against the kidnappers of 10 Carmelite nuns and an American protestant missionary in Davao, saying the government cannot be blackmailed nor will it adopt a policy of appeasement. The president assumed a tough attitude in response to the kidnappers' demands for P2 million ransom and the implementation of the Tripoli Agreement in exchange for the nuns' release and protestant minister Brian Lawrence. The nuns and the minister were kidnapped by armed men believed to be Muslim rebels in separate incidents in Marawi City last week. The ransom note was reported to the defense ministry of Central Mindanao regional Unified Commander Brigadier General Rodrigo Gutang. In a press statement, President Aquino said the kidnappers have abused the military's attitude of tolerance. She indicated in her statement that her government would act decisively and beyond the immediate problem of the double kidnapping to settle once and for all Lanao del Sur's problem of warlordism and banditry.

The military said the whereabouts of the Reverend Brian Lawrence remains unknown. This was confirmed by Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile in his memorandum to president Aquino on the two kidnapping incidents in Marawi City. The ten Carmelite sisters were kidnapped last Friday from their hilltop convent in Marawi City by suspected Muslim rebels. According to Enrile's report to the president, the nuns were taken to (Lumba Yanagi), Lanao Del Sur by their captors.

Meanwhile ex-Lanao del Sur governor Princess Tarhata Lucman assailed attempts by officer-in-charge (Asaidami Pangarungan) to link her to the nuns' kidnapping.

[Begin Lucman recording] Why should I be involved in this kidnapping [words indistinct]? I am a more religious person. [words indistinct] in Islam, kidnapping is against our [words indistinct]. [sentence indistinct]. [end recording]

Princess Tarhata called on Minister Enrile in Camp Aguinaldo to refute allegation made by (Pangarungan). Enrile is now coordinating closely with Muslim leaders in Mindanao, including Lucman, the Dimaporos and the Dianalans in negotiating for the kidnapped victims' release.

[Begin Enrile Recording] I have requested Princes Tarhata to contact Ali Dimaporo and his group and enlist their assistance in the effort, as well as all the other leaders like the (Dimacutans), if they could be asked to join us in our desire to retrieve these poor nuns so that no harm would come to them. Missionary To Be Freed

[Excerpt] Iligan, Philippines, July 16 (AFP) -- Kidnapped American Missionary Brian Lawrence is to be freed without ransom probably in two days' time, military authorities in this southern city said Wednesday. Two Moslem emissaries met with the kidnappers late Tuesday who identified themselves as former employees of the Mindanao State University (MSU) in Marawi City south of here. Colonel Raul Aquino told reporters. Col Aquino, head of an army brigade in the area, said the kidnappers have agreed to free the missionary without any ransom "probably within two days."

Armed men abducted the Rev Lawrence at his apartment outside the MSU campus Saturday. The military said he was taken to a hideout somewhere around Lake Lanao near Marawi, hub of the Moslem religion in the southern island of Mindanao. The emissaries, sent by local Moslem warlord Ali Dimaporo, were set to return early Wednesday to the Lake Lenao area, 500 kilometers (480 miles) southeast of Manila, to negotiate with the kidnappers of 10 Filipino Roman Catholic nuns. RELIGIOUS LEADERS REJECT FOREIGN MILITARY BASES

[Text] Thirty-six bishops and pastors representing some five million Protestants and Aglipayans nationwide yesterday expressed support for a resolution filed at the Constitutional Commission [Con-Com] seeking a ban on all foreign military bases in the country.

"Foreign bases and installations are a basis for political and military intervention and therefore serve the interests of the foreign country rather than ours." they stressed.

In a consultative assembly of the National Council of Churches of the Philippines [NCCP], representatives of Protestants and Aglipayans agreed to submit to the Con-Com tomorrow provisions they wish to be included in the new charter.

The NCCP said the Declaration of Principles should state that the Philippines is an independent and sovereign republic.

The Philippines should also stay neutral and non-aligned, condemning wars of aggression and use of force, it said.

The NCCP also called on the Con-Com to include a provision prohibiting the deployment, storage, passage and entry of nuclear weapons and vessels into the country and another provision affirming the inviolabilty of the separation of church and state and of the freedom of religious belief.

GROUPS ACCUSE U.S. OF 'INTERFERENCE' IN CON-COM

[Text] A new coalition of cause-oriented groups yesterday accused the U.S. Government of trying to influence members of the Constitutional Commission [Con-Com] into supporting the retention of American bases in the country.

Charges of U.S. interference in the Con-Com's work were aired during yesterday's launching of Campaign for Sovereignty (CAMPAIGN), a coalition of 30 organizations seeking a constitutional ban on all foreign military bases, nuclear weapons and nuclear power plants from the country.

Charito Planas of the Anti-BAses Coalition alleged that some U.S. officials have been discretely inviting Con-Com members to discussions on the "necessity" to retain the bases.

She also exposed a U.S. plan to conduct "fake" surveys that claim majority of the Filipinos favor the retention of U.S. bases.

Planas, however, said at least 17 Con-Com members have already indicated their opposition to any foreign base in the country.

Campaign said it will work toward the inclusion of a constitutional provision that will reaffirm the country's commitment to its ASEAN neighbors to make the region a zone of neutrality, freedom and peace.

During the movement's launching Sr. Sol Perpinan of the Third World Movement Against the Exploitation of Women also claimed that a bloc within the Con-Com is "deliberately working for the interests of the U.S."

She cited a resolution filed by Commissioner Gregorio Tingson that seeks to allow the U.S. use of the bases for another 100 years.

The Task Force Nuclear-free Constitution will put up a "peace tent" on July 4 at Plaza Ferguson in front of the U.S. Embassy, to dramatize its demand for the constitutional guarantee banning nuclear materials in the country.

According to Lia Seelin, task force vice governor, the peace tent will serve as anti-nuke center where other cause-oriented groups and individuals can "coordinate their efforts for a common cause."

Seelin said the center will also display educational and information materials "to open the eyes of the people to the nuclear danger."

The task force, a prime-mover of cause-oriented groups on the nuclear issue at the Constitutional Commission, is mobilizing signatories to a proposed resolution that will be presented to the Con-Com.

A nationwide campaign to free the country from stockpiles of nuclear weapons will also be launched, Seelin said.

He also announced that the task force, along with the Ako'y Philipino Movement, will hold a motorcade from the Quinrino Grandstand to Camp Aguinaldo on Sunday, July 6.

CON-COM TO PROVIDE 'FLEXIBILITY' ON BASES ISSUE

HK091331 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 9 Jul 86 p 24

[Text] Members of the Constitutional Commission (Con-Com) are more inclined to provide the Aquino government flexibility and leverage in negotiating a new agreement on the use of military bases in the country by the United States.

Twelve commissioners filed a resolution proposing the termination of the U.S. military bases agreement by 1991, without prejudice to the contracting governments agreeing to negotiate a completely new treaty reviewable every five years.

If the new treaty is adopted in accordance with the constitution of each contracting party, it must in no case extend beyond 20 years, with each party empowered to terminate the agreement at any time with due notice.

The 12 authors of the resolution said with the proposal the Philippines will keep its options open, including the termination of the agreement without difficulty if the other contracting party fails to satisfy the Philippine government's minimum demands.

But in no case will the sovereignty of the Philippines be negotiable.

Under the present RP [Republic of the Philippines]-U.S. military bases agreement which will expire in 1991, each party has one year to notify the other of its intention to terminate the agreement.

In 1988, both parties will meet to review its implementation. That meeting may be the start of the negotiation for terminating the bases agreement.

The resolution said the termination clause can take the form of a transitory provision in the new constitution. It will preserve the options of the Philippines, instead of removing these through a constitutional fait accompli.

The proposal will also ensure and strengthen the bargaining power of the government relative to the U.S. to be applied to secure the national interest at the propitious time.

The Constitutional Commission (Con-Com) formally approved yesterday by a vote of 35-3 the provisions on Filipino citizenship.

The provisions, which are neither restrictive nor liberal, assure the integrity of citizenship.

As approved, the following are citizens of the Philippines:

-- Those who are citizens of the Philippines at the time of the ratification of this constitution.

-- Those whose fathers or mothers are citizens of the Philippines.

-- Those who elect Philippine citizenship pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution of 1935.

MORE WORKERS DISMISSED AT SUBIC NAVAL BASE

HK150613 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 14 Jul 86 p 8

[Text] Olongapo City -- More Filipino civilian employees at Subic Naval Base here were dismissed from the service Friday as American base authorities continued sending notices of termination to many Filipino workers.

Reports gathered by MANILA BULLETIN said that the latest to be dismissed were workers at the Subic's public works department.

Their number was not, however, immediately known.

It was likewise reported that those terminated last week among the 900 workers scheduled to be laid off on Sept. 30.

Subic authorities dismissed at least 483 workers early last month.

As this developed, Olongapo Mayor Teddy Macapagal appealed to the Subic officials "not to dismiss employees drawing their salaries from the nonappropriated funds."

Macapagal said that these employees are working in income generating establishments inside the base, so they "do not eat U.S. government funds."

According to Macapagal, he was told by Rear Adm. Edwin Kohn, Subic commander, that he (Kohn) will look into the plight of these workers.

He said Kohn could not do something for the "appropriated employees" because the termination of many of them has been provided for by U.S. law."

The law, called the "Gramm-Rudmann-Hollings Reduction Act," mandates the reduction by 11 percent in the funds for all branches of the U.S. military units, including the naval installations.

The law has been reportedly applied not only in Subic but also in all military facilities throughout the world.

Sources said that termination of employees at Clark Air Force Base in Angeles City may follow soon as Clark authorities are still in the process of updating the list of the base employees.

Subic, which is a repair facility of the Seventh Fleet, has a total of 15,725 civilian employees, four percent of which consists of American civilians.

Robert C. Best, director of the Consolidated Civilian Personnel Office (CCPO) at Subic, reported that the terminated employees would be paid their sick leave balances in accordance with the collective bargaining agreement (CBA).

Best said that severance pay will also be given to those workers who completed six-month probationary period.

COLUMNIST VIEWS U.S. 'NUCLEAR WAR SIMULATION'

HK091520 Manila THE MANILA EVENING POST in English 8 Jul 86 p 4

["The White Paper" column by Hermes Vittorio: "Nuclear War Exercise"]

[Text] Over the weekend, a report said that at Clark Air Base, a nuclear war simulation was held, called "Operational Readiness Exercise." Whether or not it was to give significance to the date when it started we cannot say, but the "war game" began June 12, Philippine Independence Day.

As press reports put it, Clark Air Base went under "chemical and nuclear attack" in what was described as the "most ambitious simulated war exercise ever undertaken in the area." The announced purpose of the simulation was to determine the capabilities of armed forces, strategic or tactical, in coping with a wartime situation.

In the light of the current controversy over the presence of American military facilities in the two bases, the nuclear exercise recently held should convince us of the undeniable presence of nuclear weapons in these facilities. But there are more questions to be answered by those who conducted the simulated war exercise.

In the simulation, how many kilotons or megations were dropped over Clark Air Base? Was Subic Naval Base also attacked? Were the Philippine government and the military informed of the impending attack? Were there any provisions for the evacuation of the Philippine president, assuming that the "nuclear attack" went beyond the tactical parameters?

All these questions need to be answered if we are to believe that these facilities are beneficial to Philippine defense. If we follow the scenario, deterrence has failed and defense will now turn to offense. American defense strategist call it "support mission" but those in the know describe it as offensive weapons. In short, nuclear exchange.

This corner once had the opportunity to participate in a war game simulation a few years back and we must report that, simulated or real, once the first bomb or chemical weapon is dropped, escalation is inevitable. This means the effects of nuclear bomb do not stop at the base perimeter. The awesome implications become both military and political. It is therefore unbelievable, if not incredible, that the American defense specialists at Clark did not include in their simulation exercises the role of the Philippine civilian and military authorities.

Let us, therefore, do our own simulation.

Assume that there is a confrontation between the Americans and the Soviets in the Middle East. American readiness is upgraded to Defcon I where planes from Clark and ships from Subic are ordered to proceed to the Indian Ocean. But Soviet ships and planes intercepted the American ships and planes.

At first, there is an exchange of conventional firepower; eventually, it escalates into a nuclear exchange. Soviet SS-20'S are fired towards the two U.S. facilities in the Philippines. The Americans retaliate with their well-kept secret, Phershing II's and the ground-launched cruise missiles (GLCM).

At this point, the Philippines becomes a sitting duck with absolutely no defense against nuclear weapons nor any retaliatory weapons. While Clark and Subic military personnel and their families may be ready to absorb the attack, the Philippine government is not. As in the last war, the country is caught unawares, unprepared. There is chaos all over Luzon. Civilians panic like headless chickens. Mrs Aquino, still learning how to govern, has not been fully briefed by the U.S. military authorities on what to do if the eventuality arises.

American contingency plans include the evacuation of Cory. But will she leave? Who will lead the country in this deadly situation? Meantime, Filipinos, especially in Luzon, are being incinerated, waiting in resignation for the Day After.

This is the bigger "nuclear war" picture which military planners of Clark and Subic play with. Simulated war games should test not only military capability but also how the civilian government and the people would be able to react under these conditions.

With the war game exercise leaked to the press, perhaps the Con-Com [Constitutional Commission] may wish to invite our military and civilian defense authorities to do their own war games simulation, perhaps with the above questions for a starter. Unless there is an honest-to-goodness "simulation" study by our own authorities, these debates on the bases will be mere guesswork.

SISON ANNOUNCES FORMATION OF NEW POLITICAL PARTY

HK151559 Manila THE NEWS HERALD in English 15 Jul 86 p 3

[By Jun Basadre]

[Text] Cebu City -- Cause-oriented groups are forming a political party to be called "Partido ng Bayan," former Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) chairman Jose Ma. Sison said here yesterday.

In a talk with a selected group of media men here, Sison revealed that the party will be formally launched during a congress on August 30 and 31 in an undisclosed place in Luzon.

Sison, who claimed he is the chairman of the preparatory commission of the Partido ng Bayan, said he would not take any meaningful role with the new party but would leave the "leading position" to others as he plans to concentrate on his work as an academe, his research, teaching and writing.

He said some who would put up as party leaders in Manila include Horacio "Boy Morales, 1973 Constitutional Convention delegate Romy Capulong, Constitutional Commission member Jimmy Tadeo, Rolando Olalia of the Kilusang Mayo Uno and labor leader Crispin Beltran.

According to Sison, these leaders will eventually assume leading national positions in the new party.

In Cebu, a good number of leaders of the cause-oriented groups would also assume national positions in the national council of the Partido ng Bayan, Sison said. However, he refused to mention names.

"I made it a condition to the organizers that I would work for the new party only up to the point the founding congress is formed," Sison replied when asked whether he would accept the national leadership of the new party.

Sison who delivered at least five speeches before separate forums here said the Partido ng Bayan is a legal political party that struggles for national liberation and democracy.

"In politics, the Padtido ng Bayan would have to assert the national sovereignty and independence of the Filipino people. In economics, it is interested in carrying forward genuine economic development through a thorough-going land reform program and industrialization. In culture, it promotes a national scientific and democratic orientation and in foreign relations. It pushes forward an independent non-aligned neutral foreign policy, Sison said.

REPORT VIEWS PROBLEMS FOR CEASE-FIRE TALKS

[By Marites Danguilan-Vitug]

[Text] After quelling the loyalist Putsch at the Manila Hotel, the Aquino government needs to hurdle the cease-fire talks, still to begin August, and immediately resolve the issue of whether to recognize the National Democratic Front (NDF) or the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) as the negotiating body of the underground left.

In an aide-memoire to Malacanang, rebel representatives Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel said the CPP and other member organizations of the NDF have authorized the NDF to negotiate in behalf of the underground left. So far, there has been no response from the palace although Ocampo believes the government will most likely cede to this.

Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile has opposed this saying to negotiate with the NDF will mean recognizing it as the "government of the left thus elevating the status of the talks to a government-to-government level. [no closing quotes as published]

Some observers do not see much difference between the NDf and the CPP and fail to understand why the NDF insists on being the negotiating body. Ocampo admits that the CPP is in "political command" of the NDF and is the strongest organization within the NDf. But there are other groups outside the CPP belonging to the NDF, he added, thus making the NDf representative of the entire underground left.

A university academic remarked: "They should not make a big fuss out of it. It arouses suspicion that once the NDF commits to the government, the CPP can back out and say they're not in agreement with the NDF."

A source close to the underground left told BUSINESS DAY the move may be a preparatory step to make the NDF acceptable as part of a future provisional coalition government. A recognition of the NDF as negotiating body may also help them acquire a "status of belligerents" as provided by the 1949 Geneva Conventions of War. With their role as combatants with a cause affirmed, they would not be viewed as terrorists or criminals as the military paints them to be.

This status, if acquired, will most likely be contestd by the military which will question the territorial control of the rebels; control over specific territories in a condition for "status of belligerency." Said one senior military officer: "The AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] can still penetrate any of the NPA's territories.

The cease-fire talks promise to be tedious and difficult with several important and ticklish issues facing both the Aquino government and the rebels. The NDF-CPP-NPA want to see the CHDF [Civilian Home Defense Forces] dismantled, the military in their barracks, the checkpoints removed, among other initial conditions. The AFP for its part, would like the NPA territory defined and also know the line of command. Some military officials think the NPA should not remain an "amorphous" body during the cease-fire.

University of the Philippines [UP] political professor Francisco Nemenzo Jr. remarked: "Conditions for cease-fire should be as easy as possible on both sides".

Nemenzo pointed out that in negotiating for a cease-fire, each party should be seen as reasonable. "If you are perceived to insist on big demands, you're likely to be blamed for being unreasonable."

A tough bargaining stance on the part of the rebels, Nemenzo said, is not the correct posture since they are dealing with a popular government that commands the sympathy of people who are also potentially their sources of mass support. "It is different from bargaining with a Marcos, an enemy government. They (NDF-CPP-NPA) can be tough when it comes to the political settlement."

He explained that negotiations will be a "tricky thing" since the rebels will not be dealing with a homogenous government. "But," Nenenzo warned, "if armed conflict continues, the NPA will play into the hands of the U.S. and (Juan Ponce) Enrile who are not after a cease-fire. This will weaken (President) Cory."

At this point, the UP professor said, President Aquino's survival is critical: "If cease-fire talks fail, it will show (President) Cory as naive and strengthen Enrile." He added that this may give reason for the Armed Forces to pursue the military solution. The NPA, in the face of a reinvigorated AFP, may also stand to lose.

He also proposed the formation of a committee to be composed of neither government officials nor rebels but persons acceptable to and trusted by both sides. This body will be different from the present panel of negotiators and will serve as the "third party" to monitor cease-fire violations on both sides.

This proposal jiles with the NDF's idea of a monitoring body to oversee the progress of the cease-fire implementation. Violations of cease-fire agreement will be brought to this body.

But on the eve of the cease-fire talks, some observers say it is ironic that the number of offensives conducted by both sides has stepped up, each wanting to have the upper hand before going to the bargaining table.

Satur Ocampo, when asked about the timing of the NPA ambushes and if they sent a message of strength to the government, said: "I can't say they come within the context of the overall objective to put an impression of strength. We have a large organization... plans proceed because a cease-fire has not yet been called."

For Constitutional Commissioner Ed Garcia, who is also an authority in Central America, there are no models for the Philippine cease-fire talks. He said some countries in Latin America failed to arrive at a truce with the insurgents, namely El Salvador and Colombia. In the case of El Salvador, Garcia said U.S. intervention is strong while, in Colombia, the government bowed down to the hardliners in the military.

This is one fear of the rebels. As Ocampo said, President Aquino's control over the AFP is one key issue in the cease-fire talks. Will the AFP follow her should she commit the government to a cease-fire?

The rebels are watching indicators, starting with President Aquino's no-torture policy. Ocampo said this is a test for the Armed Forces to show its adherence to the President's policies.

The recent loyalists takeover of the Manila Hotel, to some extent, showed that President Aquino has the following of the military; although others argue that it demonstrated more the hold of Defense Minister Enrile and Gen. Fidel Ramos over the AFP.

It also demonstrated a military consolidated in its anti-communist stance, to a point of hysteria, proving to be deterrent in the peace process.

Garcia proposed that cessation of hostilities precede the peace talks as a sign of goodwill on both sides. He described this period as one of "disengagement" where both sides are at a standstill, each one staying where they are, not trying to gain more territory and adherents.

Phase Two, Garcia said, will be the negotiations proper and the last part will be actual participation in government but not through sharing of power. "A coalition government should be won by popular mandate. They have the right to present their program but this should not be imposed on government," he said.

Garcia said the rebels, if truce is achieved, can popularize their platform through elections or other forms of pressure politics: "It will depend on their ability to mobilize people based on ideas, not slogans, to advance ideas rather than their political force."

But, ultimately, peace talks should be entered into without illusions. For as long as the basic grievances of the rebels are not addressed, their craving for justice, land, and equitable distribution of the country's wealth, a cease-fire will only be a temporary solution.

AQUINO BANS DISPLAY OF MARCOS PHOTOS, PAINTINGS

[Text] Manila, July 16 (AFP) -- The Philippine Government has banned the display of photographs and paintings of deposed President Ferdinand Marcos and his wife Imelda in public buildings because they are "divicive," the presidential palace said Wednesday. President Corazon Aquino's Executive Secretary, Joker Arroyo, issued the order on June 30 due to reports that some government offices, through "plain inadvertence or lack of concern," still displayed the former first family's photos.

Mr Arroyo said the continuous display of visual representation of the Marcoses tended to cause a "divisive effect and influence" on the people, an aide of Mr Arroyo told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE. Mrs Aquino assumed power in February following a largely peaceful uprising which toppled the 20-year strongman rule of Mr Marcos, now living in exile in Hawaii. The official portrait of the chief executive is customarily displayed on government offices and schoolrooms.

'NEW LEADERS' DISCUSS NAKASONE TERM EXTENSION

OW171405 Tokyo NHK Television Network in Japanese 1230 GMT 17 Jul 86

[Text] Tripartite talks among the three new leaders -- Abe, Takeshita, and Miyazawa -- which were convened earlier this evening, ended a short while ago at 2150 [1250 GMT].

At the talks the three reportedly agreed that, in case Prime Minister Nakasone's term of office as LDP president expires while he is still addressing himself to National Railways Reform and other pending bills, they will work together to build a consensus in the party to enable him to remain as party president until the pending bills have been taken care of.

KANEMARU SAYS EXTENSION POSSIBLE FOR NAKASONE

OW170903 Tokyo KYODO in English 0841 GMT 17 Jul 86

[Text] Tokyo, July 17 KYODO -- Ruling Liberal-Democratic Party Secretary General Shin Kanemaru indicated Thursday that Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone may get his tenure extended if there is enough support within the party. However, Kanemaru ruled out a third term for Nakasone.

Nakasone's second two-year term as LDP president expires in October, and there has been mounting speculation about Nakasone's future in the wake of the LDP's spectacular victory in the July 6 general elections.

Discussing the current political scene in a speech he made at a Tokyo hotel, Kanemaru said there is talk within the LDP of allowing Nakasone to continue in office beyond October so that he may see through parliament the privatization of the Japanese National Railways.

An extension of Nakasone's term as LDP president is possible if there is agreement among party members, Kanemaru said. However, a third term, which is banned by party rules, is less likely because it needs a two-thirds majority among LDP diet members to change the party regulation, he said. Anyway, Nakasone has also been saying that there won't be a third term for him, Kanemaru added.

Kanemaru also stressed that his decision to relinquish the party secretary general post is final, saying "I wouldn't keep the job even if I were dragged to it with a rope around my neck." There has been speculation within the LDP that Kanemaru is quitting so that his protege, Finance Minister Noboru Takeshita, may take over the key party job and use it as a springboard for the LDP presidential race.

Kanemaru also revealed that he had hit a snag in persuading Susumu Nikaido, the chairman of the Tanaka faction, to take up the largely ceremonious position of speaker of the lower house, and that he had asked Nakasone to talk to Nikaido once again. A decision on the speaker position will come next Monday or Tuesday in time for the special Diet session, he said.

MINISTERS MOVE TOWARD 'WEST' GERMAN SDI FORMULA

[Text] Tokyo July 18 KYODO -- Key cabinet ministers whose responsibilities include fields which would be covered by research on the U.S. strategic defense initiative (SDI) virtually agreed Friday on Japan's participation in the research. Officials said the six cabinet ministers, including Chief Cabinet Secretary Masaharu Gotoda, held a third meeting on the matter at which they "virtually confirmed" Japan's move toward taking part in research on the space-based antimissile system -- the so-called "star wars" project -- on the basis of what is described as "West German" formula. Under the formula, private enterprises will chiefly take part in the research but the government will not fund their participation.

Japan will try to work out an agreement with the United States on ways that will allow the Japanese private sector to join in the research while ensuring the return to Japan of derivative technology developed in the course of the research.

The cabinet ministers did not make a formal decision Friday and instead left it for their successors to decide. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone is expected to form a new cabinet next week following the landslide victory of his ruling Liberal-Democratic Party in the July 6 parliamentary elections .

The six ministers meeting Friday also agreed that the government will not propose new legislation to protect classified information on military technology, that private enterprises will mostly take part in the U.S. research although a way will be retained for government-related agencies to participate in it, and that the government will not contribute any financial expenditure on it.

WATANABE VIEWS SEMICONDUCTOR ACCORD PROSPECTS

[Text] Tokyo, July 17 KYODO -- Japan and the United States will shortly reach a "desirable and beneficial" agreement on semiconductor trade, International Trade and Industry Minister Michio Watanabe forecast Thursday. He made the optimistic prediction as the two countries prepared to resume tough negotiations on semiconductors in Washington next week.

But the MITI minister cautioned during a luncheon meeting of the foreign correspondents' club here that it is "impossible" for Japan to guarantee the share of American-made semiconductors in the Japanese market despite a strong U.S. request in a series of unsuccessful talks. The United States is seeking a share of at least 20 percent share [as required] in Japan where American products currently account for roughly 11 percent.

Watanabe, however, left open the possibility that the Japanese Government will urge major domestic users of semiconductors to buy more American products to help rectify the imbalance in simiconductor trade. He said that another U.S. request to Japan, to control the prices of semiconductors produced at overseas subsidiaries of Japanese firms is also "difficult" to meet. "But overall prospects of a Japan-U.S. agreement on semiconductor trade are not bleak," he contended.

"I'm firmly convinced," MITI Minister Watanabe said, "that the results (of the potential agreement) will be desirable and beneficial to both countries."

His agency announced on Monday it has revised Japan's fiscal 1986 economic growth downward from 4 percent to 2.5 percent due to the strong yen's deflationary impact. Watanabe said that the government of Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone is considering supplementary budget and other steps to meet the 4 percent growth target.

He added that neither MITI nor the government has made a decision on the current annual quota of 2.3 million Japanese cars to the U.S. market after March 1987, the final month of fiscal 1986.

ARGENTINA'S ALFONSIN VISITS; MEETS NAKASONE

OW141445 Tokyo KYODO in English 1243 GMT 14 Jul 86

[Text] Tokyo, July 14 Kyodo -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone pledged economic and cultural assistance to Argentina Monday in a meeting with Argentine President Raul Alfonsin. Alfonsin, who arrived here Sunday for a five-day state visit as the first Argentine president to visit Japan since 1979, met with Nakasone at a state guest house in Tokyo for one hour and 45 minutes. The two leaders discussed each other's diplomatic policy, world peace, disarmament, the Central American situation, trade debts and other matters of mutual concern, a Foreign Ministry official said.

Nakasone praised Alfonsin's efforts to restore democracy in his country following military rule and to ease tension in Central America, the official said. He said Nakasone promised to Alfonsin that Japan will provide 100 million dollars in bank loans from the Export-Import Bank of Japan and send a mission of government officials and businessmen to Argentina as early as possible within the current fiscal year to help the debt-ridden Argentina economy to develop.

Nakasone also promised to invite 100 youths, including those wishing to study technology to Japan within this year, the official said. Both leaders agreed to set up a so-called wisemen's group, to facilitate medium- and long-term Japanese-Argentian relations. Details will be worked out later though diplomatic channels, the official said.

Alfonisin told Nakasone he bases his diplomacy on world peace and tries to promote arms limitation in the so-called Group of Six consisting of Argentina, India, Tanzania, Greece, Sweden and Mexico the official said. Sharing his view on world-peace diplomacy, Nakasone expressed hope of an early second summit on disarmament between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Both leaders agreed they are against trade protectionism and they promised to cooperate in maintaining free trade in projected multilateral trade talks within the framework of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), which are scheduled to open in September in Punta del Este, Uruguay, at a GATT ministeral meeting, the official said. Alfonsin, who is particularly against the European Communty (EC)'s protective agricultural policy, reportedly told Nakasone that the new GATT round should discuss agricultural products, the official said.

On Third-World debts, including those of Argentina, Nakasone said he will positively help solve the problem, but they should be solved on a case-by-case basis, the official said.

Alfonsin arrived here for the third leg of his six-nation tour after visiting Australia and New Zealand.

President Alfonsin later attended a banquet hosted by Emperor Hirohito at the imperial palace Monday evening. Present at the banquet were Crown Prince Akihito, Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone and some 60 other guests.

In his welcome address, the emperor expressed pleasure that many Japanese emigrants to Argentina are joining in Argentine development and cementing friendship between the two countries. The Argentine president told the banquet that the great contribution by the immigrants from Japan and their decendants is a subject for admiration and thanks in his country.

Nakasone Hosts Banquet

[Text] Tokyo, July 15 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone stressed the need to strengthen ties with Argentina Tuesday in a luncheon meeting he hosted for Argentine President Raul Alfonsin. "Since 1898, when Japan and Argentina concluded a trade agreement, the two countries have developed relations steadily through economic, scientific, cultural and sports exchanges," Nakasone told Alfonsin, who arrived Sunday for a five-day state visit.

"Both nations will be able to cooperate further," Nakaszne said, welcoming a proposal made Monday by Alfonsin to set up a so-called wiseman's group to study ways to strengthen bilateral ties in the longer term. Nakasone said Japan will promote bilateral relations by providing Argentina with economic and technical assistance and inviting a number of Argentine youths this year.

Alfonsin said his country is making efforts to firmly establish democracy and freedom after military rule and to contribute to reducing political tension and ending racial segregation and the arms race as well as discouraging trade barriers. Alfonsin showed particular interest in Japan technology and hoped that the two countries can find viable joint projects in various fields.

Abe Meets Caputo

OW151357 Tokyo KYODO English 1020 GMT 15 Jul 86

[Text] Tokyo, July 15 KYODO -- Japan pledged Tuesday to help Argentina promote various economic and cultural development projects, a Foreign Ministry official said. Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe made the promise in a meeting with his Argentine counterpart Dante Caputo, here since Sunday accompanying Presdient Raul Alfonsin. The official said in Japan will provide cooperation to development of agricultural around the Yacireta dam in Miciones Province, a thermal power plant project in Neuquen Province and will also help Argentina's energy-saving projects.

Japan will also help improve the port of Puerto Deseado in southern Argentina and provide technical assistance to an industrial information school in Buenos Aires, the official said.

Abe and Caputo also agreed to hold regular high-level consultations between the two countries and to appoint deputy minister-level officials to head a joint wisemen's group, the official said. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone and President Alfonsin agreed Monday to set up the joint panel to discuss long-range bilateral problems. The official said the projected wisemen's group will compile a report on the two governments by April, next year.

Abe and Caputo also agreed to hold an Argentine-Japan cultural week. The first cultural week will be held in September in Buenos Aires, the officials said. Japan also pledged to invite five Argenine high school teachers to Japan by the end of the current fiscal year in March, and to help improve a theatrical hall in Buenos Aires, the official said.

He said Abe asked Caputo to locate three Japanese and eight Japanese Argentines who have been missing since the late 1970's when Argentina was under military rule. Alfonsin, now on a five-day visit to Japan as a state guest, will attend a luncheon meeting at the Japan National Press Club Wednesday. The president and his party will leave Japan Thursday after touring Kyoto.

Pledge on Export Credits

[Text] Tokyo, July 15 KYODO -- Japan will give medium and long-term export credits, which have been suspended since the beginning of 1984, for debt-ridden Argentina, government officials said Tuesday. The pledge was made at a meeting between International trade and Industry Minister Michio Watanabe and visiting Argentine Economic Minister Juan Vital Sourrouille, they said. The credits will be accepted within a ceiling of a 100-million-dollar loan, granted Monday by Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone at a meeting with Argentine President Raul Alfonsin, the official said. Roberto Lavagna, the Argentine secretary of state for industry and foreign trade, was present at the Watanabe-Sourrouille meeting, they said.

Watanabe said Japan will send a large mission to Argentina in August to study the possibility of investment, especially in high-technology industries, to promote high-level transfers, according to the officials.

Takeshita on Loans

[Text] Tokyo, July 15 KYODO -- Finance Minister Noboru Takeshita said Tuesday Japan will conditionally provide 100 million dollars in new loans to Argentina through the governmental Export-Import Bank of Japan. The loans will be extended to Argentina if the country continues to "faithfully" repay its debt owed to Japan based on a repayment plan agreed to by the two countries last November, Takeshita said.

His remarks came in response to a request for the loans made by Argentina's Economic Minister Juan Vital Sourrouille in a brief meeting with Takeshita at the Finance Ministry. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone Monday told visiting Argentine President Raul Ricardo Alfonsin that Japan will meet the request.

Argentina, which has accumulated debts totaling about 50 billion dollars, currently owes about 400 million dollars to Japan. Last November, the two governments agreed to reschedule interest payments on Argentine debts due in 1985. Argentina has abided by the agreement since then, Finance Ministry officials said.

Takeshita rejected another request for loans from Japan through the Overseas Economic Cooperation Fund as the governmental organization only extends loans to low-income countries.

Alfonsin Comments on Visit

[Text] Tokyo, July 16 KYODO -- Argentine President Raul Alfonsin said Wednesday that he obtained greater results than the government had expected in economic and cultural areas during his official visit to Japan. Alfonsin, who arrived here Sunday for a five-day state visit as the first Argentine president to visit Japan since 1979, said that important projects with Japan have become concrete, and that he got a promise of a loan of 100 million dollars from the Export-Import Bank of Japan.

He told reporters at the Japan National Press Club that his visit turned a new page in the relations between the two nations and that his talks with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone provided an opportunity to pave the way for new and closer relations. He said his austerity measures to curb inflation in Argentina was necessary economically and socially and that his policies were understood and supported by the people.

Alfonsin said that Argentina is now facing a very difficult situation with foreign debt totaling 50 billion dollars, the third largest in the developing world, and declining foreign investment. The president said that while he is confident about overcoming the debt problem his country must obtain understanding of the creditor nations.

As for a plan to transfer the capital from Buenos Aires to Viedma, 800 kilometers southwest of the present capital, Alfonsin said that the project will contribute to economic development and that the present centralization of power in Buenos Aires prevents realization of a federal republic system. He said the country will finance the project with its own funds, though he would welcome foreign bridging loans.

PYONGYANG MEETING OPENS SOVIET FRIENDSHIP WEEK

Kim Yong-chae Speech

SK071008 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1316 GMT 2 Jul 86

[Speech by Kim Yong-chae, chairman of the Korean-Soviet Friendship Society Central Committee and minister of communications, at a meeting to open the Korean-Soviet friendship week to mark the occasion of th 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, held at the Central Workers' Hall on 2 July -- recorded with portions read by announcer]

[Text] [Begin Kim recording] Respected Comrade Arseniy Vantskiy and comrades.

Together with Soviet friends, we are holding a meeting to open the Korean-Soviet friendship week to mark the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the signing the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance between the DPRK and the USSR, at a time when Korean-Soviet friendship is developing to betterment each day.

First of all, I warmly welcome our Soviet friends who are participating in this significant opening meeting, which is brimming over with friendly sentiment. [applause]

At the same time, I also convey fraternal greetings to the Soviet-Korean Friendship Society Central Committee and the Soviet people from the Korean-Soviet Friendship Society Central Committee and the Korean people. [applause]

Twenty-five yars ago today, on 6 July 1961, the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance was signed, reflecting the aspirations of the Korean people and the Soviet people to further develop and consolidate Korean-Soviet friendship.

This treaty, signed based on the principle of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, has greatly contributed to implementing the common cause of the people of the two countries for the victory of the socialist and communist cause against imperialism. Also, this treaty plays a very important role in legally fixing the traditional Korean-Soviet friendship and in making the garden of friendship blossom beautifully.

Designating the Korean-Soviet friendship week in connection with the 25th anniversary of the signing of this treaty, which is significant in Korean-Soviet relations, we are to organize and hold various functions, including meetings and friendship meetings, film shows, and photo exhibitions, in varous local cities, including Pyongyang, and at friendship unit.

Through these functions, our people will demonstrate the invincibility and vitality of the Korean-Soviet friendship which has been endlessly consolidating and developing in the spirit of this treaty.

The Korean-Soviet friendship is based on strong class alliance relations and comradely amity and has a long historical tradition. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: The people of the two countries of Korea and the soviet Union are class brothers and close comrades-in-arms who have struggled together for a long time toward their common ideals and goals.

The communists and people of the two countries of Korea and the Soviet Union have, from early on, struggled together against imperialist aggression and colonial oppression under the banner of Marxism-Lenminism and proletarian internationalism and have closely supported and cooperated with each other for the victory of the socialist and communist cause. [end recording]

He stressed that the indomitable Korean-Soviet friendship has been on a constant upswing following a new milestone provided through the great leader's visit to the Soviet Union in May of 1984 and the historical meetings and talks between the party and state leaders of the two countries. Saying that he wished the Soviet people greater success in their struggle for socialism and communism and for peace in Europe and the world through upholding the decisions of the 27th CPSU Congress, he continued:

[Begin Kim recording] Today, our people are more positively struggling to firmly defend the Eastern encampment of socialism and to realize an independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland by vigorously launching the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- following the guidance of the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il [chinaehanun chidoja] under the programmatic tasks presented by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song at the Sixth WPK Congress and 11th plenary meeting of the sixth WPC Central Committee.

Today, the Korean peninsula is a place where the danger of nuclear war is more imminent than in any other place in the world. The United States has turned South Korea into a forward nuclear base by shipping a large amount of weapons of mass destruction into it in a bid to realize its strategy concerning Asia and is now accelerating the competition of the tripartite military alliance among the United States, Japan, and South Korea -- an Asian version of NATO.

Under the pretext of the nonexistent threat of southward invasion, they continually conduct large-scale military exercises like the "Team Spirit" exercises, test nuclear war exercises to wage a preemptive attack on our republic and other socialist countries.

To hold South Korea permanently as a colonial military bridgehead, the United States is stepping up its maneuvers for the two-Korean plot, such as the simultaneous UN entry, the unilateral UN entry, cross-recognition, and [word indistinct].

The United States and South Korean persons in authority are even attempting to abuse the international Olympic movement -- the ideal of which is friendship and unity among the world's peace-loving people - to perpetuate the division of Korea.

To prevent perpetual division and the danger of a new war, dangers which have reached a graver stage on the Korean peninsula, the Korean question should be settled peacefully. Our party and the government of the republic, prompted by the national aspiration of the entire Korean people and from the noble sense of mission for the cause of peace of mankind, have made a proposal to solve the problem of reunifying the country peacefully by means of dialogue and negotiation, and have made a consistent effort to realize it.

In recent years, we made a proposal for tripartitie talks and a proposal for the North-South parliamentary talks, and in June, to contemplate ways to alleviate the urgent situation on the Korean peninsula, we propose holding talks among military persons in authority with the minister of the People's Armed Forces of the DPRK and the commader of UN Forces in South Korea and the defense minister of South Korea. These proposals are the most realistic peace proposals for preventing the danger of war on the Korean peninsula, alleviating tension, and providing a guarantee for peace and a precondition for peaceful reunification, thereby greatly contributing to the cause of peace in Asia and the world.

If the United States and South Korean persons in authority truly desire peace and the peaceful reunification of Korea, they should accept our fair and just peace proposals without delay as demanded by the times and the people. The entire Korean people and the world's peace-loving people enthusiastically support all of our peace initiatives and consistently expect that they will be realized at an early date so that the reunification of Korea -- where the danger of a nuclear war and the perpetual divison is increasing -- is realized at an early date and solid peace is brought forth in Korea.

The support and solidarity given by the world's progressive people, including socialist countries, give great encouragement to our people who are aware of the justness of their cause and have undertaken to carry it out. Taking this opportunity, I express our deep gratitude for the blood of the fraternal Soviet people in their assistance in the liberation of our people and for their active and consistent support to the just cause of our people in their social construction and the independent and peaceful reunification of the country. [applause]

The Korean people highly value the traditional Korea-Soviet friendship and are filled with a firm resolve to solidify and develop it from generation to generation. Strengthening friendship and unity between the people Korea and the Soviet Union is in complete conformity with not only carrying out the revolutionary cause of the two countries, but also with the overall interests of socialism and world peace. As they did in the past, the Korean people will hold aloft the banner of Marxism-Leninism and international proletarianism and advance in firm cooperation with the Soviet people, and will make active efforts to bring about the victory of the socialist and communist cause and to defend the solid peace of the world. [applause] Long live the indestructible fraternal friendship and unity between the people of Korea and the Soviet Union! [applause] [end recording]

[Speech by Arseniy Vantskiy, leader of a delegation of the Union of Soviet Societies for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries and the Soviet-Korea Friendship Society, at a meeting to open the Korean-Soviet friendship week marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, held at the Central Workers' Hall on 2 July -- recorded with portions read by announcer]

[Text] [Begin Vantskiy recording in Russian fading into Korean translation] A delegation of the Union of Soviet Societies for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries and the Korean-Soviet Friendship Society is participating in a meeting being held to open Korean-Soviet friendship week to mark the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. In expressing thanks to the Korea-Soviet Friendship Association and to the Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries by availing ourselves of this opportunity, we believe that although this friendship week will not last long, it will be remembered as a brilliant token in the developing relations of friendship between the people of our two countries.

While invariably exerting efforts to consolidate and develop ties of fraternal friendship and creative cooperation between the people of our two countries based on the principle of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism and to meet the interest of the struggle to oppose imperialism and achieve peace and social progress, our party has set forth in the CPSU program adopted at the 27th party plenum a line to gradually further develop relations of friendship between the Soviet Union and other socialist countries.

The friendly visit to the Soviet Union in May 1984 by the DPRK party and Government delegation led by Comrade Kim Il-song, general secretary of the WPK Central Committee and the president of the DPRK, and the talks subsequently held between the leaders of the Soviet Union and Korea provided an important opportunity in developing relations for both sides. These talks and this visit filled our relations with new meaning and opened the broad prospect of developing comprehensive cooperation between the Soviet Union and Korea to meet the interests of the people of the two countries, who have struggled to oppose the imperialists' agressive maneuvers and protect peace and security in the Far East, Asia, and the world. [applause]

We are satisfied with the successful materialization of the spirit of the agreement reached in Moscow. There have been frequent contacts between the organizations and (?political agencies) of our two countries. Exchanges among social, cultural, and sports organizations, have developed further.

As a result of high-level mutual visits in 1985 and 1986, mutual understanding between the people of the two countries has developed further, a prospect for further developing relations of economic cooperation has opened, and new treaties and agreements have been signed. All of this has further consolidated the tradition of relations of friendship between our two countries.

The Korea-Soviet Friendship Association, which greeted the anniversary of its founding 3 years ago, has greatly contributed to strengthening and developing fraternal friendship and solidarity between the people of our two countries. This organization has consistently exerted efforts to develop friendship between the people of our two countries and scientific and cultural exchanges and to extensively conduct propaganda in Soviet social circles on the successes attained by the Korean people in all sectors of socialist construction and in the struggle of the people of your country to reunify their country peacefully based on the principle of democracy.

During the past period, our society has greatly expanded the scope of its activities, turning itself into an authoritative mass organization within Soviet social circles, which possesses 12 chapters in Oblasts and Krays, including the Ukraine, Kazakhstan, and [word indistinct].

In close cooperation with the Korea-Soviet Friendship Association, the Soviet-Korea Friendship Society has carried out its activities to consolidate friendship between the Soviet and Korean people. The Soviet Union highly appraises the activities of the Soviet-Korea Friendship Society, which has received the Soviet people's friendship medal.

Availing ourselves of this opportunity, we extend thanks to our Korean comrades for extensively organizing functions just as they have in the past, greeting an event of great significance in the daily life of the Soviet people. [applause] [end recording]

He then praised the success attained by the Korean people in the struggle to implement the program set forth at the Sixth WPK Congress to build socialism and their effort to reunify the country peacefully without interference by foreign forces. He stated that the Soviet Union resolutely supports the Korean people's demand for forcing U.S. forces to withdraw from South Korea and the DPRK's proposal for turning the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free zone of peace. He noted that the Soviet people are struggling to implement the CPSU strategy to promote the country's socialist development and achieve world peace and security.

In conclusion, he called for waging a joint struggle to further strengthen relations of friendship between the Soviet Union and Korea, to usher in the happy future of the people of the two countries, and to achieve peace and security in Asia and the world.

The meeting concluded with the singing of the song "International".

He then stressed: We are very satisfied with the fact that in relations between our two parties a good tradition of jointly pursuing a path to solidify fraternal friendship and cooperation based on the prionciples of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism has been provided. Indicating that the Korean people's just struggle to create favorable conditions for the withdrawal of the U.S. forces from South Korea and for reunifying the country without foreign interference has won complete support from the Soviet Union, he said that the recent statement of the DPRK Government concerning the establishment of a nuclear-free zone of peace on the Korean peninsula was important and timely and will greatly contribute to alleviating tension in this region and reunifying Korea.

He said: Marking the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Soviet-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, we which the working people of Korea new victories in their socialist construction and in their struggle to reunify the country peacefully and under democratic principles.

[Excerpts] A meeting between naval personnel of the KPA and soldiers of the flotilla of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet was held in the afternoon of 5 July aboard the large anti-submarine cruiser Minsk. The meeting was attended by navy officers and soldiers of the flotilla of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet.

When naval personnel of our country arrived aboard the cruser Minsk amid a welcoming music performance, the Soviet sailors warmly welcomed them with applause.

The naval personnel of the two countries were overflowing with the joy of meeting each other and exchanging militant friendship at the time of splendidly celebrating the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, following last August when they significantly celebrated the 40th anniversary of national liberation. [passage omitted]

At the meeting, speeches were delivered. (Dimov), vice admiral of the Soviet Navy, spoke first. [Begin (Dimov) recording in Russian, with simultaneous Korean translation]

We warmly welcome you, our comrades-in-arms, to our Pacific Fleet. Naval ships of the Red Banner Pacific Fleet called at Wonsan port yesterday to make an official and goodwill visit to your country. This visit has been made to mark the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Soviet-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. Our friendship was forged with the blood shed in the joint struggle of soldiers of the Pacific Fleet and soldiers of the Korean people's Revolutionary Army in 1945 to liberate Korea. [applause]

Forty-one years have passed since then. We are also well aware of your great success in defending your country. The CPSU, the Soviet Government, and Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, have made great (?efforts) to suspend the arms race. The work of Comrade Kim Il-song, who has struggled to make the Korean peninsula a peace zone devoid of nuclear weapons, accords with this work of the Soviet Union.

We will perform our duty of defending peace to the end. This is our second visit to your country. We hope your naval ships will visit the Soviet Union.

Such meetings with Wonsan citizens and Korean naval personnel will greatly contribute to promoting mutual understanding and to increasing friendship between our two peoples.

We have the proverb: "Seeing is believing." The imperialists' attempt to elimate the Soviet Union from the world has ended in failure.

After returning to our country, we will tell the Soviet people about all success attained by the Korean people, the lives of the Korean people, and the Korean people's warm hospitality accorded to us.

Long live the friendship between the Soviet and Korean people! [applause]

Long live the friendship between the armies of our two countries and between the naval soldiers of our two countries! [applause]

Long live the CPSU [words indistinct] [applause] Long live the WPK. [applause] [end recording]

Kim Hyong-taek, commander of the KPA Navy, spoke next.

[Begin recording] We warmly welcome the visit to our country of the flotilla of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet led by Fleet Admiral Sidorov, commander of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet. [applause]

You are visiting our country in the year which marks the 2d anniversary of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song's visit to the Soviet Union, during which he met Soviet party and Government leaders and promoted higher friendly relations between the two countries. Therefore, this visit is very significant.

Our sailors and people are well aware of the exploits performed by the fighters of the Pacific Fleet in the struggle to smash the brigandish Japanese imperialists and to liberate Korea. They have never forgotten this. We deem you as class brothers and revolutionary comrades-in-arms. We treasure relations with you.

Wonsan of our country and Vladivostok of the Soviet Union are linked by the sea, and the sailors of our two countries are linked as one on the basis of friendship and solidarity.

We are now standing at the united front to oppose the imperialists, including the U.S. imperialists, and to defend socialism and communism. We will always advance shoulder to shoulder together with you in the struggle to check and frustrate the imperialists' war maneuvers, to prevent a new war, and to preserve world peace. [applause] [end recording]

Congratulatory banners and gifts were exchanged at the meeting. [passage omitted]

Kim Il-chol Banquet Speech

[Speech by Kim Il-chol, KPA Navy commander, at the banquet arranged by Admiral V.V. Sidorov, commander of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet, on the evening of 8 July aboard the cruiser Minsk in connection with a visit to the DPRK by a flotilla of the fleet -- read by announcer]

[Text] We express deep gratitude to the respected Comrade Sidorov for having arranged this banquet on board, and having kindly invited us, in connection with the end of a visit to our country by a flotilla of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet, with the large anti-submarine cruiser Minsk as the flagship. Your visit to our country was not long, however, it was a significant visit that has vigorously demonstrated the indestructibility and vitality of the relations of alliance between the peoples and armed forces of Korea and the Soviet Union.

The great leader of our people Comrade Kim Il-song personally received you and also arranged a luncheon for you. This clearly shows how our party and the government of the republic treasure Korean-Soviet friendship and how important they consider the visit to our country by the flotilla of the Pacific Fleet.

Tens of thousands of residents of Kangwon Province and Wonsan and soldiers warmly welcomed and received the respected Comrade Sidorov and the soldiers of the Pacific Fleet with a sense of class brotherhood. You met our people and our People's Army soldiers in a variety of celebrations arranged on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korea-Soviet Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance and the visit to our country by the flotilla.

We believe that in this process, you have felt the sense of friendship that our people and People's Army soldiers feel toward the Soviet people and the soldiers of the Soviet armed forces. Through meetings with you, we have again deeply felt that the Soviet people and the Soviet armed forces are our true ally, comrade-in-arms, and class brothers, who are fighting together on the same front in order to realize a single objective and ideal.

You have highly evaluated achievements that our people and People's Army soldiers are bringing about in socialist construction and in the struggle to strengthen the defensive might of the country under the wise leadership of the party Central Committee led by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song, and have extended full support for and firm solidarity with our people's just cause for independently and peacefully reunifying the fatherland. This is great encouragement to our people and People's Army soldiers, and we are very grateful for this.

During our visit to the Minsk, we have come to well realize that the Pacific Fleet is a powerful armed force that greatly contributes to protecting peace and security in Asia.

We sincerely hope that under the leadership of the CPSU led by the respected Comrade Mikhail Sergeyevich Gorbachev, the Soviet people and the soldiers of the Soviet armed forces will bring about great successes in the struggle to materialize the political, economic, and peace programs adopted at the 27th CPSU Congress. I also hope that after you return home, you will bring about great successes in strengthening the combat capability of the Soviet armed forces by all means and defending national security by strengthening combat and political training.

Under circumstances in which the U.S. imperialists and other imperialists are openly engaging in provocations and war maneuvers, for the peoples and armed forces of our two countries to be strongly united and to firmly defend the eastern guardpost of socialism is a very important question. The destinies of the armed forces of our two countries were, are, and will be linked to each other in the struggle against imperialism.

I hope that you will be healthy on your way home and I propose a toast to the indestructible, militant friendship and unity between the peoples and armed forces of Korea and the Soviet Union; to the long life and good health of respected Comrade Mikhail Gergeyevich Gorbachev; to the long life and good health of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song; to the long life and good health of dear Comrade Kim Chong-il; to the health of the respected Comrade Vladimir Sidorov; to the health of the dear soldiers of the Soviet Red Banner Pacific Fleet; and to the health of the many comrades present at this banquet.

Long live the indestructible militant friendship and unity between the peoples and armed forces of Korea and the Soviet Union!

UN ENVOY DENOUNCES NORTH'S MILITARY TALKS PROPOSAL

SK180150 Seoul YONHAP in English 0118 GMT 18 Jul 86

[Text] United Nations, July 17 (YONHAP) -- The North Korean proposals for the so-called three-way military conference and creation of a nuclear-free peace zone on the Korean peninsula are "another propaganda ploy" intended to evade responsibility for their unilateral suspension of tne inter-Korean dialogue and to shift blame for heightening military tensions in the Korean peninsula, Korea denounced strongly here Thursday.

In a letter addressed to the president of the United Nations Security Council, Korean Ambassador to U.N. Choe Kwang-su also charged that the proposals are "a deceptive scheme to mislead world opinion", particularly in connection with the forthcoming Nonaligned Summit Conference scheduled for next month in Zimbabwe and the 1988 Seoul Olympic Games.

The letter, dated July 16, was distributed this morning (local time) to the delegates of 159 U.N. member countries by this month's president of the Security Council, Mr. Birabhongse Kasemsri, chief delegate of Thailand as its official circulating document.

It is a refutation of the letter addressed to the president of the Security Council by North Korean permanent observer Pak Kil-yon, respectively on June 24 and June 30, which contained the North Korean calls for three-way military talks among South and North Korea and the United Nations Command (UNC), and making the Korean peninsula a nuclear-free peace zone.

Charging that North Korea has unilaterally suspended "for preposterous reasons" the already existing channels of dialogue between two Koreas since January 20 this year, Choe said that if North Korea is "genuinely interested in easing tensions and establishing peace on the Korean peninsula, it should immediately return to the Red Cross, economic and parliamentary talks, and agree to hold the South-North summit meeting."

Citing the annual 1985 report of UNC (United Nations Command) to the Security Council, he emphasized that "the tensions and danger of war on the Korean peninsula do not stem from the purely defensive military posture of the Republic of Korea but from North Korea's reckless arms build-up and hostile policy toward the South."

He said that North Korea's proposal for three-way military talks contradicts the 1972 South-North joint communique which stipulates that the unification of Korea shall be achieved through independent efforts without external interference. "The view that the politico-military issues should be dealt with at the existing channels of South-North dialogue," he said.

"Furthermore, the Military Armistice Commission (MAC) properly deals with the issue of violations of the armistice agreement which North Korea proposed to discuss at the so-called three-way military conference," Choe stressed.

He pointed out that the UNC has already tabled at the MAC various tension-reducing measures, such as genuine demilitarization of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), mutual notification and observance of major military exercises and establishment of the mutual verification system in the joint security area of Panmunjom. "But unfortunately, North Korea has thus far not responded positively to these proposals," he condemned.

Mr Choe also said that North Korea's proposal for the creation of nuclear-free peace zone is "fundamentally deficient, as it disregards the realities on and around the Korean peninsula and the global valance of power in the region."

"In spite of their massive build-up of offensive military capabilities along the DMZ recently, North Korea ironically made the proposal in another desperate attempt to project itself as a peace-loving country before the international community," he said.

NKDP TO PROCEED WITH ANTITORTURE RALLIES

SK180043 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in English 18 Jul 86 p 4

[From the "Press Pocket" column]

[Text] The opposition forces are expected to go ahead with the projected anti-torture rallies across the nation in spite of the prosecution announcement Wednesday denying that a "sexual atrocity" had occurred at the Puchon Police Station.

Han Young-ae, a bureau chief at the main opposition NDP's Human Rights Commission, said yesterday that her party and nationwide opposition bodies will jointly hold an anti-torture rally at Myong-dong Cathedral tomorrow, as scheduled.

She claimed that the prosecution announcement can hardly be accepted as the truth, given the results of her party's own investigation.

"No dates for provincial rallies were set, but we will hold them as soon as possible," she added.

The prosecution announcement about the alleged "sexual assault" against a female criminal suspect by a Punchon policeman has brought serious embarrassment to leading officers of the ruling Democratic Justice Party.

In contrast, it has triggered anger among lawmakers of the main opposition New Korea Democratic Party, who doubted its truthfulness.

The prosecution said Wednesday that the allegation turned out to be a fabrication designed to mar the credibility of government authorities. But the prosecution admitted that the femal labor activist was manhandled during interrogation.

DJP Spokesman Sim Myong-po, said briefly, "We feel regret. Such a scandal should never take place again." The spokesman has a "reputation" of issuing long comments on controversial issues.

A leading officer of the party sighed, saying, "Scandalous affairs take place whenever something was going to bear fuit."

NDP lawmakers said that the content of announcement was just what they had expected.

Rep. Pak Chan-jong, chairman of the party committee on human rights protection, claimed, "The trend of mutual distrust in our society will be aggravated further due to the prosecution announcement."

NO TAE-U DENOUNCES NKDP FOR 'AGITATING' PEOPLE

[From the "Press Pocket" column]

[Text] Leading officers of the ruling Democratic Justice Party went all out yesterday to attack the opposition camp in regard to the planned amendment of the Constitution.

Party chairman No Tae-u said, "The opposition camp is giving rise to political unrest and social confusion by agitating the people."

"They are agitating the people by claiming that only the constitutional amendment to adopt the direct presidential election formula is the cure-all for every problem," he argued.

He also said, "It was not because we have no power to protect the Constitution that we decided to rewrite it."

"We did so in a sincere bid to prevent disputes over the Constitution from arising again until the national unification," he said.

"The change in our policy on the constitutional issue means our efforts to achieve genuine development in democratic politics through dialogues and compromises," he said.

No made the remarks in a meeting of the party's "regional consultative council" chairmen held at the Central Political Training Institute in Karakdong.

While No was attacking the opposition camp at the institute, Reps. Yi Tae-sun, deputy secretary general, and spokesman Sim Myong-po severely criticized the opposition camp at the party headquarters.

Yi, who volunteered to meet reporters, alleged that the main opposition New Korea Democratic Party is attempting to gloss over the truth of the delay of the inauguration of the Special Committee on Constitutional Amendment.

The attacks by the leading officers against the NDP followed a joint meeting of NDP head Yi Min-u, Kim Yong-sam and Kim Tae-chung on Tuesday.

ELECTIONS POSSIBLE IN 1987 WITH NEW CONSTITUTION

SK110131 Seoul YONHAP in English 0117 GMT 11 Jul 86

[Text] Seoul, July 11 (YONHAP) -- No Tae-u, chairman of the ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP), said Thursday that general elections under a revised constitution may be held in late 1987 or early 1988 if the ruling and opposition political parties reach an agreement on the constitutional revision bill before the end of this year.

"If the rival parties draft a compromise version of the revision of the basic law in the National Assembly within the end of this year, the revised constitution will be finalized through a national referendum early next year," No said in a round-table conference with representatives of the U.S. Heritage Foundation.

"Under the new constitution, elections will have to be finished by late next year or early 1988, the DJP leader said.

The ruling and opposition parties have agreed to establish a special committee in the National Assembly to revise the constitution

It was for the first time that the DJP leader mentioned concrete timing of elections in connection with constitutional amendment.

DJP spokesman Rep. Sim Myong-po briefed reporters on the contents of the debate session which was attended by Edwin J. Feulner, chairman of the foundation which serves as a think-tank for the U.S. Government, and Richard V. Allen, director of the Heritage-affiliated Asian Studies Center who was President Ronald Reagan's former security adviser. The other participants from DJP were Reps. Na Ung-pae, chief policy coordinator, Pong Tu-wan, chairman of the assembly Foreign Affairs Committee, Hyon Hong-chu and Yi Chong-yul.

No said that the DJP will draw up its amendment bill to the constitution by the middle of next month and submit it to the National Assembly's regular session which begins on Sept. 20. "To this end, the DJP is collecting opinions from various walks of life on the basic law through dialogue and public hearing sessions," the DJP leader said.

With the amendment bill, he said, the government party will seek a compromise with the opposition parties in the National Assembly.

On the direction of the proposed revision of the constitution, No said his party has not decided on the form of the government. He said, however, that it is hard to understand the allegations by the main opposition New Korea Democratic Party that only the direct presidential election is democracy." [quotation mark as received]

On the implementation of the local autonomy system next year, No said he expects many problems because it coincides with constitutional revision.

During the two-hour session, No and the U.S. participants discussed trade problems between Seoul and Washington and the 1988 Seoul Olympics.

YI MIN-U REACTS 'AFFIRMATIVELY' TO ELECTION PLAN

[From the "Press Pocket" column]

[Text] Yi Min-u, president of the major opposition New Korea Democratic Party, yesterday reacted affirmatively to the political schedule presented by ruling Democratic Justice Party chairman No Tae-u.

Meeting reporters at the NDP headquarters, Yi said, "It almost covers both our party's demand for constitutional revision in 1986 and a presidential election in 1987."

In a round-table conference with visiting representatives of the U.S. Heritage Foundation Thursday, No said that general elections under a revised constitution may be held in late 1987 or early 1988 if the ruling and opposition parties reach an agreement on amendment before the end of this year.

However, Yi noted, "The DJP doesn't make public its draft for the basic law revision. I want the ruling party to reveal its own formula before the people at the earliest date."

Meanwhile, opposition leader Kim Tae-chung denounced the DJP attempts to delay amendment of the Constitution.

Meeting the press at the headquarters of the Council for the Promotion of Democracy, he stressed, "What's needed in deciding on the type of a new power structure is political determination. I think there is no reason to delay the choice of the government structure."

He went on, "By the end of September, the choice should be made."

DJP STAND ON CONSTITUTION, SUCCESSION VIEWED

SK130042 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 13 Jul 86 pp 4, 5

[From the "Week in Review" column by staff reporter Yi Chong-ku]

[Text] The political schedule outlined by ranking officials of the ruling Democratic Justice Party provided a glimpse in to the intricate workings of Korean politics.

Party Secretary General Chong Sun-duk said Thursday that it would be proper for the DJP to determine President Chon Tu-hwan's successor after resolving the issue of amending the Constitution.

Chong said he expects it (the selection of the successor) will be done in early 1987.

When reporters asked him about the possibility that party chairman No Tae-u might run for national leadership, the secretary general said it is true that the leader of any party has the advantage.

In a coincidence on the same day, No presented the outline of the political timetable.

In an open-round conference with representatives of the U.S. Heritage Foundation, he said constitutional revision will be finalized through a national referendum early next year, if rival parties reach an agreement.

No also said, "in such a case, a general election will be conducted under the new Constitution in late 1987 or early 1988 at the latest."

At a glance, the remarks made by Chong and No presented nothing new, because they only mentioned the basic principles.

Ruling and opposition parties agreed to revise the current basic law before the end of this year, and the Constitution demands an election be held in late 1987 or in early 1988.

President Chon's single seven-year term expires in February 1988, and the Constitution calls for a presidential election to be conducted 30-90 days before the expiration of the term of the incumbent President.

The remarks, however, carried considerable significance in many respects.

Political analysts said the remarks represented that a work on constitutional reform had been well underway in the ruling camp, although rival parties had procrastinated on the formation of the Special Constitution Revision Committee.

The analysts said the government and the ruling DJP must have maintained indepth consultations on the projected constitutional reform.

They theorized that without prior understanding from the government, the chairman and the secretary general of the ruling party could not have made such sensitive remarks.

The theory sounded convincing in light of the long-standing practice in which the political schedule was a taboo for party officials other than the party president. At present, President Chon concurrently heads the ruling DJP.

Meanwhile, the DJP secretary general hinted at the possibility that party chairman No stood a high chance of being nominated as Chon's successor.

The implication answered, although only partially, questions as to who would be the front-runner of the ruling party.

Political observers said that by scheduling the election as late as possible, the ruling camp was seeking to preclude possible sources of erosion on the leadership of President Chon who is now in the second half of his term.

The observers said if rival parties managed to revise the Constitution by the end of this year, there would be no reason to hold off the elections till late next year or early 1988.

The delay is designed to enable President Chon to lead the nation smoothly by curtailing the transition period, they said.

Observed from a different angle, however, the fulfillment of the political schedule presupposes an agreement between rival parties on constitutional revision.

Many political observers hesitated last week to answer the question. "Will ruling and opposition parties reach an accord before the end of this year?

The ruling DJP and the opposition New Korea Democratic Party are still at logger-heads over the proposed direct election of the president.

The ruling party repeatedly made it clear that it adamantly opposes the direct presidential election system whereas the opposition party showed no signs of backing off from its demand for direct presidential election.

The ruling DJP held what appeared to be public hearings in six major cities last week to take the pulse of the people on the projected constitutional reform.

An interim evaluation of the hearings showed that the presidential and parliamentary systems were competing fiercely as the form of the next government.

Those who advocated the presidential system commonly said the nation should adopt the system because the nation is militarily confronted by North Korea.

They also said conditions are not yet mature enough for the nation to implement the parliamentary system because the party system and the career civil service systems have yet to take firm root.

They, however, did not forget to point out the uncertainty that the presidential system might lead to dictatorship.

It is up to the people to decide whether the nation should adopt the presidential system, they said.

On the other hand, those who spoke for the parliamentary system asserted that as long as the nation is seeking democratic constitutional reform, it should implement the system, because it is suitable for ensuring democratic development.

They also pointed to "various shortcomings of the presidential system" by saying, "If you choose the direct presidential election system, you will be the master of the nation for only one day and the servants during the rest of the president's term."

Though the DJP said the hearings were designed to sample the opinions of various segments of society, it made apparent efforts to publicize the inadequacy of the presidential system.

Those who had observed the hearings said the ruling party is tilting toward the parlimentary system, although it is denying it.

This means an agreement on constitutionl reform remains far beyond the reach of rival parties.

Political observers said, "What if rival parties should fail to work out an agreement?

The question will continue to affect major political parties, none of which has two-thirds majority in the National Assembly, which is needed for approving a constitutional reform bill.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY SPEAKER ON DJP RESHUFFLE

[Text] National Assembly Speaker Y Chae-hyong held talks with President Chon Tu-hwan and No Tae-u, chairman of the ruling Democratic Justice Party, in sequence yesterday to discuss the current political situation and ways of revitalizing the government and DJP, DJP sources said.

Amid speculation that the ruling camp will conduct a major reshuffle of its hierarchy next month, the speaker met with President Chon, who also heads the DJP, for 80 minutes at Chongwadee following his meeting with No.

Emerging from his meeting with Chon, he told reporters that the Constitution should be revised through partisan agreement "by all means."

He said, "I feel that the prospect is bright for an amendment based on agreement between ruling and opposition parties. I think it should be administered by all means."

Yi said he felt during the meeting with the President that Chon hoped for an early settlement of the constitutional amendment issue at the Assembly.

"I felt that the ruling camp would not insist on maintaining the current Constitution, although the rival parties initially failed to produce a compromising version," he said.

Yi's visit to Chongwadae drew keen attention from political circles with regard to the projected reorganization in the hierarchy of the government and the DJP and the constitutional amendment issue.

DJP sources said the speaker was believed to have recommended to the President "programs to freshen up both the party and the government" to cope with the current situation.

Earlier in the day, DJP chairman No indicated that a reshuffle of leading party officers would be made after the party is now collecting in open debates in major cities since July 5.

The DJP leader told reporters, "The party will promote the reorganization of its hierarchy when we have completed formulating plans to cope with the current situation."

"I have expressed many times an intention to overhaul the party hierarchy if necessary and my position remains the same," he said.

He made the remarks as speculation flared up inside the party that a major reshuffle will be conducted next month to renew the party image, thus showing initiative in managing national politics.

However, he did not elaborate on when the reshuffle would come. He only said, "We will have to consider the reshuffle with enough time after we have completed drafting our amendment bill and other things."

The speculation came to surface after party leaders, including No, held a meeting with lawmakers elected in Seoul Friday. The lawmakers strongly called for "reform measures to renovate both the party and the government to gain the people's support."

KNP HEAD DISCUSSES CONSTITUTION REVISION

[By Kim Sung-pok]

[Text] How will the Constitution be revised? -- It is a matter of national concern nowadays.

Yi Man-sop, president of the minor opposition Korea National Party, said that the name of the game is "compromise." Any formula is acceptable as long as it is a device to prevent dictatorship, corruption and prolongation of power, the 54-year-old journalist-turned-politician stressed in an exclusive interview with THE KOREA TIMES.

As the leader of the third political party, Yi urged the ruling Democratic Justice Party and the major opposition New Korea Democratic Party to avoid extreme confrontation and seek compromise on constitutional reforms to avert a national crisis.

The following are excerpts of questions and answers.

Question: What do you have to say on the operation of the special parliamentary panel for constitutional amendment?

Answer: The committee should get down to business early. As you know, the DJP and the NDP are poles apart on how to allot the committee seats among political parties and whether or not to include independent lawmakers. They should each take one step back. There are 16 splinters in all. If we disregard them, it would be against political morality. At least one seat should be saved for them. And the rival parties should cease the ongoing 'outdoor' offenses and defenses with their assertions about constitutional reforms.

Q: Do you believe that a revision of the basic law on which rival political camps could agree can be made within this year?

A: Everyone should make his best efforts to make it possible. To this end, political leaders should forsake their selfishness and the parties must set aside their own interests.

Q: Your party and the NDP stick to the direct popular vote for the president, while the DJP flatly rejects it. Can the rival parties make a compromise?

A: To prevent a national disaster, the parties should commit themselves to overcoming the current crisis through compromise.

Q: Do you mean that you can back off from your demand for the direct poll for president?

A: I have the willingness to seek a mixed draft with the ruling camp if it is the way to save the situation. Many people want the direct presidential poll. But if there is a device to prevent dictatorship, corruption and prolongation of grip on power, I think it's not bad to seek a compromise draft. Of course, to make the compromise a success, the ruling party should discard the will to remain in power and the two Kims (Kim Tae-chung and Kim Yong-sam) of the NDP should give up the selfish desire of taking power.

Q: Where was the emphasis put in the KNP's draft for a new constitution?

A: The decentralization of power, the promotion of the people's basic rights, the strengthening of the parliament function, the ensurance of the judiciary independence, etc.

Q: What do you think should be necessarily revised in the current basic law?

A: The freedom of the press should be guaranteed, the parliamentary right for audit and inspection of state affairs should be revived, the chief justice should be elected by the judges of the Supreme Court and the presidential right to disband the House should be stripped from the president.

Q: What kind of plan has your party prepared to publicize your position on constitutional changes?

A: The publicity war by the DJP and the NDP will only be detrimental to the amendment by agreement. Our party will not go beyond the individual lawmakers' activities at their constituencies. We will watch ourselves, not to be embroiled in an outdoor publicity war.

Q: Which type of government structure do you guess the DJP will come out with?

A: I think that the ruling party prefers the parliamentary cabinet system. However, the DJP hasn't bared its concept on the power structure yet. It isn't fair and conducive to untying the tangle of politics.

Q: If the Constitution is revised, can President Chon Tu-hwan seek reelection to the presidency once more?

A: I am convinced that President Chon will keep his promise to the people that he will step down after his tenure expires in 1988. He should not make any attempt to hold power again. It is to pave the way for a peaceful power transfer which he promised repeatedly.

Q: Do you think DJP chairman No Tae-u will become the succesor to Chon?

A: I wouldn't like to comment on affairs of other party. But I think it desireable for the realization of party politics that the party leads politics ahead of the administration.

Q: What do you say about the NDP's proposal for a single draft on constitutional amendment by the opposition parties?

A: In fact, the drafts of our party and the NDP commonly demand the direct voting system, but there are many things that are different. I believe that a single draft of the KNP and the NDP would only impede a successful revision because the position of the rival camps will become so polarized. Our party should play an arbitrary role in the special House committee.

Q: What do you think of the two Kims?

A: They seem to be making haste to take power. And it's not good for them to give the impression that they may practice political retaliation if they take power.

Q: Will you run in the next presidential election?

A: I have no such thoughts. I worry day and night about how we can prevent a political disaster, make the '88 Olympics a success and develop our economy.

Q: Don't you have any plan to combine the Fraternity Club for National Revival and your party in preparation for the next general elections?

A: The club is a purely private organization to do commemorative works for the late president Pak Chong-hui. If there are members who want to become politicians, the KNP has opened its doors wide. We hope that many young political aspirants will enter the KNP.

Q: Do you have a willingness to concede the presidency of the KNP to J.P. (Kim Chong-pil, former chairman of the now-defunct Democratic Republican Party) if he resumes political activity?

A: Personally, I have such a willingness. But the final decision will be made by our party. Above all, it is up to Mr Kim whether he will resume his political career or not.

Q: Do you think it desirable for Mr Kim to lead the KNP?

Q: How many seats in the National Assembly does your party expect to obtain in the next parliamentary elections?

A: The current National Assembly Election Law is for a two-party system. It should be revised to be favorable for a multi-party system. If so, I dare say that our party will win 50 seats, at least. As a matter of fact, the people cast their votes for the NDP as a form of resistance to the DJP in the last general elections. The NDP should not have the illusion that the people supported it all along. Now, the people don't want to see extreme confrontations between the DJP and the NDP. So I believe that they will support our party in the next elections.

Q: Opposition leaders assert that all the ills of the nation will be cured if democracy is realized. Is democracy a panacea?

A: It is important to define the concept of democracy correctly. A true democracy is one which puts the people first. Along with the democratizaton of politics, we should make efforts for the improvement of the livelihood of those in the low-income bracket. If we show democracy by actions, not by words, the social problems will be solved.

Q: Would you tell us your views on journalism?

A: What is no less important that the freedom of the press is the fairness of the press. Frankly speaking, I have a feeling of dissatisfaction over the mass media's tilting towards two parties. I hope that the mass media will have the generosity and fairness to reflect the voice of the third party when it sounds reasonable.

Q: What have you felt most difficult during your political career?

A: A politician must be able to compromise, be honest and compliment strong points of others. I think it most difficult to practice politics with those politicians who have no such qualities. In particular, our political climate is such that the people praise tough fighters as patriots while comtemptuously referring to compromisers as best men.

KNP Willing to Compromise

SK170112 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 17 Jul 86 p 1

[Text] The minor opposition Korea National Party yesterday indicated its willingness to back off from its long-standing demand for a presidential system based on direct election.

In an exclusive interview with THE KOREA HERALD, KNP President Yi Man-sop said the Constitution, should be revised by agreement between ruling and opposition parties to prevent a possible national catastrophe.

"Our party is prepared to compromise with the other party (the ruling Democratic Justice Party) to enable rival parties to amend the Constitution by agreement," Yi said.

"It is true that the majority of the people desire the presidential system and the direct election of the president. And we remain unchanged in our position that the president should be elected by a direct popular vote," he said.

"The ruling party, which adamantly opposes a direct presidential election, is expected to push for a parliamentary system. And the alternative to our demand is to achieve a compromise," Yi said.

By compromise, he means that the minor opposition is willing to agree to the parliamentary system, he said.

This is the first time the KNP leader hinted at a willingness to abandon the presidential system for the parliamentary system.

The remarks represented an about-face from the KNP's original position on the projected constitutional revision.

Late last month, the minor opposition party formally announced its draft of constitutional amendment, calling for the presidential system based on direct election.

The remarks are expected to have a reverberating impact on the political arena as a whole.

At present, rival parties sharply differ on the form of the next government, dimming prospects for constitutional rewriting by agreement.

Constitutional change requires a two-thirds majority in the 276-seat National Assembly and none of the three major parties hold a two-thirds majority, making it inevitable for political parties to form an alliance for constitutional reform.

"It is important to follow the opinions of the majority of the people. Political leaders, however, should be brave enough to lead public opinion when the nation is faced with a potential crisis," Yi said.

If rival parties reach an accord on constitutional reform, they can persuade the people to change their minds and agree to the accord, he said.

The most important thing is to inaugurate the Special Constitution Revision Committee without delay, he stressed.

The main opposition New Korea Democratic Party, he said, should present a list of the names of its committee members without conditions.

"The delay in the formation of the committee is prompting the people to distrust all the politicians, and the NKDP should assume full responsibility for it," the KNP leader said.

Kim Yong-sam and Kim Tae-chung, who control the NKDP, should outgrow their bigotry and self-righteousness and seek to develop democracy on a step-by-step basis, he said.

The minor opposition leader said the current National Assembly Election Law should be amended in accordance with the forthcoming constitutional amendment.

The amendments to the election law should be intended to prevent corrupt election and influence peddling and clear the way for the promotion of a multi-party system, he said.

Yi said the present two-seat electoral system should be redressed to enable each constituency to pick more than two lawmakers.

Commenting on the NKDP's demand for a one-seat electoral district system, he said the system is not appropriate because it only benefits the ruling party. (LJK)

DJP CLAIMS 365 DETAINEES RELEASED SINCE 29 MAY

SK150101 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 15 Jul 86 p 4

[From the "Out and About" cloumn]

[Text] The ruling Democratic Justice Party claimed yesterday that some 365 political detainees have been released since May 29, when the DJP chairman, No Tae-U, promised to "pay keen attention" to them in his meeting with New Korea Democratic Party president Yi Min-u.

After hearing a report from secretary general Chon Sun-tok on the political detainees in a weekly meeting of key officers, No urged the NDP to help the Special Constitutional Revision Committee of the National Assembly be inaugurated as soon as possible.

Chong was briefed by the government authorities on the details of the political detainees in an earlier meeting.

No instructed the key officers to convey the party position to do its best in releasing political detainees to the major opposition party.

According to the secretary general, indictments were suspended for 166, and 167 detainees were released with the court decision on suspended sentences.

CHEA SIM SPEAKS AT PHNOM PENH LE DUAN SERVICE

BK160435 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 1300 GMT 15 Jul 86

[Funeral oration read by National Assembly Chairman Chea Sim at 15 July Phnom Penh memorial service for CPV CC General Secretary Le Duan -- recorded]

[Text] We were deeply grieved to learn that Comrade Le Duan -- general secretary of the CPV Central Committee, eminent and close disciple of the late President Ho Chi Minh, famous leader of the Vietnamese party and state, valiant fighter of the national liberation movement and of the world's communist and workers movement, and prominent friend of the Cambodian people -- passed away at the age of 79 at 1530 on 10 July 1986 after a period of serious illness.

We are even more deeply grieved when remembering that at the recent fifth party congress, Comrade Le Duan brought to our party and people the noble sentiment of the Vietnamese party and people. However, today, the comrade is no more. This loss is extremely great. The grief resulting from it is unlimited. This mourning is not only of the fraternal Vietnamese party and people, but also of our party and people as well as the forces of national independence, peace, democracy, and socialism the world over.

Dear comrades and friends, Comrade Le Duan was born in 1907 in Binh Tri Thien Province which is a [words indistinct] with strong traditions of patriotism.

The life of Comrade Le Duan was closely linked with all the stages of development of the Vietnamese revolution under the leadership of the Indochinese Communist Party in the past and the CPV at present. With high revolutionary consciousness, Comrade Le Duan was the first [word indistinct] to follow the national liberation path mapped out by Comrade Nguyen Ai Quoc [words indistinct] and was one of the first party members of the Indochinese Communist Party founded by Comrade Nguyen Ai Quoc.

In 1931, when he was conducting revolutionary activities in (?north) Vietnam, the comrade was arrested and jailed by the colonialists. They sentenced him to 20 years imprisonment and detained him in Hanoi prison. In 1936, thanks to the struggle of the peoples of the three Indochinese countries and the victory of the People's Front in France, the colonialist authorities were forced to grant freedom to many revolutionary fighters, including Comrade Le Duan. Once freed, he conducted revolutionary activities in central Vietnam, striving to implement the principles of the party Central Committee and creating the Indochinese Democratic Front aimed at mustering and encouraging the masses against the colonialist reactionaries and the danger of fascism and war.

In 1937, he was appointed secretary of the Indochinese Communist Party Committee in central Vietnam, and from then until 1939 he made important contributions to expanding the revolutionary movement all over the country. In 1939, Comrade Le Duan was appointed member of the party Central Committee Standing Committee. That year, the world situation was very complex as the fascist forces were launching activities that daily increased the chance of a world war. [Words indistinct] the defense of the world's people as well as the peoples of the three Indochinese countries saw it necessary to reorient their activities to conform with the new situation. At the end of 1939, Comrade Le Duan, together with the other comrades in the party Central Committee Standing Committee, conducted the sixth plenum of the Indochinese People's Front [words indistinct] to mobilize the masses against imperialism and against the danger of world war while actively building up forces in preparation for the gradual advance of the revolutionary cause in the three Indochinese countries toward a new revolutionary stage.

In 1940 he was once again imprisoned by the French colonialists after being sentenced to 10 years in jail and sent for the 2d time to Con Dao prison. When the August 1945 revolution was successful, the revolutionary authorities brought the comrade back to carry on his activities. During that period, the French imperialists planned to return to Indochina. With the assistance of Britain and the United States, they set foot in south Vietnam. After going to Hanoi to join with the party Central Committee in launching the anti-French struggle, at the end of 1946 Comrade Le Duan was assigned by President Ho Chi Minh and the party Central Committee to go to south Vietnam where he was to organize and lead the anti-French struggle in the south.

At the second party congress in 1951, Comrade Le Duan was elected a member of the party Central Committee and Political Bureau. He was appointed secretary of the Southern party committee and then secretary of the Central Committee of the party for south Vietnam.

Through 9 years of resolute struggle, the Vietnamese, Cambodian, and Lao peoples forced the French imperialists to sign the Geneva agreement of 1954 to end their war of aggression. However, this victory was not definitive. Only north Vietnam was liberated while south Vietnam remained under the control of the reactionary authorities, lackeys of imperialism. Comrade Le Duan continued activities in south Vietnam to carry forward the leadership of the revolutionary movement during those years full of hardships because of the savage [words indistinct] policy of the puppet administration [words indistinct] and the interventionist policy of U.S. imperialism.

Comrade Le Duan, staying with the people and relying on the support and protection of the people, worked hard to build and consolidate revolutionary bases in the rural areas as well as urban centers, preparing conditions for the struggle against the United States and its lackeys, the reactionary forces.

In 1960, the third party congress elected him member and first secretary of the party Central Committee and member of the Political Bureau as well as secretary of the Central Army Party Committee. From then until 1975, in the flames of the anti-U.S. struggle, forcefully and resolutely displaying [words indistinct], the comrade, together with the rest of the Political Bureau and party Central Committee, pursued the line of independence and self-reliance and international solidarity on the basis of Marxism-Leninism, leading the people and revolutionary armed forces [words indistinct] while accepting the support and assistance of fraternal countries and progressive forces in the world, resolutely overcoming all tests and trials, winning definitive victory in the anti-U.S. struggle in Vietnam, and creating favorable conditions [words indistinct] for the fraternal Cambodian and Lao peoples to advance toward vanquishing the U.S. imperialists and their puppet administrations, wrestling back their rights to be the masters of their own countries and destiny.

At the fourth national party congress in 1976 and the fifth in 1982, Comrade Le Duan was reelected a member of the party Central Committee and of the Political Bureau and elected general secretary of the party Central Committee. From that point, under the leadership of the party Central Committee headed by Comrade Le Duan, the Vietnamese people and revolutionary Armed Forces won two wars provoked by the Beijing expansionist-hegemonists and their lackeys, succeeding in firmly protecting the fatherland's borders and achieving great successes in economic restoration, reform, and development and cultural development along the socialist path. At the same time, they provided many-sided and effective support and assistance to the Cambodian and Lao peoples.

Through nearly 60 years of revolutionary activities, Comrade Le Duan constantly upheld his brilliant example of unquestioned loyalty to Marxism-Leninism, his unshakeable belief in the just cause of the nation and working class, and of his close combination of genuine patriotism and proletarian internationalism. He sacrificed all his life to the cause of national liberation and reunification and advancing the whole country to socialism. At the same time, he made great contributions to the movement for national liberation and the international communist and workers movement.

He untiringly built and consolidated the alliance between Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos, making this special relationship a valuable asset in the political and spiritual life of the three peoples. He constantly fostered the fraternal friendship and comprehensive cooperation with the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries in order to contribute to strengthening the world socialist community. He persistently struggled to protect the purity of Marxism-Leninism and at the same time made valuable contributions to the theory of the world revolutionary movement.

The great contributions of Comrade Le Duan have been highly valued by fraternal and friendly parties and states. For those contributions, Comrade Le Duan was awarded various high distinctions by friendly countries, including the Angkor Order, the highest distinction of the PRK.

Dear comrades and friends, Cambodia and Vietnam are neighbors. The two peoples have shared almost the same plight and, more than once, helped and supported each other against common enemies.

Since the creation of Marxist-Leninist parties, the solidarity between the two nations has become closer and closer. The peoples and armed forces of the two countries, sharing a grain of salt, a bowl of rice, and sorrow and happiness, stood shoulder to shoulder in the battles against the French colonialists, then the U.S. imperialists until they gained victories together.

After the overthrow of the genocidal Maoist Pol Pot regime by our people with the assistance of the fraternal Vietnamese Army and people, the relationship between our two parties, states, and nations has been consolidated more and more and witnessed new fine development. The two peoples care for each other's development in all fields, rejoice at each other's victories, and are concerned about each other's difficulties, pains, and losses.

In the past few days a general grief has covered our country. Not only are we grieved because of our close relationship as described above, but also because we feel deep respect, warmth, and affection for Comrade Le Duan, general secretary of the CPV Central Committee, who treasured, consolidated, and developed the special relations between our two parties and nations and especially because, despite his advanced age and poor health, the comrade personally attended the two party congresses we held after liberation, during which he gave our party much valuable advice.

Therefore, together with all our party members, combatants, and people, we would like to share this grief with the Vietnamese comrades and brothers and pledge to unite even more closely with the fraternal Vietnamese party, state, Army, and people. We firmly believe that the heroic Vietnamese people and Vietnamese Army under the leadership of the glorious CPV will surmount all trials and gain achievements in their national construction and defense, thus making Vietnam 10 times more beautiful, as expressed in the sacred statement of the great President Ho Chi Minh and desired by beloved and esteemed Comrade Le Duan.

Dear comrades and friends, esteemed Comrade Le Duan is gone forever, but his cause will live on. As we bid farewell to the comrade, let us transform this grief into strength and look to the future.

The entire party, learning from the precious example of Comrade Le Duan, must strive to temper and heighten the characters of the communist fighters, making them absolutely loyal to the cause of the working class and people, determined in the revolutionary struggle, and unretreating before difficulties. They must set the pace in the tasks of national defense, preserving revolutionary gains and advancing the country step-by-step through the transitory period to socialism. The entire Army and people must strive to implement all immediate tasks and continue to strengthen the control of the revolution at the border and throughout the country, weakening the enemies with each passing day until they can no longer rear their heads again, at the same time, striving to accelerate production and practice thrift [words indistinct] of the rainy season, carrying out the socioeconomic program of 1986 -- the 1st year of the 5-year economic restoration and development plan -- and advancing gradually toward bringing prosperity to the country, and happiness, well-being, and a modern life to the people.

For this -- enhancing the strength of revolution in the three Indochinese countries -- constitutes a most effective and sensible way to pay tribute to beloved and esteemed Comrade Le Duan.

POLITICAL BUREAU MEETS; WELCOMES MPRP CONGRESS

BK240211 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 23 Jun 86

[Communique of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau -- date not given]

[Text] During its 21 June 1986 meeting, the Political Bureau of the KPRP Central Committee heard a report. The report was presented by Comrade Chan Seng, alternate member of the Political Bureau and vice chairman of the KPRP Central Committee Control Commission, who headed a delegation of the KPRP to the 19th MPRP congress in Ulaanbaatar, the MPR, from 28 to 31 May 1986.

The Political Bureau of the party Central Committee highly appreciated the experience and analysis of the congress on the domestic and foreign situation. The Political Bureau of the party Central Committee highly appreciated the strategic line of the MPRP in the economic, scientific, and technological development plan for 1986-90 and its task orientation from now to the year 2000, which is an important and profoundly significant orientation for Mongolia itself as well as the international community.

Through the political report of the 19th MPRP Congress, it can be noted that the MPR, which has followed the socialist line since its liberation in 1921, has defended and built itself into a socialist state without going through the capitalist stage and has won great successes and made great achievements in all fields, especially in strengthening and building an advanced socialist society in the country. Moreover, the major objectives of the foreign policy pursued by the MPRP have showed the consolidation of the internal unity of the socialist community, first of all the stand of solidarity and unity with all parties in the Asian and Pacific region aimed at maintaining peace, stability, and security in the region and the world.

The Political Bureau of the KPRP Central Committee holds that thanks to enlightened party leadership, to the geographical situation which is an excellent economic basis, to the fact that they firmly adhere to the authentic spirit of proletarian internationalism and love independence and peace, and to the powerful growth of their economic, scientific, technological, and cultural potentials and the deepening and accelerating tempo of the industrialization of their country, the people, communists, farmers, workers, and youths of the MPR will achieve invaluable success in building the material and technical foundations of an advanced and powerful socialism in their country in the not too distant future.

The Political Bureau of the party Central Committee agreed with and highly appreciated the outcome of the friendly talks between Comrade Chan Seng and Comrade Jambyn Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, and of his talks with Comrade Namsray, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the MPRP Central Committee. These talks evaluated the development of the KPRP as well as the strengthening and expansion of the relations of friendship, solidarity, and cooperation between the Cambodian and Mongolian parties and peoples.

The Political Bureau of the KPRP Central Committee regards all peace initiatives and material and moral support of the Mongolian party, government, and people for the party, government, and people of the PRK as an important contribution to the defense and construction of its fatherland in the gradual advance through the transitory period toward socialism, and as a great contribution to the maintenance of peace and stability in the region and the world.

VODK WANTS SRV PULLOUT, CALLS LE DUAN 'MURDERER'

BK120415 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2300 GMT 11 Jul 86

["Article": "Vietnamese Leader Le Duan Has Died"]

[Text] Vietnamese leader Le Duan died on 10 June at the age of 79. Under what conditions did this Vietnamese leader die? People are well aware of the situation.

1. Le Duan died in a situation in which more than 200,000 Vietnamese soldiers, more than 50,000 Vietnamese administrative personnel, and over 700,000 Vietnamese nationals have been occupying Cambodia, sowing great destruction and committing barbarous crimes against the innocent Cambodian nation and people for the past almost 8 years. Le Duan thus died as a great murderer of the Cambodian nation and people.

2. Le Duan died at a time when more than 200,000 Vietnamese soldiers and over 50,00 Vietnamese administrative staff are seriously bogged down on the battlefield of aggression in Cambodia as they have been for the past almost 8 years.

There is no sign as to when the Hanoi Vietnamese aggressors will be able to extricate themselves from this situation; they have been bogging down deeper and deeper.

Le Duan died at a time when Vietnam and the Vietnamese people are facing serious difficulties -- financial, economic, social -- and the people's living standards are deteriorating. The world considers Vietnam and the Vietnamese people the poorest in the world.

3. Le Duan died at a time when Vietnam and all the Hanoi Vietnamese leaders have been denounced and condemned by the world from every direction for the past almost 8 years because of their agression, occupation,and annexation of Cambodian territory.

All these are facts surrounding Le Duan's death. Le Duan died as a great murderer and the one responsible for the great suffering of Vietnam and the Vietnamese people and the Cambodian people. This has tarnished his name and Vietnam's image. Now that Le Duan is gone, will his successors continue along his path? If they do, they will encounter the same situation: disaster and suffering. The only way for Le Duan's successors is:

1. To stop the aggression in Cambodia; withdraw all Vietnamese aggressor forces from Cambodia in accordance with the reasonable CGDK'S 8-point peace proposal.

2. Pool all human and other resources to build Vietnam and improve the Vietnamese people's daily life.

3. Have peaceful relations with all neighboring countries to ensure peace in Southeast Asia.

All this depends on those who take over from Le Duan. The responsibility of leading Vietnam after Le Duan is in their hands and no one else's.

DK ARMY ATTACKS BATTAMBANG SUBURB, FIRES ROCKETS

BK160122 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 15 Jul 86

[From the "Report From Various Battlefields" features]

[Excerpt] On the night of 12 July, our National Army attacked the Vietnamese enemy Kbal Khmaoch Township in the western surburb of Battambang City in a three-pronged assault. The first prong swept the Vietnamese aggressors from Moan Haeu Village down to Kbal Khmaoch Township; the second swept them from Moan Haeu Villiage toward Roka Monastery; and the third from the Kbal Khmaoch Reservior and linked up with the others in Kbal Khmaoch Township.

After 20 minutes of fighting, we completely liberated and controlled the three prongs, liberating 10 villages all together, namely: Prey Totoeng, Haisan, Prey Dach, Prey Roka, Vat Rung, O Cha, Moan Haeu, Kbal Khmaoch, Chrey, and Vat Roka Villages. We killed three and wounded six Vietnamese soldiers and destroyed a commune office building and some war materiel.

Simultaneously with this action, we fired four 107-mm rockets into Battambang City, causing panic and confusion inside the town and prompting the Vietnames forces to fire all kinds of artillery barrages at random the whole night until dawn. [passage omitted]

PHNOM PENH-BATTAMBANG RAIL UNDER CONSTANT THREAT

BK130903 (Clandestine) Voice of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2330 GMT 12 Jul 86

[Station commentary: "The Phnom Penh-Battambang Railway Line Is Under Constant Threat"]

[Text] On 29 June, our national army on the east Battambang battlefield attacked a Vietnamese train between Ta Phde and Kouk Trom. We destroyed a locomotive, 16 train cars, and all the goods on this train. We killed or wounded 67 Vietnamese soldiers and destroyed many weapons. This is another brilliant achievement of our national army this rainy season.

The Phnom Penh-Battambang railway line is a major target of our attacks because it is the most important transport line to western Cambodia. The Hanoi Vietnamese enemy aggressors use this line to move weapons, ammunition, and all kinds of materiel from Phnom Penh to their troops. This line is also used for transporting rice, paddy, and other products plundered from our people in this area, particularly in Battambang Province, to Vietnam. Grasping well the directive of our DK National Army Supreme Command, during the past few years our national army has been carrying out activities to cut this transport line by ambushing Vietnamese goods trains and destroying tracks and bridges. This has choked the Vietnamese transport activities.

This situation has greatly worried the Vietnamese. They have tried to defend and repair this line while their Soviet masters and some East European countries have supplied steel and other materiel to repair the line. This is because they all realize that if this railroad is cut, the Vietnamese war of aggression in Cambodia will be seriously affected -- as would the Soviet aggressive and expansionist strategy in Southeast Asia. However, no matter how hard the Vietnamese and their allies have tried, the Vietnamese have not been able to use this line as they would have wished. When they repair the rear part, we destroy the front part; and if they repair the front part, we destroy the rear part. So this important transport line of the Vietnamese enemy is under constant threat.

That is why at the end of the past eighth dry season, the Vietnamese withdrew Cambodian soldiers from this line and replaced them with Vietnamese troops to tighten up defense of the line to prevent our national army from attacking and destroying it. However, this rainy season our forces have continued to successively attack this line according to our plans.

On 19 June, our forces destroyed three railway bridges: a 30-meter bridge at Kaoh Cha, a 15-meter bridge at Ta Moev; and the 60-meter Ta Mam bridge. We also cut the railroad track at five places over a total of 85 meters between Trom and Ta Phde villages on the Moung-Pursat battlefield. On 27 June, our national army destroyed bridges at five places between (Chnhiev) and Kouk Trom over a total of 120 meters. On 28 June, we destroyed the railroad track at eight places between Krang Skea and Slat totaling 160 meters. On 3 July, our national army cut 225 meters of railroad track between Kbal Say and Kouk Trom. So the Vietnamese cannot defend this line, which is under constant threat. The Vietnamese cannot use it at will. Even if they manage to use it sometimes, they frequently come under attack from our national army and guerrillas. The recent attack against the train between Ta Phde and Kouk Trom is a case in point.

These attacks to destroy the railroad and disrupt the Vietnamese transport activities are very important. They are direct attacks to destroy weapons and ammunition and the rice supply of the Vietnamese aggressor forces in western Cambodia. That is why Vietnamese troops along the border in Western Cambodia generally lack ammunition and food. They go hungry.

This has led some of them to desert; others, unhappy with their superiors, frequently quarrell and revolt. These attacks against the Vietnamese transport line and convoys have a great impact on the Vietnamese aggressor forces. Our national army will continue to attack more vigorously the Vietnamese means of transport and their transport lines, particularly the Phnom-Battambang railway line, to choke the Vietnamese activities even further until they are completely severed. This is a major factor in achieving final victory against the Vietnamese enemy aggressors.

FRIENDSHIP TREATY WITH VIETNAM CELEBRATED

BK171104 Vientiane KPL in English 0919 GMT 17 Jul 86

["Effective Cooperation" -- KPL headline]

[Text] Vientiane, July 17 (OANA-KPL) -- PASASON, organ of the LPRP CC, today issued an article commemorating the 9th anniversary of the signing of Laos-Vietnam friendship Treaty.

The article said that Laos and Vietnam have enjoyed a long-standing tradition of friendship, solidarity and mutual assistance, and based on this fact, on July 18, 1977, a treaty of friendship and all-round cooperation was signed.

The paper stressed that in the past nine years, the two countries have helped each other in many fields, and through the interaction, the Lao side receives considerable nonrefundable forms of aid from the Vietnam side.

Touching on the developoment of Lao-Vietnam relations, the article said that after the Indochinese countries' summit opened on February 12-13, 1983 in Vientiane, the all-round cooperation between the two countries has been even more developed. Especially the cooperation between Laos and Vietnam has been developed to the grass-roots following the forming of twin provinces.

The twin provinces are now concentrating their efforts in agricultural, minor industrial production and well as in handicraft work in order to reduce imported goods.

SRV Help Praised

[Article: "Effective Cooperation and Assistance"]

[Text] Mutual friendship, solidarity, and assistance between Laos and Vietnam have existed since ancient times — especially during the struggle to drive out the French colonialists from our two countries, the national liberation struggle against the U.S. imperialists, and the national defense and construction of our independent countries at present. On 18 July 1977, the governments of the two countries signed a treaty of friendship and all-round cooperation. This treaty has existed for 9 full years already.

Over the past 9 years, our two countries have assisted and cooperated with each other in several fields. The Lao side in particular has received tremendous gratis assistance from the SRV. For example, in the transporting of goods, materials, and technical equipment, Vietnam has given gratis goods to and exchanged goods with our country. The SRV has assisted our country in surveying, mapping out, and implementing plans; in outlining technical and economic development projects and social and economic enterprises, including such projects in the agricultural, irrigation, hydroelectric, geological, telecommunications, housing, school and hospital building, and warehouse and oil depot construction fields; and in assigning Vietnamese experts to work here and train our technicians and workers.

In building foundations, the SRV has assisted in building numerous enterprises with its loans, combined with counterpart funds acquired locally, in the agricultural, irrigation, and hydroelectric fields, for example. The two countries have also cooperated with each other in exploiting forests and gypsum deposits and in building and repairing Route No. 9.

Since the summit meeting of the three Indochinese nations in Vientiane on 22 and 23 February 1983, the comprehensive cooperation between the two countries has developed to a new stage. Vietnam and Laos have set up many twin provinces to promote cooperation in various fields down to the grassroots level. Vientiane capital has since then been twinned with Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh City and Vientiane Province with Hai Hung Province since 1985. As a result, Hai Hung Province has assisted Vientiane Province in conducting surveys and to map out plans for four projects -- for example, in setting up a plan to build a new Vientiane capital capable of accommodating 30,000 inhabitants on 2,000 hectres of land, a plan to build a sugar refinery, and a project to establish a 20-hectare tree sapling center. Experts from Hai Hung Province have assisted Vientiane Province in mapping out these plans and overcoming various difficulties.

In addition, the other Lao and Vietnamese twinned provinces have also assisted and exchanged a large volume of goods with one another. At present, the mutual assistance and cooperation between the two countries is serving to further promote the twinning of respective localities in the countries for agricultural production, aimed at resolving food supply problems, and small industrial and handicraft production, especially of essential goods to reduce imports from capitalist countries. They have also increased the exchanges of goods, encouraged each other to carry out production, and assisted each other in restoring important material and technical foundations aimed at serving agricultural production and improving living conditions of the peoples in the two countries.

SIAM RAT COMMENTS ON SRV LEADERSHIP CHANGE

BK170942 Bangkok SIAM RAT in Thai 16 Jul 86 p 8

[Editorial: "Vietnam Has a New Leadership"]

[Text] Many people heaved a sigh of relief last week when they heard of the death of the 79-year-old general secretary of the Communist Party of Vietnam, Le Duan, for they thought that the era of agony and hardship in Vietnam would come to an end. Le Duan, who succumbed to a terminal ailment, was known for his adherence to the extreme Stalinist style of socialism which has brought economic calamity to the Vietnamese people and a policy of military aggression against neighboring countries, including Thailand.

The Central Committee of the Communist Party of Vietnam last Monday held an extraordinary session at which Truong Chinh, a member of the party's politburo, was elected the party's new general secretary. Truong Chinh, 79, is notorious for his cruelty against farmers and landlords during the last reform period in North Vietnam. He was responsible for the massacre of hundreds of thousands of people and the imprisonment of many Vietnamese in labor camps which caused him to be dismissed from his post of party general secretary. Now he has returned to the no. 1 position in Vietnam again. His return to power has ruined the sense of optimism among observers.

With his age of 79 and his obstinate adherence to communism coupled with his belief in the use of force to settle problems, the new Vietnamese leader has not put Vietnam's neighbors at ease, especially in connection with the Cambodian conflict. However, it is too early to say that Vietnam will implement its self-destructive policy forever because the Communist Party will convene its Sixth Congress in November to decide whether Truong Chinh will keep the post of general secretary.

The reformist and pragmatist groups of younger generations will have to try harder to penetrate into the Vietnamese leadership. The struggle for power between the party members of the new and old generations will not have any effect on the Cambodian problem. However, the new leadership that will emerge after the upcoming party congress will have to tackle the economic problems for the people first before touching the question of the presence of Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

SITTHI ON MOVES AGAINST FARM ACT, PROTECTIONISM

BK170751 BANGKOK WORLD in English 17 Jul 86 pp 1, 32

[Text] Thailand will campaign for the United States to exclude rice from the provisions of the Farm Act and make an all-out effort to uproot protectionism, Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister Sitthi Sawetsila said this morning.

Thailand's objectives will be made clear to 13 other non-subsidising, agricultural countries due to meet in Phatthaya next week, Air Chief Marshal [ACM] Sitthi added.

The deputy premier and foreign minister made the disclosure after opening a two-day seminar on "Mass Media and the Search for Solutions to Thailand's Economic Problems."

Though critical of the controversial U.S. Farm Act, ACM Sitthi expressed hope of some change for the better in U.S. agricultural policies after the elections scheduled in May of the U.S. House of Representatives.

"I hope the situation will get better after the elections," he said.

The meeting of 14 non-subsidising countries taking place in Phatthaya from next Wednesday through Friday was initiated by ACM Sitthi and subsequently received strong support from Australia.

The seminar that opened this morning was organised by the Foreign Ministery and is being attended by some 50 journalists, including Thais and Bangkok-based foreign correspondents.

ACM Sitthi pointed out to the seminar that Thai exports had improved satisfactorily during the first five months this year.

The value of Thai exports during the period amounted to 9,300 million baht, or a 12 percent increase compared with the 8,300 million baht they earned during the same period last year.

At the same time, trade deficits and import values had dropped due to an appreciation of the Japanese yen and a decrease in oil prices, he added.

In all, the economic condition of Thailand is improving with confusions of the recent past ironed out, he said.

"Though protectionism remains an obstacle to our development, the latest reduction of oil prices and interest rate this month offer opportunity for us to compete better in the world market," he said.

But Thailand cannot rely solely on the workings of oil prices, he cautioned.

"The Government is continuously looking for measures to counter protectionism. Apart from our own effort, we have also joined hands with other ASEAN countries," he said.

The Foreign Ministry has paved the way for increased external economic relations, particularly with the African and Latin American countries, he added.

To obtain better understanding among all concerned, the ministry has also worked closely with the private sector, through associations rallying fishermen, fruit and vegetable exporters, he said.

The ministery does not only work on political but also economic affairs of the country, he said. "Both go together."

CPT REPORTEDLY PREPARING FOR URBAN INSURGENCY

BK180052 Bangkok BANGKOK POST in English 18 Jul 86 p 1 [by The Changkhadikit]

[Text] The outlawed Communist Party of Thailand (CPT), now regarded as Soviet-oriented, has set up its clandestine headquarters in Bangkok to operate an urban insurgency, infiltrate domestic and international organisations and set up a front called the Thai Democratic Solidarity Group (TDSG).

Disclosing the above, intelligence sources reported that the TDSG has sent to Europe two communist party members to contact European communist parties and obtain their cooperation and that of so-called "liberal" or "human rights" or "social justice" bodies.

One of the GPT delegates is a medical doctor who has attended to the sick and wounded among the insurgents in the jungles and who is known by the code-name of "Comrade Chai." The other who has come out of the jungles and gone to Europe with the doctor is known as "Comrade To."

The doctor has reportedly visited Europe several times in the past two years, the latest in February, 1986.

In June this year the Klum Samanchan Prachachon Thai,as th TDSG is known in Tahi, reportedly held a meeting to discuss current policy on urban revolutionary strategy and on TDSG leaflets.

Five prominent Communists who have come out of the jungle but have not reported themselves to the authorities, including the doctor, have been identified as leaders of the underground activities.

The TDSG has reportedly infiltrated organisations set up by pulbic spirited people to combat official corruption, fight for human rights, conduct religious works, and strive for improvements in society, according to the intelligence reports. The infiltrators who keep their communist affiliatins secret from other members of the organisations try to give ideas and directions which would help them achieve their objectives.

The centre of the urban revolutionary group is Bangkok, the sources said, but the intention is to operate in the other cities and towns of the country, with instructions orginating from the headquarters here.

Among the groups the TDSG has contacted is alleged to be Amnesty International and Thai intelligence agents have obtained full information on the Thais who have been feeding data which led Amnesty to ask for the release of Surachai Sae Dan convicted on communist and arson charges.

Thai authorities are keeping a close watch on a Thai who had been an activitst during his student days at Thammasat University, was involved in various riots and demonstrations, joined a socialist political party, fled into the jungles, joined the CPT and returned without reporting to the authorities. He and his wife have allegedly been responsbile for providing to foreign organisations materials considered detrimental to Thai national interests.

The authorites have also been watching the movements of a man who is said to be Amnesty representative for Asian Affairs, sources said.

Considering the potential dangers posed by the urban activitie of the CPT, the TDSG and th organisations they have infiltrated to the safety, sovereignty and constitutional institutions of Thailand, it is believe that a full report on the situation has been submitted to top responsible authorities for study and consideration of action.

[Text] On 17 July 1966, President Ho Chi Minh issued a historic appeal which included the statement: "Nothing is more precious than independence and freedom." Heeding his appeal, on 19 July 1966 the Song Da Air Defense Group shot down an F-8U aircraft of the U.S. aggressors, which had violated the airspace of southern Hanoi, before it had time to commit any crimes. The Hanoi People's Committee presented the group with a banner bearing the inscription "Scoring the first exploit in response to Uncle Ho's appeal."

On the 20th anniversary of President Ho's historic appeal, the Air Defense Command has presented the Ho Chi Minh Museum with pieces of the downed F-8U and the said award banner as a contribution to the museum's collection of artifacts.

THAI 'SLANDER' ON ARMY INTRUSIONS REJECTED

[Text] Hanoi VNA July 17 -- Vietnam News Agency is authorized to categorically reject Thailand's recent slander about Vietnamese Army volunteers' intrusions into Thai territory.

According to foreign sources on July 15, 1986 the Thai Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying that from June 8 to July 4, 1986, Vietnamese troops in Kampuchea made six intrusions into Thai territory, killing at least six Thais, blowing up one bridge and shelling many artillery rounds into Thailand.

This slanderous act of the Thai authorities was obviously aimed at covering the frequent violations of Thai aircraft and boats of the Kampuchean air and water territory, and the penetration of Pol Pot remnants back into Kampuchea for sabotage as repeatedly denounced by the Kampuchean news agency SPK.

This slander was also designed to distract public opinion form th U.S.-Thai joint military manuoevre "Cobra Gold-86", the biggest ever, currently conducted close to the Thai-Kampuchean border.

NHAN DAN HAILS VIETNAM-USSR RELATIONS

[NHAN DAN 17 July editorial: "A New, Important Manifestation of the SRV-USSR Militant Solidarity and Comprehensive Cooperation]

[Text] Our entire party, Armed Forces, and people were extremely moved by the high appreciation of and sincere sentiments toward our revolutionary cause expressed by our brothers and friends throughout the five continuents during the funeral service for Comrade General Secretary Le Duan. We were particularly moved by the close comradeship and unshakable militant solidarity demonstrated by the party, government, and people of the Soviet Union to our party, government, and people on this occasion.

The contents of the message of condolences of the Soviet party and state; the visit by Comrade General Secretary Gorbachev and many other comrade leaders to the Vietnamese Embassy in Moscow to pay homage to Comrade Le Duan; and the visit by a high-level Soviet party and government delegation led by Comrade Ryzhkov, member of the Politburo of the CPSU Central Committee and chairman of the USSR Council of Ministers, to attend Comrade Le Duan's funeral have brought us profound fraternal sentiments and extremely valuable support.

The communique on the activities of the Soviet party and government delegation in the SRV constituted a new, important manifestation of Vietnam-USSR militant solidarity and comprehensive cooperation. The cordial talks between the Soviet party and government delegation and our party and state leaders headed by Comrade Truong Chinh, general secretary of the party Central Committee and chairman of the Council of State, clearly affirmed the lines and strategies of the CPSU and the CPV aimed at continuously strengthening and developing the firm friendly relations and comprehensive cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union on the basis of the Vietnam-USSR Treaty of Friendship and Cooperation, and at consolidating by all means the solidarity of the entire socialist community on the basis of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism.

The two sides exchanged views on Vietnam-USSR cooperation and on their coordinated measures to implement the long-term program of economic, scientific, and technical cooperation between Vietnam and the Soviet Union and to raise the quality and effectiveness of that cooperation.

On our side, all echelons and sectors should understand ever more clearly the importance of that cooperation in order to resolutely change the system of management, more satisfactorily perform their work, and strive to implement scrupulously all that has been signed and obtain good and practical results.

Amid an atmosphere of close comradeship and complete unanimity at the talks, our party and state once again expressed full support for the vigorous efforts of the party, state, and laboring people of the Soviet Union to accelerate economic and social development in their country. The Soviet party and state supported the efforts of the CPV, LPRP, and KPRP to constantly strengthen solidarity and unanimity and uphold the banner of national independence and socialism. The Soviet party and state also voiced strong support for the peace initiatives of the three Indochinese countries aimed at turning Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability, and cooperation.

The two sides noted that the world situation continues to be tense and stressed that nothing is more important than to avert the danger of a nuclear war caused by the aggressive forces of imperialism headed by the United States. The two sides also noted that the situation in the Asia-Pacific region is causing great concern.

With that complex background, Vietnam, the Soviet Union, and other fraternal countries are advocating the need to maintain and intensify political dialogue and continuing to seek every possible way to achieve arms limitation, remedy the world situation, ensure constructive cooperation among nations, prevent nuclear war, and preserve peace.

This is a scrupulous attitude that reflects our sense of responsibility and is consistent with the interests of mankind and the common trend in the world. This is also a difficult and complex struggle. However, our just cause, peace, and revolution will eventually triumph.

The recent activities of the Soviet party and government delegation in our country manifested the Soviet Union's clear and loyal spirit of socialist internationalism. Let us express our profound gratitude to the party, government, and fraternal people of the Soviet Union for their wholehearted, valuable, great, and effective support and assistance to our people in the past struggle for national liberation as well as in the present struggle for the construction and defense of the socialist Vietnamese fatherland.

Solidarity and comprehensive cooperation with the Soviet Union is always the cornerstone of our party and state's foreign policy, a profound aspiration of our people, and an important guarantee to the victory of our revolution. We rejoice at the new development and fruitful results of the Vietnam-USSR friendship.

Combining the nation's strength with that of our time, our people will constantly consolidate the special relations among the three Indochinese countries, strengthen and promote our friendly relations and comprehensive cooperation with the Soviet Union and other socialist countries, fulfill satisfactorily the two strategic tasks of building and defending the socialist fatherland, and record practical achievements in honor of the sixth party congress, thus making worthy contributions to the world people's struggle for peace, national independence, democracy, and socialism.

HAYDEN MEETS VISITING KANAK INDEPENDENCE LEADER

Radio Australia's Canberra correspondent, Graham Dobell, reports:

[Begin Dobell Recording] Australia regards the FLNKS as a legitimate political representative of the Kanak people, and Mr Tjibaou's meeting with Mr Hayden was described as good and constructive.

It was a follow-up to the talks the two men had in Noumea in May. The Kanak leader is pushing to have New Caledonias resubmitted to the UN Decolonization Committee. This is expected to be one of the key issues debated at the South Pacific Forum meeting in Fiji next month.

At last year's Forum meeting Australia argued against the reference at the Decolonization Committee because of progress toward independence by the Mitterrand government.

Observerers suggest now that Canberra will support the UN move as a means to put effective pressure on the new conservative government in Paris.

Officials in Canberra said Mr Tjibaou paid his own way to Australia.

They said that the talks with Mr Hayden also covered means to help the economic development of the Kanak regions of New Caledonia. [end recording]

KIDNAPPED NUNS RELEASED IN MARAWI CITY

[Text] Marawi, Philippines, July 17 (AFP) -- Moslem kidnappers Thursday freed 10 Filipino Roman Catholic nuns unharmed near this southern city without any ransom being paid, officials said. Another armed group holding an American Protestant missionary was expected to release him in two days, the officials added. "The nuns are in good health," Lieutenant Colonel Francisco Cruz, commander of an army battalion that took part in the efforts to free the nuns, told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE. Armed groups, including former Moslem separatist rebels, have been kidnapping Filipinos and foreigners for ransom in Mindanao for years.

The nuns, belonging to the Carmelite order, were freed at dawn and returned to a hilltop convent where they were abducted Friday in this Moslem city on Central Mindanao island some 800 kilometers (500 miles) south of Manila. The Reverend Brian Lawrence was kidnapped Saturday in his apartment here by the same group of men who had held a French Catholic missonary, Father Michele de Gigord, for two weeks in June in a failed attempt to get ransom money.

President Corazon Aquino Tuesday reacted angrily to the latest kidnappings, rejecting payment of any ransom and warning the abductors that the military would "act decisively" to free the 11 hostages. Mrs. Aquino issued a statement Thursday congratulating military and civilian officials who worked for the captives' release, saying "they have added credibility to the policy of non-violence."

Sister Ann Casimiro, one of the freed nuns, told reporters: "I am happy to be back and I would like to thank everyone responsible for our release." She described the kidnappers' treatment of the nuns as "perhaps better that a five-star hotel," adding that she gained weight during the ordeal. "We ate and prayed most of the time," she said. "We were afraid at first, but later we recovered." "We don't intend to transfer from the convent in Marawi. We volunteered here and we will stay."

Suspected renegade Moslem rebels who kidnapped the nuns demanded two million pesos (100,000 dollars) along with the grant of full political autonomy to this largely Roman Catholic nation's Mindanao-based Moslem minority. The military said the De Gigord and Lawrence kidnappings were carried out by followers of an anti-Aquino Moslem warlord here, Sultan Ali Dimaporo, who has denied any involvement in the incidents. The nuns said they were at a loss as to the real affiliation of the kidnappers, who claimed to be members of the separatist guerilla group Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF).

Saidamen Pangarungan, appointed by Mrs. Aquino to replace Mr. Dimaporo as governor of this Moslem-dominated province, recieved the nuns after the kidnappers turned them over the military officers. Mr.Pangarungan said that no ransom was paid. He said that before freeing their hostages, the kidnappers demanded immunity from prosecution and the reinstatement of a colleague fired as a warehouse worker here for the government's National Food Authority. "The matter as to the immunity from prosecution up to President Aquino or Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile to decide," he said, adding that the government agency would act on the other demand.

Mr. Pangarungan said he expected Mr. Lawrene to be released in two days. He said he was already in contact with the kidnappers and they were discussing conditions for the American's release.

The governor said the nuns had to walk some two kilometers (1.25 miles) from a village where they had been held, to a highway near Yanagi Town south of this provincial capital. The circumstances of their release were not immediately known. Dozens of armed troops surrounded their secluded convent, which overlooks Marawi and the vast Lake Lanao, after the nuns arrived, but the city was calm and business went on as usual, eyewitnesses said. Marawi Mayor Abbas Basman told reporters that he was studying the possibility of filing criminal charges against the kidnappers.

American Missionary Released

[Text] Kidnapped American missionary Brian Lawrence has been released 6 days after he was taken by armed men in Marawi City. This report was received by Armed Forces Deputy Chief of Staff Major General Eduardo Ermita. Lawrence told reporters he was glad to be free again and that he had been treated well by his captors. The release is believed to have been effected through the efforts of former Lanao del Sur Governor Princess Tarhata Lucman.

Dimaporo Comments on Kidnappings

[Text] Manila, July 18 (AFP) -- A Moslem warlord said Friday the kidnappings of Filipino nuns, an American pastor and a French priest in Mindanao were protests against the U.S. bombing of Libya and the Roman Catholic Church role in Philippine politics. Kidnappers in the southern island "were doing this because the Moslems want to show the Americans that they are against the bombing in Libya, and are against the church participating in politics," Ali Dimaporo told a news conference here.

Mr. Dimaporo, 68, a staunch supporter of deposed ruler Ferdinand Marcos, was replaced by President Corazon Aquino in May as governor of Moslem-dominated Lanao del Sur Province, where all the kidnappings took place. He has denied charges of secret links with the kidnappers and called the news conference a day after a group claiming to be Moslem separatists freed 10 Roman Catholic nuns held for six days near Marawi City, the provincial capital. Another band that included a nephew of Mr. Dimaporo still held American Protestant missinary Brian Lawrence near Marawi on Friday but officials expected him to be released shortly following talks with the group. "The negotiating teams are still there. But he's safe, that's all we can tell you for now," Armed Forces chief General Fidel Ramos told Agence FRANCE-PRESSE at the presidential palace.

The new Lanao del Sur Covernor, Saidamen Pangarungan, said Thursday he expected Mr. Lawrence to be released within two days. A French missionary, Father Michele de Gigord, was freed after two weeks of captivity in June.

Mr. Dimaporo disputed official's statements that no ransom was paid for the nuns' freedom. He said another former governor who helped free them, Tarhata Lucman, disclosed that the kidnappers got 200,000 pesos (10,000 dollars). "I believe the money was given because it was announced by the kidnappers," he said. But it was nuclear what he referred to, as there have been no reports here of such a statement. Mr. Dimaporo said he opposed paying ransom to kidnappers, and denied reports that he had offered 300,000 pesos (15,500 dollars) to the nuns' abductors.

"In all my life, I have not offered any money to kidnappers ... I know some relatives of kidnap victims who secretly give money to the kidnappers." "I am happy that the nuns were released, and I hope the money given will not encourage more kidnappings," he added.

He said he had sent four emissaries to Mr. Lawrence's kidnappers and that he planned to go to Marawi on Saturday to "exert all my influence" to have the American released "I think next week." "If (the kidnappers) are under my influence, I will tell you on Monday." "I am never for immunity of kidnappers. I want them prosecuted. If you will not call me again a warlord, I want them killed," he said.

SEPTEMBER DATE SET FOR 'TAKEOVER' BY TOLENTINO

[Text] Marcos supporters have continued to show their defiance by announcing a "take-over" their "acting president" Arturo Tolentino in September when President Aquino is to visit the United States. [sentence as published]

They have set a September deadline for Tolentino to "assert" his authority and establish "effective control", spokesman Oliver Lozano said yesterday.

Tolentino had dropped out of sight -- ostensibly for security reasons since his coup attempt July 6.

Tolentino's takeover will be promoted by 10.8 million signatories pledging loyalty to him on or before September. Lozano, who started the Marcos comeback signature campaign two months ago, claimed to have already gathered five million signatures -- the pre-condition for Tolentino's "oathtaking" at the Manila Hotel driveway two Sundays ago.

The 10.8 million signatures equal the number of votes Marcos supposedly got during the last polls, at which his supporters believed he won fairly.

Lozano alleged that the Manila Hotel affair was not a rebellion because there was no armed uprising. "There was simply a peaceful rally followed by a peaceful oath-taking" Lozano said.

The armed soldiers were there by relatives and friends to protect Tolentino from arrest and to preserve peace, he explained. (According to rally regulations though, the bearing of firearms and explosives are prohibited.)

Lozano also maintained that he and the others had paid their hotel bills, and they have the receipts to show for it. But he denied any part for the damage and looting estimated at $500,000, which he said were done by infiltrators.

Tolentino Refuses To Take Oath

[Text] Manila, July 18 (AFP) -- Arturo Tolentino, leader of an abortive coup attempt against President Corazon Aquino, said Friday he would refuse to swear allegiance to the Philippine Government.

Mrs. Aquino, who foiled the attempted pusch last week, ordered its leaders to take an oath of allegiance to a provisional constitution or face sedition charges. Asked at a news conference if he would swear allegiance to the charger, Mr. Tolentino said he would refuse because "it will expose us to public humiliation." He added that the oath of allegiance should not be the government's only option.

Mr. Tolentino, a close ally of deposed President Ferdinand Marcos, seized the Manila Hotel July 6 and proclaimed himself acting president with the backing of some 300 soldiers and 5,000 Marcos supporters. Mrs. Aquino has assigned Justice Minister Neptali Gonzales to work out details of the oath-taking. The Justice Ministry had no immediate comment on Mr. Tolentino's statement, although Ministry spokesman George Dy told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE he was not aware of any deadline.

The government can also exercise "maximum tolerance," he said, arguing that this was applied to soldiers involved in the short-lived revolt. "I don't see why they cannot apply the same to civilians." Defence Minister Juan Ponce Enrile had pledged amnesty for the rebel troops if they turned themselves in to government forces. Under the terms of the surrender, Armed Forces Chief Geneal Fidel Ramos ordered the soldiers to do 30 push-ups before returning to their units.

SWISS BANKS TO TURN OVER MARCOS DEPOSITS

HK180216 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINE DAILY EXPRESS in English 17 Jul 86 pp 1, 2

[By Anselmo Roque]

[Text] Munoz, Neuva Ecija -- Swiss banks will shortly turn over to the Aquino government at least $213 million or about P4.1 billion which deposed president Marcos had stashed away in several deposit accounts.

Solicitor General Sedfrey Ordonez made this disclosure yesterday when he spoke before a three-day training seminar on rural development at the Central Luzon State University.

"The money will be forthcoming in 20 to 30 days," said Ordonez who had just concluded negotiations with officials of the Swiss justice ministry, police, and legislature on the government's bid to recover Marcos' hidden wealth in Switzerland.

Although Ordonez refused to divulge the exact amount which will be turned over to the Aquino government, the Inquirer gathered it will be no less than $213 million.

Ordonez, however, said the money represents Marcos' deposits in at least five Swiss banks.

Swiss authorities have frozen all of Marcos' bank deposits in the country amid claims by the Aquino government that these were plundered by the ex-president from the Filipino people during his 20-year reign.

Ordonez said he expects other Swiss banks to turn over Marcos' deposits. He said he will leave again soon for Switzerland to effect the transfer into the country of all Marcos' money.

He explained that not-withstanding the strict secrecy of Swiss banks on deposit accounts, the Philippine Government found no difficulty in recovering Marcos' hidden wealth in Switzerland.

Marcos, he said, had disclosed ownership on these bank deposits.

Swiss authorities, he added, have been "very cooperative" with the Philippine government on its efforts to recover the Marcos fortune.

Supreme Court justice, Pedro Yap, then a member of the PCGG [Presidential Commission on Good Government] appointed by President Aquino to recover funds Marcos is alleged to have illegally moved abroad during his presidency, has been quoted in an interview as saying Manila authorities have evidence that the assets in Switzerland, including funds, gold and real estate total more than 6 billion Swiss francs ($3 billion).

A document found in the suitcase of Ferdinand Marcos when he arrived in Hawaii showed that the deposed president had at least $88 million on deposit in five banks around the world.

The bank list, one of 2,300 pages turned over to the new Philippine government and to a house subcommittee shows balances totalling $88.7 million on deposit in five banks in the United States, Switzerland and the Cayman Islands, a British possession in the Caribbean.

ARGENTINE PRESIDENT ALFONSIN ARRIVES IN MANILA

[Text] Manila, July 17 (AFP) -- Argentine President Raul Alfonsin arrived here Tuesday to a warm welcome from President Corazon Aquino. Mr Alfonsin arrived from Tokyo aboard an Argentine Air Force jet to start a three-day state visit topped by talks with Mrs Aquino and other officials Friday.

Aquino Welcomes Alfonsin

[Text] Manila, July 17 KYODO -- Argentine President Raul Ricardo Alfonsin arrived in Manila Thursday for a three-day state visit which includes talks with Philippine President Corazon Aquino. Aquino led Philippine officials in welcoming Alfonsin, who was given military honors at Manila airport on his arrival from Tokyo, one of the stops in his current world tour. The Argentine leader is the first foreign head of state to visit Manila since the Aquino government was installed last February after a civilian-backed military revolt ended the 20-year rule of Ferdinand Marcos.

In her welcome address spoken in Spanish, Aquino set the tone for the talks which are expected to touch on common problems inherited by the governments of both countries from past regimes such as human rights violations and the big foreign debts. She said both countries suffered under a "cruel dictatorship," referring to the Philippines' own experience in the last 14 years of Marcos' one-man rule. She added that as in Argentina under the previous governments, Filipino dissenters were tortured or "disappeared in the night."

Alfonsin responded saying that the Argentine people and the Filipinos will open "a new book of freedom and close a book of tyranny." He added that the two nations are the "sources of hope for all oppressed nations in the world." The Marcos regime left behind a foreign debt of 26 million dollars to the Aquino government while Alfonsin's government inherited 50 billion dollars in foreign obligations from the previous government. Alfonsin, who visited New Zealand, Australia and Japan before coming to the Philippines, leaves Manila Saturday for Saudi Arabia.

Mutual Honors Awarded

[Text] President Aquino is holding talks with visiting Argentine President Raul Alfonsin in Malacanang. The two leaders are taking up bilateral and international issues. Before calling on Mrs Aquino at the guesthouse, the Argentine president laid a wreath at Rizal Monument, Luneta, and toured the Intramuros and Fort Santiago. President Alfonsin is accompanied by Foreign Minister Caputo, Economic Minister Juan Souro Luille, and parliamentary officer in residence (Jorge Luis Manzano). President Aquino today received the highest distinction conferred by the Argentine Government on foreign heads of state. The full report from our Malacanang correspondent Al Pedroche:

[Begin recording] The Orden de Liberador, Rank of Collar was conferred on the president by visiting Argentine President Raul Alfonsin in ceremonies held in Malacanang. The distinction recognizes President Aquino for her unusual feat of rallying the Filipino people to put an end to a 20-year old repressive regime. For her part, the president also awarded the visiting head of state the ancient Order of Sikatuna, Rank of Rajah, which is of equal weight to the distinction that she had just received. At the same time, Mrs Aquino also conferred on Argentine Foreign Minister Dante Caputo the Order of Sikatuna, rank of Datu [chieftain].

Also in Malacanang, the two presidents renewed their commitments to harness the existing relations between the two countries. At the same time, they discussed the possibility of further expanding bilateral relations, particularly on trade and cooperation in matters pertaining to human rights. [end recording] Earlier, President Aquino said the Philippines and Argentina, now both free after years of struggle against one-man rule, have a common responsibility, and that is to make liberty and freedom work, especially for the poor.

The president, speaking in Spanish, said a lot of existing elements would strive to discredit liberty, freedom, and democracy. She made the statement while welcoming President Alfonsin at the Manila International airport. Alfonsin is the first Argentine president to visit the Philippines since the two countries forged diplomatic links in 1949. He is also the first head of state to visit Manila since the February peaceful people's revolt toppled President Marcos. President Alfonsin and his delegation will leave for Singapore tomorrow morning.

Foreign Debt Problems Discussed

[Text] Manila, July 18 (AFP) -- Argentine President Raul Alfonsin and Philippine President Corazon Aquino extensively discussed foreign debt problems Friday and found similarities in their solutions, Philippine officials said.

Mr Alfonsin later took a guided tour of the presidential palace occupied by Ferdinand Marcos for 20 years and told reporters he believed democracy was the answer to the two countries' problems.

Aides of the two centrist leaders, who inherited huge foreign debts from right-wing regimes, took part in their hour-long meeting at the ornate Spanish-style Malacanang Palace in downtown Manila. "They outlined their economic recovery program. They said that their approach to the debt problem is a growth approach," Philippine Information minister Teodoro Locsin told reporters after the meeting. He said it was "remarkably the same" as the policy proposed by Manila to limit its repayment of its 26 billion dollars foreign debt to a fixed portion of the country's export earnings in order to allow the economy to grow.

Argentina's foreign debt is about 49 billion dollars, its embassy here said. "We must look at the (Argentine) economic program as a lesson on...being able to grow so you can pay the debt," Mr Locsin said, "Looking at it the other way, which is the traditional way, is a sure-fire formula for not being able to pay it at all."

Manila is seeking an agreement with its creditors to sharply bring down its debt-service ratio from the current 50 per cent of export income. It has so far resisted sharp tax hikes and other austerity measures for fear of unrest, but has dropped an option to repudiate some debts incurred by Mr Marcos. Mr Alfonsin, asked after touring the former Marcos palace if the Philippines was on the right track in solving its problems, said: "Democracy is the only solution to our problems, including the economic one." Mrs. Aquino turned the palace into a public museum after February's popular revolt which sent Mr Marcos into exile, and she uses it only for major functions and cabinet meetings. She returned to her office in an adjacent guest house after their meeting.

Philippine Central Bank Governor Jose Fernandez, Finance Minister Jaime Ongpin and Deputy Foreign Minister Jose Ingles took part in the meeting along with Argentine Foreign Minister Dante Caputo and Finance Minister Juan Souro Luille. "We shared experiences, particularly the ... economic similarities," Mr Fernandez said. Mr Ingles said the talks were "mostly economic." Mr Locsin said human rights abuses by the military in the countries' past regimes were not discussed but were "just mentioned in passing" at a state dinner hosted by Mrs Aquino at the palace Thursday. Like Mr Alfonsin, Mrs Aquino has launched a probe into the abuses but is encountering resistance from some military officials.

CON-COM COMMITTEE OPTS TO NOT RENEW BASES TREATY

[Text] At the Constitutional Commission, the Committee on Preamble, National Territory, and Declaration of Principles has agreed not to renew the Philippine-U.S. bases treaty after 1991. FEBC [Far East Broadcasting Company] correspondent Art Pabillon has more on this:

[Begin recording] The Constitutional Committee on Preamble, National Territory, and Declaration of Principles agreed to honor the bases agreement until 1991. The committee adopted the Resolution 402 which states that the military bases agreement between the Philippines and the United States of America shall be deemed terminated upon its expiration in 1991. The committee agreed on the option that after 1991 there will be no more agreement that would be forged. Members of the committee also voted unanimously on the issue of neutrality and nonalignment.

The committee likewise adopted proposed Resolution 216 authored by the honorable Rustico Delos Reyes which declared the Philippines as a nuclear-free country and shall not be used for storing or stockpiling nuclear weapons or devices. [end recording]

ENVOY TO U.S. 'DISTURBED' BY U.S. ATTITUDE

HK171511 Manila MANILA BULLETIN in English 17 Jul 86 p 6

[Text] The Philippine envoy to the United States called the U.S. wait-and-see policy towards the Philippines "untenable" and could do "irreparable damage" to relations between the two countries.

Ambassador Emmanuel Pelaez said the U.S. "must do all it can to help the Filipinos themselves in setting up a truly democratic society with a permanently viable economy."

Pelaez was referring to a report of the U.S. House Committee on Appropriations that a subcommittee had deferred an allotment of $73 million for fiscal year 1987 for Clark and Subic military bases pending the "stabilization of the political situation (of the Philippines) and decision and continued use of the bases."

The envoy said he was not concerned about the disallowance of the outlay, which was eventually cut to $40 million.

"But I am disturbed by the implication in all this, that the correct U.S. policy towards the Philippines should be one of passivity or, to put it in another way, a wait-and-see attitude until the Philippines shall have put its house in order," Pelaez said.

"Such an attitude could, in the end, do irreparable damage to the U.S.'s long-range interests."

LAUREL TELLS AMBASSADORS TO STRESS INVESTMENT

[By Gethsemane M. Selirio]

[Text] Bonn -- Vice-President and Foreign Minister Salvador H. Laurel urged Philippines ambassadors abroad to be more "aggressive" in selling the country as a potential investment area in line with the new government's foreign policy thrust and "economic diplomacy."

In a meeting of the country's chiefs of mission and charge d'affairs in Europe held in Bonn Sunday, Laurel told the ambassadors: "You must now be aggressive salesmen of our country."

Laurel also asked the 17 ambassadors in Europe -- of whom only three are new political appointees -- to bring the Philippines "more investment, more aid, more cooperation" from their countries of assignment.

The new government is currently grappling with the "twin problems" of insurgency and economic recovery, Laurel said. Pointing out that there are some 22,500 fully armed NPA most of whom are just "outlaws, not communists," he noted that "you can't tell the rebels to come home without something for them."

This is why the Aquino government is giving priority to the generation of more jobs, Laurel said, by attracting more foreign investments in "labor-intensive" ventures.

The vice-president said the new government has an "unwritten deadline" for its main objectives of turning the economy around and eliminating insurgency. Thus, it is important to establish the proper climate for foreign investment, he said.

The "asset" of the Philippine ambassadors abroad is the goodwill of foreign governments, particularly in Europe, toward the government of Corazon Aquino.

Countries in Western Europe were the first to officially recognize the Aquino government and the validity of the revolution last February. They were also previously vocal with their criticisms against the authoritarian regime of Ferdinand Marcos.

Following up the pledges of support by these countries for Aquino, Laurel, accompanied by Trade and Industry Minister Jose S. Concepcion Jr., embarked on a European mission that has resulted in a $10-million loan from Spain and $22 million in financial and technical aid from West Germany.

But while Europeans are quick to give loans and aid, they are not so convinced that the country already has positive investment climate because of the new government's reported "political instability."

The attempt by Marcos's running mate Arturo Tolentino to stage a coup two weeks ago -- an event which garned banner headlines in major dailies in Europe -- and the uncertainties related to the new Constitution being drafted by a commission, have been perceived by West Europeans as signs that the new government is not yet stable enough to risk an investment in the country.

Laurel, during his official visit here in Bonn, however pictured the Philippines as a country "moving toward political stability." He recounted the move to come up with a new Constitution, the dismantling of monopolies in business and other reforms by the Aquino government, which, he said, "give confident assurance of a better investment climate."

In Sunday's meeting, Laurel told the foreign service corps to take advantage of the good image of the country abroad. He also asked the ambassadors to "disseminate information and contradict our contrary information that we are not (politically) stable."

"This is economic diplomacy. Drive home the point to the governments that (the Aquino government) is speeding up the normalization process, thus they should not be afraid to invest," Laurel said.

It became apparent during the meeting however, that there is demoralization in the foreign service corps even among the high-ranking service officers. Low per diem, restrictions on cars and home leaves, limitations on diplomatic pouches, inadequate communication from the Manila foreign office were some of the problems raised by the corps, through the ambassadors and charge d'affaires.

Laurel promised to look into all the issues raised by his charges, which he described as "reasonable, well taken and overdue." He said he would first work for the increase of the per diem of the servicemen from $40 to $100.

Upon Laurel's suggestion, the Philippine ambassadors in Europe agreed to meet regularly at least once a year, with the host country chosen on a rotation basis.

PCA CHAIRMAN SANTOS REJECTS WORLD BANK LOAN

HK170247 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 16 Jul 86

[Text] Philippine Coconut Authority [PCA] chairman Oscar Santos yesterday [16 July] said he has rejected the $50 million loan offered by the World Bank to finance the country's coconut replanting program. Santos said the main reason for the rejection was the World Bank's condition to re-impose the coconut levy, the proceeds of which will be used to repay the loan. If the coconut levy is re-imposed, Santos said, there is no need to avail of the World Bank loan. He said the collection of the coconut levy alone would be enough to finance the coconut national replanting program. The PCA chairman said the government has no plans to re-impose the coconut levy at this time because the price of copra in the world market is not favorable to farmers.

WA140010 Ulaanbaatar NOVOSTI MONGOLII in Russian 29 May 86 pp 1, 8

[O. Baldorj, S. Bayara, and Sh. Nemehbayar report on 28 May 1986 MPRP congress proceedings]

[Text] The MPR People's Great Hural Hall of Sessions is in ceremonial attire. On a blue background are portraits of K. Marx and V.I. Lenin, and on crimson cloth are inscribed the words: "19th MPRP Congress." On a lofty pedestal framed by fresh flowers is a bust of D. Sukhe-Bator, founder of the MPRP and the people's state.

...Nine in the morning. Those present in the hall greet with applause Comrades J. Batmonh, D. Sodnom, B. Altangerel, B. Dejid, D. Molomjamts, Ts. Namsray and T. Ragchaa. N Jagbaral, B. Lamjab, and S. Lubsangombo, candidates of the MPRP Central Committee Politburo, Ts. Balhaarjab and P. Damdin, secretaries of the MPRP Central Committee, and also V.I. Vorotnikov, member of the CPSU Central Committee Politburo, chairman of the RSFSR Council of Ministers and head of the CPSU delegation.

Also constituting the Presidium were the heads of delegations of communist, workers, and revolutionary-democratic parties, movements, and organizations who had arrived for the congress at the invitation of the MPRP Central Committee.

The 19th MPRP Congress was opened by Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, who was greeted by those assembled with stormy applause. He said:

Comrade Delegates!

The aymag and city party conferences elected 841 delegates to the 19th MPRP Congress. Some 841 delegates are attending the congress.

Instructed by the MPRP Central Committee, I declare the 19th MPRP Congress open.

Comrades,

We have to elect the executive bodies of the congress. The Council of Delegation Representatives formulated proposals pertaining to the number and compostion of the executive bodies on the congress. These proposals were distributed to you delegates in advance.

Let us examine the question of the congress' Presidium.

The delegates unanimously elected the congress' Presidium.

The morning session was chaired by Comrade D. Molomjamts, member of the Central Committee Politburo and secretary of the MPRP Central Committee.

The congress' Secretariat and the Editorial and Credentials Commissions were elected unanimously.

Comrade D. Molomjamts said:

Comrades,

Some 72 delegations of communist, workers, and revolutionary-democratic parties, movements, and organizations from 66 countries are attending our party congress.

We regard this as confirmation of the even greater growth of the MPRP's international authority, a sign of respect and an expression of the militant solidarity of these parties, movements and organizations with our party.

Permit me on behalf of the congress delegates to cordially welcome our dear guests and express the profound gratitude of the MPRP to all the parties, organizations and movements which sent their representatives to our congress.

A CPSU delegation headed by Vitaliy Ivanovich Vorotnikov, member of the CPSU Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the RSFSR Council of Ministers, and delegations of the communist and workers parties of the other fraternal socialist countries are participating in our congress.

We sincerely welcome the fraternal parties and peoples of the socialist countries, which are building a socialist society and playing a decisive part in the preservation and strengthening of peace and security throughout the world.

Representatives of communist and workers parties from many capitalist countries are attending our congress.

I warmly welcome our friends fighting for the interests of the working class and the working people and for peace and democracy.

I warmly welcome the emissaries attending our congress of the revolutionary-democratic parties, organizations, and movements of Asian, African and Latin American countries, who are fighting for national independence, freedom, social progress, and peace and international security and against imperialism and colonialism.

Comrades,

Comrades Baldangiyn Badarch, Sanjiyn Bataa, Batyn Dorj, Byambyn Rinchinpeljee, and Orony Tleyhan, members of the party Central Committee, departed life in the time that has elapsed since the 18th congress.

In this same period the international communist, workers, and national liberation movements lost such prominent figures and valiant fighters for peace and social progress as:

Leonid Ilich Brezhnev, Yuriy Vladimirovich Andropov, Konstantin Ustinovich Chernenko, Mikhail Andreyevich Suslov, Arvid Yanovich Pelshe, Dmitriy Fedorovich Ustinov, Soogiswara Wickremasinghe, Waldeck Rochet, Ville Pessi, Nicola Shawi, Ismail Bilen, Gustavo Machado, Enrico Berlinguer, Yussf Dadoo, and Moses (Mabida).

Life was tragically torn away from the consistent fighters for peace and international security Indira Gandhi and Olof Palme.

Comrade D. Molomjamts asked for a minute's silence in honor of the shining memory of the friends and ardent fighters.

The delegates unanimously adopted the congress agenda and time frame.

The floor was granted Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, for the "MPRP Central Committee Report to the 19th MPRP Congress and Subsequent Tasks".

The congress delegates and guests greeted J. Batmonh with a stormy, prolonged ovation. All stood.

Comrade J. Batmonh's report, which was received with tremendous attention and was repeatedly interrupted by prolonged applause.

Those present greeted the closing remarks of Comrade J. Batmonh's report with stormy applause and an ardent ovation. Toasts rang out in the hall to the MPRP, its Central Committee, and the Mongolian people.

The evening session was chaired by B. Dejid, member of the MPRP Central Committee Politburo and secretary of the MPRP Central Committee.

The congress heard the report of the MPRP Central Auditing Commission delivered by Comrade R. Dagbadorj, chairman of the commission.

The report "Guidelines of the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1986-1990" was delivered by Comrade D. Sodnom, member of the MPRP Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the MPR Council of Ministers.

Debate on the MPRP Central Committee report to the 19th Party Congress, the report on the Guidelines of the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1986-1990 and the MPRP Central Auditing Commission report then began.

Opening the debate at the MPRP Congress, Comrade P. Bold, first secretary of the Darhan City Party Committee, emphasized that the MPRP Central Committee report to the 19th Party Congress and subsequent tasks delivered by Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, represents an important political document imbued with the spirit of innovation, an objective evaluation of the state of affairs and militancy and practical efficiency and is of particular significance in the life of our party and the entire Mongolian people. The city of Darhan, which has become a specific embodiment of socialist economic integration, has quickly become a major industrial center of our country and a real forge for the training of new detachments of the national working class and professional personnel. International collectives of the new type are taking shape here.

The city committee, the speaker said, is adopting systematic measures for a qualitative improvement in the work of the city's party organizations, their reinforcement with the best representatives of the working class, the optimum assignment of communists in production components of all levels and the increased discipline and responsibility of the personnel.

However, we have not yet reached the level of high demands which the party is making today. Insufficient use is being made of the tremendous industrial potential of the Darhan area, people's intellectual resources, and the human factor. Merely due to the loss of work time in the last 5-year plan the possibility of producing 26.4 million tugriks worth of products at the city's industrial enterprises was lost.

The main reason for these shortcomings is connected primarily with the fact, P. Bold emphasized, that the city party committee bureau and secretariat members spend much time on empty discussion and numerous meetings, at which ineffective resolutions and decisions are frequently adopted, and rarely get into the thick of the labor collectives.

Darhan people are obliged to constantly increase social production efficiency, improve product quality and secure 80 percent of the increase in output at the industrial enterprises operating currently thanks to labor productivity growth by way of the introduction of advanced experience and progressive labor methods.

In the light of the conclusions and evaluations contained in Comrade J. Batmonh's report the immediate solution of the question of an improvement in the economic mechanism would appear extraordinarily important. This is truly an important problem, and, understandably, work cannot be organized solely by administrative methods, without a flexibly operating economic mechanism. This was what Sh. Gungadorj, first secretary of the Selenge Aymag Party Committee, spoke about from the congress' platform.

Unfortunately, the speaker observed, questions of an improvement in the economic mechanism are today being tackled extremely slowly. The special commission set up to elaborate this problem is not operating at the requisite level. It has to be noted that solution of this problem will largely depend both on the work of the industrial organizations themselves and on the activity of the higher authorities.

The time has come to decide the question of a broadening of the competence and independence of the economic organizations. When deciding most important questions of planning, capital investments, and financing the state farms are completely dependent on other organizations, which fetters managers' independence and initiative in expanding and developing production.

The speaker pointed to the importance of the pursuit of a flexible agricultural products prices policy, an improvement in the present system of financing and the extension of credit and determination of the scientifically substantiated specialization and optimum capacity and scale of the state farms and their brigades and divisions.

A break was announced.

After the break the session was chaired by D. Sodnom, member of the MPRP Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the MPR Council of Ministers.

The platform was mounted by J. Uhnaa, first secretary of the Oborhangay Aymag Party Committee. He emphasized in his speech that the MPRP Central Committee report to the 19th MPRP Congress delivered by Comrade J. Batmonh summed up the results of the tremendous creative activity of the party and the people in the period that had elapsed since the preceding party congress, analyzed the fundamental changes in international life and precisely and clearly determined the broad prospects of socialist creation in the country. It frankly criticized oversights and blunders in work and provided fundamental instructions concerning the ways of improving and reorganizing the style and methods of work and solving urgent problems.

The communists and all working people of our country, J. Uhnaa said, rightly connect all their successes and achievements with friendship and cooperation with the great Soviet Union and the other socialist countries. Our party and people sincerely value this friendship and are strengthening it daily.

Rapprochement with the Soviet Union in all spheres of social life and the all-round intensification and expansion of cooperation with it are becoming most important factors of the growth of social production and its increased efficiency and an increase in society's intellectual potential. Direct ties between organizations of our two countries per the territorial or departmental principle are playing an important part in creative study based on Soviet experience of mastery of the new style of work.

When elaborating and coordinating plans the State Planning Committee is taking actual potential in the localities insufficiently into consideration. The plan must, naturally, be taut, however, on the pretext of mobilizing resources a considerable addition to the indicators of an increase in the head of livestock and meat and wool production is made to the draft plan drawn up by the aymags, which serves as a reason for disruption of the plan. At the same time in the course of the year the ministries and departments repeatedly adjust the plans without coordination, J. Uhnaa said.

Then Comrade V.I. Vorotnikov, member of the CPSU Central Committee Politburo, chairman of the RSFSR Council of Ministers and head of the CPSU delegation, spoke.

The international collective of the Mongolian-Soviet "Erdenet" Mining-Concentrating Works assimilated the enterprise's design capacity fully in the last 5-year plan and undertook in 1986 to produce and treat over and above design capacity 1.4 million tons of ore and fulfill the plan of 5 months of the year on the eve of the party congress.

D. Jargalsayhan, drilling rig operator of the "Erdenet" Mining-Concentrating Works, reported on this.

The "Erdenet" Works, which has become a symbol of the fraternal friendship of the Mongolian and Soviet peoples, he said, is a fully mechanized and automated complex demonstrating a level of contemporary scientific and technological progress. The swift assimilation of the capacity, equipment, and technology of such a major complex and its rhythmic and dependable operation show the advantage of the joint enterprise -- a new progressive form of Mongolian-Soviet cooperation.

Delegate D. Jargalsayhan emphasized that the international collective of the "Erdenet" Mining-Concentrating Works, like our entire people, fully supports the domestic and foreign policy of the MPRP. For us working people there is no higher happiness than to live in a world without wars, raise children and grandchildren, and make our honest labor contribution to the prosperity of the motherland. The peaceable foreign policy of our party and government and the fraternal socialist community countries corresponds in full to these treasured aspirations and cherished hopes of the working people.

We wholeheartedly approve the constructive initiatives advanced by the 27th CPSU Congress aimed at ensuring that mankind enter the coming century without nuclear and other types of weapons of mass annihilation and at creating the foundations of an all-embracing system of international security. The Soviet Union has undertaken not to be the first to use nuclear weapons, has unilaterally announced a moratorium on nuclear tests, is presenting repeated proposals and initiatives, and is taking specific practical steps to reduce nuclear and other types of arms. All this is a striking manifestation of the Soviet Union's highly responsible attitude toward lthe destiny and future of mankind.

We angrily condemn the extremely irresponsible and reckless approach of the forces of imperialism and reaction headed by the United States to questions of war and peace, the Mongolian worker said.

The congress was addressed by D. Gonchigsumlaa, milker of the "Ornol" Agricultural Association of Arhangay Aymag's Oldziyt Somon and heroine of labor of the MPR. Noting that the report made an in-depth analysis of the party's activity in the sphere of domestic and foreign policy, determined the course of the country's further development and advanced specific tasks of socialist building for the immediate future, she said that for her, as a communist, the sanctum sanctorum is faithfully and truthfully serving the party and her people. The illustrious milker from Arhangay Aymag promised from the lofty tribune of the congress to assist young stockbreeders and milkers, share with them all that of which she is capable and knows, pass on to them her experience and strive to ensure that they achieve her results.

Our people have a splendid tradition of making full use of the productiveness of all types of livestock, in particular, preparing from milk a variety of food products. But, unfortunately, this good tradition is virtually being consigned to oblivion in certain places.

She recommended that the local party and administrative authorities and leaders of the agricultural associations and state farms pay more attention to ensuring that the rural youth and those on MRYL passes become hereditary stockbreeders.

D. Gonchigsumlaa undertook to produce annually over 2,000 liters of milk per local breed of cow and called on the country's illustrious youth to make its contribution to the noble cause of a multiplication of our country's basic wealth -- livestock worthily justifying the title of MRYL pass holder.

B. Hurmetbek, first secretary of the Bayan-Olgiy Aymag Party Committee, then spoke.

He emphasized that the MPRP has performed and continues to honorably perform its duty to the world communist and workers movement. The participation of representative delegations of communist, workers, and revolutionary-democratic parties in our congress serves as yet further testimony to their high appreciation of the MPRP's internationalist activity.

All the world's progressive forces are well aware of the kind of role performed today by the international communist and workers movement and what a titanic struggle it is conducting for peace and social progress and against imperialist reaction and the threat of the outbreak of nuclear war. Cooperating closely with the communist, workers, and revolutionary-democratic parties, our party consistently advocates a positive solution of urgent present-day problems.

A most important task of the central and local party, state, social, and industrial organizations of all levels, the delegate observed, is ridding themselves as quickly as possible of rooted inefficient work methods and suffusing with real content the work of stimulating the human factor, which is an inexhaustible reserve in realization of the party's socioeconomic policy. He expressed a number of proposals concerning, inter alia, an improvement in the agricultural research establishments' relations with production, the development of rural construction, and an improvement in the supply of consumer goods to the rural population.

This concluded the 1st day of the 19th MPRP Congress.

The congress continues.

REPORT ON CONGRESS PROCEEDINGS FOR 29 MAY

WA140014 Ulaanbaatar NOVOSTI MONGOLII in Russian 30 May 86 p 1-2,4

[B. Badar, Sh. Nemehbayar, and M. Enhee report on 29 May proceedings]

[Text] Let us return once again in our thoughts to the opening day of the highest forum of Mongolia's communists -- 28 May 1986. The streets and avenues of the capital are in handsome array. The country's main square is particularly festive. [paragraph continues]

Hung from the gables of the buildings are portraits of the founders of Marxism-Leninism and slogans and streamers bearing the inscriptions "Long Live Marxism-Leninism!" and "Long Live Proletarian Internationalism!" the emblem of the International Year of Peace, "19th MPRP Congress" and "The Party's Plans are the People's Plans". One sneses an atmosphere of elation and sincere excitement in the labor collectives. All communists and the whole country have prepared for this day with great enthusiasm and fervor. The entire course of our intensive work has shown convincingly the increased assertiveness of the communists and all working people in the country. "The ideas and spirit of the 27th CPSU Congress serve as an inspriring example of innovation and Bolshevist truth," Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, said at the 22d Ulaanbaatar City Party Conference. The party organizations evaluated in businesslike, exacting and strict fashion in the course of the report and election conferences what had been achieved in the preceding 5-year plan, revealed the roots and causes of the blunders and shortcomings which had been permitted and outlined the paths and measures to decisively overcome them.

The communists and all strata of the country's population participated actively in discussion of the MPRP Central Committee draft "Guidelines of the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1985-1990". Thousands of valuable proposals and desires were expresed. One out of every four adult inhabitants of the country participated in discussion of the party document. The party thus conducted a grand discussion with the people. And the people took up, supported and approved this discussion. This support and unanimous approval showed once again as convincingly as can be the Mongolian people's close cohesion around their party.

In the precongress days the press published a good deal of material on the delegates to the 19th MPRP Congress. What destinies, what amazing personalities -- masters of their work: stockbreeders, workers, party leaders, farmers, and figures of science and culture. Veterans made wise by experience and quite young persons. Those known to the whole country and those who have only just scaled their first heights in work. It is to them that the party has entrusted the solution of the main questions at the present congress.

A businesslike, creative, concerned atmosphere reigned from the very first minutes, the first moments of the congress' work in the MPR People's Great Hural Hall of Sessions. And we say precisely "work" because the tranquil businesslike tone set in the first minutes of the congress reminds us that the communists have assembled at their highest forum not for ostentatiously ceremonial reports. It is a question of real problems of the times and of how to find ways to resolve them. It is this professionalism and strictly analytical character of the present situation which is instilling in people's hearts the sense of a festive occasion.

The MPRP Central Committee report to the 19th Congress delivered by Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, was received with unflagging attention.

And it was not fortuitous that the first part of the report was devoted to the international situation. In the present highly complex and tense international situation, when there has been an abrupt exacerbation of the political climate and the threat of nuclear war is growing, the most urgent, pressing problem of the present day is that of war and peace. The foreign policy of the MPRP and the Mongolian state has always been aimed at strengthening peace and international security.

A most important direction of the foreign policy activity of the party and the state is utmost assistance to the cause of the strengthening of peace and security on the Asian continent. The idea advanced by the USSR concerning a comprehensive approach to the problem of ensuring security in Asia presupposes unification of Asian states' efforts and joint quest for ways to consolidate the foundations of peace in the region, J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, observed.

It serves as the basis of the solution of the continent's complex problems in the interests of the peoples inhabiting it. The proposal put forward by the MPR concerning the creation of a mechanism precluding the use of force in relations between Asian and Pacific states is consonant with this approach, the speaker emphasized.

The delegates to and guests of the forum warmly greeted the speech of V.I. Vorotnikov, head of the CPSU delegation, member of the CPSU Central Committee Politburo and chairman of the RSFSR Council of Ministers, who observed, inter alia, that the experience of Mongolia's development represents a significant value for the theory and practice of world socialism and the liberation movement. It is particularly relevant under current conditions, when, thanks to the evolved correlation of forces in the world, the possibilities of development along the path of socialist orientation have broadened.

Mongolian working people are following with close, concerned attention the progress of the forum of Mongolia's communists, at which the times in which we are living are being interpreted in party-minded fashion and a realistic, comprehensively considered action program organically combining the party's plans with the hopes and cherished aspirations of each individual is being formulated. They fully and undividedly support the MPRP Central Committee report, which is suffused with profound faith in the inexhaustible possiblities of the socialist system and the highest responsibility for the fate of the state and which speaks candidly about oversights and shortcomings and the reasons for such phenomena and about the lessons which need to be learned.

The conclusions and directions of the report and the atmosphere of the congress have engendered in everyone a desire to give all of his powers, knowledge, and experience for the economic and social development of his motherland.

Such is the spirit of the mass discussion of the report that has unfolded at meetings and in the labor collectives. Our country's working people are expressing complete support for and will with great enthusiasm successfully fulfill the decisions adopted by the 19th Party Congress.

...The 19th MPRP Congress continued on 29 May in the MPR People's Great Hural Hall of Sessions.

The morning session was chaired by Ts. Namsray, member of the MPRP Central Committee Politburo and secretary of the MPRP Central Committee.

The congress delegates continued the debate on the MPRP Central Committee report, the MPRP Central Auditing Commission report, and the report on the Guidelines of the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1985-1990.

Speeches of greetings were made at the congress by the heads of the delegations of the Bulgarian Communist Party, the Hungarian Socialist Workers Party [MSZMP], the Socialist Unity Party [SED] of Germany, the Cuban CP, and other fraternal parties.

Greeting its 19th Congress, our party has become even stronger organizationally, the unity of party and people has strengthened and the professionalism and creative nature of party work have risen, Comrade B. Altangerel, first secretary of the Ulaanbaatar City Party Committee, observed in his speech.

It went on to emphasize that our party's authority on the international scene had grown in the period under review. Our friendship and cooperation with the Soviet Union and the other socialist countries have been enriched by new forms and content. The party has struggled consistently for a strengthening of the unity of the communist movement and for ensuring peace and the security of the peoples.

The communists and all working people of our country value highly the results of the repeated meetings of Comrades J. Batmonh and M.S. Gorbachev and the signing of the long-term program of development of economic and scientific and technological cooperation between the MPR and the USSR for the period ending the year 2000 and regard them as the start of a new stage in the development of friendship and cooperation between the Mongolian and Soviet peoples.

Comrade B. Altangerel observed that the recent 27th CPSU Congress was an event of world-historical significance. The historic decisions of the congress and its spirit of innovation, professionalism and creative approach to problems, the CPSU's wealth of experience and its fidelity to the traditions of Bolshevism are for Mongolia's communists an inspiring example and inexhaustible source of knowledge and study.

Summing up the results of each stage of their development, the MPRP and the working people of the country are rightly proud of the friendship with the great Soviet people -- the dependable guarantee of the freedom and happiness and development and prosperity of our country -- and consider it their sacred duty to continue to preserve and strengthen this friendship.

Describing the successes and achievements of the people of Ulaanbaatar, he adduced certain facts and figures. The plan for the manufacture of industrial products in the Seventh 5-Year Plan was overfulfilled by more than 200 million tugriks, and the annual average production increase amounted to 8.4 percent. Labor productivity in industry sectors increased 13.1 percent, gross output increased 48 percent. Expenditure per tugrik of commodity output declined 2.9 percent, and products in the first quality category amounted to almost 30 percent of total certified output.

Currently Ulaanbaatar accounts for almost half of industrial production and produced national income.

Proceeding from the ideas of the congress, where a spirit of creativity and decisiveness reigns, we draw critical conclusions to the effect that if we had been able to fully mobilize the capital's industrial engineering and scientific-cultural potential, stimulate the human factor, and reorganize the style and methods of work, the successes which we scored would have been far greater.

The capital's party organization will continue to concentrate attention on the working people's conscious and enterprising participation in fulfillment of the decisions of the party congress and on the active formation in each inhabitant of the capital of such qualities as political culture, professional skill, a proprietory attitude toward work, collectivism, cultured behavior, and the affirmation of socialist morality in life and everyday affairs.

The recent 22d city party conference noted the successes of the communists and working people of Ulaanbaatar in creative labor. But together with this there was a critical, businesslike and frank discussion thereat of impending work and of the need for qualitative changes in work in accordance with the demands made by the party, the ways of removing shortcomings and oversights were signposted, and further tasks were determined.

Currently realization of the tasks put forward in Comrade J. Batmonh's speech at the city party conference is the main content of the activity of all party, state, and social organizations and each communist and worker of our capital. Active work has already begun on a reorganization of the style and methods of work of the city and district committees and primary party organizations and the state and social organizations, fulfillment of the plan targets pertaining to qualitative indicators, and an improvement in consumer service and provision of the city with amenities.

The industrial enterprises, construction organizations and service sphere establishments of the capital overfulfilled the plan of the first 5 months of this year for the manufacture of the gross product by 46 million tugriks, the plan for the commissioning of facilities was fulfilled also, over 20 important facilities were comprehensively improved and almost 8 million tugriks of raw material, intermediate products, fuel and energy were saved.

Unswervingly guided by the party's instructions that "the city of Ulaanbaatar should be an authority and set an example in all respects," the party organization and the communists and working people of the capital will with their selfless labor make a fitting contribution to realization of the party congress' decisions and strive for increasingly new labor successes, Comrade B. Altangerel said in conclusion.

Ts. Namhaynyambuu, shephered of the "Enh tayban" Agricultural Association of Dzabhan Aymag's Songino Somon and hero of labor of the MPR, began his speech at the forum of communists with a quote from a story by our great writer D. Natsagdorj "Son of the Old World": "...the Mongols thought there were no settlements beyond the distant mountains and that beyond the horizon was the end of the earth. They did not know what was going on in the world." Thus did the writer portray the fate of the people in prerevolutionary Mongolia. It is sufficient to compare this description with the present-day life and labor of the grandsons and great grandsons of the "son of the old world" in order to appreciate the contemporary reality of socialist Mongolia, he said. We rightly proudly link Mongolia's development, the miraculous changes which have occurred in Mongolians' life and our social and cultural progress with the fraternal friendship with the working people of the country of October, which our party and people established as of the first days of the revolutionary struggle. There is no one here who does not perceive the concern and attention of our party, which does everything in the name of the well-being of the people and the people of labor. We must respond to this paternal concern with conscientious work. And in this work the communists are obliged to march in the front ranks. it is thus that I understand my duty as a party member.

And in each of our workers there is altogether tremendous physical and intellectual potential. Unfortunately, the whole point is that this potential is not being used in full. I would like to speak critically about certain aspects of the use of human potential.

There is wise folk saying: "There is no firewood by the yurt of the sluggard, there is no food in the yurt of the glutton". The justice of these words is corroborated if only by the following example. Let us suppose that a stock breeder was lazy and drove his flock of sheep to pasture an hour later. But now the following figure: in 1 minute a sheep bends to the grass 12 times, consequently, in an hour each animal would have time to crop the grass 720 times. The losses from the delay are clear.

If we allow daily losses such as I have just spoken of, it transpires that the flock is without fodder for 360 hours or 15 whole days. And what is the loss of fat, meat, milk, and wool from this? The celebrated stockbreeder addressed this question to the auditorium.

Our party authorities and foremost workers also have to do a great deal to fundamentally reorganize the consciousness and style of work of the persons who, alluding to their ignorance and inability, are impeding the solution of a multitude of problems and a tremendous amount of work and becoming a serious obstacle in our forward progress.

The present progressive development of our country demands of us stockbreeders high responsibility, enterprise, strict discipline, and considerable knowledge.

A particular feature of animal husbandry labor is the fact that the results of the day's work can be seen in the evening. A process of the rejuvenation of the stockbreeders is under way. But the young ones as yet lack experience, conditioning, and skill.

The struggle for an increase in the numbers of livestock in respect of our country is the struggle for socialism. For this reason I believe that concern for the raising of an industrious, knowledgeable young stockbreeder replacement shift should be the concern of every citizen, Ts. Namhaynyambuu said.

Very often competitions among the stockbreeders which begin festively and with pomp die away in the middle, and by the end their results are sometimes not summed up even, owing to which the effectiveness of the competitions announced for short periods at the time of the acceptance and rearing of the young stock is lost.

Concluding his speech, Ts. Namhaynyambuu reported to the congress on the successes of the workers of his somon. The somon's working people ensured the favorable wintering of the livestck, raised 99.9 percent of the accepted young stock and fulfilled the plan quotas of the first half of the current year in all indicators 100 percent and more. This is our labor gift to the congress. Success must always grow. The party congress is setting us rural workers big tasks. And this means high duty and responsibility invested in us, the celebrated stockbreeder observed.

Comrade B. Eldeb-Ochir, first secretary of the Hobsgol Aymag Party Committee, then spoke.

The working people of our aymag -- repeated winners of nationwide socialist competiton -- are rightly proud of the successes they have scored. But we draw the conclusions from the fact that more could have been achieved had fuller use been made of all potential and possibilities, the speaker said.

It was ascertained at the aymag party conference that the urgent tasks in the sphere of animal husbandry are an improvement in the quality of work on the pasture fattening of the livestock and sanitation of the herd, the creation of a dependble fodder base, the performance of pedigree breeding and selection on a scientific basis and an increase in the productiveness of the livestock. The aymag's working people have embarked on accomplishing a turnabout in this work.

Ever increasing significance is attached to the demand for an enhancement of the leading role of the party authorities and an increase in the vanguard role of the communists. The Hobsgol Aymag Party Committee, B. Eldeb-Ochir emphasized, examines quarterly the question of the communists' performance of their vanguard role. The party members who have permitted a disruption of plan targets and unproductive losses of livestock, including young animals, acquire creative work assignments pertaining to an improvement in work and undertake to fulfill them and report on their fulfillment. This form of work affords them an opportunity to make improvements.

The speaker dwelt in detail on social problems of the countryside and expressed the idea that the opinion of the local party and state authorities be taken into consideration at the time of enrollment of applicants in the higher educational institutions who will work in rural localities. Comrade D. Batsuh, director of the 10-year School No 1 of Bayanhongor, noted in his speech at the congress the urgent need for an extension of the connection of tuition with production, the students' specific vocational guidance, the development in them of scientific and technical thinking and a strengthening of the coordinated joint activity of the schools, parents and labor collectives throughout teaching-educational work.

Frankly speaking, I cannot remain silent and not mention considerable shortcomings in the solution of these central problems. In my view, the quality of tuition is not growing quickly enough in the majority of our schools, and its present level far from corresponds to the demands of the times. The inculcation of industrial-labor skills in the students and the molding in them of moral, aesthetic and physical breeding and also a healthy way of life is organized unsatisfactorily in the schools. Big responsibility here lies with us educationalists who bear the high title of teacher, the director emphasized.

We do not yet have the right to say, he continued, that every hour and every minute of the classes in the school provide the student with in-depth knowledge and that tuition is closely combined with multifaceted educational educative work. Unfortunately, our teaching-educational work does not always awake in the students a love of knowledge and evoke an aspiration to master the best human qualities.

It would seem necessary both in the center and locally to create for each school a permanent industrial base and reorganize job instruction with regard for the nature of the future occupation. For the purpose of accomplishing the new tasks advanced by the party and the government pertaining to the training of our future replacement shift -- the masters of the country not only in this but also the coming century -- it is essential to raise to a qualitatively new level the close cooperation among the schools, public education authorities and parents and the labor collectives, the speaker observed.

Like all Mongolia's working people, we teachers and our students are profoundly disturbed and worried by the fact that the situation today on our abundant, noble planet and in a vast part thereof, Asia, remains complex and tense through the fault of the aggressive actions of American imperialism and other forces of war and violence. I believe that the conflagration of nuclear war must not be kindled on our planet and that the human race must not perish. I would like every citizen of the Asian continent to make his contribution to the struggle against the threat of war and for him to live a peaceful, happy life, the rural teacher said in conclusion.

Comrade Ts. Oold, first secretary of the Tob Aymag Party Committee, observed that the 19th MPRP Congress is a political event of exceptional importance opening a new page in the history of our party and people. The party Central Committee report to the 19th congress made from Marxist-Leninist standpoints an in-depth analysis of the country's domestic life and the current international situation and clearly determined the tasks of our motherland's further development. The "Guidelines of the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1986-1990" is a document wholly and completely aimed at an acceleration of our country's development and an unswerving rise in the material well-being and cultural level of the Mongolian people, Ts. Oold said.

The years that have elapsed were years of the utmost intensification and development of our friendship and cooperation with the fraternal communist and workers parties, primarily with the CPSU and the heroic Soviet people.

The meeting of Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee and chairman of the MPR People's Great Hural Presidium, with Comrade M.S. Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, and their signing of the long-term program of economic and scientific and technological cooperation between our two countries for period up to the year 2000 are of exceptional significance for an acceleration of the development and the prosperity of our motherland and for a further rise in the people's well-being, the speaker emphasized.

The primary party organizations are the brain and guiding and directing force of the labor collectives. Yet the primary party organizations at times avoid tackling central questions of man's upbringing and involve themselves in trifling economic work, contenting themselves merely with performing organizational-educational work among the most assertive part of the population This cannot continue. The big opportunities of use of the human factor are revealed only in the event of the party organizations performing specific ideological-educational work among persons with flaws in their upbringing and among violators of plan discipline.

Slowness in work, a hackneyed way of thinking, and outdated methods and style of work are hampering us considerably. A disinclination to tackle complex and acute questions and to overinsure oneself are characteristic of many workers of all levels. This is connected primarily with an unwarranted increase in the number of state committees, ministries, and departments, which are engaged in the elaboration of a variety of rules, instructions, and orders tying people hand and foot and which are thereby leading to the workers' stereotyped thinking, fettering initiative and independent work and blunting the will, he said.

The report of the Credentials Commission to the 19th MPRP Congress was delivered by its chairman G. Chingel.

The congress delegates fully and unanimously approve the ideas and conclusions contained in the "MPRP Central Committee Report to the 19th Party Congress and Subsequent Tasks" delivered by Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee. The report collated the successes and achievements of the Mongolian people in building the socialist society, summed up the result of the policy course and practical activity of the MPRP Central Committee, made a truly party-minded and scrupulous analysis of topical problems and objectively revealed existing shortcomings and indicated the ways and methods of eradicating them. This congress document advanced big new tasks of the country's economic and social development for the future, he said.

The highest forum of our communists -- the 19th MPRP Congress -- is a new step forward in realization of the Fourth MPRP Program and completion of the creation in the MPR of the material-technical base of socialism. The report meetings of the primary party organizations and the aymag and city party conferences were an inseparable component of the preparatory work which preceded the 19th Party Congress. The party meetings and conferences, which were held in an atmosphere of genuine practical efficiency, critically analyzed the successes that had been scored and advanced new tasks for the party, state, industrial, and cultural organizations.

The delegates to the party conferences observed that the historic decisions of the 27th CPSU Congress heartened the communists and all working people of our country and inspired them to new accomplishments. At the report meetings and party conferences the communists discussed the draft "Guidelines of the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1985-1990," which has been submitted for examination by the congress. In the course of discussion of the draft the MPRP members and candidates unanimously supported the party's socioeconomic policy and expressed a readiness to implement it in full.

The Credentials Commission reports to the congress that the elections of delegates to the 19th MPRP Congress held at the aymag and city party conferences were conducted strictly in accordance with the provisions of the party rules, the procedure established by the Central Committee and the rules governing elections to the party's executive bodies. Of the 841 delegates to this congress, 667 or 79.3 percent have been elected for the first time. The Credentials Commission verified the authority of all delegates and recognized them as valid and proposed that the credentials be presented.

The delegates elected to the 19th MPRP Congress are communists who have won high authority among their party comrades by their work and their whole life, the speaker observed. Among the congress delegates are P. Togtoh, member of the MPRP since 1922, friend and associate of Commander in Chief Sukhe-Bator and partisan of the people's revolution, L. Dandar, legendary commander and hero of the MPR, the celebrated shepherd S. Tsogtgerel, winner of the state prize, cosmonaut J. Gurragchaa, hero of the MPR and hero of the Soviet Union, G. Haltarhuu, worker at the capital's meat-canning works and hero of labor of the MPR, D. Gonchigsumlaa, milker of the "Ornol" Agricultural Association of Arhangay Aymag's Oldziyt Somon and hero of labor of the MPR, heroes of labor of the MPR G. Lodoyhuu, N. Namchig and U. Avarzed, experienced organizers of agricultural production, and other communists, the speaker observed.

At the aymag and city party conferences the congress delegates unanimously elected Comrade J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, the MPRP Central Committee Politburo members and candidates and the party Central Committee secretaries.

The congress delegates represent the working class, cooperative herdsmen, and working intelligentsia. Some 63 percent of the delegates are workers employed in the material production sphere. Some 258 communists, which constitutes almost one-third of the delegates, are representatives of our glorious working class and 224 delegates or 26.6 percent work in agricultural production -- an important sector of the country's national economy.

Stockbreeders, farmers, agricultural specialists, and skilled organizers of association and state farm production celebrated throughout the country for their contribution to realization of the Target Program of the Development of Agriculture and Improvement of the Population's Food Supply have been elected to the congress. They include 116 republic and aymag stockbreeder record-setters. Among the congress delegates are 100 holders of Revolutionary Youth League passes and vocational-technical school graduates.

Dozens of communists were elected to the congress who are giving their knowledge and powers to the important cause of application in production of the achievements of modern science, technology and new tecniques, the mechanization of laborious processes, the production of new products, and improvements of the economic mechanism. Among them are 125 engineers, architects, designers and economists and 36 enterprise and industrial organization managers. Some 64 delegates are people working in science, culture and art, health care and public education. Among the delegates are 10 members and corresponding members of the MPR Academy of Sciences and 77 doctors and candidates of sciences.

Veterans of the revolutionary struggle and the party are participating in the congress as delegates. Their wealth of experience of labor and life and tremendous industriousness and high-mindedness are the pride of our party and people and serve the younger generation as a model of selfless struggle for the cause of socialism.

In the composition of the congress delegates there are 218 party workers, including 49 secretaries in charge of aymag and city party committee departments and sectors, and 118 primary party organization secretaries and party group organizers. These are communists who are successfully tackling the crucial and honorable tasks of consolidation of the party's ties to the people, consistent implementation of party policy, perfection of the style and methods of party work and its increased efficiency.

Workers of state authorities, the unions and the Revolutionary Youth League are represented by 103 delegates, and 65.6 percent of delegates are members of the MPR People's Great Hural and the local assemblies.

There are at the congress 173 women or 20.6 percent of the delegates. This testifies to the constant growth of the role of women in the country's sociopolitical life. Communists of the armed forces -- generals, officers, warrant officers, and sergeants -- are participating in the congress.

In the composition of the congress delegates are representatives of communists of different generations. The youngest delegate is 23 years old, the oldest 97. Delegates aged 40 and under constitute 33.5 percent (considerably more than at the preceding congress), delegates aged 41 to 50 some 44.1 percent, from 51 to 60 some 17.6 percent and aged 60 and older 4.8 percent.

In terms of length of party service the delegates are broken down thus: there are 7 delegates who joined party in the period 1921-1940, 139 in 1941-1960, 188 in 1961-1970, 175 in 1971-1975, 198 in 1976-1980 and 134 since 1981. Some 86.6 percent of the delegates have higher and secondary education.

The congress delegates represent all nationalities of the country, including 667 Khalkha and 174 representatives of other nationalities.

Some 90 percent of congress delegates have government awards. They include 2 heroes of the MPR, 31 heroes of labor of the MPR, 50 MPR state prize winners and distinguished persons.

The entire work of this congress is striking testimony to the unity and cohesion of our party's ranks. The strengthening of the party's ties to the people's masses is an expression of the working people's tremendous trust in their party. The speaker expressed the firm confidence that the Mongolian people would score big successes in implementation of the fundamentally important directions of the 19th congress of their party -- their combat vanguard, G. Chingel said.

The congress continues.

Todorov Addresses Congress

AU041406 Sofia RABOTNICHESKO DELO in Bulgarian 30 May 86 p 4

[Greetings address of the BCP Central Committee to the 19th Congress of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party, delivered by Stanko Todorov, Politburo member of the BCP Central Committee, in Ulaanbaatar on 19 May]

[Text] Esteemed Comrade Batmonh, dear comrades, I am glad to fulfill the assignment of the BCP Central Committee and of Comrade Todor Zhivkov, in person, and most sincerely to greet you, representatives of the glorious Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party who have gathered for their 19th congress, as well as to convey the ardent greetings and wishes of the communists and working people in the People's Republic of Bulgaria.

The BCP delegation follows with attention and friendly sympathy the work of your congress. The accountability report of the MPRP Central Committee, read by Jambyn Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, presents a thorough Marxist-Leninist evaluation of the great and constructive work accomplished by your party during the period under review, of the working deeds of the Mongolian people during this period. The great, but realistic, tasks which the MPRP has mapped out for the coming 5-Year Plan period are filled with optimism and have deeply impressed us.

Comrades, we have travelled thousands of kilometers in order to participate in the work of the highest-ranking forum of the Mongolian communists in order to express our respect for the party of Sukhe Bator, which 65 years ago, with the invaluable assistance of the young Soviet Republic, led the heroic struggle of the Mongolian people for social and national liberation to a victorious end.

Following the victory of the people's revolution, the Mongolian people, under the leadership of their militant vanguard, the MPRP, and with the comprehensive assistance and support of the Soviet Union, as well as, later, with the support of the other socialist community member-countries, achieved great successes in socialist construction.

The Mongolian people today are building up the material-technical base of socialism in a selfless spirit. The country's economic potential is unrelentingly growing, the prosperity and the working people's cultural standards are improving.

We are convinced that, under the skilled leadership of the MPRP Central Committee, and of Comrade Jambyn Batmonh, the working people in the MPR will transform the plans mapped out by your 19th Congress into constructive energy and into creative deeds.

Conrades, for us, Bulgarian communists, the present year has been a year of assessment. Only 2 months ago the 13th BCP Congress ended its work in Sofia. With satisfaction and pride we assessed the great successes achieved by the working people in socialist Bulgaria in all fields of life. Within the last 30 years only, following the 1956 April plenum of the BCP Central Committee, the national income in our country increased 8 times, while social labor productivity increased 8.4 times. The tasks of the Eighth 5-Year Plan period were implemented according to their basic indexes, despite the difficulties emerging from the prolonged drought, from the complexity of the problems we were coping with, as well as from some shortcomings of ours.

The congress mapped out the chief strategic tasks of our socioeconomic development during the period up to 1990 and, on a long-term basis, up to 2000. The congress mapped out a course of accelerated implementation of the socialist system, and on this basis, of socialist democracy, and of the increasing satisfaction of the working people's comprehensive needs.

The congresses of our two parties took place following the 27th CPSU Congress, the congress of Lenin's glorious party. With its realistic approach to problems, with its businesslike and innovative spirit, with its great ideological-political potential, the 27th CPSU Congress became part of the Soviet Union's history and asserted itself as the major political event which attracted the attention of the owrld public. The CPSU congress is a source of creative inspiration and optimism for the fraternal communist and workers parties.

Comrades, the friendship between the Bulgarian and Mongolian peoples goes far back to the past, but it has developed and been consolidated, it has been transformed into an indissoluble friendship under the conditions of socialism.

The mutual relations and cooperation between the BCP and the MPRP are strengthening, they are built upon the principles of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism. The Long-Term Program of Economic and Scientific-Technical Cooperation, signed in Ulaanbataar last year between Comrades Todor Zhivkov and Jambyn Batmonh, represents a specific expression of our mutual aspiration to continue to develop relations between our two countries in the future too.

The accomplishment of the new tasks that are now facing us demands that we should take advantage of the tremendous opportunities for cooperation among the socialist community member-countries, to develop socialist economic integration on a bilateral and multilateral basis.

Comrades, the Bulgarian communists and all Bulgarian people observe with deep concern and growing anxiety the storm clouds looming over our beautiful planet. The arms race which is pursued thanks to American imperialism and warmongering militarism, the efforts of these forces to spread this arms race and extend it to outer space, as well as the barbaric, aggressive actions against sovereign states intensify the danger of a thermonuclear war. During this year, which the United Nations has declared The Year of Peace, the peoples' determination to defend peace has grown. The great Soviet Union is standing at the head of this noble aspiration for peace and understanding. The January 1986 declaration issued by Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, the decisions of the 27th CPSU Congress, the realistic and deeply humanitarian proposals of the Soviet Government represent an extensive and comprehensive peace program, which guarantees for mankind the opportunity of entering the 21st century without nuclear and other mass destruction weapons.

Socialist Bulgaria will continue to wage an active and consistent peace-loving foreign policy, it will continue to act energetically for the consolidation of the cause of peace in the Balkans, in Europe, and throughout the world. Our party and the Bulgarian people support the active efforts of the MPR party and state leadership on the international scene, as well as their constructive actions for the establishment of peace and security in Asia, in the Pacific, and all over the world.

Comrades, it was over 60 years ago, that Sukhe Bator, the leader of the Mongolian people's revolution, pronounced these prophetic words: "The working masses in Mongolia will soon proceed along the path of education and culture, they will join the family of the working peasants." The MPR today has long since abandoned poverty and illiteracy, it is confidently building up the material-technical base of socialism, and the Mongolian people are an equal member of the socialist community.

With all our hearts we wish you, dear comrades, and all communists, all the Mongolian people, success in implementing the decisions that will be adopted by your 19th MPRP Congress.

May the friendship and cooperation among our parties, countries, and peoples strengthen and be consolidated.

May peace and communism live in eternity!

SRV's Chu Huy Man Speaks

OW010948 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 30 May 86

["Text" of 29 May speech by Chu Huy Man, member of the Political Bureau of the CPV Central Committee, vice chairman of the SRV State Council, and head of the CPV delegation to the 19th MPRP Congress -- read by announcer]

[Text] Comrade Jambyn Batmonh, Presidium members, and comrades: On behalf of the CPV Central Committee and the Vietnamese working class and people, our delegation is very pleased to convey its warmest greetings to the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party Central Committee, the delegates to the congress, and, through you comrades, to the communists and the working class and people of fraternal Mongolia, on the occasion of the 19th congress of the glorious MPRP.

Your congress, which is being held in 1986, a year with momentous historic anniversaries -- the 65th MPRP founding anniversary and the 65th anniversary of the victory day of the Mongolian Revolution, is an event of great influence on Mongolian political life. In this congress the political report presented by Comrade Jambyn Batmonh, secretary general of the MPRP Central Committee, is and extremely important document, which brings out the very great achievements and profoundly reviews the rich experiences in socialist construction in Mongolia in years past and which sets guidelines and tasks for great, highly promising developments in the country in the time to come.

Over the past 65 years, moving along the path to certain victory charted by the Great Russian October Revolution under the leadership of the glorious MPRP, founded and forged by Comrades Sukhe Bator and Choibalsan, outstanding Mongolian sons, developing their stalwart revoluntionary traditions, using their valiant labor and creative talents, and enjoying the great assistance from and all-round cooperation with the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries, the Mongolian people have scored initial achievments in their successful great leap forward, in advancing from the feudalist regime directly to socialism, turning backward Mongolia into a socialist country with a developed agriculture and industry, and advanced culture and education, and an ever-improved material and spiritual life of the people.

Those brilliant achievements, together with the Leninist foreign policy of peace of the party and state of the People's Republic of Mongolia, have considerably contributed to enhancing the strength of the socialist community and consolidating peace and security in Asia, and to the world peoples' common struggle for peace, national independence, democracy, and social progress. We are firmly convinced that in the light of the resolutions of this congress, your party will bring into full play its comprehensive strength and encourage the Mongolian people to march forward to new and still greater victories.

The CPV is very pleased to note that nowadays, the socialist system, with the Soviet Union as the pillar, is stronger than ever before. The recent 27th CPSU Congress was an event of momentous historic significance not only for the Soviet Union, but also for the entire socialist community, for the international communist and workers' movement, and for all forces struggling for peace and progress.

Mankind is facing an unprecedented danger of an obliterating nuclear catastrophe engendered by imperialism. Therefore the struggle for peace is the primary task of all world peoples.

We fully support the peace initiatives of the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries, particularly the 15 January 1986 statement by Comrade Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, and the subsequent Soviet initiatives designed to curb the arms race, totally remove the danger of a nuclear war, and promote broad world cooperation with a view to using the resulting great source of energy for the sake of man's happy life.

At present, the bellicose militarist forces led by the U.S. imperialists are striving to materialize their scheme of turning Asia-Pacific into an area of political and military confrontation. In this situation, we welcome and fully support the 23 April 1986 statement of the Soviet Government on the situation in the Asia-Pacific region and the initiative of the MPR on the signing of a treaty of nonaggression and nonuse of force in relations among the countries of Asia and the Pacific, with a view to maintaining peace and security of the nations in the region and contributing to the consolidation of peace and security all over the world.

The Vietnamese people, closely united with the people of fraternal Laos and Cambodia, resolutely struggle against all insidous schemes of intervention and sabotage of the imperialists and big-nation hegemonists against the Indochinese and Southeast Asian countries. As in the past, the three Indochinese people persistently struggle for a peaceful, stable, friendly, and cooperative Southeast Asia.

We fully support the just struggle of the peoples of Asia, Africa, and Latin America for their independence, freedom, and national sovereignty, and resolutely condemn the very dangerous schemes and acts of intervention and sabotage of the U.S. imperialists and reactionary forces, their henchmen.

Dear comrades, after our country's total liberation, our Fourth and Fifth Congresses mapped out common policies for economic development and the dual strategic tasks of building socialism and defending the socialist fatherland.

Enjoying the great and efficient assistance from the Soviet Union, Mongolia, and other fraternal socialist countries as well as the sympathy and wide support from world progressive people, the Vietnamese people have scored and are scoring important successes in their glorious revolutionary undertaking. At present, we are devoting our efforts to making preparations for our Sixth Party Congress. The congress will assess the overall situation in the past and set objectives for ecosocial developments for the 1986-90 period and guidelines for subsequent years in order to continue to advance the Vietnamese people's revolutionary undertaking.

On this occasion, we wish to express once again the sincere gratitude of the CPV and the Vietnamese people to the MPRP and the Mongolian fraternal people for their assistance in the spirit of socialist internationalism in Vietnam's past struggle for independence and freedom as well as in its present nation-building and national defense.

May the 19th MPRP Congress be crowned with success.

May the fraternal friendship, militant solidarity, and all-round cooperation between the two parties and peoples of Vietnam and Mongolia be ever consolidated and developed.

SED'S Lange Speaks

AU041327 East Berlin NEUES DEUTSCHLAND in German 30 May 86 p 6

[Text] On Thursday [29 May] the leader of the SED Central Commitee delegation Inge Lange, candidate member of the Politburo and secretary of the SED Central Committee, conveyed the fraternal militant greetings of the SED Central Committee and of its General Secretary Erich Honecker to the 19th MPRP Congress.

We are deeply impressed by the positive balance sheet that it was possible to draw up in the 65th year of the victory of the Mongolian people's revolution, Inge Lange stated. The people of the Mongolian People's Republic have accomplished truly great achievements under the leadership of their Marxist-Leninist vanguard. In only a few decades, profound backwardness was overcome and Mongolia was transformed into a country which is successfully building socialism and in which everything serves the well-being of man. Lenin's suggestions on the possibility of socialist construction while bypassing capitalism have proved to be correct in the country's social practice.

A Constructive Policy for Peace in Asia

The head of the SED delegation continued: We completely understand your pride in the socialist MPR when you say, quoting your national poet Nazagdorsh: "This is the homeland where I was born, the beautiful Mongolian country."

Today's Mongolia is an internationally respected socialist state. It is with full reason that it also raises its voice and with construction proposals comes out for a secure peace in Asia and in the world at large. The international situation has been further dangerously exacerbated as a result of the imperialist arms drive and confrontation course. The U.S. administration and its closest NATO allies, including the FRG, are stepping up the arms race and are now also working on the militarization of outer space. Peace has not become safer but more shaky as a result of this.

Our party welcomes and supports the path, pointed out by the Soviet Union, toward a radical improvement of the international situation, Inge Lange stressed. Mikhail Gorbachev's proposals of 15 January this year, the comprehensive peace program of the 27th CPSU Congress and the subsequent initiatives are showing clearcut prospects for a life of mutally guaranteed security without nuclear weapons. It is our conviction that they are acceptable to all states and peoples.

In a firm alliance with the Soviet Union and the other socialist fraternal countries the GDR will in the future use all its strength to implement the peace policy of the socialist community and will make an active contribution to ensure that war will never again emanate from German soil, but only peace.

The further consolidation of the friendship and cooperation with the Mongolian fraternal people is very close to the hearts of the communists and GDR people, the speaker stressed. Thus we are also fulfilling a legacy of Ernst Thaelmann, the great son of the German workers class, whose 100th birthday we commemorated a few weeks ago.

Cooperation for the Benefit of Both People

Unforgotten and dear to us is such proof of class affinity as the telegram of the Ninth MPRP Congress in 1934 addressed to Ernst Thaelmann which says that one day the world will be free from aggression and fascist oppression. All this has become a reality in one part of the world.

Inge Lange expressed appreciation that today the Bornuur state farm was named for Ernst Thaelmann. The working people of this state farm have most closely linked the competition in preparation for the 19th MPRP Congress with honoring Ernst Thaelmann and have thus shown a fine example of our friendship and affinity over thousands of kilometers.

The SED delegation leader gave the assurance that the SED and the GDR will also in the future do all they can to constantly deepen the cooperation for the benefit of the two peoples and to further develop it in a planned manner in keeping with the requirements of the time. This agrees with the assignment of the 11th SED Congress.

A few weeks ago, Inge Lange reported, the 11th SED Congress adopted decisions that usher in a new stage in fashioning the developed socialist society in the GDR. By way of comprehensive intensification, the combination of science and production, we shall ensure the further dynamic performance increase of our national economy and on this basis continue the proven course of the unity of economic and social policy, she said.

The GDR People Will Always Live Up to Their Responsibility

The results of the party congress met with the full approval of the country's citizens. They touched off numerous new and powerful initiatives in all sectors.

It was possible up to the end of April to boost by 4.1 percent the national income produced this year, compared with the same period last year, and to increase labor productivity by 8.6 percent on the basis of net output. A total of 68,290 apartments were either built or modernized. Thus the living conditions of 205,000 citizens were improved in four months time.

Our people realize the importance of a strong socialism for the preservation of peace, the speaker stated. The slogan "My work place is my combat station for peace" is an expression of the active avowal of millions. In close collaboration with the USSR and the other fraternal countries, the GDR people will always live up to their responsibility in the struggle for peace and socialism.

In conclusion, Inge Lange expressed the conviction that the 195th MPRP Congress will usher in a new important stage in the socialist building of th MPR. She wished all MPR communists and working people great success in implementing its decisions.

Cuban Delegation Head

FL291638 Havana Radio Reloj Network in Spanish 1402 GMT 29 May 86

[Text] Upon speaking today at the 19th MPRP Congress, Julio Camacho Aguilera, member of the Communist Party of Cuba Politburo, underscored the depth and critical spirit with which the Mongolian communists are analyzing the completion of their tasks. The head of the Cuban delegation added that those qualities characterize the main report as well as the delegates' speeches.

Camacho Aguilera called the perspective plan presented at the MPRP Congress fundamental and profoundly humanist for focusing on a greater level of material, cultural, and social development for mankind. Socialist countries need peace for their development and well-being and this is being analyzed because of irresponsible U.S. policy, said Camacho Aguilera.

Later in his speech, Camacho Aguilera said powerful forces dedicating themselves to peace and headed by the USSR are confronting the U.S. arms race which the United States is trying to transfer to space.

The Politburo member said the patriots of Nicragua, El Salvador, and Chile are struggling for peace as well as the combatants of Angola, Namibia, Western Sahara, and Palestine, and the peoples of South Africa, Afghanistan,and Cambodia. The head of the Cuban delegation said that Third World countries demand an end to the arms race so that those resources can be dedicated to development.

Camacho Aguilera denounced the constant U.S. threats of aggression against our country but he said that the imperialists know the price they would pay for an act of aggression [aventura] in Cuba.

Foreign Minister Dugersuren

OW310548 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1333 GMT 29 May 86

[Text] [Passage indistinct] open a qualitatively new stage in the formulation and solution of strategic tasks for increasing the economic and scientific and technical potential of world socialism. The realization of this strategy will to a great extent strengthen the material prerequisites for achieving the influence of socialism on the course of world events. This was said by M. Dugersuren, MPR minister of foreign affairs.

Addressing the MPRP Congress he said it was natural that the tasks of further developing socialist construction in our country being worked out at the current congress blend organically with the new historically significant process.

This corresponds with the paramount concern of the MPRP and our government for the steady consolidation of the alliance, fraternal friendship, and all-round cooperation with the countries of the socialist community and in every way possible to help strengthen the economic potential of socialism andd the cohesion of the fraternal countries on the basis of socialist internationalism.

The congress delegate further emphasized: Our tasks, both nationally and internationally, increase in light of the historic plans of the socialist community. It lies primarily in the most effective use of all favorable opportunities created by cooperation with the fraternal countries for accelerating the ecnomic and social development of our country. It is also related to prospects for a growth in our material participation in the development of socialist economic integration and with our obligation under agreements and programs.

All of this demands increased efficiency of our economic and organizational activities, and improvement in the work of all departments responsible for foreign ties in the political, economic, scientific and technical, and other spheres. It follows that the main responsibility of these departments, including the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, lies in ensuring work that is full of initiative and good coordination in the spheres of economic and scientific and technical cooperation with the Soviet Union and other socialist countries.

In the present responsible period the Mongolian minister continued, when the survival of mankind is at stake, the Soviet Union and other socialist community countries are purposefully and systematically strengthening the political and economic foundations of world coexistence and consolidating the decisive components of the universal and comprehensive system of international security.

At the same time they are directing efforts toward ridding mankind of the nuclear threat and other kinds of weapons of mass destruction before the end of this century, preserving peace in space, and irreversibly decreasing the military and technical level of strategic parity.

It is more than symbolic that the Soviet Union began the UN-sponsored International Peace Year by proposing precisely such a program. This realistic and deeply considered initiative is finding growing support from the world's public and all states interested in strengthening peace and security. The new moratorium on nuclear explosions until 6 August this year announced by Comrade M.S. Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, is a fresh and convincing example of the Soviet State's determination to achieve implementation of nuclear disarmament aims.

The MPR minister of foreign affairs recalled that the achievement of a move toward detente and cooperation depends on a responsible approach from all states, primarily the major powers, to international affairs and their sober consideration of the realities of the contemporary world. At the same time the militarist and revanchist forces in the leading capitalist countries, first of all the extreme rightist forces in the U.S. administration, continue the senseless policy of pressure and stubbornly cling to the illusory aim of turning back the forward movement of development in the world. They oppose any positive change, striving to undermine the favorable preconditions that arose following the Soviet-U.S. summit meeting. Anti-Sovietism and anticommunism have become -- as was the case with the Nazis -- the main weapon of their militaristic propaganda. The campaign of provocations started by the United States and some other capitalist countries' ruling circles in the connection with the accident at the nuclear powerplant in the Soviet Union, has shown again all the hypocrisy and the inhumane nature of imperialistic politics.

Washington, said M. Dugersuren, is conducting a policy of military superiority, neoglobalism, and state terrorism everywhere; is striving to mobilize under its auspices the economic, scientific, and technical potentials of its allies for the material preparations for war, particularly in the realization of the adventurist plan for militarizing space; is continuing nuclear tests against the wishes of peace-loving community; is openly heading for the violation of international agreements on limiting nuclear missile weapons; is beginning the production and deployment of extremely dangerous chemical weapons; is intensifying the undeclared war against DRA, the Nicaraguan republic and other progressive states; has committed open aggression against Libya; and is striving to undermine the United Nations as an important tool for the maintenance of peace and international cooperation.

The United States is entering into a "strategic" alliance with racist and Zionist forces and inspiring them to schemes against the freedoms and independence of peoples. The world community has strongly condemned, as an example of this kind of sinister plot, the recent bandit attacks undertaken by the Pretoria regime against Botswana, Zambia, and Zimbabwe and also the new intrusion of its troops into Angolan territory. It says the same about Israeli expansionist actions against Lebanon and other Arab countries.

In the light of what has been said above, said M. Dugersuren, the initiative for establishing provisions for a comprehensive system of international security outlined at the 27th CPSU Congress is acquiring great significance. The creation of such a system is vitally needed for all the regions in the world including the Asia-Pacific region.

Efforts are being made to turn this area into another advanced region of confrontation with socialism and the forces of national liberation and social progress. The nuclear aspect of military preparations by militaristic and revanchist forces of two leading centers of world imperialism -- the United States and Japan -- is constantly growing.

It is clear that the Soviet proposal to eliminate all types of mass annihilation weapons by the year 2000 is of utmost, immediate importance for improving the atmosphere in the region. The Soviet Government statement of 23 April this year on the question of consolidating peace and developing cooperation in the Asia-Pacific region is an important step toward achieving a comprehensive approach to problems there.

Of great importance in consolidating the cause of peace and security in Asia and Oceania, said Gudersuren, are the SRV, RPK, LPDR, DPRK, and DRA initiatives aimed at overcoming tensions and crisis situations and establishing zones of peace and cooperation in vitally important parts of the region.

The declaration on contributing to universal peace and cooperation,the 10 principles of the Bandung Conference of heads of states and governments of Asian and African countries in 1955 and again confirmed by representatives of over 80 states on two continents in 1985 have become very topical in the present situation.

The proposals for signing a convention of mutual nonaggression and nonuse of force in relations between Asian and Pacific region states outlined at the (18th) MPRP Congress are now acquiring greater significance. A considerable amount of work has been done to promote its ideas. The MPR intends to continue to work jointly with holders of the same views on the realization of its proposals coordinating it with all the contructive initiatives of other states, said the MPR foreign affairs minister.

He said: Current peaceful coexistence, mutual relations, and the interdependence of states and peoples in the field of equal and constructive cooperation are becoming the only and exclusive alternative in international relations. Under these conditions, the human factor, namely those of reason, just morality, realistic thinking, and a sense of self-preservation are acquiring greater significance in world affairs. The human factor finds its greatest expression in the public's antimilitary and antinuclear movement.

The MPR views contributing to the growth of this movement in the Asia-Pacific region as its most important task. This problem was discussed by SRV, PRK DPRK, LPDR, USSR, and MPR representatives of their parliaments at the consultative meeting here in Ulaanbaatar at the end of March this year.

In view of the unanimous views at the meeting, the MPR will make efforts to conduct dialogue and consultations with parliamentarians of Asian and Pacific Ocean region countries on the question of uniting efforts to intensify the struggle for peace and security, M. Dugersuren said.

The potentials of goodwill and political methods for solving problems are closely connected with the growth of peace and progressive forces. A decisive factor here is the growing economic and defensive power of the socialist community. The role of the UN as a unique peace forum and important tool for maintaining peace and international cooperation is growing.

He continued: The MPR sees in the peace program outlined at the 27th CPSU Congress, a common platform for all of the peace-loving and democratic forces in the struggle for the destinies of the current future generations. It considers its international duty to contribute in every way to the realization of the initiatives of truly historic significance contained in the program.

As Comrade J. Batmonh had said, socialism's foreign policy is based on the right of states and people to live in peace and optimism; and faith in mankind's logic is in its nature. This quality has been reflected in the UN declaration on the right of peoples to peace adopted in 1984 on the basis of the MPR initiative. It says that the realization of this sacred right of the people requires that state policies are oriented toward removing the threat of war, and first of all nuclear war, for the exclusion of the use of force in inter-state relations, M. Dugersuren said.

Struggling for a lasting peace, for the triumph of the cause of democracy and socialism, the MPR will actively implement the foreign policy course outlined at the 19th Congress in precisely that key. Our communists and all Mongolian people fully support this course which reflects both the task for consolidating universal peace and socialist construction in the country.

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, May 29: Addressing the second-day debate of the 19th Congress of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party today, head of the PUWP delegation Kazimierz Barcikowski spoke about ties linking both parties and peoples.

The head of the Polish delegation said the PUWP highly assessed the state of Polish-Mongolian cooperation in all areas and wished to strengthen and develop it. Close contacts of both parties create a lasting base for cooperation in economy, culture and science, and in the social sphere, he said.

RCP Greetings Message

AU031221 Bucharest SCINTEIA in Romanian 30 May 86 p 7

["The greetings of the RCP Central Committee" presented to the 19th Congress of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party by the head of the Romanian delegation, Maria Ghitulica, candidate member of the Political Executive Committee and secretary of the RCP Central Committee, in Ulaanbaatar on 29 May]

[Text] On behalf of the Romanian Communist Party [RCP] and its secretary general, Comrade Nicolae Ceausescu, we extend to the delegates of the 19th Congress of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party, to all the communists, and the friendly Mongolian people a warm, revolutionary salute and best wishes for success in the congress proceedings.

The forum of the Mongolian communists is taking place in the year when the 65th anniversary of the founding of the MPRP and the victory of the people's revolution in Mongolia are being celebrated. Under the party leadership, the Mongolian working people have achieved deep revolutionary changes in their society and ensured the passage to building a new life on the road of socialism as close friends. We rejoice in the great progress made in the development of your industry, agriculture, science, and culture and in the general improvement in material and cultural well-being, and from the bottom of our hearts, we extend to the communists and the Mongolian working people warm greetings and wishes for newer and greater successes in all their activity of building socialism.

Your party's congress gives us particular pleasure to recall with satisfaction the good relations established between the RCP and the MPRP and between the Romanian and Mongolian people, relations which developed steadily in economic, political, scientific-cultural, and other fields of activity in the spirit of esteem and mutual respect and in accordance with the treaty of friendship and cooperation between Romania and Mongolia. We firmly believe that, through joint efforts, these friendly relations and the fruitful Romanian-Mongolian cooperation and collaboration will develop more strongly in the future, in the interest of building the new social order in our countries and the general cause of socialism and peace.

The Romanian communists and all the Romanian people recently celebrated, in an atmosphere of close unity and creative work, the 65th anniversary of the founding of the RCP — an event of particular, historical importance, which represented a new stage in the workers, revolutionary movement in Romania, in the struggle for social justice and national liberation and for creating a new and dignified life. In a short historical period — of only 40 years of socialist construction -- Romania, has been transformed from an agrarian country, with a weak industry and backward agriculture, into an industrial-agrarian country, with a strong and modern industry and a socialist agriculture in full progress.

Today, the Romanian people, closely united around the RCP and its secretary general, Comrade Nicolae Ceausescu, are carrying out intensive activity to implement the decisions of th 13th RCP congress and the Eighth 5-Year Plan, whose strategic objective is Romania's moving on from the stage of a developing country to the superior stage of an averagely-developed country.

Our party believes that the results attained by each socialist country in its socioeconomic development make a direct contribution to increasing the force and prestige of socialism throughout the world.

The international situation continues to be very serious and one can say that it has worsened as a result of the continuation of the arms race, particularly the nuclear arms race, the imperialist policy of force and interference in other countries' domestic affairs, and the increasing number of military conflicts. All these increase the danger of a world war, which would inevitably turn into a nuclear war and would lead to the elimination of condition for life itself on our planet. That is why the RCP believes that the fundamental problem of our times is to do everything possible to safeguard peace, to halt the arms race and pass to concrete measures for disarmament, primarily nuclear disarmament, and to defend the sacred right of peoples to a free and dignified life and to peace. We speak out for the achievement, still this year, of an agreement on halting the deployment of new medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe and starting the elimination of those already deployed and for the attainment of an appropriate agreement on halting nuclear tests. Our party and state actively support the program proposed by the Soviet Union regarding the elimination, in stages, of the entire arsenal of nuclear arms by the year 2000 and believes that everything possible should be done in order to achieve this program. Likewise, Romania believes that everything possible should be done in order to achieve this program. Likewise, Romania believes that a comprehensive program for general disarmament should be adopted, a program that should focus on nuclear and chemical disarmament and should envisage the radical cutback on conventional weapons and forces, and the corresponding cutback on military expenditure.

Our country militates for seeking solutions to all interstate conflicts through peaceful means, through negotiations. We speak out for comprehensive solutions to the problems of underdevelopment -- including the problems of the extremely large foreign debts of the developing countries -- and for the establishment of a new international economic order.

Romania, in its entire foreign policy, attaches great importance to developing relations of friendship and cooperation with all socialist countries and to strengthening cooperation and solidarity among them. We act firmly to implement the decisions adopted at the summit economic meeting of the CEMA member countries and the comprehensive program of scientific-technological cooperation up to the year 2000, with a view to ensuring the progress of each country's national economy and the socialist construction in every country. We also expand our relations with developing countries and with all the countries of the world, regardless of their social system. We base our relations of cooperation with other countries firmly on the principles of full equality of rights, respect for sovereignty and national independence, noninterference in doemstic affairs, mutual advantage, and nonrecourse to the use or threat of force.

The RCP develops and speaks out for relations of broad solidarity and cooperation with all the communist and workers parties, for a new unity based on full equality and respect for each party's right to decide by itself on its political line, strategy, and revolutionary tactics, and on noninterference in domestic affairs. At the same time, our party develops broad relations with socialist and social democratic parties, with national liberation movements, and with democratic parties and forces everywhere in the general struggle waged for peace, security, independence, and progress.

In conclusion, we extend to the communists and all the Mongolian working people wishes for complete success in implementing the decisions to be adopted by your congress and in the struggle for peace and international cooperation.

MSZMP Greetings

AU031053 Budapest NEPSZABADSAG in Hungarian 30 May 86 p 3

[MTI report: "Our Shared Ideals Are the Basis of Hungarian-Mongolian Friendship and Cooperation" -- Istvan Szabo's Address To the Congress of the Mongolian Fraternal Party"]

[Text] "Our delegation listened with great attention and interest to the report of the Central Committee of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party submitted by Secretary General Comrade Jambyn Batmonh, a report that provides a thorough analysis of the experiences and achievements attained in the period since the 18th congress," said Istvan Szabo, member of the Politburo of the MSZMP Central Committee and head of the Hungarian delegation to the MPRP Congress, who conveyed the greetings of the MSZMP Central Committee, of General Secretary Janos Kadar, of the Hungarian communists and workers to the MPRP Congress participants.

"Like every true friend of Mongolia, we feel sincere pleasure over your great achievements in various areas of socialist construction. In the course of the implementation of the Seventh 5-Year Plan, your country's economy has developed, the material and technological basis of socialism has strengthened, the standard of living of the Mongolian workers has increased, and new successes have been achieved in the area of science and education. The source of the achievements is the activity and firmness of the Mongolian people led by the MPRP and the party's Marxist-Leninist and internationalist policy" Istvan Szabo said. "All the results and achievements of the 65 years that have passed since the victory of the people's revolution, the great turning point in the history of the Mongolian nation, have become inseparable from the MPRP, which, creatively applying the general rules of socialist construction, is faithfully serving the cause of the people and is fulfilling its historic mission.

"The guarantee of the implementation of th development program formulated in the report of the Central Committee continues to be the consistent and principled policy of the MPRP, the diligence and patriotism of the Mongolian people, and the steady deepening of the process of cooperation and friendship with the socialist countries. Our delegation concludes with pleasure at this congress too that our parties have identical views on the main issues of the international situation and the main events of the world policy. Unfortunately, in spite of the consistent peace policy and initiatives of the socialist countries, international tension has not diminished considerably. The extremist circles of imperialism continue to strive to upset the balance of power that has developed in the world, particularly the military balance of power. They try to interfere in the domestic affairs of the socialist countries and the countries with a progressive social order, and are provoking conflicts in various areas of the world.

"We are convinced that the continuation of talks is the only sensible way to settle international problems. Therefore, we highly appreciate and firmly support the flexible disarmament proposals made by the Soviet Union, proposals that offer a realistic program and also take into consideration the security interests of the other side. The 27th CPSU Congress held in the spirit of the acceleration of renewal and socialist development, a congress of historical importance, also took a stand in favor of the above. We believe that the initiatives made by the Soviet Union provide a firm basis and possibilities for the continuation of genuine talks.

"The Hungarian people led by the MSZMP have been advancing on the road of socialist development for four decades. The Hungarian communists and our working people are endeavoring to implement the decisions of our party's 13th congress. [paragraph continues]

The implementation of the economic program formulated in the Seventh 5-Year Plan requires greater individual and national efforts than ever. It demands us to discover and use our resources more thoroughly than hitherto, to make use of the resources inherent in the socialist system and the socialist ownership, and to introduce the requirements of intensive development in all areas of the economy and management. Last but not least, we of course also need to make our economic, scientific and technological cooperation with the socialist countries even more efficient."

In conclusion, Istvan Szabo pointed out that "we can conclude with satisfaction that Hungarian-Mongolian relations are developing in the spirit of comradely understanding and cooperation. Our shared ideals are the basis of our cooperation and friendship. We advance side by side on the road of socialist construction and struggle against imperialism and for peace and social progress. The MSZMP will continue to endeavor to further strengthen the relations between the two parties and countries and the friendship between the two peoples on the basis of mutual respect and appreciation and the principles of Marxism-Leninism and internationalist solidarity."

Kapek Presents CPCZ Message

AU031135 Prague RUDE PRAVO in Czech 30 May 86 p 7

[CTK/Kveta Benesova report on speech delivered by Antonin Kapek, member of the Presidium of the CPCZ Central Committee, leading secretary of the Prague City Party Committee, and head of the CPCZ delegation to the 19th MPRP Congress, in Ulaanbaatar on 29 May]

[Text] Heads of several foreign party delegations greeted the delegates to the congress of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party on Thursday [29 May]. Antonin Kapek, head of the CPCZ delegation, member of the Presidium of the CPCZ Central Committee, and leading secretary of the CPCZ Prague City Committee, delivered a greeting speech. In the opening part of his speech he conveyed ardent comradely greetings to the 19th MPRP Congress delegates, and the entire party and people of Mongolia on behalf of the CPCZ, its Central Committee, and Gustav Husak, CPCZ Central Committee general secretary and CSSR president, personally.

It is not so long ago that we, together with you, marked the 65th anniversary of the founding of your party, whose origin was directly linked with the great October socialist revolution and inspired by the ideas of the great Lenin, A. Kapek said further. In a fairly short period, the Mongolian people -- under the leadership of their party -- leaped entire centuries in their historical development and achieved important successes in the realization of profound social changes in society and in the solution of complex issues connected with building socialism.

We in Czechoslovakia followed with exceptional interest your party's preparations for the 19th Congress. We highly valued the creative activity and initiative launched in honor of the congress, attesting to the great respect the party enjo[illegible]s among the broadest strata of the Mongolian working people.

We were deeply impressed by the report of the MPRP Central Committee, delivered by its General Secretary Jambyn Batmonh. It contains a principled assessment of the party's activity in the past and determines bold tasks for the upcoming stage of socialist construction in Mongolia. It is an affirmation of the correctness of the party's policy, which concentrates all its efforts on strengthening further the country's economic potential and raising the standard of living of the Mongolian working people.

We are convinced that the fraternal Mongolian people will fulfill with honor the tasks that will arise from the deliberations of the congress, that the prestige and authority of the Mongolian People's Republic in the world will continue to grow.

The CPCZ held its 17th Congress last March. There our party drew the balance sheet of its activity in the past period and discussed issues connected with the further course of the construction of a developed socialist society. The congress determined tasks for the 1986-90 period with a view to the year 2000, whose main purpose is to accelerate our country's social and economic development. We could proudly note that our party is organizationally and ideologically united, firm, and capable of action, and that it enjoys the full trust of all Czechoslovak people. That shows in the political, economic, and social stability of the state, in the important successes that are being achieved in various spheres of society's life.

We do not hide the fact that we have had to overcome a number of obstacles and difficulties. But, as was said at the 17th CPCZ Cogress, the CSSR is entering the second half of the 1980's and a modern, consolidated socialist state with a developed economy, a high cultural and living standard, and a good starting base for further development. We realize that the fulfillment of the high goals will require from all communists and all our people new approaches, and innovative forms of work by all party and state agencies and organizations. It is going to be a demanding course, but only by its determined and consistent realization can one achieve further successes.

We regard one of the main prerequisites of a successful development of socialism in the CSSR to be in the fulfillment of the conclusions of the 17th CPCZ Congress, in cooperation with the Soviet Union and the other socialist states, in the systematic perfection of our cooperation, and in the coordination of procedures in all spheres. We regard a substantial increase in the efficiency of CEMA's work, further progress in the development of international socialist economic integration to be of exceptional importance. For our part we will do everything we can for the assertion of new forms of this cooperation, in particular for direct relations among enterprises and for the establishment of joint research and scientific-technical associations.

Our parties are linked by historical bonds of friendship, at the beginning of which on our side stood personalitites of the revolutionary and workers movement, such as the CPCZ founders Bohumir Smeral and Klement Gottwald. We rejoice over the fact that our mutual relations, based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and socialist internationalism, are successfully developing in the spirit of the treaty on friendship and cooperation between the CSSR and the MPR. They are characterized by mutual trust and full unanimity of views on the further development of cooperation and foreign-political issues.

The long-term program of economic and scientific-technical cooperation between the CSSR and the MPR until the year 2000, which was signed this year, provides broad opportunities and prospects for further strengthening the economic cooperation between our two states.

We live in a period when mankind can convince itself every day about the peaceful, principled foreign policy of the Soviet Union, which was reaffirmed from the lectern of the 27th CPSU Congress. The initiatives voiced by Mikhail Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, show solutions for the most urgent problems of the present day world, and for ensuring peace and security on our planet, and therefore have our full support.

We resolutely condemn those forces of imperialism, and especially the ruling circles of the United States, which -- at variance with common sense -- have been escalating feverish arms buildup, and striving to transfer it into outer space. In the interest of their imperialist objectives they are practicing a policy of confrontation and proliferating hotbeds of tension in the world. They do not even stop at most grossly trampling underfoot the elementary norms of international relations, and under various pretexts carrying out overt aggression vis-a-vis sovereign states.

The same situation exists on the Asian continent. The United States has not learned a lesson from the defeat in Vietnam and maintains a huge military potential in that part of the world. In all possible ways it supports reactionary anti-people regimes and directly participates in the aggravation of the situation in various parts of Asia.

We highly value the endeavor of the fraternal socialist countries of Asia which are determined fighters for the cause of peace and stability in that region. As a significant contribution in this respect we regard the MPR's initiative aimed at concluding a convention on mutual nonaggression an nonuse of force in relations among the states in Asia and in the Pacific region. This initiative merits the attention of the entire Asian community. Its realization would contribute to a marked relaxation of tension and to the normalization of relations among the Asian states.

In the concluding part of his speech, A Kapek wished the Mongolian communists and all Mongolian people many successes in the implementation of the conclusions of the 19th Congress, in their constructive endeavor aimed at the further prosperity of the MPR, and in the common struggle for the victory of socialism and peace in the world.

The congress continues on Friday.

Naydan Addresses Congress

OW031053 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in English 1720 GMT 30 May 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, May 30 (MONTSAME) -- Speaking at the 19th Party Congress, G. Naydan, minister of the MPR Light and Food Industry, pointed out that the main tasks of this branch in the Eighth Five-Year Plan period are to improve the supply of consumer goods and food products to the population and increase the export resources by way of enhancing production capacities and complex processing of animal husbandry raw materials and introducing waste-free and less-waste technology. He pointed out that despite the ever increasing production of goods and improvement of the main showings of the branch, there still exist serious shortcomings in expanding the assortment of manufactured goods and improving their quality. He also underlined the insufficient utilization of internal resources and reserves.

Proceeding from the Party Congress decisions, our ministry shall make concrete conclusions and take actions in keeping with new requirements, the minister stressed.

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 29 May (TANJUG) -- The policy and movement of nonalignment, rooted in the historic process of the emancipation of the peoples, are today among the most important factors in the struggle and economic relations and for the independence and equality of all peoples against all forms of political and ecnomic domination and exploitation, the old and new forms of dependence and subjugation, and in relations between states and peoples.

This was stated, among other things, by Petar Matic, head of the LCY delegation and member of the Central Committee Presidium, in his greetings speech at the 19th Congress of the Mongolian People's Revolutionary Party in Ulaanbaatar today.

[Report on proceedings by B. Indra, Ts. Jargalmaa, Sh. Nemehbayar, D. Solongo and M. Enhee]

[Text] The most topical subject in the press currently and in the conversation of Mongolia's working people is the 19th MPRP Congress under way in Ulaanbaatar. Party congresses have always been historic landmarks in the life of the people. They signify the latest stage of our society's movement along the path charted by Lenin.

The scale and novelty of the impending work make exceptionally high demands on the nature of the political, ideological and organizing activity of the party, its organizations and every communist. The delegates stressed that the vanguard role of the communist must be expressed in practical action.

The atmosphere in the People's Great Hural Hall of Sessions and in the breaks between sessions of the congress -- everything indicates how great the communists' concern is to advance along the socialist path and how tremendous their aspiration to struggle against everything impeding our progress on this path. It is clear from conversations with the delegates that each of them is firmly aware of what to say to his comrades and how to work after the congress.

Words resounded again and again from the congress platform in defense of peace for it is peace which is the main condition for the accomplishment of the lofty tasks. In a word, the delegates' speeches eloquently confirm the complete unity of views of our communists and the position of the communists of the land of soviets and the other fraternal socialist countries and of the communists of the whole world on questions of war and peace.

MPR Foreign Minister M. Dugersuren spoke in the debate on the MPRP Central Committee report to the 19th party congress and on subsequent tasks, the report of the MPRP Central Auditing Commission, and the report on the Guidelines on the MPR's Economic and Social Development in 1986-1990.

He said that 1986 could be called the year of congresses of the fraternal parties, which are opening a qualitatively new stage in the formulation and accomplishment of strategic tasks and the buildup of the economic and scientific and technological potential of world socialism. Realization of this strategy will strengthen to a considerable extent the material prerequisite for a turnabout in the international situation and for the increased impact of socialism on the course of world events.

It is more than symbolic that the Soviet Union began the International Year of Peace declared by the United Nations with the advancement of precisely such a program. This realistic and profoundly conceived initiative is meeting with growing support in the world community and all states which are concerned to consolidate peace and security. The recent messages of the heads of state and government of India and the other five countries of the Delhi group to the leaders of the Soviet Union and the United States, in particular, testify to this. The new moratorium on nuclear explosions until 6 August of this year announced by Comrade M.S. Gorbachev, general secretary of the CPSU Central Committee, is a fresh convincing example of the Soviet state's resolve to achieve realization of the goals of nuclear disarmament, the minister observed.

The achievement of a turn toward detente and cooperation depends on the responsible approach of all states, primarily the big powers, to international affairs and on their sober consideration of the realities of the modern world. Yet militarist and revanchist forces in the leading capitalist countries, primarily extreme rightwingers in the U.S. administration, are continuing the insane policy of power pressure and clinging stubbornly to the illusory goal of turning back the course of progressive world development.

In the light of all the abovesaid great significance is attached to the initiative advanced by the 27th CPSU Congress pertaining to the creation of the principles of an all-embracing system of international security. The creation of such a system is today vitally necessary for all parts of the world, including the Asia-Pacific region. The Soviet Government statement of 23 April of this year on questions of strengthening peace and developing cooperation in the Asia-Pacific region represents an important step forward in the direction of exercise of a comprehensive approach to the region's problems.

Importance in the strengthening of peace and security in Asia and Oceania is attached to the initiatives of Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos, the DPRK and the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan aimed at overcoming tense and crisis situations and the establishment of zones of peace and cooperation in vitally important parts of the region.

The peaceful coexistence, interconnection and interdependence of states and peoples in the sense of equal and constructive cooperation are now becoming the sole and exclusive alternative in international intercourse. Increasingly great significance in world affairs is attached under these conditions to the human factor, that is, the factor of intelligence, just morality, realistic thinking, and the sense of self-preservation.

This factor is being manifested most impressively in the public antiwar and antinuclear movement. The MPR sees it as an important task to assist the growth of this movement in the Asia-Pacific region, M. Dugersuren declared.

The peace program put forward at the 27th CPSU Congress is the common platform of all peaceable and democratic forces in the struggle for the fate of the present and future generations. It considers it its international duty to assist in every possible way the cause of realization of the initiatives of truly historic significance contained in the program, M. Dugersuren said.

As Comrade J. Batmonh stressed, socialism's foreign policy is based on respect for the rights of states and peoples to live in peace and is characterized by optimism and a belief in the human mind. This quality was reflected in the Declaraton of Peoples' Right to Peace adopted by the United Nations in 1984 on the basis of an initiative of the MPR. It declares that realization of this sacred right of the peoples demands that states' policy be oriented toward removal of the threat of war, nuclear primarily, and exclusion of force in international relations.

Struggling for lasting peace and the triumph of the cause of democracy and socialism, the MPR will actively implement the foreign policy formulated by the 19th Congress in precisely this key. Our communists and the entire Mongolian people fully support this course, which blends together the tasks of strengthening general peace and socialist creation in the country. They are working with a consciousness of the fact that each product produced and each young animal reared serve as a material contribution to the cause of an increase in the potential of their motherland and ultimately of our common socialist family, Comrade M. Dugersuren said in conclusion.

We received with tremendous attention the party Central Committee report delivered by Comrade J. Batmonh, D. Chimiddagba, first secretary of the Suhbaatar Aymag Party Committee, declared in his speech at the 19th MPRP Congress. The particular significance of this document is the fact that it directs the communists and all working people of our country toward a bold search for ways and methods of an increase in the end results and quality of work in all areas of socialist building, the surmounting of difficulties and the removal of shortcomings and it also makes a truly party-minded and creative analysis of the urgent problems of our development. This approach to work wholly and fully corresponds to the Leninist standards of party life, the speaker observed.

It can be seen from practice that the agricultural associations are distinguished in terms of the numbers of livestock, the dimensions of the territory and pasture and the scale of production. It is essential in this connection on a countrywide scale, with regard for natural-economic conditions, to consolidate the agricultural associations by way of the specialization and cooperation of their production processes, adhere to the direction of the preferential development of the main determining sector and establish the optimum production volume. One further question requiring serious attention is the scientific substantiation of the plan and its close coordination with practice and life.

For the communists and working people of Suhbaatar Aymag there is no higher honor than exerting all their powers for implementation of the historic decisions of the 19th party congress and making a worthy contribution to the cause of socialist creation in our country, D. Chimiddagba said.

The evening session of 29 May was chaired by T. Ragchaa, member of the MPRP Central Committee Politburo and first deputy chairman of the MPR Council of Ministers.

I have been secretary of the somon primary party organization for 8 years now, D. Choyjoo, secretary of the party organization of Ubs Aymag's Dzuungobi Somon, said. Instead of providing the economy with specific guidance, thinking about its future and teaching people assertiveness and independence in work, I have frequently had to deal with economic trifles, substituting for the work of the association's chairman and farm specialists or reluctantly permitting parallelism in work. And the representatives of the center or the aymag on an inspection trip to us inquire after the state of day-to-day economic work, in the main. Yet the work of the primary party organizations should be evaluated primarily by what has been done for the good of man, what work has been performed to rally the labor collective together and develop its political and labor assertiveness and by the result that has been achieved here.

In my opinion, a principle of elevation of the standard of work of the party organizations of all levels is precise compliance with the fundamental instructions of the party Central Committee and their consistent implementation.

In our country, where animal husbandry is a leading sector of the economy, an acute need for the systemic training of the young stockbreeder replacement shift arises.

It is important that all party and state authorities and social and industrial organizations inculcate in the holders of passes, children and the youth a love of their work, instruct them in the skills of livestock-raising work, increase their material interest, provide them with the necessary living and work conditions, and display constant concern for them.

It is essential to draw serious conclusions from the fact that a substantial proportion of the youth which has obtained passes for work in animal husbandry has settled in the aymag and somon centers and is subsisting on occasional work. And it is necessary in general henceforward to create new jobs for the youth and develop various forms of labor cooperation, he said.

Having objectively and precisely evaluated the actual successes of our party and people, the MPRP congress is advancing on a new level of creative approach and practical efficiency further tasks pertaining to the attainment of even higher frontiers in socialist building. The party Central Committee report has determined with profound substantiation the most efficient ways of improving our work and other central problems of the country's development, which is inspiring our working class, including the communists and the entire collective of the MPR's light and food industry, G. Naydan, minister of light and food industry of the MPR, declared in his speech.

Proceeding from the decisions of the 19th MPRP Congress, the ministry will draw the conclusions and adopt measures for a decisive change in the style of leadership in accordance with the new demands and will strive for a businesslike and creative approach to the solution of questions in all areas of production, a strengthening of discipline and order, increased independence, responsibility and initiative and the eradication of the shortcomings occurring in its activity, the minister said.

An economic experiment to improve planning and the economic mechanism has been conducted in the system of our ministry since 1985. As the results of the first year of this big work which we are performing, relying on the experience of the Soviet Union, show, a number of positive changes in enterprise activity may be recorded. Coordination of production with the working people's requirements is improving, the independence and initiative of the enterprises are increasing and better use is being made of such economic levers as wages, bonuses and so forth.

The question of the need for an improvement in the system of pay is inevitably arising in the course of the experiment. The collectives have put forward many proposals on this score during discussion of the guidelines. In this connection we need under the conditions of the economic experiment to embark on implementation of a system of an upgrading of workers' wage rates depending on the end production results of the activity of the enterprises which achieve a steady growth of production efficiency, the minister said.

National industry has been developing intensively in recent years, and changes in the structure of our working class have occurred. Women constitute 70 percent of those working in the country's light and food indutry, and young people aged 18-35 some 84 percent. For this reason it is necessary, beginning this 5-year plan, to establish a procedure at the time of the construction of new industrial enterprises of simultaneously building kindergarten, nurseries and hostels for the young workers.

We are profoundly aware that big labor efforts, the precise organization of work and strict order and discipline are needed from our collective for the accomplishment of the tasks pertaining to the intensive development of industry, light and food industry included, advanced in the Eighth 5-Year Plan, the minister said in conclusion.

Addressing the congress delegates, M. Erdene, first secretary of the Dornod Aymag Party Committee, noted the certain changes which had occurred in the past 5 years in the aymag's ecnomic and cultural building. The aymag's industry manufactured 42 million tugriks' worth of above-plan products, the volume of capital investments and construction-installation work grew by a factor of 1.8 and per capita retail commodity turnover increased 6.1 percent. However, as the speaker said, there are considerable oversights in the aymag's work.

Comrade J. Batmonh emphasized particularly in his report the need to concentrate the attention of the ministries, departments and local party and state authorities on the scientific development and realization of the problems of an improvement in rural workers' work and social conditions. Such work was preformed insufficiently efficiently in the last 5-year period in our aymag. Thus virtually all somons failed to build schools, hospitals, nurseries, kindergarten and cultural-social facilities in the 5-year plan. This was connected primarily with the fact that the corresponding aymag organizations failed to pay serious attention to this matter or were insufficiently capable of organizing it.

Capital construction, which plays a particular part in an improvement in social and cultural-everyday conditions in the countryside, is a principal front of the work of the party organizations. In the Eighth Five-Year Plan the aymag program of costruction-installation work and the commissioning of facilities will increase almost threefold. Without an expansion of the current industrial base we will not be able to ensure the accomplishment of this task. The Ministry of Construction and Construction Materials Industry should pay special attention to this situation and immediately adopt specific measures to reinforce the industrial base of the construction trust -- the principal contract organization of the aymag -- M. Erdene said.

The floor was then granted Ts. Narangerel, first secretary of the Mongolian Revolutionary Youth League [MRYL] Central Committee.

The party Central Committee report deliverd by Comrad J. Batmonh, general secretary of the MPRP Central Committee, made an evaluation of the place and role of the youth in the life of society and clearly determined the future tasks of the MRYL organizations and the entire youth.

There is today no sector of the economy, culture and science where the zeal and energy of the young people are not needed, he said.

Children and young people 30 years and younger constitute 71 percent of our counry's population. The level of the youth's education and culture is rising continuously, and its intellectual requrements are growing. For this reason the MRYL organizations are confronted with the priority task of raising to a new level work on the communist upbringing of the younger generation. This is connected with the fact that it is lagging cosiderably behind the demands of the times. There are still many shortomings and urgent problems in need of immediate solution in our work.

Accomplishment of the task set the MRYL by the part will ultimately depend on the militancy of the MRYL cells, which are the foundation of th MRYL, the speaker emphasized.

It is essential that the MRYL organizations take into consideration the intellectual requirements and interests of children and the youth in ideological-educational work and put the emphasis on specific work among them. [paragraph continues]

V 2

It is important to concentrate efforts on removing the shortcomings in the localities ascertained at the time of the group inspection of MRYL work and increasing its militancy and pay more attention to individual work with the youth, the creation of artistic, sports and engineering circles and groups at the place of residence, the organization of cultured leisure time and reinforcement of the physical plant of the cultural-sports establishments.

The development of society, the speech emphasized, demands an intensification of the youth's communist upbringing, a fundamental reorganization of MRYL work and the pursuit of a scientifically substantiated policy based on in-depth research and thorough development. We must draw the fundamental conclusion from the fact that the work which we are performing is divorced from the youth and that it fails to take account of their requirements, interests and amusements and that the work itself is allowed to take its own course.

The MYRL Central Committee recognizes that the end result of educational work among the youth depends on our style and methods and ability to reach the mind and heart of each young person and the organizing talent and capabilities of the MRYL officers, communists included.

Greeting the 19th MPRP Congress, the MRYL organizations and the youth of our country initiated the competitions "Two Congresses, One Goal," "19 Work Initiatives" and "19-Week Shock Labor Stint". They produced the initiative of making products of the highest quality bearing the MRYL trademark and mechanizing manual labor. Ts. Narangerel reported that as a result of this more than 200,000 pioneers, students and young people earned the right to sign the MYRL work report to the 19th Party Congress.

The representatives of the youth and pioneers and the country's students greeted the delegates to and guests of the highest party forum. They solemnly declared their full resolve to give all their efforts and capabilities in the name of the flowering of the socialist motherland and the endeavor to struggle consistently with their peers from other countries for the defense of lasting peace in the world.

Comrade S. Sodnomdorj, minister of agriculture of the MPR, called the delegates' attention to the fact that the congress attaches great significance to such central questions of an improvement in the social, cultural and everyday conditions of the rural workers as the introduction of scientific and technological achievements in agriculture, an increase in production, increased quality and efficiency and perfection of the organization of labor. This is, he said, yet further evidence that this sector is always at the center of the party's special attention.

As the minister's speech rightly observed, despite the fact that considerable resources have been invested in agriculture and its material-technical base has been reinforced, the level of development of the sector which has been achieved and the growth rate do not correspond to current requirements.

The Ministry of Agriculture and its local authorities are paying insufficient attention to the solution of animal husbandry problems with regard for the availability of fodder, water sources and livestock barns, which has led to the incomplete use of potential and possibilities. We are adopting a self-critical attitude toward the lagging of methods of leadership of animal husbandry behind present requirements. Reorganization of the methods of animal husbandry means composite problems connected not only with an improvement in the livestock's provision with fodder, water and premises, a sharp improvement of zooveterinary measures and the introduction of progressive techniques of keeping livesotck, an improvement in the organization of labor and the correct organization of pedigree breeding and other relevant questions of agriculture but also with the solution of social questions in the countryside and an improvement in the rural workers' social, cultural and housing conditions and medical and trading services.

We consider correct the conclusions of the report concerning changes in the unpromising method restricting the initiative of economic organizations on the pretext of decrees, rules and instructions adopted earlier and the inordinate centralization of financial-credit rights which are occurring in the activity of the planning-economic authorities, the speaker said.

A. Dzumaa, director of the Second Knitwear Factory of the Wool-Processing Enterprises Production Association, then spoke. Over 700 people, she said, who have mastered the speciality and work skills in their own country, the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries, work at our enterprise, which is furnished with modern highly productive equipment. Women constitute over 80 percent of them, young people aged 25 and under constituting 94 percent.

Commissioned in 1983, our enterprise has at the present time assimilated capacity in full, and we manufacture in a year 1 million knitwear products, children's clothing constituting 72 percent of which. A priority task set light industry by the party is a broadening of the selection and a constant improvement in the quality of the product. However, some of the knitwear items which we manufacture at times fail to satisfy the consumers' requirements in terms of their style, coloring and size.

Noting that the quality of the woolen product depends directly on the quality of the wool itself, A. Dzumaa sharply criticized in this connection the organizations which supply substandard raw material.

The decisions of recent party Central Committee plenums pointed to the need for a fundamental improvement in the forms and methods of industrial management, guaranteed unity of word and deed and decisions and execution, the evaluation of activity per end results, consistent compliance with the principle of a critical and self-critical approach to work and an implacable struggle against shortcomings and oversights. Unfortunately, rooted and outmoded work methods are still tenacious in the activity of managers of all levels both in the ministry and in the association and at the enterprise, she observed.

Mongolia's women joyfully received, the speaker said, the specific proposals advanced by the 27th CPSU Congress which are aimed primarily at the elimination by the end of the present century of nuclear and other types of weapons of mass annihilation, prevention of the spread of the arms race to space and the creation of an all-embracing system of security encompassing the Asia-Pacific region and other continents and regions. She called on all women and mothers and every peaceable individual of our planet to render the realization of this humane goal the utmost assistance.

Ch. Tseren, president of the MPR Academy of Sciences, spoke at the 29th MPRP Congress about the fact that despite positive changes in research work, the business of the choice and comprehensive study of the most urgent central problems of the country's socioeconomic development by way of the concentration of our forces and resources on them is still unsatisfactory and that the dispersal of forces on the development of a multitude of petty, inefficient subjects, work on which drags on for a long time and does not always gain an outlet into practice, continues to occur. The main reason for all this is, he believes, the fact that the scientific-methods and testing-experimental level of research is insufficiently high, science's ties to production have been organized inadequately and the proper attitude toward science has not yet been formed.

Creatively applying the experience of the research organizations of the Soviet Union and the other fraternal countries, it is necessary to draw up annual and 5-year plans of research work under the following heads: fundamental research, target programs, application in production, and business contract work. The active participation of the planning and financial authorities is very important for teaching a gradual approach and interaction.

The central research bodies, Ch. Tseren said, have to improve and make more concerted their activity pertaining to an acceleration of scientific and technological progress and the speediest realization of the results of research. The time has come together with this for a change in the attitude of all our organizations and establishments toward the business of application of all that is new in production. In particular, the sectoral ministries and departments need to improve considerably work on rendering the institutions and centers under their jurisdiction organizational assistance and exercising supervision of their activity.

In any sphere of social life, particularly in such a specific sphere of intellectual work as science, a decisive role belongs to the human factor. For this reason we should not only pay special attention to work on the selection, training and assignment of scientific personnel, including the training of scientists capable of becoming leaders in the corresponding branch of science, but also raise the demands made of scientific personnel and their responsibility and initiative and create and activate an economic mechanism ensuring the strict dependence of their wages and bonuses on actual results of work.

Importance for the development of world science was attached to the fact that the 27th CPSU Congress defined the role of science in the acceleration of the development of Soviet society and set scientists as a paramount task the accomplishment of new scientific discoveries and the creation of fundamentally new equipment and technology, the speaker observed.

Implementation of the comprehensive program of the CEMA countries' scientific and technological progress up to the year 2000 will create the conditions conducive to the rapprochement of the level of development of science and technology in our country and the level of the fraternal countries. For this reason the question of intensive development of fundamental research and a rise in the level of general technical thinking is being placed on the agenda.

The MPR Academy of Sciences president dwelt briefly on certain priority directions of research, pointing to the need for the development of research work geared to the production of protein and vitamin feed by biotechnology methods and the acquisition of biologically active substances accelerating the growth and development of the young stock and a start on the development of methods of application of the achievements of genetic and cellular engineering in agricultural production.

Another path of a steady rise in the productiveness of the livestock is an improvement in its biological potential. For rearing highly productive breeds of livestock and accelerating the creation of pedigreed groups it is essential to introduce techniques of the preservation and multiplication of embryos and egg cells and zygote transplantation.

Work on the genetics and selection of agricultural crops lags behind the level of today's requirements, and research into the cultivation of new varieties adapted to the conditions of different natural-climatic zones of our country is not being performed quickly enough.

Social development requires the elaboration and implementation of target programs for an intensification of the economy, the alleviation of heavy and monotonous labor, the application in the stockbreeders' everyday life of renewable energy sources, the development of general technical education and thinking and so forth.

Public Security Minister

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 30 May (MONTSAME) -- As in the past, under the direct daily leadership of the party Central Committee, the personnel staff of the Ministry of Public Security, relying on the widespread help of the working people, is continuing to actively fulfill its responsibility in ensuring the security of the country and in protecting state borders in the fight against crime and the ensurance of public order. A. Jamsranjab, MPR minister of public security, stressed this in his speech at the 19th MPRP Congress.

The guarantee of success in the struggle for ensuring public security and peace is to be found in the organic contact between the organs of public security and the working people.

Our party's struggle to raise vigilance, consolidate socialist legality, and strengthen discipline and order has received the approval and support of all honest people. Interaction between party, state, and public organizations and between the organs of justice and control is improving, and positive results are being achieved in the elimination of antisocial activity. In particular, there has been a decrease in drunkenness and hooliganism in public places. But this is only the beginning, the delegate to the congress noted.

A. Jamsranjab said that the times demand of us basic changes in the antiquated methods of work concerning the discovery and prevention of instances of lawbreaking, effective elimination of causes that influence crime, the defense of socialist property from all encroachments, and the further strengthening of close cooperation with law enforcement agencies.

There is a natural need to show special attention to strengthening moral, political, and ideological training and to purity in the ranks of the chekists, border guards, and militia, who are performing combat tasks at a time of peace, and to increase efficiency in the work of party and political organs.

The minister noted: In the present conditions of the deteriorating international situation, the strengthening of peace in the world, and particularly of the struggle of all our continent's governments and social strata for security in Asia is of great importance. We fully approve and support the proposals put forward at the 19th MPRP Congress in this field, as well as the peace-loving foreign policy of our party.

In some influential Asian countries, militarism and war hysteria, led by the United States, is raising its head. As a result of this, tension is being built up on our continent, and external conditions unfavorable to the building of socialism in the MPR are created.

Imperialism and the forces close to it are activating hostile actions against the socialist community, including the MPR, and their methods are becoming more refined. As a result of the continued espionage and ideological subversion of the enemy during times of peace, the work of the public security organs in the defense of freedom and independence of the country and the peaceful toil of the people are augmented by responsible and complicated tasks in preventing and suppressing the intrigues of class enemies and antiscocial elements.

A. Jamsranjab continued: During the present conditions of worsening of the class struggle between two world systems, there is a pressing need for constant and a generally high level of political vigilance stemming directly from the interests of a socialist society. Our ideological enemies use anti-Sovietism as a form of ideological weapon, along with nationalism and the narcotic of religion. They are trying to shake the solid friendship of the Mongolian and Soviet peoples to twist the essence of our bilateral and multilateral cooperation with fraternal countries, to deny the successes and attainments of socialist construction of our country, and to slander the historic experience of its noncapitalist development. The hostile special services are clearly trying to discover our political, military, and economic secrets and are trying to gain access to the secrets of CEMA. Therefore, one of the important conditions for ensuring the country's security and a patriotic and international duty of every citizen is to maintain high vigilance, to safeguard state secrets strictly, and to fulfill the MPRP regulations and programs and the conditions of the MPR Constitution.

The preservation of secrets, as V.I. Lenin instructed us, is "...a very important, most essential question". (COMPLETE WORKS, vol. 36. p 41) As foreign contacts grow and the number of arrivals and departures increases, some people lose their vigilance. The problem of ensuring public security begins with guarding the honor of each citizen. The public security organs have given individuals who have erred ideologically or politically the opportunity to realize their mistakes from a legal point of view, thereby preventing their antistate crimes. Such people are grateful to us.

In this we recognize concrete results and the humane character of the work of our organs, which are called on to aid the party in the solution of complex problems in the formation of the new man in socialist society, the MPR minister of public security underscored.

The demand to assert and defend the socialist way of life, the most important element of the socialist conquests of the Mongolian people, is growing. Behavior and criminal actions unbefitting a citizen of socialist Mongolia are usually related to drunkenness. I consider it essential to deepen the work in order to assert a healthy form of life and to even prohibit by law the manufacture and use of alcoholic beverages. We can do without alcoholic beverages in socialist construction.

Speaking of those who transgress the responsibilities and norms of equal habitation in a socialist society, and especially about shortcomings in the education of youth and children, we cannot limit ourselves to words alone. It is necessary to distance ourselves from bad practices such as people with defects being isolated from society and the work collective.

I consider it advisable to continue to educate these people in the environment where they have lived, studied, and worked, utilizing the advantages of the collective's influence, the party congress delegate said.

A. Jamsranjab noted in conclusion: D. Sukhe Bator, the founder of the MPRP and the people's state and commander in chief, bequeathed to us ".... freedom won must be comprehended time and again and protected from external and internal insidious seditions. Never forget this!"

Present conditions demand that the historic traditions of our people, who have revered vigilance from ancient times -- as inscribed on the soyombo emblem -- must be faithfully safeguarded, consolidated, and enriched.

Comrade J. Batmonh, leader of our party and state, has noted that "a high level of political vigilance is a sharp weapon in the struggle against the hostile actions of imperialism and its accomplices." Therefore, it is essential for us, under the leadership of party organizations, to strengthen the work of perfecting the system of ensuring the country's security and raising the political vigilance of the working people, as a component part in the struggle to strengthen discipline. The role of each service and each worker of the Ministry of Public Security will be directed toward the strengthening of discipline and order in all spheres of public life.

BK040629 Phnom Penh Domestic Service in Cambodian 0430 GMT 4 Jun 86

[Text] According to the Mongolian news agency MONTSAME, Comrade Chan Seng, alternate member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau, deputy chairman of the Party Control Commission, and head of the KPRP delegation, who arrived in Ulaanbaatar on 28 May to attend the 19th MPRP Congress, addressed the congress on 30 May.

He said: The MPR has actively contributed to the struggle against imperialism, old and new colonialism, apartheid, and racism and for peace and the independence of all nations as well as democracy and socialism. The Cambodian people sincerely desire to live in peace and to have good-neighborly cooperation with all countries in the region. Our goodwill was reiterated in the statement of the three Indochinese foreign ministers' conference in January 1986.

At this conference, we made various proposals and constructive initiatives of the PRK party and state, which are in accord with the trend of dialogue in Southeast Asia aiming at turning this region into a zone of peace, stability, and cooperation on earth. The Cambodian people, who have suffered from the flames of war and the most cruel genocidal regime, realize the value of peace. The Cambodian people pledge not to allow the reoccurance of the genocidal Pol Pot regime on Cambodian soil.

We fully support the Soviet Union's peace initiatives. The PRK fully supports the MPR's initiative regarding the signing of a treaty of nonaggression and nonuse of force in relations with the countries of Asia and the Pacific. The PRK gives its unreserved support to the struggle waged by the people in Asia, Africa, and Latin America for independence, peace, and a new international economic system.

Construction Minister Speaks

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, May 31 (MONTSAME) -- Addressing the 19th Congress of the MPRP, minister of Construction and Construction Materials Industry, Tserendondong said:

As a result of the constant care and attention of the MPRP and Government of Mongolia, the Mongolian builders have fulfilled construction-assembly work worth 13 bln tugriks, which is 1.3 times more than in the previous five year period. During this period, the production of building materials grew by 50 percent, hundreds of industrial, agricultural and cultural projects as well as dwelling houses were built and economic potential of the country grew significantly.

In the 8th five year period, the volume of construction-assembly work will grow by 60 to 70 percent and work done by Mongolian construction companies will rise by 44 percent. The aid and support of the Soviet Union and other socialist countries are of decisive significance in developing construction and building material industry of Mongolia.

Fuel, Power Industry Minister

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 30 May (MONTSAME) -- S. Bathuyag, MPR minister of fuel and power industry, reported to the MPRP Congress that under the Seventh 5-Year Plan the main fixed assets in the fuel and power industry doubled while labor productivity increased by 30 percent. Gross production of the branch rose 1.7 times, (?coal) extraction 1.5 times, and power supply 1.9 times.

The first stages of the Baganuur open cut coal deposit and the No. 4 Ulaanbaatar heat and electric power station (Tets), the showpieces of our country's fuel and power industry, have been put into operation and successfully assimilated in a short period of time. The power generating capacity of the No. 4 Ulaanbaatar TETS, commissioned in the past 5-year plan period, alone exceeds the total capacity of all electric power stations built in the central regions of our country and commissioned prior to 1981. This clearly attests to the accelerated rate of development in our country's fuel and power industry.

The minister noted that in the successful fulfillment of the party's program directives on the rapid development of the MPR's fuel and power industry a decisive role continues to be played by the disinterested assistance of the USSR.

The delegate said that under the present 5-year plan our ministry will not only fulfill plans for economizing fuel and power but will step up work related to the national economy and among the working people. It will launch a struggle to economize fuel and power among the people and achieve concrete results in this direction.

The Ministry of Fuel and Power Industry is drawing appropriate conclusions from the fact that in the past 5-year plan substantial measures were not taken to improve the supply of fuel and electric power to rural consumers, in particular livestock breeders.

Under the present 5-year plan, a volume of construction and installation work three times greater than under the previous plan in building 35-kilowatt electric power transmission lines for rural use, involving dozens of substations, will be realized. With the aim of making a practical contribution to the implementation of the program of developing the rural economy and improving the supply of foodstuffs to the population, our ministry, either independently or together with the ministries and departments concerned, will adopt a series of concrete measures aimed at supplying rural consumers, especially livestock breeders, with fuel and power. These will include: bringing fuel sources closer to consumers by increasing the capacity of local open cut mines and building new open cut mines of limited capacity in some aymags and somons; producing coal bricks; and broadening scientific research and experimental work in the utilization of wind, rivers, and sewage gas.

One of the important questions which must be looked at in particular in the new 5-year plan is the question of raising technical and economic indicators and improving the utilization of the capacities of existing fuel and electric power industry enterprises.

Improvement in the use of the capacities of coal enterprises depends entirely on the work of this ministry and the industry's collectives, while further improvement in the technical and economic indicators and improvement in the utilization of the capacities of electric power stations is linked, to a certain extent, to the question of electric power transmission along the Gusinoozersk-Darhan high-voltage power transmission line, which connects the Soviet Union's integrated Siberian power system with our country's central power system. We are certain that in the near future these questions will be solved by the competent organizations of our two countries, S. Bathuyag noted.

JASRAY PARTICIPATES IN PRESS CONFERENCE

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, May 30 (MONTSAME) -- The 19th MPRP Congress press centre is continuing its work. A press conference with the participation of P. Jasray, deputy chairman of the MPR Council of Ministers and chairman of the MPR State Planning Commission, and B. Eldeb-Ochir, first secretary of the Hobsgol Aymag Party Committee, has been held here.

Tasks on strengthening the material and technical base of the national economy and improving its structure in the just started Eighth Five-Year Plan have a number of peculiarities, P. Jasray said. Firstly, the new five-year plan marks the beginning of the realization of the comprehensive programme of agriculture development and improving the food supply of the population. Secondly, in the Eighth Five-Year Plan significant strides will be taken in realizing the tasks of top priority development of fuel and power industry and further electrification of the national economy. Thirdly, considerable emphasis will be made, as before, on strengthening the building industry and increasing the output of building material production. The measures aimed at a rational distribution of the productive forces will be of primary sigificance.

The Eighth Five-Year Plan period will witness further expansion of economic ties with foreign states. As before, the economic, scientific, technological and trade cooperations with the fraternal socialist countries, first of all with the Soviet Union, would be of decisive significance in carrying through the programme tasks of building in Mongolia, underlined P. Jasray.

The working people of Hobsgol Aymag (North Mongolia) came to the 19th MPRP Congress with great labour successes, said B. Eldeb-Ochir, first secretary of the Hobsgol Aymag Party Committee at the press conference. Our aymag has been awarded with the Order of the Red Banner of Labour Glory for its labour achievements in the Seventh Five-Year Plan period.

Our chief object for the future is to secure the highest possible results with the least expenditure of labour and financial resources. We shall do our best to enhance the role of the work collectives and individual workers, and tighten order, discipline and organization and perfect the style of management in all spheres of social life, B. Eldeb-Ochir underscored.

'TEXT' OF BATMONHCONGRESS CLOSING SPEECH

OW020851 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1335 GMT 31 May 86

Comrades!

The 19th MPRP Congress is drawing to a close. In these last few days it has drawn the attention of the communists and all the working people of our country. This is natural, for the plans of the party are the plans of the people; the cause of the party is the cause of the people.

The monolithic unity of the party and the people was clearly demonstrated during the days of the congress. A clear expression of this unity is that many workers' collectives and individual workers have been sending the congress reports, letters, and telegrams on the fulfillment of pre-congress pledges.

Allow me, comrade delegates, on your behalf, to express gratitude to workers' collectives and individual workers for their reports, letters, and telegrams reporting their outstanding labor successes as a gift for the party congress.

I believe that all the delegates will unanimously agree if I say that the party congress has been held in an atmosphere of singular cohesion, business-like efficiency, and adherence to party principles. An atmosphere of a responsible and true party approach to the pressing problems of socialist construction in the country prevailed during the work of the congress.

I would like to emphasize that all the work of the congress and particularly the delegates' speeches were filled with a desire to evaluate objectively the realities of life and practice, and to expose and criticize frankly and from party positions existing shortcomings and laggings. That is a clear expression of the political maturity of our party, of its ideological growth and increased strength.

The 19th MPRP Congress has unanimously endorsed the political course and practical activities of the party. The congress has defined the main course of the party's domestic and foreign policy for the coming years. It has approved the basic directions for the economic and social development of the country for 1986-90.

It has set concrete tasks for further increasing the leading and guiding role of the party; strengthening intraparty democracy; introducing a new style in its ideological and organizational work; raising the activity of state, public, and economic organizations; increasing the responsibility of the cadres; and tightening party, state, and labor discipline. All of this is the main political outcome of the highest formum of Mongolian communists.

There is no doubt whatsoever that there is every opportunity to fulfill the party plans and decisions. The congress decisions must become a guide for action for our party and people, for every communist and working person.

The party will fulfill the outlined tasks and will act in a more organized manner. it will be more exacting, more cohesive than ever before. We must act in apurposeful manner and constantly orient ourselves toward the future. in order to increase the potential of socialist economy and steadily improve the people's welfare and culture, it is necessary at the same time to mobilize the material resources and ensure utmost intensification of the human factor.

Our strength lies in the conscientious activity of the communists and all working people. Consequently, the most important task today is to bring the party congress decisions in a most clear manner to the working masses and help them thoroughly grasp and fulfill the decisions in close coordination with their own work and life. The party's ideological and organizational work must be oriented toward unfolding the masses' tremendous creative strength and revealing creative capabilities.

All the party organizations now have the responsible task of mobilizing the workers collectives for fulfilling the party congress decisions. We as well as the congress delegates must show the example here.

The congress has especially pointed out the urgency of close ties between the party's ideological and organizational work and real life; the need to ensure unity of word and deed, decision and the fulfillment of decisions. Now this instruction must be put into practice by party, state, [words indistinct] congress and the pre-congress period.

Everywhere attention must be focused on thinking and working in a new way and introducing scientific and technological attainments and advanced know-how. This is the primary conclusion to be drawn from the work of the congress.

I think that it is appropriate here to note that the congress paid special attention to the need to continue steadfastly implementing the measures undertaken recently for tightening discipline, order, and self-discipline and mobilizing reserves and resources. It is important to wage a determined struggle against bureaucracy, formalism, and routine, narrow views; substituting appeals and slogans for actual work; relaxation of demand for discipline and responsibility; and any other negative occurrences. The party Central Committee will consistently follow this direction in its work.

Comrades! The highest forum of Mongolian communists is being held in the spirit of Marxist-Leninist ideals, under the standard of proletarian internationalism.

Seventy-three delegations of communists, workers, and revolutionary-democratic parties and organizations from 66 countries of the world are taking part in the work of the congress at the invitation of the MPRP Central Committee.

We warmly greet and sincerely thank the CPSU delegation led by Comrade V.I. Vorotnikov, CPSU Central Committee Politburo member and chairman of the RSFSR council of Ministers, and through it the Leninist party and all the Soviet People.

On behalf of the congress delegates, all the communists, and the working people of our country we express to the delegations of all the fraternal communist, workers, and revolutionary-democratic parties and organizations [words indistinct] taking part in the work of [words indistinct] the gratitude of our party and people for their wishes for new successes.

Comrades! A problem that today troubles the minds and hearts of all progressive people of the world, the problem of removing the danger of a nuclear catastrophe and ensuring universal peace and security, was loudly heard from the forum of our congress. The highest forum of Mongolian communists has clearly and accurately expressed full approval and unanimous support for the large-scale and comprehensive peace (?proposals) for ridding mankind of the danger of a nuclear cataclysm.

Our congress has decisively and angrily condemned the policy of state terrorism and aggressive actions carried out by the U.S. militarist quarters in collusion with reactionary regimes in various regions of the world. Our congress has reaffirmed the fighting solidarity of the MPRP and MPR [words indistinct] imperialism, militarism, neocolonialism, apartheid, and Zionism.

The MPRP nad the MPR will continue to strengthen steadfastly the traditional friendship, unity, and solidarity with fraternal socialist countries; will wage an active struggle for creating favorable conditions for the peaceful constructive labor of our people; and contribute to the cause of consolidation of peace in Asia and the entire world.

Comrades! The 19th Congress of our party is being held in the year of the 65th anniversary of the foundation of the MPRP and the victory of the Mongolian people's revolution, and the historic meeting of the great Lenin with the leader of the Mongolian people's revolution D. Sukhe Bator. We are also getting ready to hold, in the very near future, elections to the supreme organ of our state -- the 11th convocation of the MPR People's Great Hural. We are certain that the elections to the people's Great Hural will be an important political event that will confirm the full and unenimous approval by our people of the domestic and foreign policy cf the party, which has been outlined at the party congress, and their determination to implement this policy.

The implementation of the party congress decisions will reflect the vivid creative activity of the people's masses. There is no doubt that in the Eight 5-year Plan period our country will achieve remarkable successes in the creation of the material-technical base of socialism, the perfecting of socialist production relations, and the consolidation of the socialist way of life.

Comrades, forward toward new heights of socialism under the leadership of the MPRP!

UNEN VIEWS CONGRESS' FOREIGN POLICY STAND

OW080053 Ulaanbaatar MONTSAME in Russian 1212 GMT 6 Jun 86

[Text] Ulaanbaatar, 6 Jun (MONTSAME) -- The primary international significance of the 19th MPRP Congress is that it has defined and outlined the course for defending universal peace -- the main external condition for ensuring the successful solution of major tasks in socialist construction in Mongolia. This is the topic of an editorial in the newspaper UNEN.

In its foreign political activity, the MPRP pays primary attention to further strengthening friendship and international ties of brotherhood with the Soviet Union, which reliably guarantees the MPR's development and prosperity. The cooperation of the two fraternal countries in the defense field is significant for the protection of successes and attainments of the Mongolian people in socialist construction, and fully meets the interests of peace and security in Asia and the Far East, the newspaper writes.

[Words indistinct] In the center of the Asiatic continent, it considers contributing in every possible way to the cause of consolidation of security in Asia and developing mutual understanding and cooperation between the states of the vast continent as the most important trends in its foreign political activity.

The MPR proposal for creating a mechanism for the non-use of force in relations between states of the Asia-Pacific region has been widely supported by nations. The supreme MPRP forum has reaffirmed the deep conviction of Mongolian communists that it is possible to create on the Asiatic continent a stable and lasting peace through the collective efforts of all the political parties, parliaments and various public organizations and nations interested in this noble cause, says UNEN.

LDP SOURCES NOTE PARTY, CABINET CHANGES

[Text] Tokyo, July 21 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone Monday reshuffled the top leadership of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party as the first phase of a two-tiered changing of the guard in the party and the cabinent. Nakason, who is pushing for sweeping changes of personnel following the LDP's July 6 election victory, named Noboru Takeshita, Shintaro Abe and Masayoshi Ito to fill the three top executive posts at the party, LDP sources said.

Nakasone also revealed that he will appoint Kiichi Miyazawa as his new finance minister, the sources said. The new cabinet lineup is expected to be announced Tuesday following Nakasone's reinstallment as prime minister by the Diet.

Takeshita, 62, will move over from the finance portfolio to succeed Shin Kanemaru as LDP secretary general, while Abe, also 62, quits the Foreign Ministry and replaces Miyazwa as chairman of the LDP Executive Council. The third ranking LDP executive post, the chairmanship of the party Policy Affairs Council, went to the 72-year-old Ito, an appointment that reflects a factional "balance of power" in the top party hierarchy. Takeshita belongs to the Tanaka faction, the largest in the LDP, and Abe inherited the Fukuda faction from former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda last week. Ito is a ranking member of the Suzuki faction. The three top LDP executives are responsible for shaping LDP policies and running the day-to-day-operations of the party.

The appointments were firmed up in a series of closed-door sessions between Nakasone, Kanemaru and other party bosses at the prime minister's officials resident, political sources said. Kanemaru, 72, who played a key role in engineering the LDP election victory, is stepping down appparently in favor of what he has called a "generational change of leadership" at the LDP.

Political analysts speculated that Takeshita was given the job as LDP secretary general as a reward for his support of Nakasone. Takeshita is closest to Nakasone among the three "new leaders" and it was he who proposed a substantial extension of Nakasone's tenure when his second two-year term as party president ends on October 30. As the new secretary-general, Takeshita is expected to play a central role in carrying the party over the term-extension issue, political analysts said. While he is one of the three "new leaders" aspiring to succeed Nakasone as prime minister, Takeshita is said to be more willing to give Nakasone a longer term since he is having trouble rallying the whole Tanaka faction behind his prime ministerial bid.

Abe's appointment to the LDP Executive Council chairmanship, a job which gives him power to ratify key party decisions, appears to have been made more reluctantly by the Nakasone camp. Nakasone's associates had earlier sought to block Abe's appointment.

Chief Cabinete Secretary Masaharu Gotoda and Transport Minister Hiroshi Mitsuzuka are among a handful of cabinet ministers expected to retain their jobs in the new 21-member cabinet, the third since Nakasone became prime minister in November 1982.

Gotoda, a former police chief, is a close Nakasone aide while Mitsuzuka is responsible for steering through the Diet the privatization of the government-run Japanese National Railways, a key legislative program for the Nakasone government.

Kenzaburo Hara, a veteran politician who has been returned to the Diet 17 times, was named as the LDP's candidate for the speakership of the lower house, political sources said.

Kanemaru Named Deputy Premier

[Excerpt] Tokyo, July 21 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone Monday rewarded Shin Kanemaru, his chief election strategist, as deputy premier as the highlight of a major party and cabinet reshuffle, political sources said. Nakasone, who led the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party to a major victory in the July 6 national elections, is due to be reinstated as prime minister when the new Diet convenes Tuesday.

In a surprising move, Nakasone gave the deputy prime ministership to Kanemaru, the outgoing LDP secretary general naming him as minister without portfolio, and chose Kiichi Miyazawa the new finance minister in a new cabinet to be inaugurated Tuesday. As LDP secretary general, Kanemaru, 72, was believed to be instrumental in devising an astute campaign policy which led to the LDP's landslide victory in the Diet elections. [passage omitted]

LDP CONFERENCE TO DISCUSS NAKASONE'S TERM

[Text] Tokyo, July 18 KYODO -- Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone may stay in office for one more year after his term ends in October, LDP sources said Friday. The one-year prospect came a day after the three LDP" new leaders" decided not to challenge Nakasone's leadership following the LDP's landslide election victory earlier this month. "The length of extension should be decided one way or the other -- whether one year or until the end of the coming ordinary Diet session," a senior LDP official said Friday.

Political sources said the LDP leadership plans to call a party parliamentary conference next week to fix the length of extension. The conference could come next Tuesday, the same day when Nakasone is expected to be renamed prime minister at the start of a special Diet session. LDP rules ban a consecutive third term for the party presidency, which carries with it the prime ministership, but there is no prescription against a term extension.

Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe, Finance Minister Noboru Takeshita and LDP executive Council Chairman Kiichi Miyazawa -- the three "new leaders" thought most likely to vie for the prime ministership -- agreed in a meeting Thursday night to ask Nakasone to remain as party president "as long as required for handling pending legislative programs." The agrement, political sources say, meant that a term extension, instead of a new third term, is now a certainty for Nakasone and the attention now forcuses on howe long the extended term would be.

Takeshita has suggested that the extended term would be quite long, possibly up to a year, noting that the major legislative programs now pending include administrative, financial and education reforms.

However, Abe, who now leads the faction once headed by Former Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda seems to hve a shorter period in mind. Abe consulted with Fukuda Friday morning, and the two agreed that Nakasone should serve at the longest until the end of the fall Diet session to handle the privatization of the government-owned National Railways and the preparation of a supplementary budget. The Diet normally goes into business in the fall for an "extraodinary session" and reconvenes again in late December for an ordinary 150-day session.

The length of Nakasone's extended term, political analysts say, is expected to influence the shape of an anticipated cabinet and top LDP leadership reshuffle following Nakosone's reappointment as prime minister next Tuesday. Opinion within the party are inclined toward a one-year extension, as reflected by the expected appointment of Takeshita as the new LDP secretary general, political sources said. Like outgoing LDP secretary General Shin Kanemaru, Takeshita is known as an able backstage manipulator and the current reading within the LDP is that his skill may be tapped to carry the party toward granting Nakasone and extension of his term.

The new postings for Abe and Miyazawa are yet unclear, but political pundits are speculating that Abe would be given either Miyazawa's party job or retained as foreign minister and given additional responsibility as deputy prime minister. Miyazawa could either be given a senior cabinet job or named as the party's chief policymaker as chairman of the LDP Policy Affairs Research Council.

The party secretary general, the Executive Council chairman and the chairman of the Policy Affairs Council together functionsd as the party triumvirate with extensive powers to shape party policy in addition to overseeing day-to-day operation of the party. The top party trio apart, Nakasone is expected to retain Masahara Gotoda, a close aide and former head of the National Police Agency, as his policy coordinator and spokesman in his capacity as chief cabinet secretary, political sources said.

JAPAN DEMANDS CANCELLATION OF SOVIET DRILL

[Text] Moscow, July 18 KYODO -- An official of the Japanese Embassy in Moscow visited the Soviet Foreign Ministry Friday to demand the cancellation of a firing drill in the northern Pacific, but the Soviet Union rejected the request. The Soviet Union has warned that flights over three areas of the northern Pacific from the Kamchatka Peninsula to the Kuril Islands should be suspended from 3.00 a.m. to 7.00 a.m. (GMT), for the duration of the drill, July 21-26.

Kyoji Komachi, counsellor at the embassy, insisted that the training is unlawful as the areas include Japanese territorial waters off Etorofu Island, the Japanese territory occupied by the Soviet Union at the end of World War II. He demanded the Soviet Union call off the training and notified that Japan reserves the right to claim compensation, if the drill causes damage to a Japanese party.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry told Komachi the claims could not be accepted, according to embassy officials.

[Text] Tokyo, July 21 KYODO -- Japan and the Soviet Union agreed Monday on the time and places for Japanese visits to ancestral graves without visas on two out of the four Soviet-held northern islands, on Sakhalin and in the mainland Soviet Union from late this month through August, a Foreign Ministry official said. Both sides earlier agreed in general on the resumption of the grave visits after a 10-year suspension. The accord allows Japanese to visit their ancestral graves in 11 places in total in the Soviet Union.

The accord came when Hiroshi Shigeta, head of the ministry's Soviet Affairs Division, met G.E. Komarovskiy, counsellor at the Soviet Embassy, Monday morning in the ministry. The Soviet proposal included permission to visit such graves in Shikotan and Habomai Islands -- two of the four islands east of Hikkaido Japan claims its territorial right -- in late August. Also included are six places on Sakhalin -- Yuzhno-Sakhalinsk, Kholmsk, Neveljsk, Gornozavodsk, Chekhov and Poronaisk. In additon, Japanese can visit graves in three places -- Khabarovsk, Nakhodka and Okha on the mainland of the Soviet Union.

The visits to Sakhalin will be permitted between July 28 and August 6 while the dates for visits to the mainland will be later decided through diplomatic contacts to materialize them by the end of August, the ministry official said.

During the day's meeting, Shigeta expressed regret that Moscow did not accept Japan's earlier request for permission to grave visits to all four northern islands, including Kunashiri and Etorofu Islands as well. In particular, Japan regrets that the grave visit to Kinashir, which had been permitted in the past, was excluded, Shigeta told Komarovskiy.

The Soviet diplomat said the proposed list includes three new places -- Chekhov and Poronaisk on Sakhalin and Okha on the mainland. But he promised to convey to the home government the Japanese regret.

During the 1964-1975 period, former Japanese islanders visited their ancestral graves on the three of the four norther islands -- Habomai, Shikotan and Kinashiri -- with only identification cards specially issued by the Japanese Government. But the Soviets told Japan in 1976 that Japanese wishing to visit graves on the northern islands would need visas, leading to the suspension of the grave-visit program. Such visits to the mainland of the Soviet Union were also suspended since 1977.

FIRMS SUSPENDING REDUCING SAUDI CRUDE IMPORTS

[Text] Tokyo, July 19 KYODO -- Japanese trading and oil companies have begun to suspend or reduce crude oil imports from Saudi Arabia amid the global oil market slump, industry sources said Saturday. Mitsui and Co., for instance, has decided to suspend Saudi crude imports from the end of July, while Marubeni Corp. will take similar action if Saudi Arabia refuses to lower its oil prices, according to the sources. The Mitsubishi Corp.-Kyodo Oil Co. group is considering cutting Saudi oil imports by about 30 percent starting next month, they said. Mitsui and Co. and Marubeni Corp., both large trading companies, have each been importing 50,000 barrels of Saudi oil a day since February. Mitsubishi Corp. and Kyodo Oil between them imported 200,000 and 70,000 barrels a day in June.

The sources said the moves among the Japanese companies have been prompted by the relatively high prices of Saudi crude. The price of Arabian light, Saudi Arabia's benchmark crude, still stands at about 10 dollars a barrel, while Iranian light sells for 7.75 dollars a barrel on the spot market, the sources said. Also, Oman crude is now priced at about 8.05 dollars a barrel, they added. The Japanese companies have thus been sending representatives to Saudi Arabia since the end of May to negotiate cuts in Saudi crude prices, but they have so far failed to win a favorable response, according to the sources.

The sources said Mitsui and Co. and Marubeni will buy crude oil on the spot market after the end of this month. They added that the Mitsubishi-Kyodo group will make up for the projected 30 percent cut in Saudi crude imports with oil to be purchased on the spot market. Reflecting growing moves among these and other Japanese companies to switch to the spot market from long-term contracts with oil-producing nations, imports on a spot basis now account for more than 80 percent of Japan's total oil imports against about 30 percent a year ago, according to the sources.

PRODUCTION OF NEW SATELLITE PROTOTYPE BEGINS

[Text] Tokyo, July 19 KYODO -- Mitsubishi Electric Corp. said Saturday it has started production of a prototype for the CS-3, the firm's new stationary-orbit communication satellite. Mitsubishi will produce two models of the satellite, to supersede the tow models of Japan's second experimental stationary satellite, the Sakura 2-A, and Sakura 2-D, now being used by Nippon Telegraph and Telephone Corp. (NTT), the Construction Ministry, the Japanese National Railways, and electric power firms, a company spokesman said.

He said the Tokyo-based firm is the prime contractor to the National Space Development Agency, which is planning to launch the prototype as the CS-3A at its space center in Tanegashima Island, off the southernmost main island of Kyushu, in February 1988 following its completion late this year. Weighing 550 kilograms, the cylinder-type satellite has solid solar battery panels made of gallium arsenide on the outside, he said. It measures 2.2 meters in diameter and stands 2.4 meters high.

REJECTION OF LETTERS THREATENS TALKS 'RUPTURE'

[KCNA Information]

[Text] As is known, on 9 June the KPA Supreme Command put forward a new peace proposal for holding talks among military authorities in connection with the tense situation prevailing in our country, with the minister of the People's Armed Forces of the DPRK, the commander in chief of the UN Forces in South Korea, and the South Korean defense minister sitting together in one place.

This peace proposal is a reasonable proposal, advanced in a very timely manner, to eliminate the danger of war, to guarantee peace on the Korean peninsula, and to create a favorable atmosphere for North-South dialogue.

Hardly had it been made public to the world than the KPA Supreme Command's peace proposal aroused great sympathy and support among governments, political parties, organizations, broad social segments, and journalistic circles in various countries throughout the world, including the socialist countries.

However, the U.S. forces side [migunchuk] and the South Korean side, the parties directly responsible for our new important peace proposal, have not only failed to respond to it, but they have refused talks between military authorities without any justifiable reasons or due cause.

In particular, the U.S. forces side and the South Korean side, after refusing talks among military authorities mentioned in our first letter, have refused to even accept our recently sent second letter. In view of the propriety to be observed by the two parties to dialogue and in view of the general customs that have existed between the North and South, this is an unprecedentedly rude act.

Under circumstances in which the U.S. forces side and the South Korean side have adopted a challenging attitude toward our constructive initiative for detente [wanhwa] and peace, we have no choice but to make public, in detail, at home and abroad, the irresponsible and insincere action they have taken from the very beginning concerning talks among military authorities.

In connection with the KPA Supreme Command's new peace initiative, at 1000 on 7 June, the senior secretary of our side to MAC, was authorized to send the first telephone message to the senior secretary of the opposite side in an attempt to deliver the letters from the minister of the People's Armed Forces of the DPRK to the commander of the U.S. 8th Army in South Korea and commander of the ROK-U.S. Combined Forces Command [hanmij yonhapkun saryonggwan] and to the South Korean defense minister.

In this message, the senior secretary of our side stated that two liaison officers would come to the conference hall of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission [NNSC] in Panmunjom at 1500 on 9 June to deliver the letters from the minister of People's Armed Forces of the DPRK to the commander of the U.S. 8th Army in South Korea and commander of the ROK-U.S. Combined Forces Command and to the South Korean defense minister and demanded that the opposite side send on equivalent number of personnel to take the letters in this connection.

On 9 June, the day on which our side had earlier decided to deliver the letters, the opposite side sent no reply. After this, at 1050 the same day the senior secretary of our side sent a telephone message to the senior secretary of the opposite side, urging once again that the other side send the equivalent number of personnel to facilitate delivery of the letters as soon as possible.

As we sent another telephone message, the senior secretary of the opposite side replied tersely and vaguely that a notification would be made late in the afternoon. Our side had already waited patiently for 2 days. However, the opposite side continuously failed to react.

So, at 0815 on the morning of 11 June, the senior secretary of our side again sent a message to remind the senior secretary of the opposite side, noting that 4 days had already passed since the time we had sent the first message urging him to relay the letter and that 2 days had passed since he had sent a message saying that he would notify us later, and urging him to send personnel to faciliate delivery of the lettes as soon as possible.

On 14 June, 3 days later, the senior secretary of the opposite side sent us a reply message saying that its side would receive the letters at noon on 17 June and wrote on the back of the message a preposterous condition which stated that its side would receive the letter to U.S. forces side only if it is a letter from the KPA Supreme Commander to the commander in chief of the UN forces.

The current commander of the U.S. forces in South Korea holds various titles, including commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, commander of U.S. forces stationed in South Korea, commander of the ROK-U.S. Combined Forces Command, and the commander in chief of the UN forces. All of these titles have given themselves [as heard], they always use and call themselves, and in whatever title the person is called he is the same person.

The person who holds these titles will remain the same person by whichever title we may call him. Therefore, they have no reason to say that they would receive or not receive the letters on the grounds of title used.

It was, therefore, a preposterous assertion for them to say that they would receive the letter only if it is addressed to the commander in chief of the UN forces.

Although the demand of the U.S. side was unjust, we decided to take into account their demand out of a serious stand to open an ew phase of detente and peace at all costs.

At 1000 on 16 June, the senior secretary of our side to MAC sent a telephone message to the senior secretary of the opposite side to say that our letter would be in the form of a letter from the minister of the People's Armed Forces of the DPRK, first represntative of the KPA Supreme Commander, to the commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, alias the commander in chief of the UN forces in South Korea, urging him once again to accept receipt of the letter without further delay.

However, at 1648 the same day, the side of U.S. forces sent back a telephone message stating that the letter should bear the single title of the commander in chief of the UN forces, detaching the title of the commander of the U.S. Eighth Army, and that he could receive the letter only if the letter is signed by the KPA Supreme Commander or signed by someone else on his behalf.

From the beginning, taking issue with the titles of the sender and recipient of the letter is an unjust and impudent act. As for the problem concerning our sending a letter by the title of the first representative of the KPA Supreme Commander, it had sufficiently reflected their demand. It is indeed nothing but an impudent act that runs counter to propriety and common sense to take issue with it and even interfere with the use of the name of the opposite side.

Although the demand of the U.S. forces side stemmed from an impure intention, we decided to show generosity once again and to take into consideration their demands one more time, out of a sincere stand to make talks for detente and peace a success.

The side of U.S. forces, which was unable to find another excuse or retreat in the face of our generous stand, took the letter, finally, on 17 June, 10 days after we sent our first message.

However, the U.S. forces side which took our letter one hour earlier advised that it would send the letter back through the joint duty officer to MAC. While saying that its side would send back the letter, it did not have appropriate words ready to answer our demands as to why.

Without any explanation, they simply stated that they would again hand the letter over to our side at a meeting of joint duty officers or both sides at noon on 18 June.

We were determined to see in what manner the side of U.S. forces could regurgitate what it had already swallowed. Nevertheless, the side of U.S. forces had to suddenly change its attitude overnight.

In the morning of 18 June, the next day, the U.S. forces side hurriedly sent us a telephone message saying that its side had decided not to send our letter back. It might have been too afraid of public opinion at home and abroad to send back the letter which it had received and opened with its own hands in the presence of domestic and foreign correspondents. This fact clearly shows how disconcerted and nonplussed they were after having received the letter containing our peace proposal.

After that, the U.S. forces side and the South Korean side sent us reply letters to our letters on 21 June and 24 June respectively. In its reply letter, the U.S. forces side has refused talks among military authorities, saying that our proposal is an issue related to North-South relations and that issues related to relaxing tension can be discussed at MAC. Also, the South Korean side refused the talks exactly as the United States had, in exactly the same manner as the United States. The only difference was that the South Korean side added a suggestion that talks among the persons in highest authority in the North and South be held.

The reply letters to the letters of our side from the U.S. forces side and the South Korean military authorities were in effect not reply letters. Rather, they were an intolerable mockery of all of the people in the country and the people of the world who hope for detente, dialogue, and peace.

However, out of a serious stand for detente, peace, and dialogue, we decided to once again show our generosity, and send second letters in order to allow the U.S. forces and the South [illegible] side to seriously study our peace proposal and urged them to respond to it.

On authorization, the senior secretary of our side to MAC, sent a telephone message to the senior secretary of the opposite side on 3 July urging him to accept our second letter and suggested that the date of delivery of the letter be at noon on 5 July.

The senior secretary of the opposite side, which had received our telephone message, sent to us another message on 5 July, saying that it would reply later.

We waited patiently for days. However, no reply came from the opposite side. Finally, the senior secretary of the opposite side sent us a message stating that the U.S. forces side would not receive the letter unless it was signed by the KPA Supreme Commander. This was preposterous.

Despite the fact that our side had already sent the first letter signed by the first representative of the KPA Supreme Commander and that they had set the precedent of having received this very letter, this time they babbled about the name of the sender. This is nothing but a preposterous outrage designed, in effect, not to receive the second letter.

In connection with the fact that the U.S. forces side had made an utterly preposterous excuse and that the South Korean side has not answered, our side sent another telephone message on 10 July, making clear our stand that liaison personnel of our side would come to the places where our first letters had been delivered to deliver our second letters and that if personnel would not come from the opposite side to receive the letters or refuse to facilitate their delivery, we would convey the contents of the letters via broadcasts.

Despite our patient efforts and repeated urgings, the South Korean side did not send personnel concerned to Panmunjom, saying that it could not accept the letter. Yet the moment they said they could not receive the letter, they indulged in the petty wiles of overissuing worthless telephone telephone messages which called for immediately resuming the suspended North-South dialogues.

The U.S. forces side also doggedly refused to receive our letters by making preposterous excuses at a meeting of the joint duty officers to MAC held at noon on (?11) July even after it had duly received the letter of our side and opened it.

Proceeding from this, our side had no choice but to convey the letters to the commander in chief of the UN Forces in South Korea and the South Korean defense minister via broadcasts, as the opposite side had been notified.

This is the attitude of the United States and the South Korean side which babble about their hope for detente and peace and who say that they desire dialogue.

One act of putting into practice is far more important than saying a hundred words. By refusing the KPA Supreme Command's peace initiative, the United States and the South Korean side laid bare that their reference to detente, peace, and dialogue is false and that in reality they pursue only confrontation and war.

By refusing our proposal for talks among military authorities designed to take realistic measures for detente and peace, the United States and the South Korean side also made clear that the threat of southward invasion which they babble about almost every day does not, in reality, exist, that it is a falsehood that they brandish to justify the occupation of South Korea by U.S. troops and to bring the internal crisis facing South Korea under control.

Because the United States and the persons in authority in South Korea have refused the peace proposal by the KPA Supreme Command and because they have pursued a policy of war and confrontation, the situation in our country has become more acute and the various forms of dialogue that are in a state of suspension are being driven into the danger of rupture [kyollyolui wihom].

The United States and the persons in authority in South Korea should take responsibility for leading the situation in our country to the brink of war and driving North-South dialogue to a crisis.

NODONG SINMUN DENOUNCES U.S. REJECTION OF LETTER

[NODONG SINMUN 20 July commentary: "Whom are They Going to Provoke into a Quarrel?"]

[Text] It is already known that the United States even refused to receive our side's letter calling for holding talks by military authorities while displaying an attitude of rejecting our just and fair proposal for the talks.

The U.S. imperialists are attempting to mislead public opinion by propagandizing as if their act is appropriate. This is indeed a shameless act of a thief calling stop thief, and is an arrogant act of those who do not even know where they should stand or sit down.

Our people cannot repress their indignation over such an act by the U.S. imperialists. The U.S. military side is making an issue of the signature of the first representative of the KPA Supreme Commander. However, how high is the position of Livsey to commit such an arrogant act?

Livsey holds various titles, such as commander of the U.S. 8th Army, commander of the U.S. Forces in South Korea, commander of the U.S.-South Korea Combined Forces Command and commander in chief of the UN Forces. However, his essential position is commander of U.S. Forces in South Korea. Livsey is making a show of power as if he is a big man [kun chonjae] by presenting the title of commander in chief of the UN Forces. However, his act cannot fool anyone.

In fact, the title of UN Forces used by the U.S. forces in South Korea was removed long ago. More than 10 years have passed since the resolution was adopted at the UN General Assembly calling for dissolving the UN Command, for withdrawal of all foreign troops stationed in South Korea under the signboard of the United Nations, and for replacing the armistice agreement with a peace agreement.

At that time the U.S. imperialists themselves said that the armed forces stationed in South Korea were not UN forces but were U.S. forces. Thus, they decided to take down the UN flag in their military installations or to remarkably [kukhi] restrict the use of this flag.

This showed that the U.S. imperialists lost face to freely use the signboard of the United Nations any longer. Practically, the UN forces do not exist in South Korea; only the U.S. imperialist aggressors remain there.

The fact that we sent the letter with the signature of the first representative of the Supreme Commander to Livsey, Commander of the U.S. 8th Army, calling him commander in chief of the UN Forces as he demanded, was an expression of our good intention of settling the important question concerning relaxation of tension on the Korean peninsula by realizing talks by the military authorities.

However, the U.S. military side refused to receive the letter, picking a quarrel with the issue of the title of its counterpart. This is morally mean and is an impolite, reckless act.

We would like to point out that the first letter sent on 9 June from the minister of our People's Armed Forces was signed in the name of the first representative of the Supreme Commander. That time the U.S. military side received that letter. What is the reason for abruptly changing its attitude toward the issue of the signatory?

This is aimed at avoiding at any cost talks by the military authorities proposed by us. From the beginning, the United States has been reluctant to take measures for easing tension by having the real military powerholders sit face to face.

The treacherous nature of the act of the United States against the letter containing an epochal peace initiative was clearly shown by the fact that it refused the letter while raving that the question concerning easing tension is an issue which should be resolved in North-South relations and can be discussed at the MAC meeting, and so forth.

The issue of taking practical measures to ease tension on the Korean peninsula can be successfully resolved only when the real military powerholders of the North and South sit face to face.

It is the U.S. forces, having seized the prerogative of supreme command, who control the puppet army. What can we discuss and resolve by sitting face to face only with the South Korean side, which has no real power?

The fact that the U.S. military side rejected our proposal, pushing it aside as an issue related to North-South relations, is a cunning trick designed to show that the U.S. has no responsibility for the aggravated tension on the Korean peninsula.

The reason why the U.S. military side wanted to have its title only as Commander in Chief of the UN Forces was to conceal its being an aggressor force. Its request to discuss the issue of easing tension at the MAC is based on the same reason.

When we proposed discussing the issue of suspending military exercises through the MAC to realize an atmosphere for the North-South dialogue, the U.S. side rejected our proposal, noting that it is an issue outside the authority of the MAC. This is an event which occurred only a few months ago.

However, today, the United States is talking as if even greater and more important questions than the issue of suspending military exercises can be discussed at the MAC. The fact that the United States is abruptly changing its attitude, losing even consistency, is merely a trick designed to avoid taking measures toward easing military tension in order to eliminate the danger of a war on the Korean peninsula.

All responsibility for the aggravated tension on the Korean peninsula and for leading the situation to the brink of war totally rests with the U.S. imperialist aggressors, who oppose any measure to prevent war and relax tension.

U.S. propaganda about easing tension and peace is, all in all, false. The U.S. imperialists should not misunderstand our good intentions and should give up extending to others their wicked habit of controlling the puppets, dominating South Korea as the colonial ruler.

The United States should respond to talks by the military authorities as called for by us instead of attempting to pick a quarrel.

PLAN FOR NUCLEAR ARMORIES IN KUNSAN VIEWED

'Grave Challenge to Peace'

NODONG SINMUN 12 July commentary: "Challenge to Peace"]

[Text] The United Staates has turned South Korea into the source of a nuclear war. According to a foreign news report based on records of a closed hearing of the Subcommittee on Military Construction of the U.S. Congress Appropriations Committee, the U.S. imperialists are pushing ahead with their plan to build 36 ammunition dumps to stockpile nuclear weapons at the Kunsan Base in South Korea.

In addition to stockpiling nuclear weapons in this underground hanger-type nuclear magazine, called the System for Security in Storage of Weapons (WS-3), they are going to depoly fighter-bombers in this hangar and place them on a mobilization posture so that they can take off within 15 minutes during an emergency.

This is another violent and reckless act to turn South Korea into a nuclear forward base. Such a military move by the United States fully exposes its bellicose intention of starting a nuclear war on the Korean peninsula.

Having prepared a plan to start a nuclear war on the Korean peninsula, the United States is accelerating the perfection of this operational system. The U.S authorities are undisguisedly raving about the use of nuclear weapons against us.

It is well known that the United States is making the Kunsan base a stronghold to provoke such a nuclear war. This is clearly shown again by the fact that the United States is going to build a new underground hangar-type magazine at the Kunsan Base, where scores of F-16 fighter-bombers capable of carrying nuclear weapons are deployed.

The U.S. imperialists plan to mount a surprise nuclear forestalling attack against our republic and the other socialist countries by using F-16 fighter-bombers as the chief means of attack and the Kunsan Base as the launching base, and are now hastening preparations for this. A host of additional facts also prove this.

Some time ago, the United States and the South Korean puppets held a ceremony for F-16 fighter-bombes it handed over to them. This reveals the U.S. imperialists' intention of mounting a surprise nuclear forestalling attack in joint aerial operations with the puppet clique.

It has been learned that the United States is going to complete plans to deploy F-16 fighter-bombers at the Mizawa Base in Japan 1 year ahead of schedule. It has also been reported that the Japanese Air Self-Defense Force is going to introduce F-16 fighter-bombers in addition to the F-15 planes that are used as its main planes.

It is known that a combined military exercise between the U.S. F-16 planes in Japan and in South Korea is also being planned. This is aimed at perfecting U.S.-Japan-South Korea tripartite nuclear war preparations and at standardizing combat equipment and instruments for a preemptive attack.

The U.S. imperialists are attempting to further turn South Korea and its surrounding areas into the source of a nuclear war and to envelope the Korean peninsula in the flames of nuclear war. The new moves of the reactionary ruling circles of the United States to unleash a nuclear war on the Korean peninsula are a vicious challenge to the Korean people and the world's progressive people, who are making efforts to turn the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free, peace zone and realize the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea. It also is an unpardonable aggressive and criminal act flouting the world's peace-loving people, who are marking this year as a year of peace.

Peace and stability on the Korean peninsula, much vaunted by the United States, are mere hypocrisy and deception and nothing but a camouflage for the cloaking of its nuclear war preparations.

The true nature of the U.S. imperialists as nuclear fanatics is being more clearly revealed as time passes. Because of the nuclear war preparation maneuvers of the United States, the situation on the Korean peninsula is being further strained and the danger of a new war -- a nuclear war -- is increasing. This is a grave challenge to peace.

The United States must give up its war preparations, should respond as early as possible to our peace initiative on easing tension and removing the danger of war on the Korean peninsula, and withdraw its forces and nuclear weapons from South Korea without delay.

VNS Urges Opposition

SK170346 (Clandestine) Voice of National Salvation in Korean to South Korea 0300 GMT 12 Jul 86

[Station commentary]

[Text] In this hour, we will discuss a U.S. attempt to build a nuclear armory in Kunsan, North Cholla Province. According to a news report, a U.S. plan to build an ammunition dump capable of storing tactical nuclear weapons at a U.S. Air Force base in Kunsan, North Cholla Province, has been disclosed, drawing the great attention of the people at home and abroad. This fact has been revealed by a record on a closed hearing conducted by the Military Construction Subcommittee of the U.S. House Appropriations Committee. According to this report, the U.S. Air Force plans to build 36 special-type storehouses for nuclear weapons in Kunsan base, South Korea.

This nuclear weapons storehouse is an underground hangar-type one called W.S. 3 that safely stores weapons. With the completion of this nuclear weapons storehouse, nuclear weapons and fighters for offensive use will be conserved together. In an emergency, nuclear weapons will be loaded on fighters and bombers, and these fighters and bombers can take off in 15 minutes and launch a nuclear strike.

The U.S. Department of Defense has asked Congress to approve the appropriation of funds for the construction of these special-type storehouses for nuclear weapons. This is a very dangerous maneuver to turn South Korea into a nuclear base, clearly proving that U.S. maneuvers to make preparations for a nuclear war have been stepped up in a frantic manner.

The United States has deployed large quantities of nuclear weapons in this land in order to turn it into a nuclear base by designating South Korea as a forward base to implement the aggressive U.S. strategy for the Far East. Having deployed in South Korea more than 1,000 nuclear weapons, including neutron bombs and mines, The United States has deployed in South Korea [word indistinct], Stinger missiles, and F-16 fighter bombers capable of carrying nuclear weapons. At the same time, while annually staging the "Team Spirit" South Korea-U.S. joint military exercise, it has frantically stepped up nuclear war exercises -- preliminary wars that are designed for an armed northward invasion.

U.S. maneuvers to build hangars capable of storing new-type nuclear weapons in Kunsan are criminal maneuvers to step up and complete its preparations for a nuclear war. This is an intolerable challenge to our peole and the peace-loving people of the world, who demand the withdrawal of the U.S. forces and nuclear weapons from South Korea and peace and the peaceful reunification of the Korean peninsula.

Today our people and the peace-loving people of the world demand the complete abolishment of nuclear weapons on earth, icluding South Korea. A movement is being briskly carried out throughout the world to establish nuclear-free peace zones. On 23 February this year, North Korea issued a government statement and put forth a proposal for turning the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free peace zone, winning the ardent support and welcome from the people at home and abroad. At this crucial moment, instead of withdrawing nuclear weapons from South Korea, the United States is trying to build nuclear weapons storehouses there. This clearly shows that it desires not peace but war and that it is very frantically running amok to impose nuclear disasters on our people and territory.

Despite opposition and rejection from our people, the U.S. war maniacs have further stepped up maneuvers to deploy nuclear weapons in South Korea and to turn this land into a nuclear base under the preposterous pretext of protection by a nuclear umbrella. This is basically aimed at sacrificing our people by touching off a nuclear war on the Korean peninsula and implementing their aggressive strategy for Asia at the cost of sacrificing our people. This is also aimed at continuously supporting, with nuclear weapons, the Chon Tu-hwan group, which is facing the crisis of downfall, and at suppressing our people's daily expanding and increasing anti-U.S. and antigovernment fighting spirit.

All facts show that without eliminating the U.S. aggressors from this land, we cannot expect peace and the peaceful reunification of the Korean peninsula, nor can we save our people from horrible nuclear disasters. Because of this, our people have much more fiercely fanned the flames of the antiwar and antinuclear struggle while demanding the withdrawal of U.S. forces. If our people acquiesce to the U.S. maneuvers to turn this land into a nuclear bse, the Korean peninsula will face the greater danger of a nuclear war. Those who will sustain damage from this are we ourselves. The patriotic people from all walks of life should rise as one to thoroughly check and thwart the reckless U.S. maneuvers to turn this land into a nuclear base.

'Unpardonable Criminal Act'

["Statement of Korean Central News Agency" -- KCNA Headline]

[Text] Pyongyang July 16 (KCNA) -- The KOREAN CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY on July 16 published a statement on authorisation in connection with the plan to build 36 special nuclear depots in Kunsan, South Korea, promoted by the U.S. imperialists lately.

The statement reads in part:

The U.S. imperialists are proceeding with plan to build 36 nuclear depots in Kunsan, South Korea, these days according to foreign press reports.

The special hanger-style underground depots codenamed "W.S. 3" will store nuclear weapons and attack fighter planes kept in a round-the-clock combat posture and stand-by alert to take off within 15 minutes.

The decision to construct 36 special nuclear depots and keep them on stand-by alert in South Korea where the density of nuclear deployment is quadruple NATO and more than half of the U.S. nuclear weapons deployed all over the Far East are massed, graphically shows to what dangerous extent the U.S. imperialists have gone in their nuclear war provocation moves.

It must not go unnoticed that a spokesman of the U.S. Defense Department declared in this connection that information about the capacity of the deposit and preservation of nuclear weapons is not a secret.

The U.S. military authorities who had kept the nuclear weapons present in South Korea in strict secrecy have now made public even the plan to build the special nuclear depots. This implies that the nuclear war preparations of the U.S. imperialists are being overtly stepped up in the last stage without hesitation.

The Korean Central News Agency sharply denounces their scheme to build the nuclear depots in South Korea, regarding it as an unpardonable criminal act to round off theire nuclear war preparations, venture a forestalling nuclear strike at our country and other socialist countries and force the scourge of nuclear war upon mankind.

Their moves to stat a new nuclear war is a grave challenge to our honest and sincere efforts to ease the tensions on the Korean peninsula and solve questions through dialogue and negotiation.

Only recently, our party and the government of our republic put forward the momentous proposal to hold talks of military authorities and the peace proposal to turn the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free, peace zone.

The United States and the South Korean authorities, however, are answering our peace proposals with more undisguised maneuverings to provoke a nuclear war, far from responding to them.

The U.S. imperialists have built a space observation post, a part of the "star wars" program, in Taegu, started building new nuclear depots in the Kyeryong mountain and illegally transferred "F-16" fighter-bombers to the South Korean puppet Army.

On the other hand, the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppet clique are staging almost every day massive military maneuvers simulating nuclear warfare, bringing the situation to the extreme pitch of strain and driving the multi-channel North-South dialogues arranged with so much efforts to the brink of breakup.

Yet the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean authorities have the effrontery to wax eloquent about relaxation of tensions on the Korean peninsula and dialogue, as if they were interested in them, in a foolish attempt to lay at the North's door the blame for the growing tensions and suspension of the dialogues.

It is rank hypocrisy and deception for the United States and the South Korean authorities to talk about "resumption of dialogue" and "relaxation of tensions" while making haste with nuclear war preparations, far from accepting our reasonable peace proposals of wide range, and arrogantly refusing even to receive letters from the dialogue partner.

However noisily the U.S. imperialists may cry for "dialogue" and "peace," they can never conceal their true color as the nuclear warmaniac, the wrecker of North-South dialogue and the harasser of world peace.

If the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean authorities are really interested in peace and dialogue, they should promptly discontinue their nuclear war preparations and show an affirmative response to our proposals to have talks of military authorities and create a nuclear-free, peace zone on the Korean peninsula.

'ULCHI-86' WAR EXERCISES IN SOUTH DENOUNCED

[NODONG SINMUN 15 July Commentary: "A Rash Act of a Warmonger Threatening Peace"]

[Text] The Chon Tu-hwan puppet clique made a new war noise called "Ulchi-86", beginning on 14 July. For this war exercise, which will continue for 6 days until 19 July, the puppets are mobilizing not only the puppet army units and all of the puppet government organs, but also all civilians and vehicles throughout South Korea under the pretext of inspecting the so-called state of preparations for coping with wartime and the people's readiness for an all-out war.

The puppets are now staging, day and night, such war exercises as an exercise to familiarize the people with the techniques to cope with chemical, biological, and radiological warfare, a traffic control exercise, an air raid exercise, a blackout exercise, an curfew exercise, and a food and fuel rationing exercise.

Such a war exercise commotion as the puppets are kicking up by mobilizing all of the people at peace time, not wartime, is precisely an act that warmongers usually perpetrate on the eve of a war.

The "Ulchi-86" exercise is an actual wartime general mobilization exercise to provoke a war of northward invasion against us and to immediately mobilize all manpower and material resources in South Korea on short notice.

In a statement issued in connection with the beginning of the "Ulchi-86" war exercise, the minister of the puppet Ministry of Culture and Information agitated a war fever by clamoring that the period of the exercise has been designated to inspire the consciousness of security among the people, that this period should be used as an occasion to further strengthen their spiritual armament, that a full and perfect combat posture should be established among the army units, that an all-out security posture should be established among the people, and the like.

The U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets have repeatedly played with fire. However, there has never been such a case in the past in which the bugler of the puppet government directly blew the trumpet of war so strongly and openly, sychronizing the start of a war exercise, as blown this time.

In view of all the facts, the Chon Tu-hwan military gangster clique is frantically running wild to provoke a war in Korea, together with the U.S. imperialists.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring is shamelessly clamoring that the "Ulchi-86" exercise is an action to cope with something like an armed southward invasion and a step for peace. This is indeed preposterous.

It is already known that we have advanced the important initiatives for holding talks among military authorities in an effort to alleviate tension in Korea, to preserve and solidify peace there, and to create a favorable atmosphere for dialogue and negotiations and for establishing a nuclear-free zone of peace on the Korean peninsula.

To reinforce the armed forces and to expand armaments, while turning down our repeated peace proposals and to make large-scale war exercise noises in succession, while clamoring that they are to cope with someone's threat of invasion and a step for peace is a shameless sophistry that can convince no one.

Blowing a trumpet of peace while reeking of powder is an unbecoming act. The repeated war exercise noises of the Chon Tu-hwan ring and its maneuvers for confrontation are not only a bellicose, rash act to aggravate tension and threaten peace in Korea, but are also intolerable, treacherous acts which hinder national harmony and unity and block the road toward national reunification.

The danger prevailing on the Korean peninsula is not a threat of southward invasion, but a threat of northward invasion. It is us, not the puppets, who face the threat. What is more ridiculous is the puppets' loud cry about resuming dialogue and peaceful reunification while staging military exercises.

While making the exercise noise, declaring us, the other side of dialogue, the enemy, with whom are the puppets going to have dialogue for peaceful reunification? Anticommunist confrontation and war insanity cannot be compatible with dialogue and peaceful reunification.

During the present situation, which the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets are bringing to an extreme strain by continuing the war exercises against us, talks among military authorities should be held before the Red Cross talks or the economic talks, and the problem of suspending military exercises should be discussed first of all to create an atmosphere for the resumption of the suspended North-South dialogues.

It is preposterous and absurd for the South Korean puppets to whip up anticommunist confrontation while turning down our proposal for holding talks among military authorities and to talk about resuming dialogue while making frantic war noises.

Today, the Chon Tu-hwan ring, which has been completely isolated at home and abroad, is recklessly running wild to threaten the people, maintain its military fascist rule with bayonets, and find a way out from the war adventure against us. However, this is a foolish act.

Those who play with fire are destined to be burned to death in fire. We will never tolerate the reckless war noise of the bellicose South Korean elements.

Self-Destructive Act

[NODONG SINMUN 18 July commentary: "Reckless Playing Wtih Fire"]

[Text] A frantical war exercise code-named "Ulchi-86" has continued for 5 days in South Korea. This war exercise is being conducted in a more vicious manner with each passing day throughout South Korea -- a stage of operations -- through the mobilization of the puppet forces, the Homeland Reserve Forces, various puppet institutions, residents, and cars. In Seoul and various other places in South Korea, they are running amok with an exercise of the puppet forces against guerrilla offensives, an exercise involving the mobilization of the Homeland Reserve Forces without advance notice: an exercise against chemical, biological, and radioactive warfare: a blackout exercise against night-time raids: a traffic control exercise: an exercise involving reporting [to relevant organizations] by the residents: a fire drill: an exercise involving the mobilization of heavy machinery: a fuel ration exercise: and other exercises. This bears a close resemblance to wartime scenes. South Korean newspapers and radios are extensively babbling about this and the scenes of this war exercise, in which tanks are running, guns are booming, and in which aircraft are flying, are aired on television.

The puppet Ministry of Culture and Information distributed booklets on how to act in an emergency, and are forcing the residents to follow this instruction. Under the stereotyped slogan of making preparations against an armed southward invasion, the puppets are frantically pervading an atmosphere of war, while talking about making preparations for an all-out war by the people and thoroughly checking preparatory measures for an emergency.

Various types of war exercises were also conducted in the past. However, an exercise of this type, in which various exercises are conducted throughout South Korea simultaneously by complete mobilization, has never been conducted. In view of its scale, content, and intensity, this war exercise is the largest-scale all-round exercise ever, and is virtually a test war aimed at establishing the system of an all-out mobilization during a wartime period. This evidence shows that the puppets, instigated by the U.S. imperialists, are further accelerating preparations for a new war in a final stage.

The "Ulchi-86" exercise, an adventurous war racket aimed at completing preparations for an all-out attack against our republic, strongly hints that they can embark on the military action against us at any time. The serious state of affairs in South Korea is approaching the acute situation seen on the eve of a war.

The frantic "Ulchi" war exercise rackets which the puppets have kicked up against us clearly show who really is the ringleader who aggravates tension in Korea, and who destroys dialogue and peace. The "Ulchi-86" exercise is an extension of various war rackets which have continued since the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise, which suspended the North-South dialogue.

War exercises that have continued in South Korea will only result in aggravating tension on the Korean peninsula to the extreme. Even while creating such an ominous atmosphere of war in South Korea, the puppets continuously babble about resuming Red Cross talks, economic talks, and the preliminary contacts for the parliamentary talks. Dialogue is not a decoration for a war exercise. It is necessary for improving relations. Do the South Korean puppets have the intention of improving their relations with us? If they do, they have no reason to reek of gunpowder by kicking up war exercise rackets almost daily, while turning away from our proposal. Simply talking about dialogue can in no way be used as a veil to cover the war rackets. It is hypocritical and deceptive to propose dialogue while promoting an atmosphere of war in which guns are booming. If dialogue is to be held, one must not kindle a fire and must alleviate tension. Our peace proposal is aimed at alleviating tension and promoting an atmosphere for dialogue. The "Ulchi-86" military exercise, which the puppets are conducting at the same time they are talking about resuming dialogue, is a rash act of negating dialogue and an open challenge to our peaceful proposal.

The puppets said that this exercise is also aimed at preparing for the Asian Games. However, how can playing with fire be compatible with sports? South Korea, which has become a permanent military training ground of the U.S. imperialists and the puppets and where an atmosphere of war is hovering, is not a place suitable for the Asian Games or the Olympic Games. All fellow countrymen in the North and the South and the people of the world who treasure peace hope that tension will be alleviated in Korea and that peace will be maintained and consolidated there. The reckless war exercise rackets that run counter to this cannot escape the just public opinion at home and abroad. Challenging peace will be nothing but an act of self-destruction. The South Korean puppets, squarely seeing the trend of the times, must act with discretion. Those who make it a business to pursue the policy of military adventure will pay a high price.

'Bloodthirsty Atmosphere'

[Commentary by station commentator Cho Tu-ul: "The True Color of War Maniacs, Which Has Been Exposed Once Again"]

[Text] According to a news report, while a war exercise called "Ulchi-86" was being staged in a full-fledged manner on the night of 15 July, traitor Chon Tu-hwan climbed to the roof of a high building in Seoul, watched the blackout, and demanded that citizens positively participate in the blackout exercise. This once again reveals the very treacherous and bellicose nature of the puppet traitor, who has always frantically run amok to promote the consciousness of enmity and confrontation against us among the South Korean people and driven them down the criminal road of an internecine war.

As is known, a commotion is being raised throughout South Korea in the course of staging a war exercise called "Ulchi-86," creating a bloodthirsty atmosphere. Amid the loud shrieking of an air-raid alarm and amid a tumult in which people are jostled to and fro, a commotion is raised successively in staging fire fighting; sheltering; blocking; emergency mobilization; chemical, biological, radiological, and blackout exercises.

Having caused this tumultuous scene, traitor Chon Tu-hwan directly appeared at the scene concerned and fanned war zeal. This puppet traitor is a war maniac who has been deranged in his endeavor to establish a wartime system for an all-out mobilization.

Traitor Chon Tu-hwan's bellicose and absurd act is one which intolerably tramples underfoot the desire and aspiration of all the Korean people and the peace-loving people of the world for eliminating the danger of war in Korea and for achieving peace and peaceful reunification. What we cannot overlook in particular is the fact that at a time when we have put forth and positively exerted an effort to implement a new peace proposal for holding talks among persons in military authority, he has raised a commotion by commanding the staging of such a tumultuous war exercise.

As for our new, peace proposal, it is an epochal measure that proceeds from a desire to alleviate the current state of tension, to eliminate the danger of war, and to provide a favorable atmosphere for dialogue between the North and South. This proposal reflects our sincere attitude toward dialogue and peace.

The puppet clique has arrogantly and impudently answered our sincere attitude by staging the war exercise called "Ulchi-86." This clearly shows that the Chon Tu-hwan ring is totally indifferent to the alleviation of tension and to peace and that it is only interested in confrontation and war. Nevertheless, while further heightening tension by raising a commotion in brazenly playing with fire behind the scene, the Chon Tu-hwan ring is boisterously babbling about dialogue in front. This is outrageous and is an act of making a mockery of public opinion at home and abroad.

How can war rackets and dialogue be compatible with each other? The historical experience of North-South dialogue clearly proves that war rackets and dialogue in the 1970's was suspended due to the policy of confrontation of the U.S. imperialists and the puppets. Due to the indiscreet war maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists and the puppets against us, the dialogue, which was arranged this year after a long interval, was suspended.

While babbling about the threat of nonexistent southward invasion, the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan ring staged last spring the unprecendentedly large war exercise called "Team Spirit-86" for northward invasion. They have subsequently and successively staged war exercises called "Ttangbol," "Piho," and "Pangpae." Thus, they have willfully led the situation to the verge of war.

Calling for holding dialogue while further heightening tension is an intolerable act of making a mockery of the people. We cannot resolve any problems whatsoever under circumstances that reek of gunpowder, even though dialogue is held.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring's babbling about the resumption of dialogue constitutes a brazen maneuver to deceive public opinion at home and to conceal its bellicose nature by pretending that it is interested in peace. However, no matter what fraudulent trick the Chon Tu-hwan ring may use, it will not be able to conceal its true heinous nature as those who destroy dialogue and disturb peace.

If the Chon Tu-hwan ring continuously kicks up war rackets despite the warning of the people at home and abroad and if it traverses the treacherous road of confrontation and war, it will only expedite its own disgraceful downfall. The Chon Tu-hwan ring should cool its brain heated by war zeal and should behave discreetly.

RADIO REPORTS SR-71 OVERFLIGHTS OF N. HAMGYONG

[Text] Day after day the U.S. imperialist aggressors have infiltrated SR-71 supersonic, high-altitude reconnaissance planes into the airspace over the territorial waters of our country, thereby committing espionage acts. The U.S. imperialist aggressors infiltrated an SR-71 supersonic, high-altitude reconnaissance plane deep into the airspace above the territorial waters east of Kosong of our country and had it fly through the airspace above the coastal waters of Songbong County, North Hamgyong Province, from 1109 to 1114 on 18 July, thereby committing an espionage act against the northern half of the republic.

The committed similar aerial espionage on 15 and 17 July, and as many as eight instances in July.

The U.S. imperialists have turned down our proposal for talks by military authorities to alleviate tension and are further strengthening their military espionage acts. This vividly shows that they are not interested in the alleviation of tension and dialogue, but are only seeking confrontation and war.

PHICHAI REPRIMANDS TRAIRONG FOR PREM SUPPORT

[Text] Democrat leader Phichai Rattakun said yesterday he had reprimanded Democrat candidate Trairong Suwankhiri for his announced support for Premier Prem Tinsulanon.

Phichai said he warned Trairong, who is running in the July 27 election in Songkhla, that he would be penalized if he kept backing Prem in his election campaign.

Trairong, who is also government spokesman, has repeatedly announced his support for Prem as the premier of the post-election government.

Trairong's stand brought him into conflict with some other Democrat candidates, including Khanin Bunsuwan who is staunchly opposed to Prem.

The decision by Phichai to reprimand Trairong was apparently designed to put an end to the conflict. It also came amidst attempts by the Democrat Party to dissociate itself from Prem.

Phichai did not say how he reprimanded Trairong and what his reaction was.

Comments on Party Role

BK210209 Bangkok THE NATION in English 21 Jul 86 pp 1, 2

[Text] The Democrat Party is prepared to become an opposition party if an "outsider" is invited to become prime minister of the post-election coalition government, Democrat leader Phichai Rattakun declared yesterday.

Phichai said people are "getting sick" of Premier Prem Tinsulanon and they want a prime minister to come from the election. But he said he personally still has respect for the prime minister.

Phichai, who is a deputy premier, said if his party is able to win the most seats in the July 27 election, it will be the core in forming a coalition government with himself as prime minister.

"The leader of the party which wins the most seats should be prime kminister," he said.

Informed sources in the Democrat Party told THE NATION on Saturday that the party expects to win 92 seats in the election.

Phichai yesterday also criticized the slogans of some government agencies urging people to vote for individual candidates and not for their party affiliations. He said this was part of the tactic designed to force the post-election coalition government to invite an "outsider" to become prime minister.

Phichai said some people may not want any of the political parties to win substantial numbers of seats in the election so that none of their leaders could become premier.

The Interior Ministry has been promoting election slogans which are construed as an attempt to persuade voters to vote for individual candidates rather than parties.

Phichai said that if an outsider was invited to become prime minister after the election, the Democrat Party would become the opposition.

"We want to reaffirm that we will not invite outsider to become premier," he stressed.

Phichai said he felt sympathetic with Premier Prem who understandably had difficulty in running a coalition of four political parties. "I admit that he is a good and honest person. But he might not have done well in handling economic problems," he said.

The Democrat leader, who is leading a three-candidate team running in Constituency 4 (Phra Khanong), called on the voters to vote for parties and not individuals to promote the party system.

Speaking to an audience while campaigning in Pricha housing estate on Phatthanakan Road yesterday, he said the interior minister will have to be replaced. He was responding to complaints that bicycles in the housing estate have often been stolen.

Phichai yesterday also said that any political parties with which the Democrats will form a coalition must have platforms corresponding with that of his party.

DEMOCRATS 'SURPRISED' AT OPPOSITION TO PREM

[Text] Three prominent democrat candidates for Bangkok say they are surprised at the number of people opposed to Gen Prem Tinsulanon serving another term as premier.

Gen Han Linanon, a candidate for Constituency 9 (Thon Buri and Khlong San), said that a factory owner who employs about 300 workers at his Khlong San plant had promised to give the Democrat team all the votes on condition that the party does not bring back Gen Prem as the next prime minister.

Gen Han a former aide of Gen Prem when he was the Second Army Region commander in the northeast, said he was surprised at the prime minister's declining popularity among Bangkok voters. He also quoted the factory owner as saying that Gen Prem was responsible for the collapse of many small businesses.

Gen Han said he believed that the prime minister must be an elected MP.

Dr Nikhom Chantharawithun, who is running in Constituency 8 (Bangkapi, Nong Chok, Min Buri), said the Democrat candidates for Bangkok would have a much better chance if the party was not seen as supporting the return of Gen Prem as prime minister after the election.

He said the public was very sensitive about the issue and recalled several instances when voters came up to him and said they would not vote for the Democrats if they supported Gen Prem's return as prime minister.

"I didn't think people were that much against Gen Prem," said Dr Nikhom, who is a former director-general of the Labour Department.

He said he believed that Gen Prem was a good man but warned that the public may need more than just that.

His teammate, Dr Supachai Phanitchaphak, agreed with him.

The two candidates said they have told the public during their campaigns that if the Democrat Party got more than 120 votes, the party will become the core of the new coalition government and party leader Phichai Rattakun will be the prime minister.

Dr Nikhom added that the Democrat Party was "fully ready" to take up the job managing the economy because it has recruited qualified people.

Referring to his teammate who resigned from a senior post at the Bank of Thailand to run in this election, he said Dr Supachai "makes a good finance minister" because of his expertise in fiscal matters. Besides this, he said Dr Supachai was well liked by the people he has met while campaigning because of his friendliness and good personality.

Although the party has no tradition of appointing "first-termers" to ministerial posts, Dr Nikhom said there should be an exception because of Dr Supachai's talent and experience.

Dr Supachai said he was confident that his team will win all three seats in the constituency despite strong competition from the Prachakon Thai team headed by Justice Minister Phiphop Asitirat. The Prachakon Thai team also has two former MPS Yenchit Raphiphat and Sumit Sunthorawet.

He acknowledged that the Prachakon Thai team was trying to channel some of the Democrat vote to the Social Action Party team, whose candidate, movie actor Aphichat Halamchiak is gaining popularity.

DEMOCRAT PARTY EXPECTS TO WIN OVER 100 SEATS

[Text] The Democrat Party is expected to win more than 100 seats nationwide, including at least 20 seats in Bangkok metropolis, Mr Marut Bunnak, the party's secretary-general, said yesterday.

In Bangkok, he predicted that the party would be able to make a clean sweep of four constituencies with mixed results in the rest of the city.

The Public Health Minister, who is the party's campaign director for Bangkok, admitted that the Democrats' campaign to persuade people to vote for parties instead of individual candidates was only partially successful.

He said this was due to the Interior Ministry's campaign urging the electorate to vote for good candidates.

Mr Marut charged that the ministry's policy is contrary to the one adopted 10 years ago and has confused the people. He also noted that voting on the basis of the personality of individual candidates would result in no party getting a majority in the House and this would lead to the formation of a coalition government.

The new coalition government's stability would be shaky and vulnerable, he added.

Mr Marut said that if the Democrats could capture 140 seats in the election, the party would definitely be the core in forming a government, with its leader, Phichai Rattakun, as prime minister.

"But if the party gets less than 100 seats -- say 90 -- then we will have to negotiate with the other parties (for the formation of the government). And if the talks fail, we would be the opposition," he said.

With only a week before the election, the party will hold a meeting today to assess its campaign and make some adjustments.

Mr Marut added that he and his two running mates, M.L. Seri Pramot and Mr Khanin Bunsuwan, would stop the door-to-door campaign and concentrate on high-profile rallies and parades to woo the voters in Constituency Two.

He also complained about widespread money-dumping in the city. Without naming any parties or candidates in particular, he said huge amounts of money were spent to buy ID cards from the electorate. Money was also given to canvassers to hold parties for the constituents.

ATHIT WARNS PUBLIC ON VOTE-BUYING CANDIDATES

[Text] Supreme Commander Gen Athit Kamlang-ek urged the public to vote on July 27 "to preserve democracy" and to watch out for candidates who have invested millions of baht in buying votes.

By exercising their right to vote, Gen Athit said the public will help preserve democracy "which is what the country needs."

Speaking on the eve of a charity walkathon at Chatuchak Park yesterday morning, Gen Athit said elections are an important part of democracy. If the country has good MPs, it will have a good government.

Without naming the candidates or the provinces in which they are running, Gen Athit said certain candidates had spent between five and ten million baht buying votes. Voters in many areas were being paid 200 baht each by these candidates, he added.

He asked the public not to vote for the "big spenders" because their methods of getting votes were not democratic and would deprive the country of good MPs. He said good candidates with little financial support deserved to get the attention and votes of the public.

[QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 16 July editorial: "With Unity and Confidence, Let Us Push the Revolutionary Cause Forward"]

[Text] In these days, our entire country and fraternal and friendly countries all over the world are filled with sorrow and grief over the demise of Comrade General Secretary Le Duan, an outstanding disciple of President Ho Chi Minh and a talented leader of the CPV who made great contributions by leading our people to score billiant victories -- liberating and reunifying the fatherland and advancing the country toward socialism.

With boundless grief for respected and beloved Comrade General Secretary Le Duan, our entire party, people, and Army will turn sorrow into action; muster their will and energy to score achievements in the fields of production, work, combat readiness, and combat; proceed steadily on the path of the revolution; and continue to realize the lofty goals and ideals for which Comrade Le Duan strove all of his life.

Faced with the new situation and tasks, on 14 July 1986, the party Central Committee held a special session and unanimously elected Comrade Truong Chinh to the post of general secretary.

Upon learning of this important event, our entire party, people, and Army are convinced that Comrade Truong Chinh will outstandingly succeed the late General Secretary Le Duan's heavy but glorious mission. Comrade Truong Chinh has long been a revolutionary respected, trusted, and loved by our party, people, and Army. Following the revolutionary path charted by Uncle Ho, Comrade Truong Chinh became at an early date one of his outstanding disciples and one of the talented leaders of the revolution who once held the important post of party general secretary and made great contributions to the success of the August Revolution and the glorious victory of the war of resistance against the French colonalist aggressors.

Since 1954, for 30 consecutive years and more now, Comrade Truong Chinh, together with the Political Bureau and party Central Committee, has led tne entire country in upholding Uncle Ho's banner of national independence and socialism, defeating the U.S. aggressors, completely liberating and reunifying the fatherland, and advancing the entire country toward socialism. Today, responding to the needs of the party, the fatherland, and the people, Comrade Truong Chinh once again assumes the important post of general secretary and devotes all his will, talent, and energy to bringing together the Political Bureau and party Central Committee in leading the Vietnamese revolution to new successes despite all difficulties and trials.

More than ever before, with all of our sense of responsibility toward the party, fatherland, and people and by upholding the tradition of unity and singlemindedness, we should close our ranks around the party Central Committee led by respected and beloved Comrade Truong Chinh and strive to successfully carry out the important and pressing tasks of the revolution in our country at present. In actively making good preparations for the success of the party's sixth national congress, all of our party members pledge to develop strong points, overcome shortcomings, uphold our exemplary vanguard role, and make the party firm, strong, and pure in order to be truly worthy of being at the same time leaders and very loyal servants of the people as taught by respected and beloved Uncle Ho.

By striving to score new achievements in productive labor and other work, our people of all strata are determined to gradually stabilize and improve their living conditions, constantly strengthen the material-technical bases of socialism, and build an ever better new society. Together with the entire people, our Armed Forces must make efforts to build a powerful people's Army and a firm all-people's national defense system and resolutely fulfill the tasks of defending and maintaining national security as well as their glorious internationalist duties.

With unity and confidence, our entire party, people, and Army are ready to overcome all difficulties and fulfill all tasks in the spirit of all for the fatherland and for socialism, and to devote all-out efforts to building a prosperous, powerful, and civilized Vietnam.

THAILAND, U.S. CRITICIZED ON ARMS STOCKPILE

[19 July NHAN DAN commentary: "Dangerous Moves by Washington and Bangkok"]

[Text] On 17 July the U.S. Ambassador in Bangkok publicly stated that the Pentagon and Bangkok would renew their talks on setting up a U.S. arms reserve stockpile in Thailand. The renewed talks are designed to substantiate what was already agreed on between Washington and Bangkok during the trip to Thailand in early April of the U.S. defense secretary. This also constitutes a brazen U.S.-Thai provocation and an infringement upon the Thai people's national sovereignty and independence, and thereby worsens tension in Southeast Asia.

For what purpose do they plan to establish an arms reserve stockpile in Thailand if not for opposing and sabotaging the revolutions in the three Indochinese countries and, at the same time, serving the new U.S. doctrine on Asia and the Pacific?

To cope with Thai and world public opinion critical of their talks with the United States over the establishment of a huge arms stockpile in Thailand and of their conduct of a joint military exercise called "Cobra Gold 86" with the United States in an area not far from the common border with Cambodia, the Bangkok administration has repeatedly advanced many familiar slanderous allegations about Vietnam allegedly making military incursions into Thailand and about Vietnam allegedly creating tension in the region. Their fabrication can in no way make white black and cover up our goodwill for peace and our constructive attitude and the constructive attitude of the three Indochinese countries, which advocate holding political dialogue to seek ways to build good-neighborly relations and mutual understanding with Thailand as well as other Southeast Asian countries in working to build Southeaste Asia into a zone of peace, stability, and cooperation.

By stubbornly opposing the trend toward dialogue and the peace initiatives and proposals of the three Indochinese countries and continuing to intensify their military collusion with Beijing and Washington, the Thai authorities will only push their own country onto the dangerous and adventurous path, thereby running counter to the aspirations of the Thai people themselves and of the Southeastd Asian people.

NHAN DAN MARKS SRV-LPDR TREATY ANNIVERSARY

[NHAN DAN 18 July editorial: "The Vietnam-Laos Militant Alliance and Special Relationship Will Last Forever"]

[Text] Commemorating the anniversary of the Vietnam-Laos treaty of friendship and cooperation this year, both countries are engaging in comprehensive political activities. The people of the two nations are concentrating their energy and intelligence on preparing for the coming congresses of their glorious parties. Great achievements made in the past have created favorable conditions for the two peoples to advance further. The class struggle and the struggle between the revolution and counterrevolutidon in the world and the region are going on arduously and in a complex manner. Various hostile forces have been seriously defeated, but they have not given up their schemes to sabotage the three Indochinese countries, pitting Vietnam with Laos and Cambodia.

The victories of the three revolutionary currents and the three Indochinese countries' revolution and victories won through the firm militant solidarity and comprehensive cooperation between them and between them and the great Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries have created new positions and strengths for the three Indochinese nations, thereby stopping the hostile forces from threatening these countries at will.

The general trend in the region and the world increasingly supports and encourages political negotiations, especially the various peace initiatives and proposals of Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia aimed at building Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability, and cooperation. The Indochinese revolutionary situation is fine and splendid. The militant solidarity alliance and special comprehensive cooperation between Vietnam and Laos and among Vietnam, Laos, and Cambodia are unbreakable and invincible.

Comrade General Secretary Kaysone Phomvihan has affirmed that the Lao party and people uphold a foreign policy of peace, independence, and socialism and that Laos will consistently strengthen the special militant alliance and comprehensive cooperation with Vietnam and Cambodia, and strengthen solidarity and cooperation with the Soviet Union and other fraternal socialist countries to maintain peace in Indochina and Southeast Asia.

In his congratulatory message to CPV General Secretary Truong Chinh, Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan stressed: We believe that under the correct and clear-sighted leadership of the CPV led by you, comrade, who have abundant experience from decades of revolutionary activities, the Vietnamese people will make new and ever greater achievements in implementing resolutions of the Fifth CPV Congress and in preparing for the Sixth CPV Congress, thereby leading the socialist construction cause to advance a step further and help the Vietnamese firmly defend their socialist fatherland.

Meetings between party and state leaders of Vietnam and Laos and various signed agreements have strengthened the special relationship and comprehensive cooperation between our two parties and nations with new quality and higher results, thereby helping improve the strength of the three Indochinese countries and the socialist community. The fact that the Lao party and state sent a high-ranking delegation led by Comrade Kaysone Phomvihan, general secretary of the LPRP and chairman of the Council of Ministers, to Vietnam to attend the recent funeral ceremony of Comrade Le Duan is a new manifestation of the noble sentiment and close relationship between our two parties, states, and people.

On this occasion, we once again express our profound gratitude to the fraternal Lao people for their valuable support and assistance to the Vietnamese revolution. We pledge that we will do our best to consolidate and develop the militant alliance, special relationship, and comprehensive cooperation between Vietnam and Laos for the interests of the two peoples and the people of the three Indochinese countries as a whole, while positively helping to build Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability, friendship, and cooperation.

CPV SECRETARIAT DIRECTIVE ON MASS EMULATION

[Text] On 16 July 1986 the CPV Central Committee Secretariat issued a directive on launching a mass movement to emulate achievements to welcome the Sixth CPV Congress. The directive says:

The sixth congress of our party will be held in December 1986. This will amount to a widespread political drive among our entire party, people, and army.

In order to practically welcome the party congress, the Secretariat had decided to launch an emulation drive to welcome the Sixth CPV Congress in accordance with the following requirements and purposes:

1. Generate a boisterous movement for revolutionary action among the entire party, Army, and people to strive to successfully implement the 1986 socioeconomic, security, and national defense plans; actively develop those strong points and redress those shortcomings brought up in the recent self-criticism and criticism drive; and score concrete achievements to welcome the party congresses at all levels and the Sixth CPV National Congress. This emulation drive must prove effective in the following three respects:

-- Produce concrete results in increasing output, quality, efficiency, and thrift in each field of activity at every echelon and sector, especially at the grass-roots level.

-- Improve awareness of the party and socialism and strengthen the close relationship between the party and the masses.

-- Through the emulation drive, it is necessary to widely develop the experiences obtained by progressive models, emulation heroes, and emulation combatants, trying to create new improvements in production and work and in building party, administrative, and mass organizations into steadfast ones.

2. The emulation movement must be linked with efforts to motivate the masses to participate in building and perfecting the new management mechanism at the grassroots level, as well as with other efforts to resolve urgent problems in production, distribution, circulation, and welfare; increase the laboring people's positiveness and creativity; strive to overcome difficulties, especially in material and fuel supply; tap all latent potentials for increased production while practicing thrift; and motivate the masses to develop vigorously their collective mastery spirit and participate actively and effectively in inspection and control activities against negativism at all establishments.

3. Generate unified strength in organizing and directing emulation activities at various echelons and sectors, especially at the grass-roots level, and in trying to attain realistic results in doing away with bureaucracy, red tape, and formalism while guiding emulation activities. All party and youth union members must set their examples by taking the lead in the socialist emulation movement.

Based on this directive, all echelons, sectors, and mass organizations must quickly guide their lower echelons and basic units in implementation. By 2 September 1986, all echelons and sectors must initially review their activities in the first phase. And during the CPV congress, they must conclude the drive with concrete reports. The results obtained in this effort must be used as a driving force to continue increasing the emulation movement to push basic units forward and build clean and steadfast grassroots-level party organizations.

[Text] Australia has protested to President Reagan about moves in the United States to extend export subsidies to wheat sales to the Soviet Union and China. In a message to Mr Reagan, the prime minister, Mr Hawke, says such an extension of the American wheat subsidy program would have a devastating impact on the Australian rural sector. The Soviet Union and China are major markets for Australian wheat with sales worth more than $670 million [Australian dollars] last year.

The primary industry minister, Mr Kerin, says the Australian Government is doing all it can at the political and diplomatic levels to stop subsidization of agricultural exports. Mr Kerin had called on Australian farmers to help by directly lobbying their colleagues in the United States and Europe to explain what he called the self-defeating nature of the policies they were engaged in.

NEW COMMITTEE TO OVERSEE INTELLIGENCE SERVICES

[Text] A new committee is to be established to oversee Australia's security and intelligence services. The move has been foreshadowed by the chairman of the parliamentary joint committee on the National Crime Authority, Alan Griffiths. He says the new committee will review recruitment and employment procedures in both the Australian Security Intelligence Organization [ASIO] as well as the Australian Secret Intelligence Service [ASIS]. The ASIO is responsible for internal security in Australia while ASIS looks after external matters.

Mr Griffiths says he expects the review to include the use of part-time agents. He says many agents are employed by Australian security services on part-time basis, including the two involved in the raid on Melbourne Sheraton Hotel in 1983. The raid, an exercise organized by ASIS got out of hand and ended with a number of agents being arrested by Australian police. A Victorian state parliamentarian, Jean Coxsedge, had called for all Australian security bodies to be scrapped. Ms Coxsedge, a long-time campaigner against what she described as political police, says the security services turn democracy into a travesty.

DAP FILES WRIT TO STOP GENERAL ELECTION

[Text] Kuala Lumpur, July 21 (AFP) -- The opposition Democratic Action Party (DAP) Monday filed a writ in the high court here to stop Malaysia's general election fixed for August 2 and 3, BERNAMA news agency said.

DAP Secretary-General Lim Kit Siang, who filed the action as plantiff, is also seeking an injunction to stop the nomination of election candidates fixed for Thursday. Mr. Lim wants the high court to declare the elections commission's fixing of the dates for nomination of candidates and polling improper and illegal. He claimed in his writ that the commission, cited as defendants in the suit, had failed to allow for four clear days between the dissolution of the lower house last Saturday and the day set for nominations. Mr. Lim said that the four clear days provided for under Malaysia's recently amended elections regulations should not include public holidays.

Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad called the DAP's move "cowardly" and "strange because I thought they all along wanted an election." Dr. Mahathir told newsmen that Malaysians wanted a general election and the DAP should not stop a poll from being held simply because it did not want to face the people.

'Punitive Operations' Launched

HK200007 Manila Far East Broadcasting Company in English 2300 GMT 18 Jul 86

[Excerpt] The military has launched punitive operations against the kidnappers of American missionary Brian Lawrence and the ten Carmelite Catholic nuns. Criminal charges will also be filed against them. The operations were launched hours after the release of Lawrence yesterday near Marawi city. The nuns were released earlier last Thursday.

Southern Command Chief Major General Jose Magno ordered two Army battalions to conduct the operations against the kidnappers of Lawrence and the nuns. The military said the kidnappers were not members of the Moro National Liberation Front but were armed groups considered a lost command operating independently. General Magno identified the three Muslim leaders who adbucted the American pastor as Ismael Dimaporo, (Azizbab) and a certain commander Farad.

[Begin Magno recording] The perpetrators were believed to be former security guards of the Mindanao State University who were laid off and the name of Ismael Dimaporo came about and that of others. They were not MNLF, they were a disgruntled group of former employees and some of them were ex-employees, as I said, identified with ex-governor Dimaporo. I inquired about, and the relatives of Governor Dimaporo have disclaimed any relationship with, this. I think they consider them a lost command. [end recording]

In Manila, President Aquino yesterday announced the American missionary Brian Lawrence has been released by his captors. The president stressed that as with the 10 nuns released, no ransom was paid, but she would like now to appeal to all brother Filipinos in the south to stop this senseless capture of innocent civilians, more so if they are guests in the country as in the case of Reverend Lawrence. AQUINO REPORTEDLY AGREES TO TALKS WITH MUSLIMS

[Text] Manila, July 20 (AFP) -- The Philippine Government has agreed to negotiate with a Moslem separatist movement to restore peace on the rebellion-torn Island of Mindanao, press reports here said Sunday. President Corazon Aquino has appointed her brother-in-law, Agapito "Butz" Aquino, as her emissary in discussions with exiled Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) chief Nur Misuari, newspapers said. No official confirmation was available on the reports, which quoted unnamed presidential palace sources. Mr. Misuari directs the separatist campaign from a refuge somewhere in the Middle East.

There was no indication in the press reports whether the government would agree to the MNLF's demand for a separate Moslem state in the south, or if Mr. Misuari was willing to settle for local autonomy -- as proposed by the government. A date and venue for the talks were also not indicated.

The MNLF launched a guerrilla war for secession in Mindanao in 1972, tying up half the Philippine Armed Forces in bloody fighting in the south which has claimed the lives of 60,000 people, according to conservative estimates. The rebellion has waned in recent years, due to factionalism and defections, and has been largely overshadowed by a communist insurgency launched by the New People's Army guerrillas group.

On Sunday, military officials in the southern city of Zamboanga said they were checking reports that a Swiss tourist and a Filipina companion had been kidnapped by MNLF members on Basilan Island. The Philippine military places the MNLF's armed strength at 4,000 men, with Mr. Misuari's forces comprising the majority and the rest belonging to pro-autonomy factions.

ARGENTINA'S ALFONSIN DISCUSSES TALKS WITH AQUINO

[Excerpts] Manila, July 18 (AFP) -- Argentine President Raul Alfonsin said here Friday that Philippine President Corazon Aquino would, like him, insist to foreign creditors that debt repayment must not block economic growth. He also told a news conference after a meeting with Mrs. Aquino half-way through his three-day state visit that they had discussed the question of how to address military human rights abuses under right-wing regimes they replaced. "I do think that in this field we have coincided with Madam President," Mr. Alfonsin replied when asked about the debt issue, which, their aides said, dominated their 90 minutes of talks at the Presidential Palace here. "We consider that the problem of debt ... should be considered a problem of growth, for which it is necessary to achieve a new international economic order," he added. [passage omitted]

Asked what advice he would give Mrs. Aquino on how to deal with foreign bankers she is to meet during a state visit to the United States in September, Mr. Alfonsin replied: "I will not dare give any advice to Mrs. Aquino." But he added: "I am convinced that she will tell them that she wants to face the commitments of her country, but it will not be done on the basis of her people's hunger -- that any creditor knows perfectly well that in order to be able to cash in on his debt, he must allow the debtor to work." [passage omitted]

Asked about human rights abuses by the military under previous governments, Mr. Alfonsin said: "Yes, we have spoken about that, as regards human rights and responsibilities of the former government." He gave no details, but said he and Mrs. Aquino had not taken up the possibility of cooperation between their governments on the issue. Both leaders have encountered resistance from some sectors of the military in their efforts to punish soldiers that violated human rights in the fight against rebels and dissidents.

Asked what he would advise Mrs. Aquino to do to consolidate control over the military, Mr. Alfonsin said: "She's an extraordinary fighter for democracy, she's very intelligent, she knows her people, she loves her people, and therefore I would not dare even give her advice on the subject."

Turning to other topics, Mr. Alfonsin said the Philippines had always supported the Argentine claim to the British-ruled Falklands Islands, which Argentina calls the Malvinas, and said democratic countries of the developed world must forge stronger bonds to deal with industrialized nations. Asked if he saw a continuing wave of democratic reforms in the developing world, he replied: "The possibility of development is directly related to the establishment of democratic governments as far as we are concerned." He added: "Stagnation and backweardness are directly related, as far as we have seen by our experience, to the loss of the rights of our citizens." [passage omitted]

Addresses Banquet

PY180356 Buenos Aires TELAM in Spanish 1252 GMT 17 Jul 86

[By TELAM Special Correspondent Jose Maria Bacigalupe

[Text] Manila, 17 Jul (TELAM) -- Argentine President Raul Alfonsin said here today that the Philippines and Argentina are recent examples of the victory of the people over the will of any minority. He added that the two nations should join efforts to obtain respect for the most essential human right: the right to life. Alfonsin made this remark during a dinner hosted by Philippine President Corazon Aquino at the Malacanang Palace. The Argentine president added that the Argentines believe in democracy as a way of life and in the international solidarity that results from it.

Alfonsin explained that this solidarity is directed at the struggle for a more just world, a world in which discrimination as far as trade, development and monopoly of knowledge is concerned must be replaced by increasingly more equitable relations between the South and the North. He said that during his talks with Aquino, we began to lay the foundations for a candid, straightforward and common dialogue. Addressing the Philippine president, Alfonsin said: We have been able to personally ascertain the realistic approach through which your administration is coping with the challenge of recovering Philippine democracy once and for all.

He pointed out that these efforts deserve the full support of Argentina and its government, because our nation too, is firmly engaged in the task of strengthening democracy. Alfonsin went on to say that on the eve of the 21st century it would be historically suicidal to believe that our planet can continue divided because the growing interdependency and the high degree of integration that world economy has attained make it impossible for any state to avoid the negative effects of instability and uncertainty in southern nations.

We are convinced, Alfonsin said, that it is necessary to undertake a joint study of the foreign debt problem with the governments of the creditor nations, just as Argentina and 10 other Latin American countries have repeatedly proposed ever since the Concensus of Cartagena. Alfonsin stressed that as far as the other great threat, that posed by the nuclear holocaust, is concerned, I feel that we must join efforts in order to ensure respect, as I have said before, for the most essential human right: the right to life.

He said that this is why Argentina shares, with other friendly countries, the Group of the Six, made up by chiefs of state from five continents, who have been carrying out a world campaign for peace, disarmament and suspension of nuclear tests for almost 2 years. These objectives stem from the imperative need to replace violence by rational negotiation in the handling of international relations. Alfonsin went on to comment that peace is now having to deal with a dangerous enemy which is a kind of widespread pessimism that advocates that it is better not to think about the possibility of a nuclear holocaust because nothing can be done to avoid it anyway.

According to the Argentine president, the Philippines and Argentina must together advocate freedom and social justice which are not merely romantic but rather necessary and possible goals. He emphasized that although located at opposite corners of the globe, Argentina and the Philippines propose to enhance mutual knowledge and understanding of mutual aspirations.

He stated that our common objectives and interests will allow us to tighten the bonds between the two countries and to seek new fields for cooperation. Finally, he said: I have no doubts that we have chosen the right path, nor do I downplay the obstacles that we will encounter following it. He added: The faith in the destiny of our peoples will always be the most powerful stimulus for action.

Offers Grain

[By special NOTICIAS ARGENTINAS Correspondent]

[Text] Manila, the Philippines, 17 Jul -- President Raul Alfonsin tonight offered his Philippine counterpart, Corazon Aquino, a donation of $500,000 worth of grain to assist in rebuilding the Philippine economy, which is submerged in semipoverty.

Alfonsin made this offer during an impromptu speech following a dinner both heads of state and Argentine and Philippine officials attended tonight at Malacanang Palace.

After the dinner, Economy Minister Juan Sourruille announced that Alfonsin offered "Cory" Aquino a $500,000 donation in cereals as a "token of the good will" of his government for the Philippines, which is suffering a critical economic situation.

The economy minister said that the grain will be supplied from the stocks of the National Grain Board and that it will be transported "immediately" to Philippine ports.

Alfonsin's offer followed a brief working meeting he held with Corazon Aquino at Malacanang Palace before the dinner with which the Philippine president fetted her guest.

Argentine delegation sources tonight said at the Manila Hotel that during those brief talks Alfonsin and "Cory" Aquino reviewed international and bilateral issues;

Concerning bilateral relations, after making the announcement on the grain donation, Minister Sourrouille recognized that there is no trade exchange between the two nations.

Sourrouille explained that Argentina currently is selling aluminum ingots to the Philippines, but that Argentina is virtually receiving nothing in exchange from the Philippines.

Sourrouille admitted that a commercial agreement was signed between Argentina and the previous government of Ferdinand Marcos, but that the agreement has not yet been ratified by Congress.

At any rate, that agreement is not very ambitious, considering the actual intention of the Argentine government to substantially increase political and trade relations with the Philippines.

Sourrouille said that Alfonsin's offer to President Aquino must be interpreted as an offer to the entire Philippine nation, which will be the true recipient.

Elsewhere, Sourrouille stated that during the working meeting scheduled for tomorrow, Alfonsin and Aquino will also preside over a cabinet meeting during which all the members of the local government and the main officials who are accompanying Alfonsin on this tour through the Pacific basin will participate.

Sourrouille stated that, among other things, the issue concerning the huge debt of the underdeveloped countries, particularly that of Argentina and the Philippines, will be reviewed tomorrow.

The Philippine foreign debt currently totals $37 billion, and Aquino has expressed her wish -- reasserted tonight during her talks with Alfonsin -- to arrange service payments with the international creditors, although under fair terms.

Minister Sourrouille stated that tomorrow, talks will be held on the possibility of achieving Alfonsin's and Aquino's wish of beginning a new era in the relations between the two countries.

Concerning the political framework, both presidents tonight discussed -- and tomorrow will continue discussing -- the Central American problem and the disarmament issue. They also have focused on the current situation in the Philippines, whose democracy was threatened barely 10 days ago by a thwarted coup d'etat.

Argentine sources tonight said at the Manila Hotel that Alfonsin has expressly confirmed his solidarity with and his support of the democratization process being conducted by Corazon Aquino.

After their working meeting tomorrow, Alfonsin and Aquino may produce some concrete definitions concerning the foreign debt issue [words indistinct] during the tour the Argentine head of state has followed in the sense of demanding a more just international economic order and better terms for the indebted countries, and the establishment of shared responsibility on the part of the creditor nations.

Argentine delegation sources said that Alfonsin and Aquino tonight held "very constructive" talks which will be strengthened tomorrow during their second working meeting and later followed by a cabinet-level meeting.

The two heads of state held talks at Malacanang Palace and then had the opportunity to continue them during a banquet Aquino hosted for the Argentine president.

Alfonsin will return the courtesy tomorrow night by hosting a dinner for "Cory" Aquino in the halls of the majestic Manila Hotel, where the Argentine delegation is staying.

[Text] Argentine President Raul Ricardo Alfonsin concluded today his 3-day visit to the country. He and his delegation left this morning and were seen off at the Manila International Airport by President Aquino and top military officials. Alfonsin was the first foreign head of state and government to visit the country under its new administration.

He will have a short stay in Singapore before going to Saudi Arabia. During his visit in the country, he and President Cory Aquino agreed that the foreign debt problems could only be resolved through development in the two countries.

COMMITTEE FORBIDS FOREIGN BASES PAST 1991

[By reporter Tara S. Singh]

[Text] The Committee on Preamble and National Territory of the Constitutional Commission (Con-Com) yesterday agreed not to extend the PR [Republic of the Philippines]-U.S. military bases agreement after it expires in 1991.

Thereafter, foreign military bases, troops or facilities shall be "forbidden in the Philippine national territory."

Chaired by Commissioner Felicitas Aquino, the committee, through a vote of 6-2, adopted for formal approval of the Con-Com that the Philippines shall be a zone of peace, neutrality and nuclear free.

That concept as approved is as follows: "The State has the inherent right to self-determination, national independence and sovereignty. Subject to existing international agreements, foreign military bases, troops or facilities shall be forbidden in the Philippine national territory nor shall nuclear weapons or part thereof be allowed therein."

The Aquino committee also adopted this provision: "The Philippines shall pursue an independent course in sovereign relations and strive to promote and establish, together with other states agreeable thereto, a zone of peace, freedom and neutrality in this part of the world."

These concepts were apparently a product of a compromise of Resolution No. 402 authored by Commissioner Edmundo Garcia with 16 co-authors and Resolution No. 430 filed by Commissioner Blas F. Ople and 11 other commissioners.

Commissioners Decoroso Rosales and Crispino de Castro cast dissenting votes. They said the American military bases in the country should be renegotiated.

They claimed that the military bases are a source of strength in national defense because without these bases the Philippines is vulnerable to foreign attack.

They said it should be renegotiated to permit increased payment of rental and more economic assistance. They added that these are needed by the country at this time of economic crisis.

The RP-US military bases agreement started in 1946 and underwent various revisions. The last revision provides that the agreement will expire in 1991 and each party has one year to serve notice of which [as published] intention to terminate it.

In 1988, or two years from now, the Philippine and American panels will convene to review the implementation of the agreement.

Earlier, President Corazon C. Aquino was reported to have said that her government will respect the bases agreement until its expiration in 1991 and will keep her options open.

One of these options is to abrogate the agreement; the other is to leave the door open for a renegotiation.

The approval of the Committee on Preamble and National Territory in effect renders this option moot and academic, particularly if the Con-Com approves the committee draft, and if the people ratify the new constitution.

ANTI-NUCLEAR RALLY HELD IN FRONT OF U.S. EMBASSY

They occupied the sidewalks fronting the embassy with a police crowd dispersal contingent on the side.

COMMUNIST NEGOTIATORS TO RECEIVE SAFE CONDUCT

[Excerpt] Manila, July 19 (AFP) -- The Philippine military was ordered Saturday to grant safe conduct to communist negotiators in planned talks about a ceasefire between government and communist rebel forces, government television said. Armed Forces Chief of Staff General Fidel Ramos's order came amid reports here that the rebel negotiators, Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel, had expressed misgivings about their safety.

When the talks will begin remains uncertain, and government television said the latest snag was the illness of one of the two chief government negotiators, lawyer Jose Diokno, chairman of the Presidential Commission on Human Rights. It said Mr. Diokno was expected to leave shortly for the United States, where he was treated for lung and brain cancer in 1984. Mr. Diokno and his family could not be immediately reached for comment, but sources in the Human Rights Commission confirmed that he was ailing and may be unable to carry on working either in the commission or in the ceasefire talks. DIET REELECTS NAKASONE; NEW CABINET NAMED

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Yasuhiro Nakasone, basking in the afterglow of a landslide victory at the polls two weeks ago, was relected prime minister by the lower house Tuesday -- a decision expected to be confirmed by the upper house later in the day. When the parliamentary procedure is over, Nakasone is to be sworn in by Emperor Hirohito and will then return to his official residence to select members of a new cabinet, the fifth since he became prime minister in November 1982.

Nakasone, backed by the LDP's massive 96-seat majority in the 512-member lower house, easily beat other candidates put up by the opposition for the prime ministership. As the LDP commands a comfortable majority in the upper house, Nakasone's appointment as prime minister in the second chamber was also a foregone conclusion.

Nakasone has already filled the principal slots in the 21-member cabinet and, guided by a shortlist of candidates prepared by the five major LDP factions, is expected to announce his final choice Tuesday evening. Among a handful of outgoing cabinet members expected to hold government jobs is MITI chief Michio Watanabe, who is tipped to succeed Shintaro Abe as foreign minister. Abe, like outgoing Finance Minister Noboru Takeshita, was shifted to a top party executive post in a parallel reshuffle of the LDP leadership.

As with the top party executive positions, the cabinet posts are expected to be distributed in line with factional strength within the LDP, with the Tanaka faction, the biggest within the party, likely to grab the lion's share of the 21 cabinet posts. Already, Shin Kanemaru, the outgoing LDP secretary general and a senior member of the Tanaka faction, has been promised the deputy prime ministership as a minister without portfolio. Masaharu Gotoda, a Tanaka faction man but politically close to Nakasone, is to be retained as chief cabinet secretary. Kiichi Miyazawa of the Suzuki faction, outgoing chairman of the LDP Executive Council, has been named to succeed Takeshita as finance minister. Another retainee will be Transport Minister Hiroshi Mitsuzuka (Abe faction), who will be responsible for steering through the Diet the privatization of the Japanese National Railways, a major legislative program for the Nakasone government.

One prominent LDP leader who is not expected to get any party executive or government post is Susumu Nikaido. Nikaido, chairman of the Tanaka faction, Monday turned down a Nakasone offer of the foreign affairs portfolio, and Nakasone told reporters Tuesday morning he had no plans to meet Nikaido during the day. The party vice presidency, previously held by Nikaido, is expected to be left vacant, LDP sources said.

As part of the party reshuffle, Nakasone Monday named Takeshita as the party secretary general and Abe as LDP Executive Council chairman, while Masayoshi Ito, a former foreign minister, was Nakasone's choice as chairman of the LDP Policy Affairs Research Council. These party appointments are expected to be confirmed at an LDP Executive Council meeting Tuesday.

The party and cabinet reshuffle comes three months before Nakasone's second two-year term as LDP president expires. However, LDP sources say Nakasone is expected to get an extension of his term beyond October in recognition of the role he played in leading the party to its landslide victory in the July 6 Diet elections.

Later in the day, the 252-seat House of Councillors also reelected Nakasone as prime minister. In the upper house election, Nakasone collected 139 out of 239 votes cast, as against 45 for Ishibashi, 24 for Takeiri, 16 for Miyamoto, 12 for Tsukamoto, one for Eda. The remaining two ballots were blank.

UPPER HOUSE ELECTS PRESIDENT, VICE PRESIDENT

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- The House of Councillors elected Masaaki Fujita as its president Tuesday. Fujita, 64, a member of the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP), succeeded Mutsuo Kimura, also a Liberal-Democrat.

The upper house also elected Hideyuki Seya as vice president. Seya, 67, a member of the Japan Socialist Party, replaced Noboru Agune, also a Socialist, who did not run in the July 6 election to retire from politics.

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Masaaki Fujita, 64, is the youngest person ever to take over the presidency of the House of Councillors in its history. Born to the Fujita family controlling a major construction company, Fujita Corp., he served high level posts of the Fujita group corporation for years.

Fujita was elected to the upper house in 1965 for the first time and since then he served in a series of positions such as director general of the Prime Minister's Office (now the Managment and Coordination Agency) and vice chairman of the Diet Affairs Committee of the Liberal-Democratic Party. Fujita has expressed confidence to reform the second chamber which is said to have lost originality. He is a member of the LDP's second largest faction led by Former Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki.

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Hideyuki Seya of the Japan Socialist Party, elected Tuesday to the vice presidency of the House of Councillors, worked as a ticket clerk for the Japanese National Railways [JNR] after World War II and was an active leader of JNR's main workers union, Kokuro. He was dismissed from JNR after joining a strike against revision of the Japan-U.S. Security Treaty in 1960.

Seya, 67, is the second most senior member among 41 Socialists in the 252-seat second chamber, after Chozo Akiyama, himself a one-time vice president of the upper house. He has not obtained any major post within the JSP except as leader of the party's upper house members.

KYODO Profiles New Speaker

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Kenzaburo Hara, named Monday as lower house speaker, is one of the oldest Liberal-Democratic Party dietmen at 79. Tall, and open-natured, he entered politics in 1946. He has occupied several ministerial posts including that of labor minister, which he held twice in the Eisaku Sato administration. At the time, Hara made efforts to improve working conditions such as campaigning for introduction of the five-day week. But the outspoken Hara was dismissed from the job for a slip of the tongue.

Hara, a native of Hyogo Prefecture near Osaka, studied at Columbia and Oregon Universities of the United States before the war. After returning home, he served as editor-in-chief of a Japanese monthly. At that time he was once jailed after a military policeman overheard him saying "I know the power of America. It's foolishness to war against it." The multitalented Hara has also contributed scenarios to movies, including the "Wataridori" (migratory bird) action movie series, a big hit in the 1960s. He has also written song lyrics.

Hara himself has gone from one faction to another like a migratory bird, from the Ono faction to the Funada faction, and eventually to his present position as senior member of Prime Minister Yusuhiro Nakasone's faction.

CABINET ADOPTS 'AUSTERE' 1987 BUDGET GUIDELINES

[Text] Tokyo, July 21 KYODO -- The government Monday adopted austere guidelines for fiscal 1987 budgetary requests, but expenditures for defense and foreign aid escaped cutbacks along with four other exceptional items. The government decided at the day's special cabinet meeting to impose cuts on most budgetary requests for fiscal 1987 beginning next April, envisaging a 10 percent cut in general operating expenditures and a 5 percent reduction in investment-related programs. But defense spending was allowed to increase up to 6.3 percent or 210.6 billion yen over the current fiscal year. The government increased defense outlays 6.58 percent to 3.34 trillion yen in fiscal 1986. Official development assistance (ODA) funds were also allowed to expand by up to 7.5 percent or 46.7 billion yen over fiscal 1986 whose budget provided a 7 percent increase to 621.7 billion yen for ODA.

The other four areas, which also remained exceptional as in previous years, were outlays for social welfare, personnel costs, energy programs and promotion of science and technology development. The guidelines will be applied to budgetary requests to be worked out by government agencies and ministries by the end of next month. The national budget is usually finalized at the year-end.

As a result of the austere guidelines, general expenditures, including the operating expenditures by excluding debt servicing expenses and subsidies to local governments, would increase 1.01 percent to 32.91 trillion yen. The guidelines were the result of lengthy bargaining between Finance Minister Noboru Takeshita and each agency and ministry head. Negotiations with Koichi Kato, director general of the Defense Agency, lasted until the early hours of Monday morning.

The 6.3 percent ceiling on defense spending represented the lowest increase allowed for budgetary requests since fiscal 1983, compared with a 7.0 percent ceiling set by the government for fiscal 1986. The Defense Agency pushed for a 7.2 percent hike for fiscal 1987 with Kato having said that such an increase will help Japan shoulder its due burden as a member of the Western camp and fulfill a five-year defense buildup program that started this year. Even though the full 6.3 percent increase was allowed in the final budget, Japan's defense spending will still remain below the 1 percent of gross national product (GNP), the ceiling set by the government in 1976, ministry officials said.

The officials said the expected low growth in defense spending was due mainly to the yen's appreciation and to a drop in fuel prices. The dollar was set at 170 yen in working out the guidelines.

The government also decided to apply the guideline of a 5 percent cut in investment-related programs to outlays for public works despite strong calls in the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party for a substantial increase in public works spending to stimulate the flagging economy. But in an apparent attempt to compromise for such calls, the Finance Ministry agreed to negotiate with Construction Minister Takami Eto for an additional public works spending in a supplementary budget for fiscal 1986.

Among exceptional items, expenses for social welfare were allowed to increase by 520 billion yen over 9.83 tillion yen set aside for fiscal 1986.

LDP leaders later approved the budget guidelines but said they won Takeshita's consent to let the government party play a leading role in compiling the fiscal 1987 budget toward the end of this year, LDP sources said. The LDP officials also agreed with Takeshita to take "adequate" measures, including preparation of a supplementary budget, to shore up slowing economic activity, said Masayuki Fujio, chairman of the LDP's Policy Affairs Research Council

LDP Secretary General Shin Kanemaru added the planned supplementary budget will be a sizeably large one, featuring additional public works spending. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone had earlier said the supplementary budget would call for total spending of some 3 trillion yen.

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Shintaro Abe said the 7.5 percent increase allowed in the fiscal 1987 ODA budget request is smaller than the previous year's 10 percent rise. Given the yen's steep appreciation, however, an increase of more than 10 percent has been assured in dollar value, keeping alive the government's target of doubling ODA in seven years from fiscal 1986, Abe told a press conference.

Takeshita indicated at a separate news conference that the current formula of forcing uniform cuts in most budget programs has reached its limit. He said the Finance Ministry's austerity policy should be observed in principle but suggested the ministry will permit spending increases through a supplementary budget to prop up the faltering economy.

RALLY PROTESTS PLANNED VISIT BY U.S. BATTLESHIP

[Text] Sasebo, Nagasaki Pref., July 20 KYODO -- Antinuclear groups here held a joint demonstration Sunday against the expected visit of the U.S. battleship New Jersey to Sasebo as the ship is capable of being equipped with nuclear arms. The 45,000-ton battleship of the U.S. Navy's 7th Fleet is expected to call at Sasebo at the end of August. The ship can carry the Tomahawk nuclear cruise missile.

Masahsi Ishibashi, leader of the major opposition Japan Socialist Party, took part in the demonstration. Some 4,500 people gathered from across Kyushu as well as Okinawa, according to the organizers, unions belonging to the General Council of Trade Unions of Japan (Sohyo).

In the demonstration, held at Sasebo's Matsuura Park, the gathering's chairman, Kenji Taguchi, accused the Japanese Government of breaking the nation's three nonnuclear principles. The government has allowed U.S. warships to call at Japanese ports saying it had not been informed, that they were nuclear-armed, but such an explanation is a "childish trick," Taguchi said. The public is suspicious that such ships might be equipped with n-arms, and they will continue to fight against them calling at Japanese ports, he said.

Ishibashi said that Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone and his government will expand military expenditure from now on with the strengthened power of the ruling-Liberal Democratic Party, which won 300 seats in the House of Representatives in the July 6 Diet elections. "We shall not be discouraged by our defeat in the election and will keep up our protest against nuclear arms," Ishibashi added.

Isao Hayami, a representative of an Okinawa group at the rally, said his group will join the fight against the New Jersey's call in Sasebo, in addition to such issues as the Japan-U.S. Security Treaty and the compulsory use of Okinawa by the U.S. military forces.

The participants marched 2.5 kilometers to Sasebo station from the park after they adopted a declaration of fighting against nuclear powered warships as a part of a movement against the danger of nuclear war and creating nuclear free Asia.

Meanwhile, another gathering against the New Jersey's call in Sasebo saw some 700 people meeting at a park in Yokosuka, Kanagawa Prefecture. The demonstration held by nine factional labor unions supporting the Japan Communist Party. The participants also walked to the Yokosuka base of the U.S. military, and shouted antinuclear slogans.

NASDA, MITSUBISHI REACT TO REPORT ON ROCKET DEAL

[Text] Tokyo, July 17 KYODO -- The National Space Development Agency of Japan (NASDA) and Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, Thursday denied a story in a U.S. magazine which said McDonnell Douglas Corp. of the U.S. has proposed linking up with NASDA and Mitsubishi to market technology contained in Japan's latest rocket, the H-1. The U.S. weekly "AVIATION WEEK" said John F. Yardley, the president of McDonnell Douglas, has invited NASDA and Mitsubishi to join with his firm in selling rockets incorporating features of the H-1 and McDonnell Douglas' Delta rocket.

A satellite-carrying Delta was destroyed in flight earlier this year. With January's space shuttle disaster and other accidents which destroyed a U.S. Titan rocket and a French-designed Ariane, a worldwide shortage of reliable satellite-launching rockets has developed. The article portrayed the alleged McDonnell Douglas offer as a move to fill the gap by launching a new U.S.-Japan rocket, suitable for use in either country, on the world market.

NASDA, a government-backed space developer, said it has heard nothing of such an offer, which it said would involve "national policy," and would thus be out of NASDA's hands. NASDA pointed out that such a deal might have military implications, and would run counter to Japan's policy banning the export of arsenals.

A spokesman for Mitsubishi Heavy Industries, an H-1 parts maker mentioned by the U.S. weekly, said no such offer has come from McDonnell Douglas "officially." But he said since Mitsubishi and the U.S. firm have been technologically cooperating on F-15 and F-4 fighters, "it is not strange if such talks come up during casual chats between men of the two companies."

Japan's H-1 rocket, its official launch slated for August, has a Japanese-made engine system and automatic control system, though it also contains U.S.-made components, some of which have to be checked by U.S. personnel and are not accessible to Japanese scientists. McDonnell Douglas Japan Thursday told KYODO news service that the magazine article is "exaggerated and misinformed," but said the company, along with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), has been studying the options for international technical cooperation on satellite-launching rockets.

It said the Delta-H-1 project is among the company's ideas, including a Delta-Ariane link-up. Demand for satellites from the U.S. Air Force and NASA remains high, a spokesman for McDonnell Douglas Japan said. He added that Yardley himself mentioned the idea of combining international rocket technology at a Tokyo press conference in April. But he said even if the Delta-H-1 project were possible, the resulting rocket could not fly until the 1990s, much later than the space shuttle's scheduled return to operation in 1988, making the idea basically impractical.

CROWN PRINCE TO CANCEL SOUTH KOREA VISIT

[Text] Tokyo, July 19 KYODO -- Japanese Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko will call off a visit to South Korea which had been expected to take place this fall, according to government sources Saturday. There will be a simultaneous announcement on the matter in Tokyo and Seoul soon, the sources said. The sources gave no clear reason for the postponement of the royal visit.

Earlier this year, the royal couple canceled a visit to the United States, originally scheduled between late May and early June, after Princess Michiko underwent a surgical operation in March.

In South Korea, a former Japanese colony, there has been persistent opposition against the royal visit there, diplomatic sources said. Japan and South Korea, making a simultaneous announcement in Tokyo and Seoul on March 11, said the two countries would open consultations to arrange the Japanese royal visit to South Korea. Prince Akihito, 52, and his 51-year-old wife were to go to South Korea on behalf of Emperor Hirohito, who is 85 and has not traveled abroad since 1975 for health reasons.

No specific date was given in the March announcements, but a high-level imperial official had suggested this autumn as a likely date, saying that the visit would take place "when the weather is not too cold."

South Korean President Chon Tu-hwan originally extended an invitation to the emperor during his official visit to Japan in 1984.

Both the Japanese and South Korean Governments believe a Japanese royal visit is crucial to ending the enmity brought about by Japan's colonial rule of the whole Korean peninsula between 1910 and 1945.

New Cabinet To Decide

[Text] Tokyo, July 20 KYODO -- An indefinite postponement of Crown Prince Akihito's trip to South Korea is a matter that should be decided by Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone's new cabinet, a senior imperial household agency official said. Asked Saturday night about reports that the trip by the crown prince and Crown Princess Michiko will be postponed, the official said he had not heard whether the visit will be called off. It is a matter that should be decided by the new cabinet, he said. Nakasone is expected to complete formation of his new cabinet Tuesday.

Imperial Household Agency officials said Crown Princess Michiko has been making a steady recovery after undergoing a hysterectomy operation in March. They said the crown princess will begin making scheduled trips to various parts of Japan in September.

Government sources said Saturday that a simultaneous announcement on the postponement of the royal trip will be made in Tokyo and Seoul soon. The resources gave no clear reason for the postponement of the trip.

Japan and South Korea simultaneously announced on March 11 that the two nations would start consultations to arrange the royal visit to South Korea. But no specific date for the trip was given at that time. The trip was to be made to return the state visit to Japan by Korean President Chon Tu-hwan in 1984.

Korean opposition parties have since declared that they are against a visit by members of the Japanese imperial family.

U.S.-S. KOREAN REJECTION OF TALKS PROPOSAL SCORED

SK150846 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 1308 GMT 12 Jul 86

[Statement by Chong I-kun, Councilor [chamsa] of the Secretariat of the Democratic Front for Reunification of the Fatherland [DFRF]: "The U.S. Imperialist Aggressors and the Chon Tu-hwan Puppet Clique Should Immediately Respond to Talks Between the Military Authorities as Called for by Us, Instead of Making Unjust Excuses" -- recorded]

[Text] I could not repress my indignation upon hearing the news that the U.S. and South Korean side on 11 July at Panmunjom perpetrated an act of refusing to receive our second letter to the commander in chief of the UN Forces in South Korea and the South Korean defense minister calling for holding talks by military authorities.

A member of the UN forces who claimed to have come to receive the letter opened the letter by himself after receiving it. He then said he could not receive the letter, picking a quarrel over the issue of a signature. The South Side also refused to receive the letter.

This is a rude act unseen since the dialogue began between the North and South. It is understandable that the servant cannot receive the letter which his master refuses to receive. However, what is all the more nonsensical is that when our radio revealed this and the contents of the letter, the so-called senior delegates of the South Side to the North-South economic talks, to the North-South Red Cross talks, and to the preliminary contacts for realizing the North-South parliamentary talks unanimously sent telephone messages calling for resumption of the manifold dialogue, which was suspended, while opposing the holding of talks between military authorities as if they had promised to do so.

It is clear to everyone that all this is an impure political offensive aimed at avoiding talks by the military authorities at any cost.

I regard such an act by the South Korean puppets as a reckless and preposterous act by those who have no sense, who cannot understand the essence of the question, and who have lost all reason.

I think our proposal for talks by military authorities reflects an active position not only to realize a good atmosphere for resuming the suspended North-South dialogue by taking measures for detente in the military sector, but also to promptly realize talks at the highest level.

As for suspending the manifold dialogue between the North and South, which the South Korean puppets claimed they should resolve, it is not the fault of any others. It is a consequence brought about by the South Korean puppets, who staged the unprecedentedly large-scale northward offensive "Team Spirit," together with their masters, in defiance of our repeated demand to suspend war exercises in order to create an atmosphere for dialogue.

Even after the "Team Spirit" war exercise, staged for many months together with the U.S. imperialists, the South Korean puppets daily waged such war exercise rackets as "Ttangpol," "Piho," "Pilsong Pangpae," and joint mobilization training and joint operational exercises on the east coast between the U.S. imperialist 7th Fleet and the South Korean puppet naval force.

The South Korean puppets are going to stage a war exercise called "Ulchi-86" throughout South Korea beginning 16 July, while babbling about the resumption of dialogue. This is aimed at inciting an atmosphere of war.

The North-South dialogue is aimed at opening the road of reunification by easing tension and improving North-South relations. If one wants to pursue confrontation, why should he attempt to hold dialogue and thus waste his time?

Under circumstances in which one is continuously staging anticommunist rackets and war exercises against one's partner, sitting face to face is impossible, and problems cannot be resolved even if they do sit together.

This notwithstanding, the South Korean puppets are talking about resuming dialogue while refusing talks between military authorities for realizing measures to ease tension. This is indeed preposterous.

The fact that the South Korean puppets are loudly discussing resuming dialogue and so forth is not because they are interested in improving relations through dialogue or in easing tension. This is a deceitful drama designed to conceal their nature as destroyers of peace and a frantic splittists.

No matter how loudly the U.S. imperialists and South Korean puppets may talk about dialogue while refusing our proposal for talks between military authorities, they cannot conceal their nature as the ones pursuing confrontation, not dialogue or detente, and dreaming of war, not peace.

The U.S. and South Korean side should immediately respond to talks between military authorities, as we have proposed, instead of resorting to foolish tricks.

Pyongyang Radio 14 Jul Commentary

[Commentary by station commentator Cho Tu-ul: "In Denunciation of the Dialogue-Negation and Antipeace Act"]

[Text] The spokesman for the DPRK Ministry of the People's Armed Forces held a press conference and issued a statement on 14 July in connection with our sincere effort to open a road to alleviating tension and peace in our country, which is facing a grave challenge from the United States and the South Korean side.

In the statement, the spokesman for the Ministry of the People's Armed Forces noted the fact that the United States and the South Korean side treated with extreme insincerity and rudeness the letters we recently sent them on two occasions on holding talks of military persons in authority, and resolutely denounced the United States and the South Korean side for their dialogue-negation and antipeace act. This is very proper.

As has already been reported, the United States and the South Korean side, after taking a negative position toward our first letters on holding talks of military persons in authority, refused to accept the letters we sent the second time, which called for practical steps to alleviate tension and peace.

This rude act against common sense by the United States and the South Korean side is provoking the vehement indignation of not only the entire Korean people, but also the world's peace-loving people.

Our new peace initiative for holding talks between military persons in authority is a reasonable and well-timed step to eliminate the danger of war and alleviate tension on the Korean peninsula by all means, and to immediately create an atmosphere for the dialogue now in a state of suspension.

If talks of military persons in authority are realized and a practical solution is reached to the problems of practically halting military exercises and the arms buildup on the Korean peninsula, reducing troops and armaments, and observing the Korean Armistice Agreement as provided for in its original clauses, it will undoubtedly alleviate the tense situation leading to the brink of war, open an advantageous phase for peace, and provide a good atmosphere for North-South dialogue as well.

Nevertheless, the United States and the South Korean side have rejected the talks betwen military persons in authority under the absurd pretext of the so-called problem of relations between the North and South, propaganda-oriented issues, and so forth. This is a shameless tactic designed to shirk their responsibility as the ringleader aggravating tension and to reject discussing the problems of alleviating tension and peace.

By desperately rejecting our new peace initiative, the United States and the South Korean side revealed once again to the entire world their bellicose nature of not desiring alleviation of tension and peace in Korea but seeking the line of confrontation and war. In fact, the U.S. forces and South Korean puppets are making their desperate and last-ditch effort to further lead the situation to the brink of war in Korea. This is clearly and realistically proven by the fact that, after completing the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise, the largest in scale ever, they have continually conducted such military exercises as "Ttangpol," "Piho," "Pilsong Pangpae," and a joint maneuver exercise, and are planning to conduct another war exercise called "Ulchi-86."

Notwithstanding, the pouppets are raving, outwardly, about a sense of mutual trust and resumption of dialogue. It is preposterous and dumbfounding that they should call for dialogue while continually conducting war exercises designed to harm the other party to the dialogue. Under the condition in which the war exercises against us are continually conducted in South Korea, North-South dialogue cannot be held, and even if a dialogue was to be held, it would not solve anything. This is well proven by the historical experience of North-South dialogue. The hard-won North-South dialogue was suspended this year because the United States and the South Korean authorities conducted the adventurous war exercise of northward invasion on the largest scale in history -- "Team Spirit-86" -- despite strong denunciation from public opinion at home and abroad.

This means that North-South dialogue can achieve its desired objective only when it is conducted after the military persons in authority of both sides sit together and alleviate tension in the situation in the first place.

Our new peace initiative for holding talks between military persons in authority in order to alleviate tension and eliminate the danger of war in Korea originates from the historical experience and our own experiences from North-South dialogue. In spite of this, the puppets are raving about resumption of dialogue, and so forth. This is nothing but their cunning and deceptive trick to hide their criminal nature of avoiding the talks of military persons in authority and to disguise themselves as if they were interested in peace.

If the United States and the South Korean puppets continue to follow the road of confrontation and war, deceiving and defiling public opinion at home and abroad despite repetitive warnings from us and the world's peace-loving people, they will be subjected to greater denunciation and rejection with the world watching.

Talks Delegates Comment

[Text] The delegation of the North side to the preliminary contacts for the North-South parliamentary talks issued the following statement on 17 July:

The acts of the United States and the South Korean persons in authority, by rejecting our new peace proposal for holding talks among military persons in authority, have now occasioned the great vehement indignation of the entire Korean people and the peace-loving people of the world. The North side's delegation to the preliminary contacts of the North-South parliamentary talks resolutely denounces the bellicose maneuvers of the United States and the South Korean persons in authority in rejecting our peace proposal, pursuing confrontation and war, and challenging the consistent yearning of all fellow countrymen and the peace-loving people of the world.

It is well known to the world that the United States and the South Korean ruling circles have never wanted the alleviation of tension and peace. By rejecting our proposal for tripartite talks to provide a precondition for peace on the Korean peninsula, the United States has revealed its aggressive and bellicose position. By conducting the "Team Spirit" joint military exercise and purposefully dispatching armed forces from its mainland during the period of the North-South dialogue, it has shown more clearly its position of negating dialogue and opposing peace.

The South Korean ruling circles have already clearly shown that they pursue not the alleviation of tension and peace, but the road to confrontation and war with their opposition to including on the agenda the publication of a joint declaration of nonaggression, when they have avoided for as much as 50 days our proposal for North-South parliamentary talks for alleviating tension and for peace, creating an artificial obstacle concerning the agenda, even after attending the preliminary contacts under pressure from people at home and abroad.

Furthermore, in collusion with the aggressive forces that have come into the country, this year they have followed the road of totally challenging and running counter to dialogue and peace. The South Korean ruling ring, together with the United States, conducted the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise despite the consistent opposition and rejection of the people at home and abroad, extremely aggravating the situation in the country and causing a total suspension of the North-South dialogue.

Even at that time, the South Korean ruling ring should have repented their wrongs and made serious efforts to create an atmosphere for resuming dialogue as we requested. However, they challenged our just advice and repetitive demands by issuing an official statement saying that they would continuously intensify the "Team Spirit" joint military exercises in the future.

Since then, right up to today, they have not only made such provocative military noise in South Korea as "Ttangpol-86," "Piho-86," and "Pangpae-86," but they are currently conducting the large-scale "Ulchi-86" military exercise, inspiring an atmosphere of confrontation and war and blocking the resumption of North-South dialogue.

In reality the South Korean ruling ring, together with the United States, is following the dangerous road of confrontation and war, losing their reason, leading the situation in the country to the brink of war, and endangering even the fate of North-South dialogue. This urgently demands that the pending problem of halting military exercises and alleviating tension in the country be quickly solved.

Nevertheless, the delegation of the South side to the preliminary contacts for the North-South parliamentary talks ignored this stern reality and issued at random a so-called notice, which is not worth the slightest consideration and babbles about resuming talks, to the scorn of the people of the world.

For them -- the same people who acted obstinately, senselessly, and brazen-facedly a short while ago, avoiding the North-South parliamentary talks for solving the problem of nonaggression -- to babble about resuming contacts leads us only to interpret that they are perpetrating a very unbecoming trick. How dare they -- unless they are so brazen-faced that they do not feel ashamed when they sell the interests of the country and the nation to the United States and do not feel ashamed when they sacrifice fellow countrymen -- mention the resumption of the preliminary talks?

If the South side is truly interested in resuming talks, they should not stage a drama which makes fools of every fellow countrymen and the other party to the dialogue as a dirty trumpeter for the bellicose elements, but should make a proper effort to realize the talks among military persons in authority for alleviating tension and for peace.

We strongly maintain that the talks among military persons in authority should be held quickly to realize the North-South parliamentary talks, which would provide a turning point for national reconciliation between the North and South and for alleviating tension. The United States and South Korean persons in authority should not follow the anachronistic criminal road of pursuing confrontation and war, but should affirmatively respond without delay to our proposal for the talks among military persons in authority for the alleviation of tension, for peace, and for dialogue.

[Signed] 17 July 1986, Pyongyang.

CPRF 18 Jul Statement

SK190426 Pyongyang Domestic Service in Korean 2200 GMT 18 Jul 86

[Text] The CPRF on 18 July issued a statement denouncing the criminal act of the United States and the South Korean persons in authority for rejecting our proposal for talks between military persons in authority and for pursuing maneuvers of confrontation and war.

The statement of the CPRF says:

In our country today an acute struggle between the line of dialogue and the line of confrontation, between the line of peace and the line of war, is being waged.

As is already known, the KPA Supreme Command has made a new peace proposal for holding talks between the military persons in authority -- between the DPRK minister of the People's Armed Forces, the commander in chief of the UN Forces in South Korea, and the South Korean minister of national defense -- for the noble purpose of alleviating tension on the Korean peninsula, ensuring peace, and creating an advantageous atmosphere for dialogue. And the KPA has made sincere efforts to bring all this to fruition.

If the talks of the military persons in authority are realized, as we sincerely wish, and a solution is reached to the pressing current problems in alleviating tension, it is clear to everyone that the acute situation on the Korean peninsula, approaching the dangerous phase of war, will be turned in the direction of the alleviation of tension and peace and that a bright prospect will be opened for the future of North-South dialogue.

Nevertheless, the United States and the South Korean persons in authority adopted a negative attitude from the beginning toward our constructive peace initiative and finally rejected it. This is an open revelation of the intention of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean ruling circles to continue to pursue a policy of confrontation and war, rather than the alleviation of tension and peace, in our country in the future as well.

In reality, at the same time they rejected our peace proposal, they began to conduct a large-scale military exercise called "Ulchi-86," driving the entire South Korean land into a warlike atmosphere of confrontation and war, and are pushing ahead with a plan to build 36 additional special arsenals for nuclear weapons in South Korea.

The CPRF resolutely denounces the intolerable crime of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean ruling circles for rejecting our proposal for peace talks, which all fellow countrymen and the world's peace-loving people consistently support, for accelerating war preparations, and for frenziedly engaging in confrontation rackets.

The cursed act of the United States and the South Korean persons in authority in opposing the alleviation of tension and running counter to peace is an extension of the maneuvers for aggression and war provocation which they have been consistently pursuing in our country. It is well known to the world that the United States and the South Korean ruling circles have pursued only the road of confrontation and war, opposing our proposal for tripartite talks to alleviate tension on the Korean peninsula and to solidify peace, and have turned away from our proposal for publishing a joint declaration of nonaggression in the North-South parliamentary talks.

Their bellicose maneuvers have been increased this year. Despite the fact that our side repeatedly put forward a fundamental demand refraining from acts destroying the atmosphere for North-South dialogue and spared no effort, taking practical steps for this, the United States and South Korean ruling ring conducted the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise, leading the situation in the country to the brink of war and suspending all North-South dialogues.

Furthermore, they openly declared that they will continue to intensify the "Team Spirit" joint military exercises in the future as well and have been frenziedly inspiring an atmosphere of confrontation and war, continuously conducting new large-scale war exercises such as "Ttangppol-86," "Piho-86," and "Pangpae-86," mobilizing millions of men of the regular armed forces and civil armed forces.

Today's reality, in which the state of tension is being aggravated more than ever due to the bellicose maneuvers of the United States and the South Korean ruling circles, shows that talks by military persons in authority should be held more than anything else in our country, and the primary problem of halting military exercises and alleviating tension must be solved.

Nevertheless, at the very time when they rejected the proposal for talks of the military persons in authority and also used the same channel of communication, the South Korean ruling circle sent a notice babbling about the resumption of talks. This is truly ridiculous. The foolish farce staged by the South Korean ruling circles aimed at hiding their intolerable crime of opposing dialogue, peace, and the alleviation of tension, and pursuing confontation and war will only invoke greater denunciation and curses from the people at home and abroad.

Alleviating tension on the Korean peninsula, solidifying peace, and realizing the reunification of the country peacefully by means of dialogue and negotiation are a firm will of all fellow countrymen and are the consistent demand of the world's peace-loving people.

The United States and the South Korean persons in authority should not pursue the road of confrontation and war and run counter to the general trend of the times, but should affirmatively respond without delay to our proposal for talks by the military persons in authority for the alleviation of tension, dialogue, and peace.

If they continue to refuse to come to the talks by the military persons in authority, despite our repeated advice, and follow the reckless road of confrontation and war, they will be held totally responsible for all consequences arising therefrom.

We take this opportunity to express our expectation that all progressive organizations and people of all countries of the world will pay deep attention to the development of the grave situation on the Korean peninsula and continuously express firm support for and solidarity with our people's just cause for the alleviation of tension, peace, and peaceful reunification.

18 July 1986, Pyongyang.

NODONG SINMUN DENOUNCES 'ULCHI-86' WAR EXERCISE

[NODONG SINMUN 17 July commentary: "Commotion About Playing with Fire That Block Alleviation and Dialogue"]

[Text] Because of the "Ulchi-86" war exercise commotion, which the puppet clique is kicking up, a warlike atmosphere that bears a close resemblance to one prevailing during wartime prevails throughout South Korea. The puppets are conducting such exercises as a comprehensive fire drill and exercise involving taking shelter in hotels in the heart of Seoul or the Changdok Palace, while loudly ringing an air-raid alarm in broad daylight. They are also running amok by conducting checks and searches and engaging in battles by mobilizing the puppet police and Armed Forces units in an exercise called "the blockade exercise" in preparation for the high-speed infiltration of guerillas. The warmongers, who are excited with war fever, are running amok all day long by staging a frenzied drama involving infiltrating mock armed guerillas and spies from early morning; conducting real exercises involving the residents reporting [to relevant institutions]; sending the Homeland Reserve Forces troops and residents in the metropolitan area to frontline units by mobilizing them without advance notice; and conducting an exercise in preparations against chemical, biological, and radioactive warfare.

The war commotion has not stopped here. When darkness set in, with the loud sound of sirens, a nighttime black-out exercise began and everything was shrouded in darkness. However, warmonger and traitor Chon Tu-hwan, while prowling about Seoul, even climbed up to the observatory of a high-rise building and indulged in war frenzy there, while saying loudly that even hospitals must thoroughly install blackout curtains and that the citizens must actively participate in the exercise. The "Ulchi-86" exercise, which is being conducted under the command of traitor Chon Tu-hwan, is an exercise which involves mobilizing, in an all-out manner, all residents and cars, as well as the puppet forces and civilian forces, from throughout South Korea; an exercise unprecedented in scale.

This war exercise commotion, which is being accompanied by the shameless propaganda that they are being conducted to successfully hold the Asian Games this fall and the 1988 Olympic Games, are an anticommunist war frenzy designed to inspire a sense of enmity against and confrontation with the northern half of the Republic among the South Korean people and complete the system of mobilizing, in an all-out manner, the ordinary residents, as well as the puppet forces, during wartime to provoke a war of northward invasion. They are also committing antinational crimes designed to aggravate tension and create an atmosphere of war.

At a time when all fellow countrymen in the North and the South and the peace-loving people of the world unanimously hope for peace in and the peaceful reunification of Korea, who in the world needs an air-raid alarm and an alarm signalling an exercise to prepare against chemical, biological, and radioactive warfare and why is such a commotion as an exercise involving mobilization without advance notice and an exercise involving taking shelter necessary? This is nothing but the reckless frenzy of the warmongers, who are attempting to provoke a new war, and the ugly desperate act of the fascist elements, who are attempting to muffle the shouts for independence and democracy with the noisy sound of war.

The frantic war commotion of the Chon Tu-hwan ring is an unforgivable provocation against us, as we make every effort to create an atmosphere of dialogue and negotiation, and is a vicious challenge to the peace-loving people of the world, who hope for peace in Korea and peaceful resolution to the Korean issue.

The Chon Tu-hwan ring, which had covered the land and air witdh gunpowder smoke by conducting the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise from early spring, has intensified the situation by endlessly kicking up war commotions code-named "Ttangbol," "Piho," and "Pangpae" in the recent several months alone. The successive war commotion and confrontation maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists and the Chon Tu-hwan ring vividly show that a threat of northward invasion from the South, not a threat of southward invasion, exists on the Korean peninsula and that it is because of the frenzied war commotion and vicious confrontation maneuvers of the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets that the North-South Dialogues, which had been arranged after a long lapse of time, were suspended all at once and cannot be resumed.

It is ridiculous that those who are sharpening the swords of aggression against the northern half of the Republic, while drumming up a war of northward invasion, are crying for the resumption of dialogue. If the North-South dialogue is to be successfully realized, an atmosphere favorable to the dialogue is to be successfully realized, an atmosphere favorable to the dialogue must be provided. In a place where tension is aggravated and where the danger of war lingers, dialogue cannot be freely held, and even if the dialogue is held, one cannot expect success from it.

The South Korean puppets, who oppose our proposal to hold talks among military authorities to remove the imminent danger of war, to settle the strained state of military confrontation, and to promote an atmosphere favorable to the North-South dialogue, are talking about dialogue, while kicking up frantic war commotions. This is simply a deceit and a shameless trick. No matter how hard the South Korean puppets, who refuse to accept our peace proposal, try to veil their faces with the talk of dialogue and peace, they cannot conceal their colors as the destroyers of the dialogue and violators of peace, and they cannot justify their confrontation and war maneuvers. If the South Korean warmongers, while continuously serving as the war culprits of the U.S. imperialists as they are now, continuously tread upon the road of betraying the nation, what is left for them is only shameless destructin. The Chon Tu-hwan ring, after stopping its reckless maneuvers of playing with fire, must respond, without any delay, to our peaceful proposal to take measures to alleviate tension.

DJP Favors Parliamentary System

SK182355 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 19 Jul 86 p 1

[Text] CHONJU -- The chairman of the Democratic Justice Party's Special Constitution Committee said here yesterday that the nation's conditions "are mature enough to implement a parliamlentary cabinet system."

Pointing to the nation's rapid industrialization and the people's high educational levels, Rep. Chae Mun-sik said, "Our soil for democratic politics is fertile."

He made the remarks in a press conference during which he evaluated the result of a series of regional conferences on the constitution the ruling party had sponsored in major cities throughout the nation.

He said the DJP has confirmed through the public hearings that a consensus has been made on preventing the concentration of political power in one person "to guarantee the people's rights."

"The dominant opinion was that the most proper institutional setting for decentralizing power is the parliamentary system," Chae said.

The remarks confirmed previous news reports that the ruling party has settled on the parliamentary system as the form of the next government.

The committee chairman said the ruling party has found out that the people want to see a long-standing constitution made.

"Our party plans to formulate the framework of a draft of constitutional revision by the end of this month by converging the voice of the people. I expect our draft will be disclosed to the people by the middle of next month," he said.

Earlier, party secretary Chon Sun-tok said the DJP will hold its Central Committee meetings to discuss the direction of the party's constitutional amendment as soon as the party concludes its training session in Mt. Togyu which starts from Monday through Wednesday.

Chong said the revision draft will be put into discussions at a meeting of DJP lawmakers early next month for final approval and then will be made public around Aug. 15.

For this, the party is to convene a general meeting of its Special Constitution Committee Friday to finalize the draft of the constitutional amendment.

In response to reporters' questions, Chae said, "If the nation adopts the parliamentary system, it would be desirable for the new constitution to contain safeguards against an abuse of the nonconfidence note system."

The five-term lawmaker indicated the ruling DJP is considering the introduction of the West German "constructive nonconfidence system" in the party's draft amendment.

The nonconfidence system allows the legislature to exercise nonconfidence rights toward the cabinet only when a next head of the cabinet has been selected.

Chae also said the draft will not permit the dissolution of legislature by the administration until the legislature has been in operation for a year.

In what he strictly termed his personal opinions, the committee chairman said, "Should we choose the parliamentary system, I do not think it is necessary for the people to directly elect the president."

The remarks were interpreted as meaning that the president, who would have ceremonial powers, might be elected by the National Assembly.

Asked if th bicameral system would be introduced, Chae said, "I do not think we find ourselves at the historical point of introducing a bicameral system."

The committee chairman said that debates on revising the parliamentary election law should be conducted only after concluding the work of amending the basic charter.

"If we should discuss redressing the election law in conjunction with the Constitution, it may delay the process of achieving a grand compromise on constitutional reform," he said.

Underscoring the need for bipartisan compromise, he said, "We are still flexible in arranging a final reform bill."

He, however, made it clear that the ruling party adamantly opposes a direct election of the president.

Meanwhile, Rep. Yi Chi-ho, ranking member of the committee, said that as a result of regional conferences, a consensus has emerged that parliamentary system is theoretically an excellent setup.

Twelve of th 28 people who have made presentations on the power structure have advocated the parliamentary system, he said.

The figure compares with 10 for the presidential system and six for a mixed form of government, Yi said.

NKDP 'Enraged' by DJP Backtracking

SK200055 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 20 Jul 86 pp 1, 4

[Text] Debates between rival parties over the power structure entered a new phase yesterday, as the opposition party denounced the ruling party's plan to adopt a parliamentary cabinet system.

Winding up a series of what allegedly were public hearings on constitutional revision Friday, the Democratic Justice Party concluded that the parliamentary system is the best form of government to adopt.

News reports said the ruling DJP has settled on the system, which would give almost all substantial powers to the prime minister.

Engaged by the ruling party's reported plan, the New Korea Democratic Party issued a strongly worded statement, accusing the DJP of seeking to introduce the system to stay in power.

The opposition NKDP charged the government party with violating a bipartisan agreement to assure the people of a free choice of government.

The ruling party plans to publicize the shortcomings of the presidential system based on direct election.

The opposition party intends to hold a series of rallies throughout the country to get the legitimacy of the direct presidential election across to the people.

Rival parties' intransigent positions on the form of the next government are certain to add the difficulty with which major parties can work out a compromise constitutional reform bill.

In a meeting of its ranking officials, the DJP evaluated the result of public hearings on constitutional amendment held through the nation.

Rep. Yi Chi-ho, ranking member of the ruliong party's Special Constitution Committee, said a consensus achieved through the hearings was that power should be scattered.

Party chairman No Tae-u said, "Our party is still collecting public opinions on constitutional amendment. Some news media reported that we have adopted the parliamentary system. It is nothing but the opinion of the committee."

No, however, did not deny news report, and political observers refused to give him the benefit of the doubt when he said the party has yet to determine its position on the form of the next government.

Informed party sources said the majority party has already started formulating a draft of the constitutional revision on the basis of the parliamentary system.

The sources said the ruling will sponsor meetings at its local chapters to stress the validity of the parliamentary system.

They also said the government party will exert efforts to create an atmosphere in which major parties will achieve a compromise on constitutional reform.

The opposition NKDP, on the other hand, is scheduled to hold a public hearing Friday to underscore the necessity of adopting a direct presidential election system.

The party also plans to resume struggles in and outside the Assembly forum to push for the direct presidential election system.

SK191011 Seoul TONG-A ILBO in Korean 19 Jul 86 p 11

The police decided to actively check lawmakers and party post-holders from going out of the building and to block their car parade to the Myongdong Cathedral.

NKDP Demands Cabinet Resign

SK210545 Seoul Domestic Service in Korean 0500 GMT 21 Jul 86

[Report by reporter Kim In-kyu]

[Text] This morning the NKDP held an enlarged meeting of cadres and demanded the general resignation of the present cabinet in connection with the abortion of a rally scheduled for Myongdong on 19 July.

The NKDP stated that dispersion of the planned 19 July rally by police authorities was undemocratic violence and that the NKDP has decided to demand general resignation of the present cabinet by holding it responsible for the break-up.

Along with this, the NKDP decided to hold a rally concerning the so-called incident involving the Puchon police station in defiance of any prohibitions.

The NKDP also decided to send Yi Chung-che, Yi Ki-taek, Kim Su-hwan, and Yang Sun-chik, vice presidents; and Pak Chang-chong, chairman of the Human Rights-Defending Committee, to Cardinal Kim Su-hwan to apologize for the Myongdong incident.

Further on NKDP Protests

[Text] Seoul, July 21 (YONHAP) -- The opposition New Korea Democratic Party (NKDP) decided Monday to demand a general resignation of the Cabinet, claiming that the government should be held responsible for the obstruction of a rally last Saturday. Police blocked an NKDP attempt to hold a rally at the Myongdong Cathedral here Saturday afternoon to disclose the "truth" of the alleged sexual abuse on a former college co-ed by a police officer. The prosecution last Thursday announced that the allegation Sgt. Mun Kwi-tong sexually abused Miss Kwon In-suk was "untrue" but that the police officer beat up the 22-year-old former co-ed and verbally abused her during an investigation last month. The national police headquarters dismissed Mun.

The NKDP's decision was made at a meeting of senior party leaders. Rep. Kang Sam-chae, vice spokesman of the main opposition party, said the NKDP decided to demand a general resignation of the government "because police committed violence by indiscriminately shooting tear gas." NKDP President Yi Min-u on Sunday discussed the issue with party adviser Kim Yong-sam and opposition leader Kim Tae-chung, co-chairman of the Committee for the Promotion of democratization.

Kang said the NKDP will hold the aborted rally by all means.

The NKDP also decided to demand that a special National Assembly be convened to deal with the issue. Meanwhile the NKDP plans to submit to the National Assembly a list of names of 17 NKDP lawmakers to form the House Special Constitutional Revision Committee after the ruling Democratic Justice Party ends a three-day camp rally on Wednesday.

AFP Report

[Text] Seoul, July 21 (AFP) -- The opposition New Korean Democratic Party (NKDP) called on the entire South Korean cabinet to resign Monday following the violent break-up of a planned human rights rally here Saturday, party officials said. High-ranking party members also vowed to try to stage the rally once again to expose alleged cases of police brutality against political dissidents, the officials said.

Riot police used teargas to disperse some 3,000 people Saturday as they converged on a Seoul cathedral for the rally, which was prompted by reports that a woman dissident had been sexually molested by the policeman. President Chon Tu-hwan's government, which denied the charge and declared the rally "illegal," also put top opposition figure Kim Tae-chung and other dissidents under house arrest to prevent them attending.

The NKDP officials said cabinet ministers should resign en masse and take responsibility for the way the police "brutally" prevented the rally, in which 41 people were detained and several people hurt. The party agreed with other dissidents to attempt another gathering at Myundong Roman Catholic Cathedral, plus others elsewhere in South Korea, "under any circumstances" in the near future, dissident sources said. However, NKDP officials said the party decided not to link the rally issue to the question of amending South Korea's constitution, and opted to join a parliamentary committee to be launched on the matter this week.

Meanwhile, police said Monday that 31 of 41 people detained Saturday had been released. Among the remaining 10, they said, two students and an unemployed person would be indicted with violating laws governing illegal assemblies and seven students would be referred for summary trial. Police also said they had arrested six college students and put another eight on their list of wanted suspects for distributing letters containing "leftist ideology" and inciting high school students to fight the government.

In another development, Stephen Cardinal Kim, spiritual leader of South Korea's Roman Catholic community, convoked a prayer session Monday night in connection with alleged harassment of political detainees. Some 1,000 nuns were expected to attend.

HOUSE SESSION LIKELY ON TORTURE, U.S. TRADE ISSUES

SK180022 Seoul THE KOREA TIMES in Engilish 18 Jul 86 p 1

[Text] An extra full House session or standing committees are likely to be held early next month to deal with the alleged sexual harassment of a female labor activist by Puchon police and other controversies such as the opening of local markets for U.S. cigarettes.

The major opposition New Korea Democratic Party demanded the covocation of five standing committees or an extra full session to handle what it calls the "sexual abuse" incident.

In a meeting with his Democratic Justice Party counterpart, NDP whip Kim Tong-yong demanded that the House session be called to inquire into the incident, claiming that the outcome of prosecution investigation failed to reveal what had really happened.

The DJP whip, Yi Se-ki, told Kim and the Korea National Party's Kim Yong-chae that his party will not oppose opening House committees on the condition that the Special Constitutional Revision Committee will be inaugurated first.

Yi then urged the NDP to submit it list of delegates to the special constitutional panel for its early inauguration.

The DJP floor leader claimed that the NDP has delayed activating the panel for about three weeks since its formation was agreed upon unanimously by the ruling and opposition parties in the previous extra House session.

The five House committees are Home Affairs, the Legislation-Judiciary, Foreign Affairs, Education-Information and Construction Committees.

DJP's Yi Se-ki told his opposition counterparts that it is not necessary for the extra full session to be called "because an extra session was held just one month ago.

But earlier, DJP spokesman Sim Myong-po told reporters that the DJP will not oppose holding the House session, whether it be a full session or standing committees, if the NDP agrees to inaugurate the special constitutional committee.

He said, "There is no reason for the DJP to evade any House session in the face of such important issues as trade problems between Korea and the United States and the Puchon incident.

DJP sources said that the government will allow local markets to be opened for the U.S. cigarettes sooner or later.

As for the constitutional House panel, the DJP floor leader told reporters after the meeting that he will settle "seating arrangements" in a meeting with Lee tomorrow, implying that the NDP will submit the list of delegates to the Assembly soon.

The rival parties had been at odds over the distribution of members of the constitutional panel among the parties. The DJP had submitted its list of 20 delegates, while the NDP refused to do so, claiming that the House speaker select two members of the committee from independents.

CGDK SPOKESMAN REJECTS ECONOMIC AGREEMENTS

BK210157 (Clandestine) Voice of the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea in Cambodian 2315 GMT 20 Jul 86

[19 July statement by spokesman of CGDK Foreign Ministry]

[Text] Recently, the Hanoi Vietnamese spread deceitful propaganda that so-called economic and cultural cooperation agreements had been signed between the Vietnamese in Hanoi, Laos, and Phnom Penh. The CGDK Foreign Ministry categorically rejects the so-called economic and cultural cooperation agreements.

1. The so-called agreements were in fact prepared by the Hanoi Vietnamese who pretended to sign them with their puppets in Phnom Penh and Vientiane. These agreements are intended to dupe the world into thinking that the Vietnamese puppets in Phnom Penh and Vientiane are independent. However, the truth is that everything is decided by the Vietnamese. These agreements are also intended to legitimize the Vietnamese act of aggression in Cambodia and occupation in Laos through past, present, and future agreements.

2. The CGDK Foreign Ministry, like all Cambodian people, completely rejects the agreements signed on 18 July 1986, as well as those which the Hanoi Vietnamese have signed and will sign, because all these documents are completely made up by the Vietnamese.

The world public is aware of many of these arguments. We ask the world not to recognize them and to oppose past, present, and future Vietnamese deceitful maneuvers.

[Station Article: "Aggravation of the Situation Inside and Outside Vietnam"]

[Text] Vietnam's NHAN DAN newspaper reported on 18 June that the Vietnamese people have been complaining about the country's economic difficulties. The Vietnamese cabinet reshuffle seems to indicate an attempt to move the country's administration system away from orthodox Stalinism. It has also been proposed that government officials and people who engage in corrupt practices should be punished. One such official is the vice chairman of the party committee in the southern province of Thanh Hoa and he might be punished in public. All these cases indicate that a massive purge will be launched against wrongdoers in Vietnam. However, it has very little chance of success as long as the majority of Vietnamese people still earn very little and are left to face economic crisis while the Vietnamese Government does nothing to improve their living conditions.

The Vietnamese Council of Ministers on 21 June voted for a cabinet reshuffle proposed by the chairman of the Council of Ministers as follows:

To Huu was relieved from the post of vice chairman of the Council of Ministers. Vo Chi Cong was appointed member of the CPV Political Bureau, member of the Secretariat of the CPV Central Committee, and vice chairman of the Council of Ministers. Dong Sy Nguyen, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, was relieved from the post of minister of communications and transportation. Bui Danh Luu, deputy minister of communications and transportation, assumed the post of minister of communications and transportation. Chu Tam Thuc was relieved from the post of finance minister. Vu Tuan was relieved from the post of minister of food industry in order to assume the post of finance minister.

Le Duc Thinh was relieved from the post of home trade minister. Hoang Minh Thang, member of the party Central Committee, secretary of the party committee of Quang Nam-Da Nang and member of the Economic Planning and Budget Committee of the National Assembly, assumed the post of home trade minister. Le Khac was relieved from the post of minister of foreign trade. Doan Duy Thanh, alternate member of the party Central Committee and co-chairman of the People's Committee of Haiphong, assumed the post of Foreign Trade Minister. Nguyen Duy Gia was relieved from the post of governor of the state bank. Lu Minh Chau assumed the post of governor of the state bank. Nguyen Chan was relieved from the post of minister of mines and coal. Nguyen Van Hieu was relieved from the post of culture minister.

Besides the economic slump in the country, the Vietnamese attempt to occupy Cambodia permanently has been strongly opposed. In June, the CGDK forces took initiative in launching attacks on the Vietnamese military units in the areas of Siem Reap-Oddar Meanchey, Battambang, Sisophon, and Rattanamondol. The CGDK forces, normally in small groups, inflicted heavy casualties on the Vietnamese troops. During the same period, fighting between CGDK guerrilla units and Vietnamese troops continued along the Thai-Cambodian border and resulted in the landing of Vietnamese artillery shells inside Thai territory at Khlong Hat Subdistrict of Prachin Buri, Pong Nam Ron District of Chanthaburi, and Bo Rai District of Trat Province causing injuries to a number of Thai people in the areas.

Vietnamese soldiers and weapons have been moved into the central region -- Battambang and Siem Reap-Oddar Meanchey provinces -- as reinforcements for the Vietnamese military installations there are in preparations for a suppression drive against the CGDK forces. The Vietnamese military units along the Thai-Cambodian border have received equipment and supplies regularly.

The only way for the Vietnamese leadership to improve the country's economic situation is to withdraw its nearly 200,000 Vietnamese troops fromn Cambodia. By doing so, Vietnam will gain sympathy and assistance from the world community.

COLUMNIST VIEWS TRUONG CHINH STAND ON CAMBODIA

["Kampuchean Diary" by Jacques Bekaert]

[Excerpts] The new secretary-general of the Vietnamese Communist Party, Mr. Truong Chinh, used to be considered one of the most enthusiastic supporters of Chaiman Mao's ideas. The Chinese revolutionary influence shows in Truong Chinh's early writing and political line.

But it does not mean that today Truong Chinh will be anything else than a faithful supporter of the Vietnamese-Soviet alliance, or that his views on Kampuchea are much different from those of the majority of the political bureau.

His well known reluctance to put Vietnam in a dangerous position leads Thai Quang Trung, a Vietnamese scholar strongly opposed to the present regime, to write: "It is possible that Truong Chinh, because of his traditionally conservative position over any action that risked over-extending Hanoi's resources, had reservations about invading Kampuchea and adopting the virulent anti-China line.

Maybe, but once the decision was taken, and judging from his own writing, Truong Chinh went along and even proved an extremely eloquent advocate of Hanoi's presence in Kampuchea.

In a short book, "On Kampuchea," published in 1980, Truong Chinh presents Vietnam's case with a talent that reflects on his long standing as the party's major ideologue.

He justifies Hanoi's action, explains the Heng Samrin regime as the result of a vast popular uprising against Pol Pot and castigates the People's Republic of China for being at the heart of the region's problems. [passage omitted synopsizing book]

Just and Unjust Wars

Vietnamese communists have always been eager to impress upon the rest of the world how [just] their cause has always been. Vietnam's action in Kampuchea was, as is, [just]. Of course, the "war of aggression by Pol Pot and the Ieng Sary -- henchmen of the Beijing hegemonists -- and the Chinese war against Vietnam were [unjust]. The war waged by Vietnam "for national defence" and against the Chinese and the Pol Pot-Ieng Sary aggressors were both [just]. So was the revolt of the Kampuchean people against the Khmer Rouge regime. "Therefore, the assistance by the Vietnamese army and people to that offensive and uprising by the Kampuchean army and people was also [just]."

One can argue with Truong Chinh's view of the Kampuchean problem, with the accuracy of certain facts, with the perspective and the perception of events. But one is not likely to convince him or any of his friends in the Politburo. His analysis is not especially "hardline," at least not in Hanoi's terms. It is the common view of Vietnam. Even Vietnamese leaders who differ with the new secretary-general of the Communist Party about management of the domestic economy, probably find little to dissent with his writing on Kampuchea. And when Truong Chinh writes that "the Kampuchean situation is irreversible," and even if the year was 1980 when it certainly looked like it was, he certainly expresses the deep senitment of the entire communist leadership -- of 1980 and of today.

WANCHI ON COMMUNIST ELECTION INVOLVEMENT

BK200840 Bangkok Domestic Service in Thai 1300 GMT 18 Jul 86

[Text] Lieutenant General Wanchai Chitchamnong, commander of 4th Army Region, told reporters during an interview in Nakhon Si Thammarat Province that communist terrorists in the central and upper parts of the southern region are not capable of posing any obstacle to the upcoming general election. However, the Chinese communist guerrillas have become active in the five southern border provinces where military forces have been deployed to control the situation. He said:

[Begin recording] [Wanchi] Some political parties and people have complained that communist terrorists who have not yet given themselves up to authorities are now getting involved in the upcoming general election. They fear that they might cause trouble. I believe that there is no communist base in the southern region. They have neigher the jungle operational bases nor the armed men to wage a war. They have come down to live in the lowlands and are waiting for the right time to surrender to the authorities. I think they have done nothing wrong in persuading people to vote in the election. That is good because we want them to struggle peacefully and help us encourage people in the villages to cast their ballots. This is in line with Order No. 66/23. I have not heard anything about anyone being threatened by them. They simply encourage people to vote, and the people have the right to vote for any particular party. Meanwhile, we have our Santinimit units out there to tell the people that they have the right to vote for any candidate. I do not agree with some political parties that such activities by the communist terrorists can affect the general elections.

[Reporter] Has the 4th Army Region mapped out measures to prevent untoward incidents that might be triggered by these people?

[Wanchai] The upper and central parts of the southern region are free from any disturbance because they have no armed units capable of attacking military or government units. Only the five southern border provinces still have problems with the Chinese communist guerrillas. We are launching a heavy suppression drive against them. We have set up an advance command of the 4th Army Region, and our soldiers and rangers have been deployed in most areas. The chances that they can harass us are very slim. Generally speaking, the people are very interested in the upcoming general election. [end recording]

PHUKET INVESTIGATORS RECOMMEND 31 PROSECUTIONS

[Text] Police have concluded their investigation of the tantalum riot in Phuket and will recommend that 31 suspects be prosecuted on charges of illegal assembly and inciting a riot, police chief Gen Narong Mahanon said yesterday.

He said the police department has studied the report and returned it to Phuket police who will send it to public prosecutors early next week for charges to be filed in court against the suspects.

The 31 persons facing the charges are among 53 people arrested following the incident. Others are likely to face theft chareges. All of them, including New Force Party candidate Rewuth Chindapol, have been denied bail.

Pol Gen Narong said the situation in Phuket has returned to normal and that the paramilitary police force despatched from Hua Hin has been withdrawn from the province. Only a small contingent of police from other provinces still remain in the province, he said.

The tantalum plant, the Phuket Merlin Hotel and a number of vehicles were burned down during the riot on June 23.

This good will has been manifested in the LPDR Foreign Ministry statement on 6 June 1986.

We wish the fraternal Lao people ever greater achievements in their national construction and defense and splendid success in making preparations for the Fourth LPRP Congress. May the special relationship, the militant solidarity, and the comprehensive cooperation between Laos and Vietnam last forever.

DIRECTIVES ISSUED ON SUPPLY MANAGEMENT

OW192231 Hanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 1100 GMT 17 Jul 86

[Text] The current status of supply management still presents many shortcomings. Material supplies planning has not been steadily balanced, while material supplies organization has not concentrated on the unified sources of supplies because of current unnecessary links and intermediary levels. In production, management of material supplies circulation still shows many gaps. These shortcomings and gaps have caused big losses and wastes, a less effective use of material supplies, an increasing supplies imbalance, the hoarding of supplies for sale and resale, price differences, and increasingly high manufacturing costs.

Implementing Resolution no. 31 of the Political Bureau and the conclusion of the party Central Committee plenum on prices, wages, and money, the Council of Ministers has issued a directive urging all sectors and echelons to concentrate efforts on resolving a number of urgent problems in supply management. The directive urges the State Planning commission and the ministries in charge of supply rationing to prepare a balanced state plan regarding all technical equipment and material supplies produced locally, imported, or stocked in all links of production, circulation, and utilization, including even recycled raw materials, discards, and rejects.

The State Planning Commission, the Ministry of Supply, and the organs concerned must promptly handle the problem of accumulated or belatedly circulated material supplies and promptly work out a plan for mobilizing them for production. All material supplies installations nationwide must deliver sufficient production quotas to the state material supplies organizations, according to or exceeding the plan norms. Imported material supplies must reach our harbors and be delivered promptly to recipients according to the state plan. No organ is allowed to retain supplies at will or to order any distribution of them not in accordance with the state plan.

Imported supplies and supplemental supplies imported from zone no. 2 must also be considered in a balanced state plan. Enactment of material supplies norms must help ensure the principle according to which any unit that accepts the set production plan norms and delivers its products to the state is allowed to accept the material supplies plan norms. On the basis of the state plan norms approved by the Council of Ministers, the State Planning Commission must, through the ministries, general departments, and provincial, city, and special zone people's committees under the central government, assign plan norms for supplies distribution and products delivery to production and trade units.

A final statement on the material supplies distributed by the state to various sectors and localities must be made by the State Planning Commission, the Ministry of Supply, and the ministries in charge of supply rationing, together with various sectors and localities, on the basis of the amount of products actually delivered by these sectors and localities to the state, in accordance with the delivery plan norms. The state-supplied materials still accumulated at production installations are to be resold first to the material supplies trading organization. If they are not purchased by this organization, these installations are allowed to transfer them to each other for use in production according to plan. If the locally produced or imported material supplies are under the unified state management, the aforesaid regulations must be complied with. Otherwise, these material supplies may be exchanged among localities or used in inter-trade or joint operations, but they must be managed by the provincial or city people's committees which are to bear responsibility.

Free market must be eliminated. Private trade in material supplies which are placed under the unified state management must be forbidden. The material supplies organ, which assumes the state management function must coordinate with the financial, public security, and inspection organs in determining and handling all violations promptly and severely.

HAWKE COMMENTS ON U.S. MOVE ON WHEAT SUBSIDIES

[Text] The prime minister, Mr Hawke, said that it would be an unconscionable act by the United States to extend its export enhancement program to wheat sales to the Soviet Union and China. Yesterday, Mr Hawke sent a telex to President Reagan objecting to moves in Congress to have the export subsidy program applied to those markets. Speaking in Canberra today Mr Hawke said the Soviet Union and China were Australia's largest wheat markets.

[Begin Hawke recording] There is an election coming up in the United States at the end of this year, the mid-term elections. All sorts of funny pressures develop in that period, and the purpose of my letter is to try and ensure that the legitimate concerns of Australia are made known and those funny sorts of pressures circulated in the United States are hit. [end recording] Meanwhile, the deputy leader of the National Party, Mr Hunt, has called on Mr Hawke to send an all-party parliamentary delegation to Washington to discuss with members of Congress the threat posed to Australian wheat exports by the subsidy program. Mr Hunt said more than half of Australia's grain growers were operating at a loss.

MESSAGE ON RSA SENT TO COMMONWEALTH LEADERS

[Text] Heads of Commonwealth countries attending a minisummit on South Africa early next month have received letters from the Australian prime minister. This report from Radio Australia's correspondent in Zimbabwe, Malcolm Downing:

[Begin Downing recording] The Australian High Commissioner in Harare delivered Mr Hawke's letter personally to the Zimbabwe prime minister, Mr Robert Mugabe. I understand similar letters have been delivered to other Commonwealth minisummit participants -- Canada, India, Zambia, and the Bahamas. There was no comment here on the contents of the letter but there is inevitable speculation that Australia may be undertaking a diplomatic initiative to try to defuse the growing threat to the Commonwealth caused by differences over the sanctions issue. Statements by Mr Hawke and the foreign minister, Mr Hayden, in support of sanctions have been widely reported here as favorably received. Australia is well placed towards a compromise. HAYDEN REJECTS PNG CRITICISM OVER SOUTH AFRICA

[Text] The foreign minister, Mr Hayden, has rejected criticism that Australia is all talk when it comes to the issue of South Africa. He was replying to accusations made by the prime minister of Papua New Guinea, Mr Wingti. Mr Wingti claimed Australia and New Zealand had confined themselves to tough talk about South Africa while declining to make any real sacrifices. In Canberra, Mr Hayden said there was no chance of Australia joining the boycott. He did however foreshadow new measures against South Africa to be announced by the prime minister, Mr Hawke, next month. The issue is to be discussed at a cabinet meeting in Canberra today. Mr Hayden said Australia had already made many sacrifices over its stand on apartheid and had given leadership on the issue.

[Begin Hayden recording] I do not see how Australia has any cause to be embarrassed by our position because Australia, particularly under the leadership of Bob Hawke, has given leadership to the rest of the world. We have applied reprisals against South Africa. The last lot we applied, way ahead of any other country, have cost us quite a deal of money. Next month, Mr Hawke will be making an announcement of some other measures we will take -- those cost us money too -- and in that regard our record is far superior to just about any other country in the world. OPPOSITION LEADER SUPPORTS UK SOUTH AFRICA STAND

[Excerpts] Federal Cabinet has endorsed a special humanitarian program to help victims of apartheid emigrate to Australia from South Africa. The immigration minister, Mr Hurford, said extra sraff might be sent to Pretoria and Cape Town to help administer the program. Officials said there would be no move to stop white South Africans emigrating Australia but there would be interviews to ensure that the migrants were not racists.

Earlier, the foreign affairs minister, Mr Hayden, rejected a claim that Australia was prepared to talk tough about South Africa's apartheid policies but not make any real sacrifices to help end them. [passage omitted] Meanwhile, the federal opposition leader, Mr Howard, had described the boycott [of the Commonwealth Games] as part of a systematic campaign of abuse involving hypocritical double standards to which Britain is being subjected. He said countries involved in the boycott had made unreasonable demands on Britain and had violated one of the principles on which the Commonwealth was founded. Mr Howard said that in refusing to announce sanctions against South Africa, the British prime minister, Mrs Thatcher, was exercising her right to retain complete mastery over the conduct of national policy.

[Begin Howard recording] She has taken what I believe is a legitimate stance. She has opposed economic sanctions on their merits, and I agree with her assessment. And she has also acted out of her concern for British self-interest, and every country in the Commonwealth has a right to do that, and no country in the Commonwealth has a right to demand of another Commonwealth country that it defy its own assessment of its national self-interest. MAHATHIR DENOUNCES DAP

BK211319 Kuala Lumpur Domestic Service in English 1130 GMT 21 Jul 86

[Text] Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed has hit out at the DAP [Democratic Action Party] for trying to stop the holding of the general election. The prime minister said the DAP's move was strange because the parties have all along been impatient for the announcement of the dates of the nomination and elections. Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir said he believed the DAP took the present action because it was not prepared to face the people. He told reporters in the federal capital that if the DAP felt ready for the elections, then it would not throw the spanner in the works. He said the people wanted the elections to be held. Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir said the government had given ample time for all quarters to face the elections. Now the DAP was trying to say that whatever had been done was wrong.

The DAP today filed an application to the high court in Kuala Lumpur for an injunction to stop the nomination of candidates to be held on Thursday and the general election on 2d and 3d of next month.

Meanwhile, Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir has confirmed that there may be some changes to the cabinet in the next government if the Barison Nasional returns to power in the general elections early next month. He said this was in view of the possibility of several leaders of federal and state level shifting from their parliamentary to state constituencies and vice versa as well as the possibility of others not (?entering) the elections race. He was commenting on reports that several menteris besar [chief ministers] were likely to contest parliamentary seats, which were previously to be contested by former members of parliament.

Blockades Village

[Excerpt] Isabela de Basilan, Philippines, July 21 (AFP) -- The Armed Forces Monday set up a blockade around a coastal village in the south where military spies had spotted the boat used in the kidnapping of a Swiss man and his Filipina friend, a military official said. Major General Jose Magno also told reporters in this capital of Basilan Island that "government assets," military jargon for spies, had identified the masterminds of the abduction of Hans Kunzle and Adelaida Gamboa as a Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) separatist leader and a common bandit. Mr Kunzle and his girlfriend were snatched Saturday while on a boat between the southern city of Zamboanga and Basilan Island.

Maj Gen Magno, the military chief of the southern Philippines, said marines and paramilitary constabulary troops had been deployed around Omos Marata village where it is believed the captives are being held. A naval blockade was also in place to prevent the suspected kidnappers from moving their captives to the Sulu Island group southwest of here where the MNLF leader, Milting Salih, operates, Lieutenant Colonel Resurreccion Miravite said. Lt Col Miravite, the provincial military chief of Basilan, said Alig Salih, a pirate operating in the Basilan-Sulu-Aamboanga area, was also involved in the abduction.

Basilan Governor Louis Alano, Tuboran Vice Mayor Salim Aspalin and two other civilian negotiators were working closely with military officials in the rescue operation, Major General Magno said. He said they had not reveived any ransom demand from the abductors. The general told AGENCE FRANCE-PRESSE that the recent spate of kidnappings in Mindanao had "not helped" the image of the government of President Corazon Aquino, who has stated a policy of not giving in to ransom demands. ENRILE URGES RETENTION OF U.S. BASES PAST 1991

[Excerpt] Manila, July 22 (AFP) -- Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile Tuesday urged the government to retain the U.S. military bases in the Philippines beyond the end of their lease in 1991 unless Soviet military forces are removed from East Asia. Mr. Enrile, leader of a military revolt that toppled Ferdinans Marcos in February, also told a forum in the Makati financial district that he could have legally taken power but declined a Marcos offer for him to lead the government.

"It would not be in the interest of this nation at this time within this decade or maybe much longer than that to create a vacuum on this part of the world by removing the presence of American military facilities in our area ... unless the Soviets get out of this region," he said. "Although in an incidental and secondary way, the security interest of the republic and the region" are also taken care of, he said "who will counter-balance the Soviets?" he added.

This was a significant change from Mr. Enrile's 1984 position when he advocated the treaty's abrogation and the renegotiation of a new one.

OPLE WARNS AGAINST CON-COM'S BASES PROVISIONS

HK220318 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES SUNDAY EXPRESS in English 20 Jul 86 pp 1, 3

[Text] Former Labor Minister Blas F. Ople said yesterday the draft provision on foreign military bases, neutrality and non-alignment already passed by a committee of the Constitutional Commission has already polarized the commission and "may soon polarize the Filipino people" if it is finally adopted.

Addressing the United Nations Walkers Club at the Manila Hilton, Ople said "an issue of such paramount importance" which will radically change Philippine foreign relations and alter the balance of power in Asia and the Pacific should not be resolved throught casual debate in an appointive Constitutional Commission and the results "sprung on an unsuspecting nation."

"Without the fullest debate, perhaps in a special referendum called for this purpose alone as earlier promised by both President Aquino and Vice President Laurel, the nation might believe the constitution had been used to engineer a fait accompli," Ople said.

He added: "If this happens, the bases issue, which is more emotionally charged than other issues, can polarize the people and mobilize a very large segment of public opinion against the ratification of the entire Constitution.

Ople said the Committee approval of the resolution "has already caught responsible officials of the Philippine Government by surprise."

"President Aquino and her Cabinet will wake up one morning to discover that their entire political leverage with the United States and the entire Western alliance, including Japan, which is the international community supporting Philippine economic recovery, had vanished and that the loss was irretrievable," Ople said.

He said that "will mean President Aquino is allowed to respect the agreement until 1991 but there will no longer be any options to keep open as she has repeatedly told the nation."

"In that event, it will be unkind for the Philippine Government to send her on a state visit to the United States after stripping her of her options and of her power to bargain with the United States in the national interest," Ople said.

COLUMN ASSESSES CON-COM VOTE ON U.S. BASES

"Opinion" column by Danilo-Luis M. Mariano: "A Rare Opportunity"]

[Text] By an overwhelming majority the Constitutional Commission's Committee on Preamble, National Territory and Declaration of Principles has voted for the removal of American military facilities in the country after the Republic of the Philippines-United States Military bases agreement expires in 1991. It was a radical departure from the impression made days earlier when an oppositionist commissioner prematurely -- and erroneously -- announced that the charter-drafting body would lay off the bases issue altogether.

The committee's 6-2 vote does seem to demonstrate the increasing legitimacy of the demand for the removal of the U.S. bases among a more representative cross-section of the citizenry. Not too long ago, it was presumed that the only people who were interested in seeing the American facilities go were either "blind, unrealistic nationalists" or communists. It took a long time for many of us to realize that our continued willingness to play host to the military forces of an alien power constituted a long-standing folly, or as Barbara Tuchman explains it, "the pursuit of policy contrary to self-interest."

Aside from all the standard argument about the bases as a standing invitation for attack from the other superpower, we have time and again witnessed how those bases become a pretext for American intervention into our affairs. In that, the Americans are acting only on pure self-interest. It is imperative for Washington to see to it that conditions in this country are favorable to the maintenance of their strategic military presence here. Even if that, for instance, entails supporting an unpopular dictatorship like the Marcos regime. In countless other ways, American influence or attempts to influence our national life is present to this day, to an extent that makes a mockery of our professions of independence and sovereignty. And for as long as those bases are on Philippine soil, American policymakers -- even those who genuinely sympathize with our predicament -- will feel compelled for the sake of their national interest to step in whenever they feel their favored position is being challenged.

The removal of the U.S. bases does not mean the rejection of the United States as a friend and ally of the Philippines. There are certainly many things that are positive about America from which a developing society, like ours can learn lessons and benefit from. But when a relationship, such what we now have with the U.S. compromises and even endangers the well-being of one party, that should not be rightfully called friendship.

The Constitutional Commission therefore has the unique historical opportunity to redefine Philippine sovereignty -- primarily, our traditional ties with a superpower ally -- that should not be squandered. If we miss this one, it may never come again.

'ECONOMIC ALTERNATIVES TO U.S. BASES' PERCEIVED

[By Juan V. Sarmiento, Jr.]

[Text] Yes. There are economic alternatives to U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

According to develoment studies Prof. Roland Simbulan, author of "The Bases of Our Insecurity," the alternatives can more than compensate for what the Philippines gets from the bases through the hospitality industry, prostitution, construction and other services.

Testifying before the public hearing of the commission drafting the Philippines' fourth Constitution, Simbulan said territories covered by U.S. military installations and the infrastructure therein could be put into more productive use that would benefit Filipinos.

At the core of Simbulan's post-bases scenario is the transformation of the bases into agro-industrial and commercial complexes, and transportation, communication and tourist centers.

At present, the United States maintains five military installations in the Philippines. These are the Subic Naval Bases in the provinces of Zambales and Bataan; Clark Air Base in Pampanga and Tarlac; San Miguel Naval Communications Complex in Zambales and Tarlac; USAF Wallace Air Station in San Fernando, La Union; and, Camp John Hay Leave and Recreation Centers in Baguio City.

Altogether, U.S. military installations in the Philippines cover about 70,000 hectares, bigger than the total land area of all American bases outside the United States. [sentence as published]

Subic, the largest U.S. Naval installation outside the U.S., covers 21,000 hectares while Clark, the largest overseas American airbase, consists of 49,000 has.

Simbulan said the bases sit on vast prime agricultural land. Clark, for instance, covers what was once the richest farmlands in Pampanga and Tarlac. Yet only small areas in the base are actually used for military purposes.

The tremendous potential for agricultural production of the U.S. bases area was acknowledged even by Americans. The U.S. Congress Mansfield Report revealed "that Clark covers such a vast area" that peasants secretly planting on base lands were able to raise an estimated $10 million worth of sugar cane in 1976.

Simbulan lamented the unproductive use of bases lands when Filipino peasants outside the bases live mostly in a state of malnutrition while in Subic alone, the U.S. Navy has three sprawling golf courses.

However, a study of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce and Industry [PCCI] found that the bases could be transformed into productive economic units if these were taken over by the Philippine government and the private sector.

The PCCI study found that Clark alone could serve at least three functions: as an international airport for both passengers and cargo with domestic transshipment facilities, and major manufacturing activities; as an industrial and commercial growth center in the densely-populated Central Luzon region; and as a corporate farming site with its rich farmlands.

Subic, on the other hand, could be developed into a major ship-building, repair, and servicing yard, with anchorage facilities for laid-up tankers and a variety of maritime-related industries.

Camp John Hay according to the PCCI study, could be turned into a recreation and tourist center.

These economic alternatives are definitely better than what the Philippines is getting now from the U.S. bases -- prostitution, gambling, smuggling of tax-free goods, blackmarketing, extortion and drug trafficking.

The bases do provide Filipinos employment but these are degrading, especially to 16,000 Filipino women servicing Americans from the bases. The bases also employ some 33,000 Filipinos but recently their security of tenure has been threatened.

These economic alternatives are likewise better than continued Philippine dependence on U.S. economic aid and base rentals which usually carry stringent conditions.

The 1983 Bases Agreement requires the U.S. government to provide the Philippines $900 million over the 1985-89 or an average of $180 million yearly. During the June visit of U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz, he finalized agreements for the release of $200 million in bases rentals, complemented by a $50 million commodity loan package granted by the U.S. Agency for International Development.

Proponents of the removal of U.S. military bases in the Philippines agree that if the bases were closed tomorrow, the economy of Angeles City in Pampanga and Olongapo City in Zambales will be dislocated. Sociology professor Randolph David countered, however, "that this is precisely what liberation means. When you seek to liberate yourself, you must open yourself to the possibility of dislocation." But with the economic alternatives for the bases, the dislocation will be only temporary.

NPA ATTACK SHATTERS INFORMAL TRUCE IN SOUTH

[Text] Cagayan de Oro, Philippines, July 19 (AFP) -- Communist guerillas have shattered the only province-wide informal truce with the military in an attack on a militia detachment near this southern city, officials said Saturday. New People's Army (NPA) guerrillas injured a woman and her two children in a pre-dawn attack Friday, officials said in this capital of Misamis Oriental Province on northern Mindanao Island. The attack, after a three-month peace, came as the start of proposed formal ceasefire talks in Luzon between a government panel and leaders of the communist underground remained uncertain.

"The incident was indeed very lamentable. It shattered hopes for a lasting ceasefire in Misamis Oriental," said provincial Governor Vicente Emano, who negotiated a truce with the NPA in April before President Corazon Aquino had called for ceasefire talks. Colonel Javier Carbonell, northern Mindanao deputy military chief, said about 50 NPA men armed with Armalite rifles, a submachine gun and a grenade launcher took part in the attack outside Balingasag town some 750 kilometers (466 miles) south of Manila. They clashed with 10 members of the paramilitary Civilian Home Defense Forces [CHDF] in a village detachment. The CHDF men suffered no casulaties but the wife and two children of one member were seriously injured by a grenade, the colonel said.

In Manila, the state-owned PHILIPPINE NEWS AGENCY (PNA) Saturday quoted military officials as saying that NPA men Thursday executed a captured solider outside an Anglican church in Mountain Province, in the northern Philippines. (Constable Andres Dawagui, a policeman and two civilians were captured and hog-tied during a raid on a villiage outside the resort town of Sagada. The fate of the other captives was not immediately known, PNA said.)

USSR ENVOY SAYS GORBACHEV MAY VISIT IN 1987

[Text] Tokyo, July 23 KYODO -- Soviet Ambassador Nikolay Solovyev has said Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev may visit Japan next year, according to Wednesday's issue of the newspaper of Soka Gakkai, a Buddhist organization in Japan. The newspaper, SEIKYO SHIMBUN, quoted Solovyev as saying that Gorbachev's visit to Japan this year may not be possible due to his busy schedule, but that chances are good for a visit next year. The Soviet ambassador made the remarks during his hour-long meeting with Daisaku Ikeda, honorary president of Soka Gakkai, held at the newspaper's office here Tuesday, it reported.

Solovyev said Gorbachev wishes to visit Japan as early as possible to improve Japan-Soviet relations, according to the newspaper, which Soka Gakkai says has a circulation of over 4,700,000. Gorbachev sent a letter to Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone on July 1, suggesting that his visit to Japan is possible in "not distant future."

NEW FOREIGN MINISTER STRESSES PEACE, DISARMAMENT

[Text] Tokyo, July 23 KYODO -- New Foreign Minister Tadashi Kuranari, a native of atomic-bombed Nagasaki, said Wednesday Japan should seek peace and disarmament of the world. Kuranari, who belongs to Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone's faction in the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party, also said close cooperation between the prime minister and the foreign minister is necessary in steering Japan's foreign relations.

Kuranari expressed these views in a meeting with the press at the foreign ministry. "I lost my home in the 1945 atomic bombing. My wife is also an A-bomb victom, A nuclear attack should never be repeated," the 67-year-old Kuranari said. "Ideals and realities regarding peace and disarmament are divided sharply at present. But I want to make utmost efforts to help bring about peace in the world," Kuranari said, stressing the need for Japan to promote peace and disarmament diplomacy.

Kuranari said he supports Nakasone's so-called "presidential-style" diplomacy to set an overall Japanese course of diplomacy, but he said every bilateral and international problem cannot be solved through summit talks between Nakasone and leaders of other nations, stressing the need of full support of the foreign minister. Kuranari said he would like to have talks with U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz when he visits New York to attend the United Nations General Assembly meeting in autumn. Whether he will go to the U.S. before the assembly has not yet been decided, he said.

Kuranari said trade frictions are inevitable among industrially advanced nations, like Japan, the United States and the European Community.

"What is needed is to seek ways to ease the frictions through continuous talks with trading partners," said Kuranari, a businessman-turned politician who had chaired the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party's special panel on international economic relations.

Kuranari also said in the interview:

-- Japan should increase official development assistance, but it is also important to check whether the aid funds are being used effectively to help people in recipient countries. Commodity assistance rather than large projects is preferable, he said.
-- Japan welcomes a visit by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev to Japan before Nakasone goes to the Soviet Union.
-- In helping solve problems in the Middle East, including the Iran-Iraq war, it will be necessary for Japan to first gather detailed information about the area.
--He has yet to decide whether to visit Yasukuni Shrine, where Japan's war dead and World War II war criminals are enshrined.
-- He cannot comment on news reports that the planned visit to South Korea by Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko has been postponed.
-- On the controversial issue of Japanese school textbooks on history, he will respect feelings of neighboring countries on the basis of the Japanese Government's pledge that school textbooks would be checked while giving full consideration to relations with Asian neighbors.

DEFENSE AGENCY HEAD TO SEEK CONSENSUS ON POLICY

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Yuko Kurihara, newly-appointed director general of the Defense Agency, said Tuesday that he is determined to seek public consensus for the nation's defense policy. Kurihara emphasized that the important point is for the Japanese public to resolve to defend their country. In a reply to public criticism over growing defense spending, Kurihara stressed the need for the military buildup, saying that the public should understand the current situation surrounding Japan.

Defense spending, a focal point in the recent budgetary appropriations requests, was set to increase by 6.3 percent or 210.6 billion yen over the current fiscal year ending March next year. Defense spending will total 3.554 billion yen in fiscal 1987.

MITI MINISTER SEEKS LARGE SUPPLEMENTARY BUDGET

[Text] Tokyo, July 23 KYODO -- Newly appointed International Trade and Industry Minister Hajime Tamura Wednesday called for compilation of a large supplementary budget this fall to fight the country's economic slowdown caused by the strong yen. Tamura told KYODO news service that longer-term loans with lower interest rates should be provided to export-oriented smaller enterprises, hit by the yen's sharp appreciation against the dollar.

"The new cabinet should give top priority to pump-priming measures focusing on these smaller firms," said the 62-year-old new head of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI). He also said monetary authorities should intervene actively in foreign exchange markets to prevent "speculative trading" which he said makes the yen/dollar exchange rate fluctuate so "wildly."

In response to a question about intensifying trade disputes, Tamura stressed the need for reducing Japan's trade surplus with the United States, saying, "there can be no one-sided game in trade disputes."

But Tamura said Japan should challenge the United States to "frank" discussions as "friendly trade partners" in the free trade system.

Tamura said he plans to attend the September ministerial meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) in Punta Del Este, Uruguay, aimed at launching a new round of multilateral trade negotiations.

NLC, LDP TO CONTINUE DIET-LEVEL COOPERATION

OW211301 Tokyo KYODO in English 1233 GMT 21 Jul 86

[Text] Tokyo, July 21 KYODO -- The new Liberal Club is to continue cooperating in the Diet with the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party, following an agreement by leaders of the two parties Monday.

Yohei Kono, leader of the NLC, a small LDP offshot with six lower house Dietmen, met Prime Minister and LDP President Yasuhiro Nakasone to conclude the accord. The agreement referred specifically to cooperation in six areas of debate, including tax and education reform and political ethics.

The NLC joined with the LDP in coalition after the LDP failed to win an overall majority in the 1983 lower house election, and three NLC Dietmen have successively appeared in the Nakasone cabinet since then, the latest being Kono, who is currently director general of the Science and Technology Agency. But the LDP has already rejected the idea of a continued NLC presence in the cabinet following the governing party's landslide victory in the July 6 election of both houses.

In Monday's meeting, LDP Secretary General Shin Kanemaru asked Kono for NLC support for a controversial antiespionage bill. The NLC has expressed reservations toward the bill, suspected of being a threat to freedom of speech, and Kono merely said that the NLC will "further study" the bill.

CENTRAL BANK SEEKS TO STABILIZE EXCHANGE RATE

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Satoshi Sumita, governor of the Bank of Japan, voiced concern Tuesday about the yen's recent sharp appreciation and the volatility of the yen-dollar exchange rate. Sumita told a meeting of employers here that the exchange rate should be stabilized by "every means possible."

His remarks came as the dollar plunged to a record postwar low of 154.85 yen momentarily Monday, compared with 157.45 yen at Friday's finish. The U.S. currency was trading at about 155 yen Tuesday.

Sumita said the yen's sharp appreciation makes it difficult for Japanese industry to cope with changes in the business environment. The yen's rapid upturn is also not desirable for the U.S., he said, as the sharp depreciation of the dollar could cause consumer prices to rise there and encourage capital outflow, resulting in higher interest rates. Sumita, however, reiterated the Central Bank's basic stance that the yen's appreciation against the dollar is desirable to help rectify the trade imbalance between Japan and its trading partners.

Sumita also repeated that the bank of Japan does not have any intention of further lowering the official discount rate, now at 3.5 percent per annum, as a measure to stimulate the economy.

As reasons for the persistent stance on the key rate which the Central Bank charges on loans to commercial banks, he cited a historically low level of the discount rate and the Central Bank view that there is no fear of the Japanese economy plunging into a downward spiral. But Sumita reserved room for a discount rate cut as he said the yen's upsurge since late last year is adding fuel to signs of a further economic slowdown. "The yen's rise has eroded earnings of Japan's export-related industries and is having unfavorable effects on their capital investment and employment," he said. At the moment, solid business activity in the nonmanufacturing sector is supporting the economy, he said.

SINO-JAPANESE TRADE DOWN IN FIRST HALF OF YEAR

[Text] Tokyo, July 22 KYODO -- Two-way trade between Japan and China shrunk for the first time in four years during the first six months of this year chiefly due to China's import controls on durable consumer goods and a drop in Japanese imports of crude oil, the Japan External Trade Organization (Jetro) said Tuesday.

Japan's exports to China fell 23.5 percent from the same period of last year to 4.59 billion dollars, and Japan's imports from China dropped 9 percent to 2.88 billion dollars.

The figures were based on trade figures on a customs clearance basis released by the Finance Ministry.

Jetro, a semigovernmental trade promoting agency, said Japan's exports of passenger cars and tv sets, which soared last year, fell back sharply due to China's import controls.

The lower price of oil coupled with the higher yen resulted in a sharp decline in imports of Chinese crude, Japan's largest import item from China. The country is Japan's second biggest trading partner after the United States, while Japan is China's largest trading partner.

Japanese exports to China will continue to decline in the second half of 1986 due to the yen's sharp appreciation, the Chinese yuan's drastic devaluation, a drop in China's foreign exchange reserves and a Chinese economic slowdown, Jetro officials said.

But the officials forecast that Japan's trade surplus with China will narrow this year due to the yen's sharp upswing and efforts by Japan to expand imports. These will offset adverse factors such as lower prices for crude oil and raw materials.

The Japanese surplus with China of 1.71 billion dollars in the first half of 1986 was down sharply from a 2.84 billion dollar surplus a year earlier.

[Text] Respected Acting Premier Comrade Wan Li, leading comrade cadres of the Chinese party and Government; comrades: Today we are very happy because we meaningfully celebrate with the Chinese people the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

On authorization, I first convey the warm congratulations and fraternal greetings which the WPK, tne DPRK Government, and the Korean people have send to the CPC, the PRC Government, and the Chinese people.

The conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance was an epochal event which has strengthened and developed fraternal friendship and militant unity, which the people of our two countries sealed in blood in the joint struggle for freedom, liberation, and the victory of socialist cause, to a higher stage.

Since the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, the people of our two countries, as credible class allies, have greatly contributed to defending the revolutionary gains in the two countries, accelerating socialist construction, and defending peace in Asia and the world. We consider this satisfactory [urinun iedeahayo manjoksuropke saenggakhagoisumnida].

Korean-Chinese friendship is a traditional one which the communists and people of the two countries have established in history, and is an invincible, militant friendship sealed and strengthened in blood in the flames of the struggle against the common enemy. This friendship has never faltered in all severe storms but has strengthened and developed ceaselessly.

Today, in East Asia, both of our two countries are accomplishing the common tasks of building socialism.

Today, under the tested leadership of the leaders of the Chinese party, new upsurges being brought about in the Chinese people's struggle to build China-oriented socialism, and your wish to build a highly civilized and modernized socialist China is being excellently realized.

The PRC magnificently stands as a powerful revolutionary force in Asia, and its international position is growing.

All changes being brought about in China show that the lines and policies of the CPC are just ones, which agree with the specific situation of the Chinese revolution and with the wishes of the Chinese people.

The Korean people truly rejoice over the great changes being brought about in China, and sincerely wish the Chinese people even greater success in their struggle to fulfill the Seventh 5-Year Plan and to realize the four modernizations.

It is a truth proved in the history of struggle of the people of two countries that only when China is strong can Korea be strong, and only when Korea is safe can China be safe [chunggugi tundunhaeya chosoni tundunhago chosoni anjonhaeya chunggugi anjonhada].

Today, under the wise leadership of the party Central Committee headed by the great Comrade Kim Il-song, our people are upholding the line of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- and are vigorously struggling to win the complete victory of socialism and accelerate the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland.

Great obstacles have been laid on the road to the reunification of the fatherland. However, with the concentrated efforts of the North and South, the Korean people will achieve the reunification of the divided fatherland without fail.

The Chinese party, Government, and people firmly stand on the side of our people. They firmly oppose the U.S. imperialists' occupation of South Korea and their wicked schemes for two Koreas, while continuing to actively support our people's struggle for socialist construction and the independent and peaceful reunification of the country.

We are experiencing in practical life that the friendship between the people of Korea and China is firm and vital between class brothers, which is truly based on revolutionary duty. Availing myself of this opportunity, I express deep gratitude to the Chinese party, Government, and people for actively supporting and encouraging our people's cause of socialist construction and the reunficiation of the fatherland.

Korean-Chinese friendship, which blooms with each passing day, is based on the realtions of the parties and states of the two countries and on their revolutionary duty. The visits to China by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and by dear leader Comrade Chong-il and the visits to Korea by respected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping in recent years were historic events which expanded and developed the invincible Korean-Chinese friendship to a new high stage.

The Korean people hold that Korean-Chinese friendship, which has been established by the leaders of the parties and states of the two countries, and which has been inherited, strengthened, and developed generation after generation, is extremely dear. They will make all efforts to ceaselessly strengthen and develop the friendly and cooperative relations between the two countries in conformity with the spirit of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

[Speech by Wan Li, member of the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee, secretary of the Secretariat of the CPC Central Committee, and acting premier of the PRC State Council, at the banquet he hosted on 10 July at the Great Hall of the People in Beijing in celebration of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance -- read in Korean by announcer]

[Text] Respected Vice President Comrade Yi Chong-ok; respected comrades of the Korean party and Government delegation; all other comrades:

At the time when the Chinese people are magnificently celebrating the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, the Korean party and government delegation led by Comrade Yi Chong-ok, member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and vice president of the DPRK, has come to Beijing to participate in the celebrations of the anniversary, thus conveying the Korean people's deep sentiment of fraternal friendship [hyongjejok chinsonui chong] to the Chinese people and further glorifying our celebrations. With great pleasure, we extend the warmest welcome to all comrades of the Korean party and government delegation.

At this banquet, where the sentiment of fraternity [hyongjejch chong] is overflowing, representing the CPC, the Chinese Government, and the Chinese people, I extend warm congratulations and respect to President Comrade Kim Il-song, who has always devoted himself to and has made outstanding contributions to the development of the cause of Chinese-Korean friendship, and to the WPK, the Korean Government, and the Korean people.

Twenty-five years ago, Comrade Zhou Enlai and Comrade Kim Il-song, as representatives of the two countries, signed the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, thus recording a historically meaningful page in the history of friendship between our two countries. This treaty showed the common aspiration and firm determination of the Chinese and Korean people to strengthen unity, develop friendship, and defend peace in Asia and the world.

Through the joint efforts of China and Korea, friendly and cooperative relations between China and Korea have become closer with each passing day; exchanges and cooperation between our two countries in the areas of politics, economy, and culture as well as in many other areas have produced rich fruit; and socialist construction in the two countries has been successfully carried out. In recent years the leaders of our two parties and countries frequently have paid mutual visits, as in the case of visits between relatives. In many cordial meetings, they mutually exchanged deep opinions and views on important questions of common concern, and ceaselessly developed and promoted the friendly and cooperative relations between China and Korea and deep friendship between the peoples of the two countries. As President Comrade Kim Il-song said, the comrades-in-arms relations between the people of the two countries are a living model of internationalism.

During those arduous days of the past revolutionary struggle, the people of China and Korea shared joys and sorrows, fought shoulder to shoulder, and established militant friendship in blood.

Today, in socialist construction in the two countries and in the cause of the peaceful reunification of their countries, the people of our two countries mutually support and closely cooperate at all times.

We firmly believe that great friendship between the people of China and Korea, which is based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism, will certainly overcome all severe trials and will be brilliantly developed generation after generation.

On the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, we truly rejoice over the ceaseless development of the cause of socialist construction in the two countries.

Today, under the leadership of the CPC, the Chinese people, by enhancing their determination with a single mind and intent, are building socialist material and spiritual civilization and are making efforts to achieve the tasks and objectives of the Seventh 5-Year Plan.

The people's economy of our country has already entered the path of continued, stabilized, and harmonious development, and overall reforms are gradually being carried out with the emphasis on the urban areas. Our people's standard of material and cultural living has been remarkably improved, and the appearance of the whole society has greatly changed.

This visit to our country by the Korean party and Government delegation will undoubtedly serve as vigorous support and encouragement for the Chinese people, who advance by blazing their own path.

Over the past 25 years the Korean people, under the leadership of their great leader President Comrade Kim Il-song and the WPK, have fulfilled two 7-year plans and a 6-year plan by displaying the Chollima revolutionary spirit. By doing so, they have won great successes in the cause of socialist construction.

Today, the Korean people are vigorously struggling to attain the great 10 long-range goals of the 1980's. The Korean people, who have carried out socialist construction under the difficult circumstances in which the land of their fatherland has been artificially divided, have earned the high respect of the Chinese people because of their wisdom, talents, tough and unyielding spirit, and firm organizational discipline. We sincerely wish the fraternal Korean people even greater success in the cause of their future construction of the fatherland.

Comrades: China and Korea closely cooperate and help one another in socialist construction. At the same time, in the struggle for the peaceful reunification of their countries as well, they support and encourage one another. Through all eternity we will not forget the precious support and encouragement which the Korean party, government, and people have given to the Chinese people's cause of reunification.

The Chinese people, too, always support the Korean people's struggle for the independent and peaceful reunification of their fatherland. We acknowledge that the sincere efforts which the WPK and the Korean Government have exerted for the alleviation of the tense situation on the Korean peninsula as well as for the realization of North-South contacts and dialogue agree with the people's thinking.

The proposal for the establishment of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo put forth by President Kim Il-song calls for the achievement of the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea based on the principle of mutually recognizing and allowing the ideologies and systems of the opposite side by the North and South. This is rational and realistic, and, thus, fully agrees with the national aspiration of all Korean people. Therefore, it has earned broad sympathy and support from the countries and people that call for (?reunification) and love peace. As in the past, we will continue to firmly support the just stand of the Korean party and government to achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of Korea.

The United States and the South Korean side must do away with large joint military exercises, which they continue year after year, and must eliminate obstacles for the resumption of North-South contacts and dialogue. The proposal for tripartite talks of military authorities and the proposal for turning the Korean peninsula into a nuclear free peace zone, which the Korean side recently put forth, will help the alleviation of tension on the Korean peninsula. Thus, all concerned sides [yoro haedangchukduri] should give positive consideration to this.

We firmly believe that the Korean people, who possess a glorious revolutionary tradition, will overcome all difficulties and achieve the cause of the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland without fail.

Finally, I propose a toast to the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance; to the ceaseless development of the great friendship and close cooperative relations between China and Korea; to the prosperity and development of the DPRK; to the good health and long life of President Comrade Kim Il-song -- the great leader of the Korean people and the intimate friend of the Chinese people; to the good health of respected Secretary Comrade Kim Chong-il [chongyonghanun Kim Chong-il piso tongji]; to the good health of respected Vice President Comrade Yi Chong-ok and all comrades of the Korean party and Government delegation; to the good health of all the other Korean comrades and Chinese comrades present here.

Mayor Chen Xitong said the Korean party and government have consistently made efforts to alleviate tension on the Korean peninsula since long ago and stressed that the elimination of military confrontation on the Korean peninsula and the peaceful reunification of Korea by founding a Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo constitute the fundamental way to guarantee peace on the Korean peninsula.

Saying that he resolutely supports the Korean people's struggle for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country and all of their reasonable assertions, Mayor Chen Xitong continued: Together with all of the Chinese people, Beijing citizens will firmly stand at the side of the Korean people struggling for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country. We firmly believe that the Korean people will win their final victory without fail no matter how difficult and rough the road of their struggle may be. At this majestic meeting site, we want the comrades of the Korean party and government delegation to convey this firm determination and belief of the Beijing citizens to the fraternal Korean people.

At a time when they are celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, Beijing citizens have special feelings of honor. Right after the signing of the treaty 25 years ago, the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-song attended a celebration meeting of Beijing citizens and made an important speech there.

When he made an official visit to China again 11 years ago, Comrade Kim Il-song, despite his busy days, toured the Beijing vinalon plant and the (Hongsong) People's Commune of Chinese-Korean friendship. There he encouraged the broad segments of workers, farmers, intellectuals, and citizens of Beijing City, and thus bestowed great honor on them.

Mayor Chen Xitong said: Through the functions marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, Beijing citizens, together with all of the Chinese people, will make further efforts to achieve new successes in developing the Chinese-Korean relations of friendship and cooperation.

He expressed the firm conviction that the great Chinese-Korean relations of friendship, which have surmounted rigorous trials, will further promote the prosperity and grandeur of their respective countries and will show stronger vitality in the struggle to preserve peace in Asia and the world.

[Text] Respected Comrade Acting Premier Wan Li and comrades: I am very pleased to meet with you again in connection with the conclusion of our visit to Chia.

Our delegation attended events in Beijing marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the China-Korea Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance, toured Beijing and other cities, and held significant meetings with the fraternal Chinese people.

We were accorded a warm welcome from the Chinese people wherever we went, and were greatly impressed by the cordial [kukjinhan] hospitality of our Chinese brothers.

All the celebrations held this time demonstrated the sense of deep friendship cherished by the Chinese people toward the Korean people and the firm solidarity with our revolutionary cause. The celebrations also displayed vigorously once again the invincible friendship and unity forged between our two peoples.

I express deep thanks to you for extending cooperation to our delegation so it could excellently fulfill its mission and for warmly receiving us.

Although our visit to China was short, we have deep, lasting memories of it. Through our visit, we witnessed with deep emotion the brilliant achievements made by the fraternal Chinese people in their socialist revolution and socialist construction and the shape of new China overflowing with a new life.

We truly rejoice over all successes won by the fraternal Chinese peole in all domains — political, economic, scientific, cultural and military — and wish them greater progress in their struggle to carry out the Seventh 5-Year Plan for developing the national economy by upholding the decisions of the 12th CPC Congress, to realize the four modernizations, and to attain nationwide reunification by returning Taiwan to the motherland.

CRITICISM OF U.S., S. KOREAN REJECTION OF TALKS

Gen. Livsey 'Arrogant'

SK221046 Pyongyang KCNA in English 1015 GMT 22 Jul 86

[Text] Pyongyang July 22 (DCNA) -- Although Livsey is making a show of bluffing as if he were something, wearing the helmet of the commander-in-chief of the U.N. forces, it remainds people of Don Quixote obsessed with a delusion. MINJU CHOSON Tuesday says this, commenting on the issue taken by the U.S. side with us on the matter of signature of our letter urging the opening of talks between the military authorities.

In the signed commentary the paper says it is, indeed, an absurd and haughty action that the U.S. forces side takes issue with our side on the matter of the signature of the letter which is clear to anyone, it notes, and goes on: There is no ground for the U.S. side to carp on the matter of signature.

The DPRK minister of People's Armed Forces in his letter called Livsey commander-in-chief of the U.N. forces. This was a manifestation of sincerity, taking its request into consideration. Frankly talking about Livsey, the post what they call commander-in-chief of the U.N. forces does not fit him.

At a time when the U.N. General Assembly adopted a resolution calling for the dissolution of the "U.N. Command" in South Korea and withdrawal of all foreign forces present there under the flag of the "United Nations" in 1985, the United States announced before the world that the U.S. forces in South Korea were no longer "U.N. forces".

In his letter the DPRK minister of People's Armed Forces called Livsey commander-in-chief of the U.N. forces as requested by the U.S. side. This proceeded from a sincere desire to arrange talks between the military authorities at any cost for the relaxation of the tension on the Korean peninsula. It is insolent, indeed, for Livsey, a regional commander, to cavil at the signature of the opposite side, forgetting his own position and assuming a haughty attitude. This is a prolongation of the evil habit the colonial rulers [words indistinct] when they deal with the South Korean puppets. Livsey must not be arrogant but behave prudently.

DPRK Red Cross Statement

[Statement issued by the delegation of the DPRK Red Cross Society in Pyongyang on 15 July]

[Text] The acts of the United States and the South Korean authorities running counter to detente and peace are evoking great indignation among the people at home and abroad.

As has already been reported, the United States and the South Korean authorities finally rejected our side's new proposal for talks by military authorities after having taken a negative attitude from the beginning. This fully reveals their true intention of continuously pursuing the policy of confrontation and war in the future in our country.

This year, our side again put forth the principled demand for ending acts spoiling the atmosphere of dialogue and for successful progress in North-South dialogue, even demonstrating a practical example for this, and made all sincere and earnest efforts. Despite this, they staged the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise in the end, thus straining the situation in the nation to an extreme point. They abruptly suspended the North-South dialogues, including the Red Cross talks.

If the South Korean authorities have even the slightest ability to reason and are interested in dialogue, they should have reflected on their responsibility for having suspended the North-South dialogue in collusion with outside forces, should have apologized to all the people, and should not have perpetrated acts running counter to dialogue.

However, they staged in succession such new large-scale war exercises as "Ttangbol-86," "Piho-86," and "Pangpae-86" in which the several million-strong regular armed forces and civil forces [mingan muryok] were mobilized against us. They staged these exercises while repeatedly making provocative and violent remarks that they will further strengthen the "Team Spirit" joint military exercise together with the United States.

Besides, they drove the entire land of South Korea into a whirlpool of confrontation and war by again staging the provocative military exercise codenamed "Ulchi-86," thus straining the situation in the nation to an extreme point.

Such a grave situation clearly shows that the military authorities who are directly responsible for aggravating tension should come together to discuss the issue of suspending military exercises before holding any talks in our country and should urgently take measures to ease tension. Herein lies one of the important intentions of the KPA Supreme Command in putting forth the new peace proposal for holding talks between military authorities.

Despite this fact, the South Korean Red Cross recklessly sent a telephone message calling for the resumption of dialogue, even talking about the date. This is a shameless act devoid of sense and conscience.

The noisy remarks of the South Korean Red Cross about the resumption of dialogue are the product of a wicked political trick aimed at concealing before public opinion at home and abroad the criminal acts of the United States and the south Korean authorities, who oppose dialogue and peace and are pursing confrontation and war. Such remarks are not worthy of consideration.

The South Korean Red Cross side should not flout sacred dialogue. What further enrages us is the fact that the South Korean Red Cross is abusing the North-South Red Cross liaison route [yollak tongno] for the authorities' criminal purposes of opposing dialogue and peace. The North-South Red Cross liaison route is necessary to successfully ensure dialogue in accordance with the aspirations of the nation, and is not for the sake of opposing dialogue.

Is the South Korean Red Cross, which merely runs such shabby errands as transmitting the antinational messages of the authorities designed to oppose peace talks, entitled to talk about the resumption of dialogue?

If the South Korean Red Cross side is truly interested in humanitarian talks, it should turn to the original Red Cross position and to the position of pursuing dialogue and peace, instead of acting as the disgraceful spokesman of the authorities, who are adhering to the policy of confrontation and war.

It is our consistent position to eliminate the people's pain by resuming the Red Cross talks at an early date. Proceeding from a lofty aspiration to realise fruitful dialogue, which can give genuine joy to all the people by resuming the North-South Red Cross talks, we call for the immediate holding of talks between military authorities.

The United States and South Korean authorities should immediately respond to the constructive peace proposal of the KPA Supreme Command for detente, dialogue and peace, instead of running counter to the trend of the times by pursuing confrontation and war.

Economic Delegates' Statement

[Text] The North side's delegation to North-South economic talks on 16 July issued the following statement condemning the criminal act of the United States and the South Korean authorities, who refused our new peace proposal for holding talks among military authorities.

The statement by the North side's delegation to North-South economic talks says:

The United States and the South Korean authorities have unscrupulously laid bare their criminal attempt to challenge peace and run counter to dialogue by persistently refusing our new peace proposal advanced to open a new turning point in achieving the alleviation of tension and peace in our country and to provide a favorable atmosphere for dialogue.

Together with all of the nation, our delegation to the economic talks sternly condemns the United States and South Korean authorities for their tolerable criminal act of refusing dialogue by opposing our peace-loving proposal for talks among military authorities and by seeking confrontation and war only.

Originally, the South Korean side, while seeking faked dialogue at the instigation of the United States, prevented dialogue itself from becoming one that could make progress and bear fruition. The whole course of the North-South economic talks has clearly proven this.

The North-South economic talks, which properly started with the delivery of our relief goods to the South Korean flood victims as the occasion, failed to achieve any progress from the outset because of the Panmunjom shooting incident perpetrated by the United States and the South Korean side and the "Team Spirit-85" joint military exercise, and the talks finally had to be suspended for a half year.

In this year, too, despite the unanimous condemnation and rejection of the people at home and abroad, the United States and the South Korean authorities persistently staged the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise, and thus led the country to the brink of war. As a result, the economic talks, as well as other North-South talks, have been suspended again.

Furthermore, openly declaring that the "Team Spirit" joint military exercise would be continuously staged in the future, the United States and the South Korean rulers have kicked up rackets of confrontation and war against us by staging large-scale military exercises such as "Ttangbol-86," "Piho-86," "Pangpae-86," and "Ulchi-86" in succession. Thus, they have extremely aggravated the situation of the country and have blocked the road for resumption of the suspended dialogue.

All of these facts vividly show that talks among military authorities should be rapidly held above all in our country and that the problem to alleviate confrontation and tension should be practically resolved first. One who can distinguish reason even to the slightest degree and who has a sense of reason will not be able to deny this stern fact.

This notwithstanding, while following the impure maneuvers of the bellicose elements who are trying to evade the holding of talks among military authorities for detente and peace, the South side delegation to the North-South economic talks this time sent a telephone message babbling about the resumption of talks to us. We cannot repress our surprise at this.

While ignoring the reality in which victory over communism and the annihilation of communism are being clamored, bayonets are being wielded, and frantic confrontation and war rackets are being staged to oppose the other side of dialogue, making a proposal to resume dialogue is a clumsy drama. It is being made not only to escape the embarrassment of being driven into a predicament at home and abroad by refusing our proposal for holding talks among military authorities, but also to mislead public opinion, and is an extremely insolent act insulting the other side of dialogue and all of the brethren.

We believe the South Korean side should have shut its mouth rather than receive condemnation from the people of the world now due to its lame excuse uttered while backed into a corner for having failed to find a firm justification to refuse our side's peace proposal.

If the South side delegation is really interested in resuming the dialogue, it should not dance together with the United States and South Korean authorities, who are seeking confrontation and war, but should show due sincerity for resolvling the urgent problem of detente and peace first.

The North-South talks should be resumed at the earliest possible date. The key to this rests in reality with the early holding of talks among military authorities. We strongly hold that the United States and the South Korean authorities should not continuously oppose the unanimous demand and aspiration of the people at home and abroad, but should ponder again the proposal for holding talks among military authorities advanced by the KPA Supreme Command and respond to it without delay.

We will continue to watch the attitude of the United States and the South Korean authorities in the future.

DPRK DEMANDS BIGGER SHARE OF SEOUL OLYMPIC'S

AU221340 Paris AFP in English 1323 GMT 22 Jul 86

[Text] Geneva, Switzerland, July 22 (AFP) -- North Korea must host more than 10 events if a boycott of the 1988 Seoul Olympic Games is to be averted, Kim Hyeung, the south [as received] Korean ambassador, said here on Tuesday. After delivering an official letter from the Pyongyang government to International Olympic Committee (IOC) President Juan Antonio Samaranch on Monday, Mr. Kim warned a press conference here that if "the co-hosting plan for the Seoul games fails through, the Olympic Movement will be thrown into chaos."

North Korea opened their campaign to co-host the Seoul games nine months ago and after three meetings with the Seoul organisers, chaired by Samaranch, a compromise solution was hammered out which would allow the North to host the archery, table-tennis, a cycling race, and some football. Seoul agreed, but Pyongyang were asked to clarify their reply amid rumours they had asked for a bigger share. "Negotiations are not over," said Kim. "There are still problems to solve about the organising committee and the opening ceremony, medal presentations and the closing ceremony." The IOC, who are taking the boycott threat seriously, may be prepared to stage a fourth meeting between the two countries, informed sources said here.

Mr. Kim added that a meeting of 50 nonaligned countries in Pyongyang at the beginning of the month had adopted a resolution in favour of co-hosting. "If there is no solution, the Olympic movement will be in serious, possibly fatal trouble," he said. "We believe, however, that there will be no failure."

KIM TAE-CHUNG PUT UNDER HOUSE ARREST 23 JUL

[Text] Seoul, July 23 (AFP) -- South Korean opposition leader Kim Tae-chung was placed under house arrest Wednesday to prevent him from attending a one-day opposition party training session, Kim's aides said. Some 400 uniformed policemen and plainclothesmen were deployed early Wednesday outside the home of the 60-year-old opposition politician in western Seoul. The summer training session was held in the major opposition New Korea Democratic Party headquarters in Seoul. Kim Tae-chung was barred from political activities under South Korean laws as he is under a suspended 20-year jail term on sedition charges.

The aides added that it was the 27th house arrest imposed on Kim who has often been put under day-long house arrest to bar him from political meetings or public rallies since his return home in February after two years of voluntary exile in the United States. Kim Tae-chung was also placed under house arrest Saturday to stop him from participating in a rally to protest an alleged sexual abuse of a woman dissident by a police interrogator.

REPORTAGE ON ANNUAL DJP RALLY AT MT. TOGYU

Chon Tu-hwan Speaks

SK220603 Seoul YONHAP in English 0547 GMT 22 Jul 86

[Text] Mt. Togyu, Korea, July 22 (YONHAP) -- Korean President Chon Tu-hwan Tuesday urged the ruling Democratic Justice Party (DJP) to renew itself, to live up to the people's expectations and to return to power in the future.

"It is time for the DJP to do its utmost to put the future political situation in order, with the authority and responsibility for taking the initiative in managing state affairs," Chon said at an annual DJP rally in this mountain retreat.

Chon, who heads the ruling party, has promised repeatedly to step down as president of Korea in February 1988, when his single, seven-year term expires. With his departure 19 months away, Korea is in the process of drawing up a new constitution under which a successor government will be inaugurated.

"In light of the momentous task ahead of us," he said, "it is urgent for our party, as the ruling party, to be in the center for managing the political situation." The president's message to the DJP was contained in a speech on "three principles of democratization," which Chon presented as a guideline for constitutional revision and political development in Korea. The principles outlined in the speech were democratization involving the people, democratization by national consensus and democratization for national development.

The president told 12,000 fellow DJP members assembled here for the annual jamboree to exhibit a refurbished party image to the people in pursuit of political power in the future. He said that Korea wants politics of compromise, production and national interest and asked the DJP members to take a leading role in "crushing a force out to challenge the ruling system while trying to create social chaos."

Activities Summarized

SK230130 Seoul THE KOREA HERALD in English 23 Jul 86 p 4

[Editorial: "DJP 'Togyu Declaration'"]

[Text] Since 1983, the ruling Democratic Justice Party has staged a large-scale camping rally each summer at the foot of Mt. Togyu, in the southwestern part of the country, to shore up solidarity among its cadre members, at both the central party headquarters and provincial chapters.

It seems that the party is attaching a particular meaning to this year's three-day gathering, due to close today, as it falls amidst a "crucial stage" of political development, involving a projected amendment to the Constitution.

Underscoring such a political impact was the revelation of "three guiding principles" by President Chon Tu-hwan, who concurrently heads the government party, with regard to the constitutional revision and the nation's political development as well.

In an address delivered at the rally yesterday, the president accented that the ongoing democratization should be carried out with extensive "people's participation," based on a "national consensus" and directed toward "national development."

He then stressed that the DJP, being the government party and the core force in managing national politics, is bound to fulfill its given missions and responsibilities, so as to bring about "productive" politics, highlighting mutual compromise and serving national interests.

The presidential speech was later elaborated on by Rep. No Tae-u, chairman and No. 2 man of the party, in what he called a "Mt. Togyu Declaration," enumerating five guidelines governing the democratization task and the missions of the party members.

Cited among the five points were "democratic reforms" in various fields, "peaceful resolution" of all disputes, expanded opportunities for social participation by youth and women, and incessant efforts for the party's "self-renewal" and "intraparty democracy."

As for the future form of government, the foremost issue involving the constitutional amendment, the party leadership was prudent enought to refrain from making any outright remarks in precise terms. But, noteworthy was Rep. No's repeated emphasis on the need for "functionally deconcentrating" the government power structure, a reference widely construed as underlining the party's preference for a parliamentary cabinet system.

Though there were few direct references to specific issues pertaining to the constitutional revision, the three principles laid out by the president -- and, for that matter, the five guidelines listed by the party chairman -- are expected to have far-reaching implications on the crucial task of rewriting the supreme law. In this respect, it is yet to be seen how the ruling party will translate the principles into action.

'Forced Labor' at Rally

[Text] The New Korea Democratic Party said yesterday that it was "shocked" at the government's wielding of administrative power to have local residents engage in forced labor for the ruling party's mountain camping rally.

The major opposition party maintained that government authorities imposed fines on those who refused to comply with the "mobilization."

In a statement, a party spokesman noted, "We were shocked at the government's invocation of administrative power," calling for an "open explanation" on it.

Deputy spokesman Kang Sam-chae said that residents who live near Mt. Togyu, Cholla-Pukto, were called out for face-lifting of the vicinity of the camping site for the DJP's VIPs.

The three-day camping rally ends today.

FOREIGN MINISTRY WANTS MORE TEXTBOOK CORRECTIONS

SK110413 Seoul YONHAP in English 0354 GMT 11 Jul 86

[Text] Seoul, July 11 (YONHAP) -- The South Korean Ministry of Foreign Affairs Thursday notified the Japanese Embassy of its stand that more corrections are required of a recently amended Japanese history textbook. Kwon Pyong-hyon, the ministry's director general for Asian affairs, delivered the ministry's stand to Sakutaro Tanino, minister at the Japanese Embassy.

Kwon said he told Tanino that the revision fell short of a satisfactory level, especially with regard to descriptions of the process of "invasion" which led to the Japanese annexation of Korea in 1910.

He also said he conveyed to the Japanese side the public opinions in Korea as expressed by Korean mass media which demanded rectification of every distortion in Japanese textbooks to be published, if any, as well as in the recently revised one.

In response, the Japanese diplomat said that he would deliver the Korean Government's position to his government and exercise every possible effort to amend distortions, according to a ministry official.

The ministry's action came two days after it was informed by the Japanese Government of corrections made on the textbook. The ministry has reportedly decided to continue scrutinizing the uncorrected parts of the Japanese textbook.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY REPORT READ AT OPENING SESSION

BK221221 Phnom Penh SPK in French 0458 GMT 21 Jul 86

[Text] Phnom Penh, 21 Jul (SPK) — The 11th session of the 1st PRK National Assembly began its work this morning in the presence of Heng Samrin, general secretary of the KPRP Central Committee and chairman of the State Council. Also present in the presidium were Chea Sim, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the National Assembly; Hun Sen, member of the KPRP Central Committee Political Bureau and chairman of the Council of Ministers; Say Phuthang, member of the Political Bureau, vice chairman of the State Council, and chairman of the Central Committee Control Commission; Bou Thang, member of the Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, chairman of the Commission of; [as received] Chea Soth, member of the Political Bureau, vice chairman of the Council of Ministers, and minister of planning; Men Sam-an, member of the Political Bureau, chairman of the Central Committee Organization Commission; Mat Ly, member of the Political Bureau, vice chairman of the National Assembly, and chairman of the Kampuchean Federation of Trade Unions; Superior Bonze Tep Vong; and Nu Beng, vice chairmen of the National Assembly.

The session started with a minute-long meditation observed in memory of Le Duan, general secretary of the CPV Central Committee, and Faidang Lobaliayao, vice chairman of the Supreme People's Council and of the National Construction Front of Laos. Following the opening speech of Chairman Chea Sim, the deputies heard the reports presented by Chan Ven, secretary general of the State Council, and Phlek Phirun, secretary general of the National Assembly, dealing with the activities of their respective organizations in the interval between the 10th and 11th sessions of the 1st National Assembly. The report of the National Assembly notes:

During the 1st half of 1986, the assembly leadership paid visits to localities all over the country, such as the provinces of Siem Reap, Prey Veng, Kandal, Kompong Chhnang, Kampot, Takeo, Kompong Som City, and Pursat and the northeastern region to learn about the people's right to mastery. It had cordial conversations with the cadres, youths, bonzes, population, and ethnic minorities in order to strengthen the sense of responsibility of the cadres in the good management of work and the population in the national defense and reconstruction duty for the development of the fatherland.

During these same occasions, it presented the account on the incessant development of our revolution in all fields -- military, political, economic, and cultural -- recorded during the past 7 years. The recent partial withdrawal of the Vietnamese volunteers from Cambodia testifies to the growth of our revolutionary armed forces in the defense of the fatherland and of the revolutionary gains.

The leadership exposed the perfidious maneuvers of the enemy and made the cadres, employees, youths, women, army, and people understand the difficulties and shortcomings to be surmounted while urging them to unite as a rock-like body under the judicious leadership of the KPRP in order to bring success to all resolutions of the Fifth Congress of our party. According to the report, in order to deserve the role of being the representatives of the people, the deputies from the 20 constituencies went to their respective constituencies to carry out their tasks and cooperated with the party committees of the provinces and cities and with the authorities at all levels in order to widely spread the political principles of the party and state, the laws, and the results of the 10th session of the 1st National Assembly:

— The resolutions of the Fifth Party Congress;
— The resolutions of the Second Plenum of the party Central Committee;
— The treaty on the border delimitation between Cambodia and Vietnam;
— The prorogation of the first term of the National Assembly;
— The amendment of Article 12 of the Constitution on "the four components of the economy";
— Other laws of the state.

The report also dealt with the National Assembly's activities in other fields and, regarding relations with foreign countries, it notes:

During those past more than 7 years, the Cambodian revolution won great all-round successes and continues to progress steadily. The prestige of the PRK is soaring incessantly in the international arena. Despite the fact that the beijing expansionist-hegemonists, in collusion with the U.S. imperialists and Thai reactionaries, are seeking to make up for their defeats, the situation in Cambodia continues to improve and is supported and acclaimed by the peace- and justice-loving international public opinion. The world situation is favorable to the Cambodian revolution as well as to that of the three Indochinese countries.

Recently, along with the development of the Kampuchean Revolutionary Armed Forces, we successfully welcomed the high-ranking SRV National Assembly delegation headed by Chairman Comrade Nguyen Huu Tho, who paid an official friendship visit to the PRK from 21 to 25 April 1986 at the invitation of our National Assembly.

During its visit, the delegation was received by Comrade Heng Samrin, general secretary of the KPRP Central Committee and chairman of the State Council, in an atmosphere permeated with revolutionary cordiality and fraternity. During the talks between the delegation of the SRV National Assembly headed by its chairman, Comrade Nguyen Huu Tho, and that of the PRK National Assembly headed by Comrade Chea Sim, the two sides expressed feelings of affection and fraternity that have always existed in the history of the two peoples. The Vietnamese side strongly rejoiced at all the achievements and at the development in all fields scored by the Cambodian people who are implementing the resolutions of the Fifth Congress of our party. The two sides expressed their position -- past as well as present -- of support for the peoples of Nicaragua, El Salvador, Namibia, Palestine, Lebanon, and Angola and for the peoples of Asian, African, and Latin American countries and countries in the Nonaligned Movement against imperialism, colonialism, apartheid, and Zionism for peace, independence, democracy, social progress, and a new world economic order.

At the invitation of the People's Great Hural of the MPR, we sent a high-ranking delegation of our National Assembly, headed by Comrade Mat Ly, member of the party Central Committee Political Bureau and vice chairman of the National Assembly, to attend the conference of National Assembly representatives from socialist countries in Asia held in Ulaanbaatar from 26 to 27 March, 1986, to discuss the problem of strengthening peace and security in Asia and the Pacific. Attending this conference were delegations from Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, the Soviet Union, the MPR, and the DPRK. Following the conference, our delegation paid an official friendship visit there till 30 March, 1986. The presence of the delegation of our National Assembly at this conference further heightened the prestige of the PRK.

In the joint statement, besides the settlement of the problem of peace and security in the region and the world, the conference put forward a few points relating to the Indochinese countries, such as the proposal to begin negotiations between the groups of ASEAN and Indochinese countries and to turn Southeast Asia into a zone of peace, stability, and cooperation.

The conference highly appreciated and unanimously supported the proposals of the Soviet Union aimed at freeing mankind from the danger of nuclear war and mass destruction weapons by the end of this century and creating favorable conditions for a constructive cooperation in favor of states and peoples.

The conference energetically condemned the undeclared armed provocations of U.S. imperialism against sovereign and nonaligned Libya, and demanded that the United States put an immediate end to its aggression which constitutes a serious threat to peace and security in the region and the world. The conference proceeded in an atmosphere permeated with solidarity and friendship. The Korean side showed a flexible attitude toward our delegation.

During its visit, the delegation of our National Assembly was warmly and cordially received by the People's Great Hural of the MPR and the leaders of the Mongolian party, state, and people. The leaders of party, state, and People's Great Hural of the MPR expressed firm support for our regime and categorically condemned U.S. imperialism, Beijing expansionism, and their lackeys for obstructing the Cambodian revolution. The visit of our delegation will contribute to the tightening of the ties of fraternal friendship, militant solidarity, and fruitful cooperation between our two assemblies and countries: Cambodia and Mongolia.

Our National Assembly received through the good office of the ambassador of the People's Republic of Bulgaria to Cambodia the declaration of the National Assembly of the People's Republic of Bulgaria which was approved by the UN General Assembly on 24 October 1985 declaring 1986 the International Year of Peace. Our National Assembly salutes this declaration, particularly the decision of this world organization, and supports the main objectives and the program adopted within the framework of the International Year of Peace. This initiative fully conforms with the aspirations of the peoples from all continents: To live in peace and with security, intensify the struggle against the arms race unleashed by the United States and NATO, and annihilate the militarization of outer space.

Moreover, Comrade National Assembly Chairman Chea Sim received courtesy calls from the delegation of the Polish Women's Association Cooperation Committee headed by Comrade Stanislava Popiels; from Comrades Pheli Khounlaleuk, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the LPDR, Variato Mora Diaz, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Republic of Cuba, and Rolf Dach, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the GDR; and from His Excellency Pandey, charge d'affaires of the Republic of India in Phnom Penh.

Moreover, Comrades Jiri Vesely and Lyuden Damyanov, ambassadors extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the CSSR and People's Republic of Bulgaria respectively, were received by the chairman for talks. Comrade Mat Ly, vice chairman of the National Assembly, accorded courtesy visits and interviews to Comrade Gelegiyn Adiyaa, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the MPR to the PRK and SRV, to Mr and Mrs Ben Kiernen, Australian historians, and to Comrade Evgeniy Kochanov, permanent representative of Soviet radio and television to Cambodia.

A group of our deputies was assigned to receive a group of Australian members of parliament visiting Cambodia in March 1986 to learn about the real situation in Cambodia. In particular, the comrade secretary of the National Assembly granted audiences to Comrade Yuriy Ivanovich Razdukdhov, Ludwik Klockowski, and Rolf Dach, ambassadors extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the USSR, the Polish People's Republic, and the GDR respectively.

Moreover, at the invitations of the USSR Supreme Soviet, and the National Assemblies of the Polish People's Republic and of the GDR, we have prepared high-ranking delegations of the PRK National Assembly for official friendship visits to the three fraternal socialist countries in the 2d half of this year.

The report of the National Assembly concludes as follows:

[Words indistinct] past years, the members of the National Assembly deployed all their efforts in the exercise of their role and the accomplishment of their tasks by carrying out great activities until good results were achieved in the defense and reconstruction of the fatherland: Our beautiful land of Angkor. These successes were made thanks to the participation of our people from all strata in revolutionary movements and to the moral and material support and assistance of the fraternal socialist countries, particularly the Soviet Union and Vietnam and also of all various international organizations and progressive countries in the world.

CHAWALIT PLEDGES MILITARY'S ELECTION NEUTRALITY

[Text] Army Commander-in-Chief Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyut declared yesterday that the army will be strictly neutral in this Sunday's general election and that it will not interfere with politics.

But he warned that the army will not stand idly by if the post-election government fails to serve the interest of the people. He also denied reports that the army favoured certain political parties or candidates running in the election and was campaigning for them.

Speaking at a press conference only five days before the election, Gen Chawalit said the duty of the army is "to uphold the democratic system and support a government which serves the national interest."

"I have sent out orders to all army units to stress that the army will not interfere with politics," he said.

"The army will not create any pressure so that the people can have a direct say in the election," he added.

He said that the army will support the entity which is elected by the people. "If that entity becomes unjust and fails to serve the people's interest, the army will not stand idly by," he said.

It was the second major press conference by Gen Chawalit since he replaced Gen Athit Kamlang-ek as army chief in late May.

Gen Chawalit refused to comment on the questin about the nature of the post-election government and premiership. He only said that the question will have to be decided by the people.

He also denied a report that there had been some sounding out in the army about the person who should lead the new government.

And when asked whether he would act as an adviser in the formation of the coalition government after the poll, he said that he was good personal relations with all the 16 political parties which are running in the election.

"I have met all the parties and believe that they all have good intentions to promote democracy. And I have reaffirmed with them that the army will support all the parties which are elected by the people," he said.

He also added: "If I can be of any help for them as friends and people with responsibility toward security of the government, I would be glad to provide it."

Gen Chawalit said there were reports that soldiers were involved in election campaigns for some parties. "I have checked and found that the reports are not true," he said.

Soldiers in certain constituencies in the past were known to constitute decisive votes that could sway the election outcomes.

Shortly after Gen Chawalit took over the command of the army, he ordered the dissolution of an army election monitoring centre set up by his predecessor.

On Communist Threat, Cambodia

[Text] Army Commander-in-Chief Gen Chawalit Yongchaiyut warned yesterday that a wrong policy pursued by the government may give the Communist Party of Thailand (CPT) a chance to regain its lost strength.

In a news conference, the army chief also said that the Kampuchean problem does not pose a major security concern because Hanoi is engulfed with many difficulties, including ideological rift within the top Vietnamese leadership. The Vietnamese, he said, failed to achieve its target of building strong proxy Khmer force to allow the pull-out of Vietnamese troops, set for 1990.

Gen Chawalit said the government had basically put an end to the CPT's revolutionary war, given the successive setbacks which dwindled the armed strength of the banned party from a peak of 10,000 to only 400-500 now.

Yet, the decrease should not be taken as the criteria of the government's decisive success, according to Gen Chawalit, who added that the CPT's threat will not cease so far as [as published] the party's platform to seize state powers through an armed struggle is still there. "If the government made a mistake, the armed strength can grow rapidly, posing a major threat to the national security again," he said.

He also warned that CPT had put emphasis on front work in accordance with late Chinese leader Mao edong theory of forming alliance with or infiltrating political parties, political groups and local influential groups.

"We usually overlook the latter form of the front groups," he said. Gen Chawalit said that CPT was still a major problem because without such an armed struggle inside the country, foreign powers cannot have an excuse to invade Thailand. The domestic threat, he said, was intertwined with potential external threats.

Asked whether CPT had infiltrated some political parties, Gen Chawalit said that he believes all political parties have pride and prestige, so much that they would not let CPT exploit them. In addition, CPT does not have the capability to win leadership in the political parties, according to the army chief.

Referring to the Kampuchean issue, Gen Chawalit said over the past eight years, Vietnam had failed to achieve its goal in Kampuchea.

Vietnam, he said, aims to pull out its troops from the country by 1990 and the success must hinge on two factors: whether it will be able to build up a local force to control the situation for the Vietnamese; and whether ASEAN would back down on its stand against the Vietnamese occupation of Kampuchea.

As regards to the first factor, Gen Chawalit said that Hanoi had built about six divisions of Heng Samrin force comprising more than 10,000 troops, of whom only about 600 are combatants. However, the Khmer force has been losing its confidence in the Vietnamese force, he said. ASEAN, he added, has been adamant in its stand against the Vietnamese occupation of Kampuchea.

Gen Chawalit said that the Vietnamese did not only face the Kampuchean problem but had problems inside their own country, namely the ideological rifts within the Politburo, the top-level policy making body of the country.

He did not identify the rift and added that the problem inside the Vietnamese leadership was not expected to affect its Kampuchean policy.

"It depends on the next four years. Any side which has the time on its side will win," he said.

Referring to the rifts within the anti-Vietnamese Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea, Gen Chawalit said they differed from the conflicts within Vietnamese leadership because the former would lead to growth and development as against deterioration.

STUDENT RALLY OPPOSES PREM; POLL RESULTS GIVEN

[Text] Students yesterday stepped up a campaign to prevent Gen Prem Tinsulanon from becoming prime minister again by demanding that the leader of the post-election government must be an elected MP.

In a statement distributed at Sanam Luang to people attending a public political forum, the Students Federation of Thailand (SFT) said opinion polls have demonstrated that the people want the prime minister to be an MP.

It said for 10 years, the country has been led by people who did not come from election. "And this situation undermines democracy," the statement said.

Members of the federation yesterday also took to the streets in Banglampu with a long cloth banner saying: "Water belongs to fish. Sky belongs to birds. But the premiership cannot be monopolized by Pa (Prem)."

Copies of the statement opposing Prem were also given out along the way. The student federation is a key member of the so-called "Committee Promoting Democracy for the People" -- a cause-oriented group of people formed to educate the public on politics and to monitor the July 27 election.

The committee yesterday continued their series on "Forum for Democracy" at Sanam Luang where politicans from parties were invited to speak on their platforms. However, the event was disrupted by a downpour.

Meanwhile, a limited opinion poll conducted by a private research company has found that Democrat leader Phichai Rattakun is most favoured by Bangkokians to be the next prime minister.

But Supreme Commander Gen Athit Kamlang-ek is more popular in provinces, in the central region, according to the poll by the International Business Research (Thailand) Co Ltd.

The poll, conducted on July 16-17 among 518 people, found that 25 per cent of the respondents in Bangkok favour Phichai as the next premier, 16 per cent in favour of Premier Prem, 13 per cent for Gen Athit and 11 per cent for Social Action Party leader Sitthi Sawetsila.

Seventy-one per cent of them give their confidence to the Democrat Party saying that it would win the majority in the election because of its long established reputation and political experience.

The poll in Bangkok shows that 65 per cent of the respondents in Bangkok rate the economic performance of the Prem Government as poor. And 29 per cent choose Phichai as the person they are most confident in solving economic problems followed by Community Action Party leader Bunchu Rotchanasathian 22 percent, Prachakon Thai leader Samak Sunthorawet 16 per cent and Sitthi 14 per cent.

On the question of premiership, 45 per cent in Bangkok favour the premier to come from election while 39 per cent want him to be the leader of the party which wins the majority.

In the central region, 19 per cent say they want Gen Athit to be the next premier, followed by Bunchu 17 per cent, Phichai 15 per cent and Prem 14 percent.

Thirty-nine per cent of them believe Bunchu is the most likely person to solve the country's problems, followed by Phichai 18 per cent and Samak 17 per cent.

The poll noted that many of the respondents in the provinces appeared reluctant to answer questions, saying they were uncertain or not knowledgeable enough.

1ST MILITARY REGION TO DEAL WITH SHORTCOMINGS

[Text] Comrade Bui Viet has reported from the 1st Military Region that developing the results of the self-criticism and criticism drive, the 1st Military Region Party Committee recently discussed urgent measures aimed at overcoming the shortcomings currently found in the various units. To basically and thoroughly resolve the issue of troop discipline and improve their living conditions, the 1st Military Region Party Committee has ordered all units to urgently discuss remedial measures. The pressing immediate objectives consist of putting an end to phenomena showing a lack of discipline and to manifestations of negativism in daily life, and of scrupulously enforcing the various systems, regulations, rules, directives, and orders issued by the higher echelons.

In daily life, faced with the general difficult situation, leading and commanding cadres at all levels are responsible for developing the local potentials regarding land and the soldiers' labor and stepping up production activities to improve their living conditions. All units must formulate plans to accelerate the production of grain and food by planting vegetables wherever land is available and promoting livestock raising and food processing. Through the use of soldiers' labor, it is necessary to generate legitimate sources of income for repairing and reconditioning barracks and purchasing equipment and appliances needed for daily life rather than depending on and waiting for supplies.

Command cadres at all levels must act in an exemplary manner and be strict with themselves. Efforts must be made to build and consolidate a contingent of cadres having a firm political stand, a correct and fine style of command, and pure revolutionary feelings who stricity enforce all regulations and regularly and closely supervise the maintenance of the soldiers' daily life pattern. At the same time, it is necessary to enhance the soldiers' awareness through education, pay proper attention to their material and spiritual life, and encourage and arrange for them to step up production activities.

NHAN DAN CALLS FOR MASS EMULATION MOVEMENT

[NHAN DAN 21 July editorial: "Launch a Mass Movement for Revolutionary Actions To Emulate in Scoring Achievements To Greet the Sixth Party Congress"]

[Text] The Sixth National Party Congress will be held late this year. This is an event of great importance in our country's political and social life. The congress will solve many very important issues with the aim of encouraging the successful implementation of the two strategic tasks of socialist construction and national defense and continuing to advance our country through the first stage -- a difficult and painful one -- of the transition period under the slogan: All for the sake of the socialist fatherland and the people's happiness. The congress will also decide on effective measures with the aim of intensifying and comprehensively enhancing the party's leading role.

Our party always maintains that the revolutionary undertaking is one of the masses. This has been very correct in the past and is even more correct and extremely important now. Our party, which derives its strength from the creativity of the masses, reposes absolute confidence in the people. All of its standpoints and policies are aimed at serving the interests of the people.

In its history of nearly 6 decades and at various complex turning points, our party has demonstrated clearly its ability to discover the correct path to overcome difficulties and dangers and move forward. It has drawn millions of laboring people into participating in a seething movement for revolutionary action.

Our party, which values the confidence and support of the people and considers that interests of the people, country, and socialism above everything, is determined to develop its strong points and overcome its errors and shortcomings to lead our people to the objectives laid down by its Fourth and Fifth national Congressess. This is aimed at firmly preserving and consolidating our country's conprehensive strength and ensuring a more stable, delightful, healthy, and equal life for our people.

To reach that goal, it is imperative for all of us to work with discipline, high productivity, efficiency. The mass movement for revolutionary activity to emulate in scoring achievements to greet the party congress must be carried out on the basis of enhancing the masses' awareness of the party and socialism, strenghtening the close attachment between the party and the people, and achieving unity of will and action in the entire party and people.

The constructive and scrupulous criticism of the party and party members by people in the self-criticism and criticism drive that is being conducted everywhere and the contribution of views by the working class, peasantry, intelligentsia, and laboring people to the party congress and the draft political report to be presented at the forthcoming party congress are new manifestations of the close relationship between the party and the people.

These activites are creating favorable conditions for the launching of a truly mass movement for revolutionary actions.

The socialist revolutionary cause in our nation urgently requires new concepts, especially in economics, and improvement in party organization and cadre quality. The present situation also requires various echelons and sectors to improve their supervision and organization of mass movements to carry out various pressing tasks. Along with urgently organizing party organization congresses at various levels and the national party congress, we must promptly overcome numerous difficulties in materials, energy, and other problems to accelerate agricultural and industrial production, take measures to implement correctly the resolution of the party Central Committee Eight Plenum and other resolutions of the party Central Committee Political Bureau, stand ready to cope with all the enemy's schemes and acts of sabotage, and firmly maintain national defense and security.

The mass emulation movement for achievements in these aspects must bring about concrete and realistic results. We must strive to oppose such phenomena as working for form's sake, waste, making false reports, and imposing on the people's time and energy.

Our entire party and people must strive to overcome all difficulties to ensure both high quality and productivity in the summer-fall and the 10th-month crops; develop the production of foodstuffs and consumer goods; improve distrubution and circulation; and stabilize the market, prices, and the people's daily lives, thereby creating an encouraging atmosphere to welcome the coming party congress.

To achieve realistic results, the mass revolutionary movement requires various echelons and sectors to change their style and management system; improve work methods; strive to eliminate bureaucratic centralism and state subsidies: uphold a sense of responsibility, dynamism, and creativity; ensure democracy; observe party discipline; respect state law; strengthn unity; and firmly maintain principles of party organization and activities, state apparatus, and work of mass organization. All echelons and sectors must pay attention to grass-roots units and workers to create favorable conditions for and to help them overcome difficulties and accelerate production; promptly solve their requirements on raw materials, energy, and equipment; and formulte appropriate policies meeting the legitimate interests, aspirations, and background knowledge of the people, thereby helping realistically to accelerate production, improve the economy, and gradually stabilize the daily lives of the people and combatants.

There are concrete tasks to create a realistic mass revolutionary action movement to enable the people to participate enthusiastically in production emulation drives, practice thrift, strengthen national defense and security, and strive to fulfill the 1986 state plan, thereby scoring outstanding achievements to welcome the party organization congresses at various levels and the Sixth CPV Congress.

LANGE CLAIMS 'A WIN' OVER FRANCE IN BOMBING CASE

[Text] Wellington, July 23 (AFP) — New Zealand Prime Minister David Lange said Wednesday his country had had "a win" in the row with French over the bombing of the Rainbow Warrior a year ago.

"I got a letter of apology from the Prime Minister of France, that's a win," Mr Lange told reporters.

He was releasing the text of the apology made by France as part of a settlement dictated by the United Nations.

The letter from French Premier Jacques Chirac admitted French responsibility for the bomb attack, as first stated by former Premier Laurent Fabius on September 22 last year.

Wrote Mr Chirac: "My predecessor made it clear on that date that he was deeply distressed at the consequences that this affair had for relations between our two countries. I wish to convey to you today the apology of the government of the French Republic for the events which took place in Auckland on 10 July 1985."

Mr Lange said the apology was "quite unprecedented. We have a straight-out, unqualified apology. It certainly meets the needs of New Zealand."

He said New Zealand's handling of the row had been "assertive and has ended with them (the two French agents arrested and jailed in New Zealand after the bombing) not going off to freedom in France but to three years' detention."

The agents, Major Alain Mafart and Captain Dominique Prieur, flew out of New Zealand GMT [no time as received] Tuesday heading for Hao Atoll where they will live for three years on a French military outpost.

Mr Lange said the end of the Rainbow Warrior row would mean "more normalized relations" with France. But he said there would "still be difficulties with France over its nuclear testing program," and over the changes which should occur in its Pacific territories.

He said the lesson from the affair was that small nations were important "when facing great issues in conflict with great powers."

"If you are small, you can win in the end but it means a marathon public relations exercise."

Prime Minister Datuk Sri Dr Mahathir Mohamed says Malaysia has decided to stay away from the games and the Commonwealth Art Festival in view of the (?unyielding) stand by Britain on the imposition of economic sanctions against the South African regime. He says that despite the obvious desire of all Commonwealth countries to apply sanctions, he could not understand why British Prime Minister Mrs Margaret Thatcher alone can insist on having her way.

The prime minister said this in a message conveyed to his Canadian counterpart Mr Martin Brian Mulroney in reply to the latter's message to all Commonwealth leaders seeking their full participation in the Commonwealth Games. The prime minister added he did not subscribe to the idea of the Commonwealth's eminent persons group and was not there when the decision to send the group was made.

Malaysia's stand was made clear in a letter to other heads of governments in Bahamas.

[Text] Zamboanga, Philippines, July 23 (AFP) -- A group of Moslem separatists met with government emissaries Wednesday and demanded a 100,000 dollar ransom for a kidnapped Swiss tourist and his Filipina companion, the military said here. Hans Kunzli, 45, a printer from Zurich, and Adelaida Gamboa were taken to a village near Lu-uk Town, in the extreme southern island of Jolo after they were abducted at sea near this southern city Saturday, military spokesmen said.

The kidnappers, led by Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF) Commander Alig Salih, demanded two million pesos (about 100,000 dollars) at a meeting with government emissaries Wednesday, they added. President Corazon Aquino had earlier set a policy of not giving in to ransom demands amid a spate of abductions in the southern Philippines. Mr Kunzli is the third foreigner kidnapped in the past two months.

The military alleged that Mr Salih has been ordered by exiled MNLF chief Nur Misuari last year to kidnap foreigners and ranking Philippines officials to drum up support from Islamic countries and to strengthen the MNLF's position in Mindanao. The MNLF has been waging a 14-year-old guerrila campaign for a separate Moslem state in Mindanao and other southern Philippine islands.

French Roman Catholic priest Michel de Gigord, U.S. Presbyterian missionary Brian Lawrence and 10 Filipino Roman Catholic nuns were earlier kidnapped then set free in the central Mindanao city of Marawi. It was not immediately known if the latest kidnapping was related to the earlier three, which had been attributed to the private army of a prominent Moslem warlord.

RETURN OF MARCOS' MILLIONS ANTICIPATED

HK211104 Quezon City NEW DAY in English 21 Jul 86 p 11

[Text] Some of the millions of dollars that Ferdinand Marcos stashed abroad may be returned to the Philippine government before the end of this month. The tentative figure is $213 million, whch will come from a Swiss bank.

Solicitor-General Sedfrey Ordonez, speaking this week at the Central Luzon State University in Nueva Ecija after arriving from Switzerland, said the Marcos money would go into rural development. His optimism about recovering the money soon can be traced to the fact that if Marcos really owned the money deposited in five banks in Switzerland, he is trapped into not claiming it formally and publicly. If he does claim the money, he would only be confirming the Aquino government accusations that the stole it from the nation during his 20-year rule.

The statement of Ordonez, although tentative, was confirmed late Thursday as "basically correct" by Moritz Leuenberger, a Zurich lawyer representing the Philippines in Swiss courts. He told the Associated Press that the $213 million deposited mainly at one unidentified Zurich bank, is part of a larger amount which he still did not know.

Leuenberger also told the British Reuter news agency that provisional agreement had been reached with a Marcos lawyer on the transfer of the $213 million to the Philippine government. "We are sure there is more and we want it too," the lawyer said.

But Swiss bankers expressed skepticism about the deal. "We know nothing about this. It's a complete surprise," said one bank official.

A Swiss justic ministry spokesman in Bern also indicated that the release of the money to the Philippine government may go beyond the end of the month. He said the judicial procedure involved could make it unlikely for the money to be released within 30 days. Besides, the deadline for Marcos to claim the money and oppose its release to the government has not yet expired.

Three Swiss cantons (states) -- Zurich, Geneva and Fribourg -- are currently considering the April 25 request by Manila for judicial help. The Aquino government's fight to regain any Marcos wealth stashed in Switzerland was expected to take years, partly due to the decentralized Swiss justice system, unless Marcos and the banks failed to appeal rulings against them.

The Presidential Commission on Good Government [PCGG] appointed by President Corazon C. Aquino has said that Marcos and his associates may have plundered between $5 and $10 billion in govenment funds during his rule and that a large part of the money is in Switzerland.

PCGG chairman Jovito Salonga told the Constitutional Commission studying the PCGG role in government under the new constitution that Marcos sent an agent to Switzerland last March 24. This agent presented an authorization from Marcos to withdraw Marcos's deposits but failed to get the money out until he was overtaken by a March 25 order of the Swiss Federal Council freezing all assets of Marcos and his associates.

Had the Swiss authorities not issued the order, almost $3 billion must now be in the hands of Marcos, Salonga said.

Estimates Up to $3.5 Billion

HK230403 Quezon City BUSINESS DAY in English 22 Jul 86 p 20

[Text] The Presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG) has been able to confirm that ex-president Ferdinand Marcos has at least $830 million in 13 banks in Switzerland, Commissioner Raul Daza said yesterday.

Speaking at the University of the Philippines' Faculty Center, Daza said $230 million of Marcos's funds had been deposited in four banks in one Swiss canton, and $600 million or more had been placed in nine banks in another canton. (A canton is a state in the Swiss confederation.)

The $830-million total however appears to be only a partial count of Marcos's wealth in Switzerland. Including more bank accounts and other assets such as gold bullion and real estate, the total may reach about $3.5 billion.

Daza's disclosure appears to be the first "hard" figure from PCGG regarding the amount of funds alleged to have been stashed away in Swiss banks by the former Phillippine president. Previous reports placed the estimated total at anywhere from $1 billion to $2 billion.

Last week, a Swiss lawyer for the Philippine government said some $213 million of Marcos's funds had been deposited in banks in the canton of Zurich. The government has also traced funds alleged to be the former president's to the cantons of Geneva, Berne and Fribourg.

The five-man commission tasked with recovering "ill-gotten wealth" has been tight-lipped on information regarding its legal efforts to recover Marcos's alleged wealth in Switzerland.

In an apparent reference to these legal cases, PCGG chairman, Minister Jovito R. Salonga told a committee of the Constitutional Commission last July 17 that "sensitive proceedings are going on in foreign jurisdictions right now."

He warned that adverse publicity regarding PCGG in the Philippines "could deprive our people of billions of cash, securities, gold and silver."

In that same speech, though, Salonga made some new disclosures about Marcos's "secret" bank accounts.

-- The former senator officially disclosed that by 1970, three years after they started depositing money in Swiss banks, the Marcoses began to organize "foundations" which fronted for them.

The first goes by the name of Sandy Foundation. PCGG has uncovered a total of 14 such foundations organized in various places in Europe, including the tiny principality of Liechtenstein.

According to Salonga, they had originally placed these bank accounts using pseudonyms: "William Saunders" for Marcos and "Jane Ryan" for Mrs. Imelda Marcos.

BUSINESS DAY REPORTS DEBATE ON U.S. BASES

[By Tara S. Singh]

[Text] The Constitutional Commission (Con-Com) witnessed yesterday one of the stormiest discussions of the "emotional and crucial issue" of retention or removal of the U.S. military bases in the Philippines.

During the meeting of the committee on preamble, national territory and declaration of principles, Con-Com members tried to overturn and reverse an earlier approval by the same committee of a provision terminating the RP [Republic of the Philippines]-U.S. bases agreement by 1991 and establishing a neutral, non-aligned, and nuclear-free Philippines.

Commissioners for the retention of the U.S. military bases are headed by Bernardo Villegas, Gregorio Singson and Crispino de Castro.

They argued that the bases are crucial to the defense of the country and the Asian region.

Villegas said the Con-Com should "lay-off" the U.S. military bases issue.

Villegas, an Opus Dei leader, said the U.S. bases issue should not be within the scope of framing a new constitution.

Villegas said abrogating the RP-U.S. military agreement will prevent initiatives of the executive and legislative branches in the future.

The Con-Com should remain silent on the issue, he added.

De Castro, a retired military general, said the U.S. military bases should be preserved for the country's defense and economic needs.

Explaining his rejection of the committee's approval, De Castro said, "Somebody tried to stop me. I saw a hand from the back trying to stop me." However, De Castro did not name names.

Singson, another religious lay leader, said "The removal of the U.S. military bases in the country is like the works of insurgents and separatists."

"This is the finest time for the Philippines to be neutral," he said sarcastically.

Singson pointed out that the retention of the military bases will benefit the country economically. The military bases create 36,000 jobs for the Filipinos and the annual rent is about $180 million in economic support fund and military sales credit.

He added that the presence of the U.S. military bases is a deterrent to military aggression from the outside; and without the bases the country will shoulder the whole cause of defense.

On the other hand, the anti-U.S. bases in the country are led by Commissioners Felicitas Aquino and Edmundo Garcia. [sentence as published] They said the accusations are "inaccurate."

They claimed that there were "insidious attempt to distort the issue involved in the removal of the U.S. bases."

Aquino, who headed the commission which voted against the bases last week said in her usual soft voice that the committee's approval for a nonaligned Philippines last July 17 was the result of a consensus freely arrived at among committee members.

For his part, Garcia said the committee's approval was arrived at freely and democratically.

Meanwhile, the possible retention of U.S. military facilities in the country after the expiration of the RP-U.S. military agreement in 1991 was the meat of yesterday's "Kapihan sa Manila" [Manila Coffeeshop] breakfast conference at the Manila Hotel.

Commissioner Serafin Guingona was quoted by the PHILIPPINES NEWS AGENCY as saying that the issue concerned in the possible renegotiations for the retention of American military facilities in the country is "not their economic or social implications."

"The issue here is not whether they are a magnet, that the bases would be attacked by the Soviet Union. It is not an issue on economic welfare. It is an issue between communism and democracy," he said. Guingona's pro-American remarks drew a sharp reaction from Commissioners Edmundo Garcia and Felicitas Aquino.

Garcia said the presence of American facilities in the Philippines has been imposed "on us by a colonial power." He added that they may again make the Philippines as a "target" when another global war erupts.

He said, "We don't want to be involved in a war not of our making."

For her part, Commissioner Aquino said, "The military facilities are symbolic of the power of the United States. They are Trojan horses."

She noted that there is a growing clamor on the part of the people that the military facilities should go after 1991.

The military bases agreement, however, is still to be reviewed in 1988, as agreed upon by the two governments. The bases pact is subject to review every five years.

On the other hand, Commissioner Christian Monsod said the Con-Com should not have its "hands tied down" on the bases issue by including them in the provisions of the new constitution.

More Discussion Urged

HK221531 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 22 Jul 86 p 4

[From the "As We See It Column" by Teodoro C. Berbano]

[Text] And suddenly we are besieged with anti-bases sentiments, from the Constitutional Commission, where a "moral victory" for the contras has already been scored in the committee level, to the public forums. And suddenly, too, to speak for the bases is to be anti-Filipino, for exploitation, and for the corruption of women and minors, not to mention facing the risk of being ostracized since the "in" people are those who say that to be Filipino is to be anti-US. The tide has turned, indeed.

But while it is fashionable to kick the ugly Americans, have we honestly taken stock of the alternatives in case we heed the clamor of the crowd and shut those bases and make them giant Ali Malls or Harrison Plazas or even viable versions of Hacienda Luistia? Whether we like it or not, any rash and unilateral act on our part will necessarily have a great impact on the country, on this and future generations. In the meantime, what plans do we have for the workers who will be immediately dislocated?

In the meantime, too, let us not forget that we have a treaty agreement that we have to honor until 1991 (unless this is renegotiated sooner), and let us not also forget that there are other voices on the bases which have yet to be heard. To be pro-Filipino does not necessarily mean to be anti-American, even if this is not exactly the popular sentiment nowadays. And yes, there are many who do believe that the national, regional, and international aspects of peace and security are closely linked, and to isolate Philippine interests is not only being naive but perhaps suicidal.

However the nation will eventuall decide, there exists the need to discuss the bases issue more thoroughly, more dispassionately. And this is where the political parties, in or out of power, should step in. Instead of those pro partia, pro-motherhood platforms, why not definite stands on the bases, so that the people, still the font of power, can decide intelligently? And, we might add, however the issue will be decided, it is clear that the country has not really exploited the presence of the bases. Look at how niggardly the bases help the communities around it, despite the moral responsibility that should accrue to them because it is these communities which bear the brunt of the American presence in the country.

DIMAPORO DENIES 'SECRET TRAINING CAMP' ALLEGATION

[By Lito Mangaser]

[Text] A group of 100 to 200 fully armed men "graduated" recently from a secret training camp of Muslim strongman Ali Dimaporo, the PC [Philippine Constabulary]'s Region 10 headquarters reported yesterday.

The armed men were seen patrolling Talakag, Bukidnon, last Thursday, sending many residents of two sitios scurrying for safety to nearby Dominorog town.

In a telephone interview with the CHRONICLE last night, Dimaporo called the PC report "entirely false" and challenged the military to prove that the armed men were his followers.

The Lanao strongman sounded angry, and asked if he was, he replied: "Yes!"

Whoever made that report was trying to create trouble for himself," Dimaporo said. "What he should do is to send his troops to verify the report and act accordingly instead of character-assassination people who would like to live in peace."

Dimaporo said he had not been to Bukidnon in recent months.

Talakag, at the northwestern boundary of Bukidnon, is only a few kilometers from Lanao del Norte and Lanao del Sur, the Dimaporo strongholds.

Dimaporo's followers are suspected by some government and military men to be behind recent kidnappings in Marawi City, including those of 13 church people.

The kidnappings began last month with the abduction of French priest Michel de Gigord. This was followed by the kidnapping of ten Carmelite nuns and a Protestant minister last July 11 and 12. All have been released unharmed.

Some military and police sources say the kidnappings could have been intended to show the national government that Dimaporo was still a power to reckon with in Mindanao. Dimaporo was recently replaced as Lanao del Sur governor.

Brig. Gen. Rodrigo Gutang, military commander of Region 12, said earlier that Dimaporo was operating a secret military camp for his private armies somewhere in Lanao del Sur.

Gutang said the camp was run by a renegade military officer, a certain Major Tangote, who had been implicated in the abduction of Protestant Minister Brian Lawrence.

Col. Jesus Hermosa, PC Region 10 chief, told the 'CHRONICLE' in a telephone interview that the armed men could also be members of the secessionist Moro National Liberation Front. He said the men were headed toward the Lanao del Sur town of Kapai, a known MNLF bastion.

DIOKNO'S ABSENCE MAY 'SET BACK' PEACE TALKS

HK220743 Manila THE NEW PHILIPPINES DAILY EXPRESS in English 21 Jul 86 pp 1, 7

[By Joe Dachwi, Bayani Cruz]

[Text] The government panel is ready to negotiate with representatives of the Communist Party of the Philippines [CPP], it was announced yesterday.

The announcement was made in Baguio City by Agriculture Minister Ramon Mitra Jr, who was named official government negotiator along with former Sen Jose Diokno by President Aquino to hold peace talks with a CPP panel which consists of former newsmen Satur Ocampo and Antonio Zumel.

In a related move, a foreign affairs ministry official said the government will give rebel leader Nur Misuari a safe conduct pass if he wants to come to the Philippines for peace talks to end the Muslim secessionist movement in Mindanao.

Mita said he is willing to sit down anytime with Ocampo and Zumel even without Human Rights Commission chairman Jose W. Diokno who is reported to be leaving for the United States for a medical checkup.

Mitra said he has already agreed with Diokno on the fundamental issues which can be discussed with the CPP panel. He, however, stressed that he prefers that they negotiate as a panel.

He said he is always in contact with Diokno and that they have always been ready to negotiate with the CPP panel. He said, however, that they have to wait for word from Ocampo and Zumel on the start of the peace negotiation.

Mitra admitted that Diokno's absence may set back the timetable for the peace talks since he and Diokno have laid the groundwork of the negotiations.

He said, however, that Diokno may not be away for a long period of time and that Diokno can be back soon for the talks.

"Anyway, the communists are not in a hurry for the talks," he said.

Asked on Diokno's possible replacement, Mitra said that will depend on President Aquino, adding that it may be hard to find a replacement for Diokno.

Deputy foreign minister Mamintal Tamano yesterday said that the government will give rebel leader Nur Misuari a safe conduct pass if he wants to come to the Philippines for peace talks on the secessionist movement in Mindanao.

Tamano said that contrary to Misuari's claims, the government is eager to meet with the Moro National Liberation Front as indicated by the designation the other day by President Aquino of her brother-in-law, Butz Aquino, as representative to the peace talks.

Tamano said he was sent to the Middle East June 8 to ask the Organization of Islamic Countries (OIC) and the World Muslim League (Rabita) to arrange a meeting between government and the MNLF

He said he met with Dr Abdullah Omar Massief, secretary-general of the Rabita in Jeddah, to fix a date for the meeting sometime in August and to find a neutral venue.

"Misuari wants to hold talks with government representatives through the OIC and Rabita since he is not willing to have direct talks with us," Tamano said. He did not discount the possibility of holding the peace talks in the Philippines.

The OIC and Rabita both recognize Misuari as the sole representative of the MNLF which is presently divided into different factions under Hashim Salamat, Macapanton Abbas, and Misuari.

Misuari is in Syria and needs a visa to get to Jeddah where the OIC and the Rabita are based. Although there are pending warrants of arrest against him in the Philippines, a safe conduct pass will be issued to him if he wants to come to negotiate, Tamano said.

ENRILE SAYS COMMUNISTS SABOTAGING TRUCE TALKS

HK230235 Quezon City Radyo ng Bayan in Tagalog 0200 GMT 23 Jul 86

[Text] Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile said the Communist Party is deliberately sabotaging ceasefire negotiations with the government. According to Enrile, while the president demonstrated her determination for ceasefire talks, the rebels took advantage to attack and harass soldiers. He added that the rebels are carrying out a systematic campaign to undermine the commerce and industry of the country. According to him, the communists are also intensifying their recruitment activities.

RAMOS BLAMES REBELS FOR PEACE PLAN FAILURE

HK161531 Manila THE MANILA EVENING POST in English 15 Jul 86 pp 1, 6

[Text] Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, new armed forces chief of staff, today blamed the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP) and its military arm, the New People's Army (NPA), as well as the Moro National Liberation Front (MNLF), for the failure of the initial peace steps taken by the Aquino government to effect the reconciliation policy.

Ramos said: "The truth of the matter is that the armed enemies of the Republic, the CPP-NPA and the MNLF, have been violating the peace initiatives of the President."

He cited the treacherous acts of the NPA which made the initial reconciliation effort of the Aquino government end in vain, pointing out that the controversial ambush of an army convoy in Gumaca, Quezon, wherein 13 soldiers died, showed the rebels' deceitful tactics.

"It was a pre-planned and well-conceived ambush," he stressed, while discounting claims of pro-communist sectors that it was a chance encounter.

He said the "incident was not a chance encounter since the rebels brought along with them correspondents, reporters, and even photographers representing foreign news agencies during the staging of the ambush against the army troops."

"You might call it an execution of our people in the armed forces." he said.

The AFP [Armed Forces of the Philippines] chief of staff denounced the insurgents'black propaganda, which exploits the media by disseminating false reports on militarisation, human rights violations in Cagayan Valley, and other areas where military forces are stationed.

He said the military is always prepared to meet the threats posed by the insurgents and even willing to assist in the investigation of alleged violations.

He said radical changes in the military strategy will seek to upgrade the AFP's combat skills and enable it to cope with the insurgents' changing tactics.

"The new military strategy is a digression from the reckless expenditure of forces into a more discriminating and effective application of it by better trained, better equipped, and more mobile units," Ramos said.

RAMOS WANTS REBEL HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS PROBE

HK211115 Manila THE MANILA CHRONICLE in English 19 Jul 86 p 1

[By Lito Mangaser]

[Text] Gen Fidel V. Ramos, Armed Forces chief of staff, proposed yesterday the creation of a multisectoral fact-finding group to investigate human-rights violations by rebels.

Since July 2 Ramos has brought to the public's attention hundreds of alleged rebel atrocities. Since Feb. 26 this year, he said, the military has documented at least 67 atrocities by the New People's Army.

Ramos had earlier asked the Presidential Commission of Human Rights [PCHR], headed by former Senator Jose W. Diokno, to investigate human-rights violations by communist rebels and Muslim secessionists.

Last Wednesday, former Justice Reyes, PCHR vice chairman, said in a news conference that Ramos' request was not within the commission's power to comply.

Another commissioner, Haydee Yorac, explained in a television talk show Thursday that under Executive Order eight the commission could investigate human-rights violations only by government officials and employees, including military personnel. It has no power to investigate those outside the government.

In the same talk show, Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile complained about the government's lack of policy in bringing to justice rebels who violated human rights.

In a letter to Diokno last June 25, Ramos cited the following NPA atrocities:

"Salvaging" of at least 50 people in Bataan who refused to pay 'taxes' to the communists.

The killing of 215 people, supposedly victims of NPA's "Operation Linis' whose bodies were found in a mass grave in Misamis Oriental;

The torture and killing of 54 NPA "enemies" in Butan city;

Summary executions of suspected government agents called "zombies."

Kidnapping or "salvaging" of 72 people in five barangay in Kalan.

PAPER CLEARS UP 'MISCONCEPTION' OVER TRUCE

HK211307 Manila THE MANILA TIMES in English 19 Jul 86 p 4

[Editorial: "Misconceptions"]

[Text] There is a public misconception that there is a truce between the Armed Forces of the Philippines and the dissidents. So whenever there is an ambush by the dissidents or army commandos raid a dissident camp, the genral impression is that it has been done in violation of an existing truce.

The truth is that there is no truce. There are peace negotiations going on between representatives of the government and representatives of the New People's Army. It is hoped that the negotiations will result in, first, a truce, then, a peace agreement. But this is still remote.

At the moment, the war between the armed forces and the dissidents has not abated. The dissidents strike at the armed forces at every opportunity, and the armed forces hit the dissidents whenever they can. It is a war of attrition. No truce is being violated as no truce has been agreed upon.

A second misconception exists, and that is that the Human Rights Commission is biased in favor of the dissidents because it investigates human rights violations committed by members of the armed forces but not those committed by the members of the New People's Army.

Dissidents operate outside the law. When they abduct an individual, they are committing an act of abduction, not violating human rights. A rape victim does not accuse the rapist of violating her human rights. She charges him with rape.

Technically, only governments can violate human rights. It is an understatement to say that a holdup man, a rapist or a murderer violated the human rights of their victims. Government violates human rights when it deprives its citizens of their divine rights that do not come from the state, or from ther legal rights as citizens.

It is the function of government, not of the dissidents, to uphold human rights. No government can justify its violation of human rights by saying, "But the dissidents also violate human rights." That is not downgrading the rebels. It is elevating them to the status of a government. Worse, it degrades the government to the level of outlaws.

EDITORIAL MARKS DPRK-PRC TREATY ANNIVERSARY

[NODONG SINMUN 11 July editorial: "Militant Friendship Sealed in Blood"]

[Text] It is the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation,and Mutual Assistance. Today, our people are meaningfully marking this anniversary which has provided an important milestone in the history of the Korean-Chinese friendship.

The conclusion of the treaty on 11 July 1961 was an epochal event which legally fixed the militant friendship sealed in blood between the Korean people and the Chinese people and newly strengthened and developed the fraternal cooperative relations between them.

Over the past 25 years, the treaty has greatly contributed to accelerating socialist construction in Korea and China and defending peace in Asia and the world.

Korean-Chinese friendship has a long and deep historic root. The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has proclaimed: The peoples of Korea and China have long been revolutionary comrades-in-arms and class brothers who since long ago have established militant friendship in blood through the prolonged and arduous struggle against the common enemy.

Since long ago, with the same ideals and objectives, the Korean people and the Chinese people, hand in hand, fought together in China as well as in Korea against the imperialist aggressors.

Along the single road of seeking national liberation, class liberation, socialist revolution, and socialist construction, the peoples of the two countries have shared joy and sorrow, and actively supported and closely cooperated with one another.

Since the conclusion of the treaty, the friendship, unity, and cooperative relations between the peoples of Korea and China have been strengthened and developed even more widely and deeply. In this course, the great Korean-Chinese friendship has become a genuine and solid friendship [chinsilhago konggohan chinson] which is based on relations of firm class alliance [kyegupchok tongmaenggwangye].

The excellent bloom and development of the Korean-Chinese friendship seen today is because it is based on relations of special intimacy and revolutionary duty [kakpyolhan chinbugwangyewa hyongmyongjok uiri] between the leaders of the two countries.

In particular, since the mutual visits and talks between the party and state leaders of the two countries in recent years, the friendly and cooperative relations between Korea and China have reached a new high level.

Today, the friendly and cooperative relations between the two parties, two countries, and two peoples of Korea and China are becoming closer than ever. This time, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, the Chinese party and Government delegation has visited our country. This is a clear indication of such close relations.

Our people consider it satisfactory that the Korean-Chinese friendship is ceaselessly strengthened and developed. In confirmity with the spirit of the treaty, the peoples of Korea and China have supported and cooperated with one another, and have won great successes in revolution and construction.

In recent years, the Chinese revolution has entered a new phase of development under the tested leadership of respected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping and other leaders of the CPC. Since the 3d plenary session of the 11th CPC Central Committee, the stability and unity of the whole nation have been achieved and a fundamental change is being made in the lives of the Chinese people.

The ranks of the party have been firmly organized; temporary difficulties on the road of advnace have been overcome; and socialist economic construction and the building of spiritual civilization are being sucessfully carried on.

In the struggle to turn China into a modernized socialist power, great successes have been achieved. By firmly uniting around the CPC, the fraternal Chinese people are vigorously turning out in the struggle to implement the decisions made at the 12th CPSU Congress and at many subsequent plenary sessions. As a result, new developments are being made in all areas of the industry, agriculture, national defense, science, and technology.

Thanks to the creative positivity of the Chinese people and their sacrificial struggle, the Sixth 5-Year Plan was brilliantly fulfilled last year in China. Through the successfuly fulfillment of the Sixth 5-Year Plan, a new aspect, in which the overall people's economy is stabilized and developed evenly, has been created. With lofty confidence in victory, the Chinese people are entering a new road of advance for the Seventh 5-Year Plan which begins this year.

The changes which are being made in China are an indication of the correctness and vitality of the CPC line and policy to build socialism suitable to the situation of China.

The Chinese people are making active efforts to recover Taiwan to reunify the whole country and to defend world peace.

Today, the international position of the PRC is growing with each passing day, and its influence over the development of the international situation is further increasing.

The Korean people are truly rejoicing over the great successes won in the revolution and construction by the fraternal Chinese people as if they were their own. The Korean people are firm in solidarity for their cause.

Today, under the wise leadership of the party Central Committee headed by the respected and beloved Comrade Kim Il-song, our people are vigorously waging the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, cultural -- and brining about new innovations in all areas of the socialist economic construction.

Ending the division of the nation and reunifying the fatherland are the most urgent supreme tasks facing our party and people. To settle the question of the country's reunification in a peaceful way through dialogue and negotiation, our party and the government of the republic have put forth a series of rational proposals, and are making all sincere efforts for their realization.

Nevertheless, the United States and the South Korean authorities are turning their faces away from our fair and just program and sincere proposals for peace in Korea and its peaceful reunification. Because of their insincere attitude, no progress has been made in North-South dialogue.

The United States, with its unchanging aggressive objective, has introduced nuclear weapons and other mass-destruction weapons into South Korea, and is ceaselessly staging large war exercise commotions.

Because of the extensive military buildup and reckless war maneuvers by the United States and the South Korean puppets, the danger of war is growing with each passing day on the Korean peninsula. Reality shows that preventing the danger of war in Korea, preserving peace, and solidifying it there are an urgent question in defending peace in Asia and the world.

To alleviate tension in Korea and defend peace there, the U.S. troops and nuclear weapons, the cause of war, must be withdrawn from South Korea.

The Chinese party, Government, and people are invariably and actively supporting our people's just cause to make the U.S. troops withdraw from South Korea and to achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland. This is a great encouragement for our people.

Strengthening and developing the Korean-Chinese friendship, which has been sealed in blood and disciplined in the trials of history, are through all eternity a firm policy of our party and an unchanging will of our people.

In the future, too, the Korean people will make all efforts to hold the traditional Korean-Chinese friendship dear and to defend and develop it through all eternity for generation after generation.

Our people sincerely wish the fraternal Chinese people greater success in the struggel to build a modernized socialist power, reunify their fatherland, and defend world peace by upholding the decisions of the national party congress.

[Text] Marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, a meeting was held at the Central Workers' Hall on the morning of 9 July to open Korean-Chinese Friendship Week. Hung on the front wall of the meeting site were flags of our country and the PRC. Also plastered on the wall were the figures reading "1961-1986."

Also hung at the site of meeting were slogans reading "Long live the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance!" and "Long live the invincible militant friendship and unity sealed in blood between the peoples of Korea and China!"

Participating in the meeting were Yi Cha-pang, chairman of the Korean-Chinese Friendship Society Central Committee and chairman of the State Science and Technology Committee; Yi Mong-ho, chairman of the Liaison Committee for Cultural Relations With Foreign Countries; Kwon Min-chun, director of a WPK Central Committee department; Colonel General Pack Chung-kuk of the KPA; Vice Foreign Minister Kim Yong-sop; and other functionaries concerned, along with working people of the city.

Invited to the meeting were PRC Ambassador to our country Zong Kewen, embassy staff, members of the Chinese-Korean Friendship Association headed by Huang Shiming, vice president of the Chinese People's Association for Friendship With Foreign Countries, which is on a visit to our country, and other Chinese guests. When the Chinese guests appeared at the site of the meeting, members of the Juvenile Corps presented bouquets of flowers to them. The meeting began with the playing of the Chinese national anthem and that of our country.

Chairman Yi Cha-pang spoke at the meeting.

[Begin Yi recording] Today, when the friendly and cooperative relations between the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China are continuing to develop favorably, we are holding, together with our Chinese guests, a meeting to open Korea-Chinese Friendship Week on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

Availing myself of this meeting, which is overflowing with feelings of friendship, I first warmly welcome the Chinese guests, including Comrade Ambassador, who are participating in this significant opening meeting. [applause]

The Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, signed 25 years ago today on 11 July of 1961, reflecting the desire of the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China to further consolidate and develop Korean-Chinese friendship, has greatly contributed to legally fixing Korean-Chinese friendship forged on the single road of grave but glorious struggle and to making the garden of friendship and unity blossom beautifully.

Since this treaty was signed, the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China, while endlessly expanding and developing the firendly and cooperative relations in such various fields as politics, economy, and culture, have achieved great successes in their revolutionary struggle and construction works and have struggled together to firmly defend revolutionary gains and to defend peace in Asia and the world.

Over the past years, the fraternal Chinese people have achieved great successes in the revolution and construction by uniting around the CPC and by bravely overcoming difficulties and ordeals coming on the heels of each other through their self-reliance and arduous struggle. [applause]

The Chinese people are achieving giant strides in their struggle to build a highly democratized, highly civilized, modern and powerful socialist country by vigorously staging the struggle to implement the socialist modernization program put forward by the 12th CPC Congress and decisions adopted by the national conference of party representatives. Many domains of the national economy, including agriculture and industry, have been equipped in a modern manner; science and technology are developing; and the nation's defense capabilities are being consolidated firmly. The Seventh 5-Year Plan which began this year is also progressing successfully.

With the construction of spiritual civilization successfully advancing, along with the construction for the material civilization, the appearance of China is becoming fresher with each passing day and the national might is endlessly growing and strengthening.

We sincerely rejoice over the successes being achieved by the Chinese people in their socialist construction under the correct leadership of the CPC as if they were our own successes. [applause interrupted by Yi's continued speech]

Availing myself of this opportunity, I sincerely wish the Chinese people greater successes in the implementation of their just cause to carry out the socialist modernization program and to reunify the whole country [applause] [end recording]

After noting the fact that our people, who have accepted with excitement the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song's work "A Historic Experience in Building the WPK," are achieving great advances in their struggle to remold man, society, and nature in accordance with the demands of the chuche idea and in their work to achieve an independent and peaceful reunification of the country by vigorously carrying out the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- under the wise leadership of the dear Comrade Kim Chong-il, the speaker continued:

[Begin Yi recording] The reasonable proposals and initiatives put forward by our party and government of the republic to solve the Korean question by peaceful means are actively supported by peoples of the socialist countries, including the fraternal Chinese people, and the socialist countries, including the fraternal Chinese people, world's peace-loving people because of their justness and their realistic nature.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I extend deep gratitude to the CPC, the Chinese Government, and Chinese people for having invariably lent support and encouragement to our people's struggle for the nation's socialist construction and for national reunification. [applause]

The great leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: The peoples of the two countries of Korea and China are longstanding revolutionary comrades-in-arms and class brothers who have established their militant friendship in blood through their protracted and arduous struggle against their common enemy. Korea and China are the closest neighbors whose rivers and mountains are linked to each other, and Korean-Chinese friendship has long and deep historical roots.

Korean-Chinese friendship, which has been consolidated and developed on the basis of the particularly deep friendly relations and noble revolutionary (?ideology) established between the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the great leader of the Chinese people Comrade Mao Zedong, respected Comrade Zhou Enlai, and respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping, is now blossoming more beautifully through the repeated visits and contracts between the leaders of the two countries. [applause]

The visits to China in recent years by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader [chinaehanun childoja] Comrade Kim Chong-il and visits to our country by the respected Comrade Hu Yaobang and by respected Comrade Deng Xiaoping were historical events that have erected an epochal milestone in the chronicle of Korean-Chinese friendship, forged and blossomed since the days of anti-Japanese struggle, and have developed the traditional friendly relations between the parties and peoples of the two countries onto a new higher stage. [applause]

Our people, who are marking the significant 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, will remain invariably faithful to implementing this treaty and will advance forever the same ranks as the Chinese people in the implementation of the common socialist and communist cause.

No force on earth can stop the advancement of the two peoples of Korea and China, and our common cause will be ever-victorious and will always triumph. Long live the lasting and immutable militant friendship and unity sealed in blood between the peoples of the two countries of Korea and China! [applause] [end recording]

[Begin Huang Shiming recording in Chinese with simultaneous translation into Korean] Today, a delegation of the Chinese People's Association for Friendship With Foreign Countries and the Chinese-Korean Friendship Association, with deep sentiments of the Chinese people toward the Korean people, is visiting the DPRK, a fraternal country, on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Chinese-Korean Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. Today, we are very pleased to attend, together with our Korean comrades-in-arms, a ceremony to open Korean-Chinese Friendship Week.

On behalf of and in the name of the delegation of the Chinese People's Association for Friendship With Foreign Countries and the Chinese-Korean Friendship Association, I, first of all, extend ardent congratulations and warm greetings to the dear Korean [word indistinct] [applause]

The day 11 July is a significant day. Twenty-five years ago, President Kim Il-song and Comrade Premier Zhou Enlai personally signed the Chinese-Korean Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. This became a historic event in the history of the friendly relations between China and Korea and, along with this, showed that the friendly and cooperative relations between our two countries had already developed onto a new stage. The signing of the treaty was of great significance in strengthening overall cooperation between the two countries of China and Korea, in developing the friendly relations between the peoples of the two countries, in defending the security of the two countries, and in preserving peace in Asia and the world.

We have witnessed with [words indistinct] that, over the past 25 years, the two peoples of China and Korea have always mutually supported each other, fought, closely cooperated with each other, and advanced together in waging the joint struggle, and in carrying out the cause of socialist construction. Our two countries have constantly strengthened cooperation in the political, economic, cultural, educational, scientific and technological, and many other fields.

Furthermore, mutual visits by the leaders of the two countries over the past few years have elevated traditional friendship between the two peoples into a new higher stage. We are firmly convinced that the friendly and cooperative relations between the two countries of China and Korea will further expand and that beautiful prospects will open in these relations.

The Korean people are a brave, diligent, and resourceful people. As soon as the fatherland liberation war (?victoriously) ended, the fraternal Korean people, under the wise leadership of the WPK and President Kim Il-song, attained great success by making all efforts to accelerate (?socialist construction). The Korean people have built a backward country into a developed socialist power in a short period of time with the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and fortitude, upholding the policy of independence in politics, self-reliance in economy, and self-defense in national defense.

The Chinese people feel and rejoice over the achievements attained by the fraternal Korean people as over their own. The Chinese people wholeheartedly wish them greater success in the future cause of construction. [applause]

Realizing the peaceful reunification of Korea at an early date is the unanimous desire of the Korean people. The Korean people have made steady efforts to realize this lofty national aspiration. The DPRK Government has set forth a series of reasonable proposals for the peaceful reunification of the country and the easing of the strained situation on the Korean peninsula that have enjoyed welcome and support from the world's peace-loving people.

The Chinese people always watch with deep interest the Korean people's struggle for national reunification and resolutely support their active proposals and reasonable assertions to realize the independent and peaceful renunification of the fatherland. We are firmly convinced that, however many difficult obstacles lie in the way of realizng the peaceful reunification of the fatherland, the 3,000-ri beautiful land of Korea will certainly be reunified and the Korean people's cause of reunification will win ultimate victory without fail. [applause] [end recording]

The speaker continued to note: Correct lines conforming to the interests of the Chinese people were put forward at the 3d Plenary Session of the 11th CPC Central Committee. Firmly united around the party Central Committee, the Chinese people are making efforts to fulfill the Seventh 5-Year Plan, build the country into a socialist power which is civilized and developed to a high degree, and realize peaceful reunification by returning Taiwan. He continued:

[Begin Huang Shiming recording in Chinse wih simultaneous translation into Korean] The two countries of China and Korea are neighboring countries whose (?river and mountains) are linked to each other. The peoples of the two countries forged great friendship and militant unity with blood, sharing life and death and weal and woe in the struggle against the common enemy and mutually supporting and helping each other. This friendship is a friendship that, while alive, Chairman Mao Zedong and Comrade Premier Zhou Enlai personally created and established together with President Kim Il-song. It is a friendship which is based on Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism and which cannot be broken by any force.

Strengthening and developing Chinese-Korean friendship and unity are the common desire of the peoples of the two countries. We will make all efforts to hand down this friendship generation after generation. [applause]

Long live the heroic Korean people! [applause]

Long live great friendship and militant unity forged with blood between the two peoples of China and Korea! [applause] [end recording]

The meeting ended with the chorus of "The Internationale."

Kang Song-san Addresses Rally

[Speech by Kang Song-san, member of the WPK Central Committee Political Bureau and premier of the Administrative Council, at the central report meeting held in the afternoon of 10 July at the 8 February Cultural Hall in Pyongyang to mark the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance -- Recorded]

[Text] Esteemed Comrade Vice Premier Tian Jiyun, esteemed Chinese guests, and comrades: Today we are significantly marking the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. Marking the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, by authorization, I, on behalf of the WPK, the Government of the Republic, and the Korean people, extend warm congratulations and fraternal greetings to the CPC, the PRC Government, and all Chinese people. [applause] Along with this, I also warmly welcome the Chinese party and government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun, member of the Political Bureau and member of the Secretariat of the CPC Central Committee and vice-premier of the State Council, which is attending this meeting. [applause]

This commemorative report meeting constitutes a mighty demonstration of the invincible might of the great Korean-Chinese friendship and the militant solidarity of the people of the two countries. [applause]

The conclusion of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance on 11 July 1961 was an epochal event which strengthened and developed Korean-Chinese friendship forged in blood through the protracted joint struggle against imperialism into a new, high stage on a legal foundation. [applause]

This treaty was a clear embodiment of the unanimous aspiration of the people of the two countries to strengthen and develop the great Korean-Chinese friendship eternally and their firm and immovable will to jointly defend the gains of socialism from the imperialists' aggression and to safeguard peace and security. During the past 25 years since its conclusion, this treaty has greatly contributed to constantly expanding and developing the relations of friendship and cooperation between the people of the two countries, to accelerating the socialist construction cause in the two countries, and to defending peace in Asia and the rest of the world. [applause]

The people of our two countries have made every effort possible to further blossom Korean-Chinese friendship based on Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism continously by surmounting all sorts of hardships and trials. We feel [word indistinct] satisfied with the fact that the traditional Korean-Chinese friendship has been unwaveringly [kkotok opsi] consolidated and developed under all situations. [applause]

Korean-Chinese friendship is a solid and militant friendship full of vitality which has taken deep historic roots in the days of arduous joint struggle against the imperialist aggressors. It is an invincible and eternal friendship which has shared the same fate, joy, and sorrow at all times.

The communists and people of our two countries firmly waged, hand in hand, the protracted and arduous struggle against the Japanese imperialists, the common enemy, and achieved a historic victory in the cause of national liberation.

When the U.S. imperialists, prepossessed with the ambition to dominate the world, provoked the war of aggression in Korea after World War II, the Korean and Chinese people fought together in the same trench. We cannot repress our gratitude over the fact that, at a grave and arduous time when we waged the struggle determining the destiny of our fatherland, the Chinese people sent their volunteers to assist our people, upholding the banner of "Resist America, Aid Korea, Safeguard the Home, and Defend the Nation."

In the period of the socialist revolution and socialist construction, the peoples of our two countries also closely supported and cooperated with each other under the principle of satisfying each other's needs. The Korean-Chinese friendship is a particular friendship between the revolutionary comrades-in-arms which is based on deep fraternity and (?trust). Precisely because of this, the Korean-Chinese friendship further shines.

Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of our people, Comrade Mao Zedong, the great leader of the Chinese people, and esteemed Comrade Zhou Enlai from the early days forged intimate relations and provided the everlasting foundation of Korean-Chinese friendship.

The visits of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il to China and the visits of esteemed Comrade Hu Yaobang and Comrade (?Deng Xiaoping) to our country in the recent years provided a more brilliant milestone of Korean-Chinese friendship. [applause]

Our people are infinitely proud of the fact that the Korean-Chinese friendship jointly provided and fostered by the party and state leaders of the two countries of Korea and China has been outstandingly inherited and developed generation after generation. Indeed, the history of Korean-Chinese friendship is a proud one in which the people of the two countries have struggled together for their common cause as class brothers and revolutionary comrades-in-arms and have been victorious together. [applause]

Today, as the fraternal socialist countries in Asia, our two countries have carried out the joint struggle shoulder to shoulder, in order to achieve peace and victory in the socialist and communist cause.

The great Chinese people, under the correct leadership of the CPC, have built a new, lively socialist China on the wide land where exploitation and oppression were rampant and poverty and hunger prevailed in the past. With the 3d plenary session of the 12th CPC Central Committee as the occasion, China has entered a new turning point in its history, and the Chinese people have achieved stability and unity by surmounting difficulties lying on the road of advance.

Today, a lively and daily prospering and developing spirit is overflowing on the vast land of China. Firmly rallied around the CPC, the fraternal Chinese people are accelerating the material civilization construction and the spiritual civilization construction and are effecting new upsurges in all fields, including industry, agriculture, [word indistinct], science, and technology.

The Korean people rejoice, as over their own, over the great success that China, our fraternal neighbor, is registering by surmounting all sorts of difficulties lying on the road of its advance. [applause]

We sincerely pray that the Chinese people, upholding the decision of the 10th CPC Congress, will bring about a brilliant victory in the struggle to carry out the Seventh 5-Year Plan, to realize their modernization, and to build socialism with Chinese characteristics. [applause]

The Chinese people are making positive efforts to restore Taiwan to the fatherland, to reunify China, and to protect peace in Asia and the world. The PRC is being matured and strengthened into a powerful peace force in Asia and is exerting great influence in international relations. We are sure that the Chinese party and Government will bring about greater successes in carrying out their independent and peace-loving foreign policy. [applause]

Today, the Korean revolution is developing onto a new higher level. Endlessly bright are the prospects for our people, who, while being united with a single ideology and will around the party Central Committee led by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and upholding the banner of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- presented at the Sixth Party Congress, are vigorously advancing toward the complete victory of socialism. [applause]

The organizational and ideological foundation of our party, the headquarters of the revolution, was hardened like a rock, and the leadership structure of the party was firmly and solidly established. [applause]

Because of the energetic and wise leadership of the party, new miracles and innovations are taking place on all fronts of socialist construction in our country; the appearance of the country has been renewed; and monumental creations are being successively erected. While accelerating revolution and construction, our people are persistently struggling to crush the maneuvers to fabricate two Koreas by the divisionists at home and abroad and to realize the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland. The main line that our party and the government of the republic have always maintained in the struggle to reunify the fatherland is to realize the reunification of the country by the Korean people themselves, independently, without any interference of foreign forces, on the basis of democratic principles, and in a peaceful way.

In accordance with this main line, our party and the government of the republic announced the three major principles for the reunification of the fatherland, and advanced the proposal for reunifying the fatherland by establishing the Confederal Republic of Koryo, the proposal for holding tripartite talks among us, the United States, and South Korea, and the proposals for holding wide-ranging dialogue between the North and the South. Furthermore, they also proclaimed holding top-level talks between the North and the South. However, because of the maneuvers to fabricate two Koreas and to provoke a new war by the United States and the South Korean puppets, none of these reasonable lines and proposals of our party and the government of the republic has been realized.

The U.S. imperialists are strengthening forces of aggression in South Korea and its vicinity; are bringing in nuclear weapons and other modern war devices on a large scale; and are frantically conducting the "Team Spirit-86" exercise and other large-scale provocative war exercises in order to complete nuclear war preparations in this area. Because of this, the North-South dialogue, which had been arranged after a long lapse of time, was suspended. In accordance with the demand of the U.S. imperialists' policy of aggression and war, the South Korean puppets frustrated the dialogue between the North and the South; are instilling a fever of a war against us; and are harshly suppressing, with guns and bayonets, the struggle of the South Korean people who rose up in the anti-U.S. and antifascist struggle for independence and democracy.

The United States and the South Korean military fascist clique are considering embarking on an adventure of war against us, if they cannot block the advance of the South Korean people, and are ready for combat at any time so that they can conduct operations involving invading and attacking the North. We strongly denounce the criminal maneuvers by the U.S. imperialists and their stooges, who are endlessly intensifying the situation on the Korean peninsula and leading the situation to the brink of war. [applause]

If a war breaks out in Korea, it will be easily spread into a nuclear war in the world sphere. Under present circumstances, in order to alleviate tension and to help promote an atmosphere for dialogue and negotiation, we recently advanced the proposal for holding talks among military authorities among us, the United States, and South Korea. We also advanced the peaceful proposal for establishing a nuclear-free, peace zone on the Korean peninsula.

Removing the danger of a new war on the Korean peninsula and maintaining peace there is an important matter that is related not only to the destiny of the Korean people but also to peace and security in Asia and the world. The U.S. forces and nuclear weapons must be withdrawn from South Korea and a nuclear-free peace zone must be established on the Korean peninsula in order to remove the danger of war on the Korean peninsula, to guarantee solid peace there, and to achieve independence in and the peaceful reunification of the country. However, the United States and the persons in authority in South Korea also opposed this peace proposal for no good reason. This more clearly shows that it is the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets who are aggravating tension to the utmost in Korea, increasing the danger of war there, and blocking the peaceful reunification of Korea.

If the United States genuinely hopes for peace in and the peaceful reunification of Korea, it should withdraw from South Korea right away, taking along all the weapons of mass destruction, including nuclear weapons, in accordance with the desire of the world's peace-loving people and demands of the times, and respond to our reasonable peace proposals.

The United States should not instigate the persons in authority in South Korea to take the road to confrontation, to war, and to perpetual division with us. They should not interfere in the internal affairs of Korea, and should not do anything that hinders the reunification of Korea.

The persons in authority in South Korea should look squarely at the trend of the times and should immediately abandon their foolish war dream to attack us in an illicit union with outside forces.

Our people's just struggle for peace in and the peaceful reunification of Korea is positively supported and sympathized with by the governments of the world's peace-loving countries and the world's progressive peoples. [applause] The Chinese party, Government, and people are now lending, as they have invariably in the past, active support and firm solidarity with our people's struggle for socialist construction and for an independent and peaceful reunification of the country.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I am expressing deep gratitude to the Chinese party, Government, and the fraternal Chinese people for helping our people with blood during our fatherland liberation war by sending the volunteers, for giving our people a massive amount of aid during the difficult period of the postwar rehabilitation, and for positively supporting and encouraging our people in their struggle for socialist construction and reunification of their fatherland even today. [applause] Comrades, Korea and China are close, fraternal neighbors whose mountains and rivers are revolutionary comrades-in-arms and class allies who are linked to each other with inseparable blood ties. [applause]

Proceeding from the inherent nature of the socialist system itself, Korea and China are calling for peace, and the current situation requires that (? our two countries) further firmly consolidate the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. This corresponds to the basic interests of our two countries' revolution as well as to the unanimous aspirations of the peoples of the two countries.

The peoples of Korea and China will make a great contribution to promoting socialist construction in the two countries, to strengthening the socialist forces as a whole, and to defending peace in Asia and the world by discharging their duty assigned to them by the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. [applause] Our people will as ever remain faithful to the end to their duty assigned to them by the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance and will advance, struggling shoulder to shoulder with the fraternal Chinese people on a single road of the sacred struggle for the victory of the peace, socialist, and communist cause. [applause]

Long live the perpetual friendship and unity between the Korean people and the Chinese people! [applause] Long live the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance! [applause]

Jian Jiyun Addresses Rally

[Speech by Tian Jiyun, head of the Chinese party and Government delegation on a visit to the DPRK, member of the Political Bureau and secretary of the Secretariat of the CPC Central Committee, and vice premier of the PRC State Council, at the central report meeting held on 10 July at the 8 February Cultural Hall in Pyongyang to mark the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance -- recorded in Chinese with passage-by-passage translation into Korean]

[Text] Respected Comrade O Chin-u, respected Comrade Kang Song-san, and dear comrades:

At the sincere invitation of the WPK and the DPRK Government, our Chinese party and Government delegation came to visit our close neighbor to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance together with the fraternal Korean people. From the moment we set foot on your beautiful land, we have been accorded wholehearted welcome and warm hospitality by the Korean comrades and are submerged in an atmosphere overflowing with friendly feelings.

Availing myself of this opportunity, in the name of the Chinese party and Government delegation I extend heartfelt gratitude to the Pyongyang Municipal Committee of the WPK, the Pyongyang Municipal Administrative and Economic Guidance Committee, and Pyongyang citizens for having arranged this meeting. At the same time, I express my warmest congratulations and warm greetings to the WPK, the DPRK Government, and Korean people. [applause]

Twenty-five years ago today, our respected and beloved Comrade Zhou Enlai and the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song recorded a bright chapter in the history of relations between the two countries by jointly signing the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. [applause]

As has been indicated by practice over the past 25 years, this treaty has demonstrated a strong vitality, while overcoming the passage of a long time and the grave ordeals of a changing international situation. [applause]

Not only have the two parties and two countries of China and Korea promoted the relations between the two parties and two countries, but they have also played an important role in preserving peace in Asia and the world by strengthening unity, developing friendship, and by seriously cooperating with and helping each other in accordance with the spirit of the treaty. [applause]

The danger of war still exists today. However, it is possible to attain a relatively long-term peaceful phase through struggle because peace-preserving forces have grown greatly in Asia and the world.

The peoples of the two countries of China and Korea who underwent important (?national) sacrifices to oppose alien aggression and to defend their national peace have deeply realized the value of peace through their own practical experience.

The grand socialist construction in our two countries also calls for a long-term, stable, and peaceful international environment. To this end, our two countries are enforcing a diplomatic policy of sovereignty and independence and are giving all their energies to the holy cause of preserving peace in Asia and the world, all out of consideration for the interests of their own peoples and the world's peoples. Our firm stand and sincere acts are firmly linked to the movement of peoples in various countries to attain peace through struggle and have become a strong force and an important element on behalf of peace and stability and stability in this region. [applause]

Over the past years, the WPK and the government of the republic have put forward many reasonable proposals to ease the situation on the Korean peninsula and to achieve an independent and peaceful reunification of the country.

The series of important proposals you have advanced for the holding of the North-South dialogue and tripartite talks, for turning the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free peace zone, for halting military exercises, and for the holding of the (?tripartitie) talks between military authorities are widely regarded as important proposals and widely supported by the international community.

In particular, the proposal put forward by President Kim Il-song for the founding of the Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo which called on both North and South to achieve reunification on the basis of mutual recognition of and toleration for each other's ideologies and systems illuminated the direction and ways for an independent and peaceful reunification and it has reflected the unanimous aspirations of all the Korean people. [applause]

When Korea's cause of reunification is realized, it will not only bring an end to the protracted national division and the suffering of the separated blood relatives, but it will also achieve a lasting peace on the Korean peninsula and will be of help to peace and stability in Asia and throughout the world.

As a close neighbor and comrade-in-arms of the DPRK, China is paying deep attention to the situation on the Korean peninsula and will invariably and firmly support your just stand and all of your reasonable proposals. [applause]

We hope that the United States and the South Korean side will do something useful to ease the situation on the Korean peninsula, to resume North-South dialogue, and to realize tripartite talks by actively responding to these proposals. No force can stop the reunification of Korea because it is a trend of the times and an aspiration of the people. [applause]

Dear comrades, the heroic Korean people are carrying out the cause of socialist construcition while at the same time struggling to achieve an independent and peaceful reunification of the country. They are continuously attaining new successes. With their wise resources and with their two studious hands, the Korean people have given a new beautiful look to their beautiful rivers and mountains. Pyongyang, the capital city which has been erected out of the ruins of war, is beautiful and majestic. A spirit of accelerating construction prevails throughout the whole country.

The Chinese party, Government, and people always pay attention to the Korean people's cause of socialist construction and sincerely rejoice over all of the successes you have achieved. [applause]

We sincerely wish the fraternal Korean people greater successes in the course of realizing the targets of the 10 major prospective goals under the leadership of their own great leader President Kim Il-song and the WPK. [applause]

The Korean people also are paying great attention to China's cause of construciton. From this podium I can tell you comrades with joy that the CPC members and Chinese people are vigorously marching toward the targeted goals of revitalizing China and of building socialism with Chinese characteristics under the guidance of correct lines, principles, and policies since the 3d Plenary Session of the 11th Central Committee. [applause]

By not wavering and invariably enforcing a series of reform policies and policies of opening to the outside world, we have been pushing ahead a continual, stable, and harmonious development of the Chinese economy in the socialist orbit. And through a sovereign, independent, and peaceful foreign policy, we are ensuring a smooth progress in the construction cause. This is the fundamental policy of our country.

We have already completed the Sixth 5-Year Plan successfully. The overall reform project on the economic system accenting the cities has wonderfully began and is now being pushed ahead with intensity. Changes that are worth rejoicing over are taking place in such varous fields as politics, economy, science, technology, and culture. The Seventh 5-Year Plan for our country's national economy and social development adopted at the recent Fourth Session of the Sixth National People's Congress will pave new foundations for future development.

What I would like to specifically stress at this point is the fact that the Korean party, Government, and people are lending their valuable support to and solidarity with our country's revolution and construction and struggle for peacefully reunifying the mainland and Taiwan. In this regard, I am extending deep thanks to you. [applause]

Dear comrades, the two countries of China and Korea are linked to each other by mountains and rivers and the peoples of China and Korea are like real brothers. We shed our blood together during the past (revolutionary) war and our common ideals and exploits have linked us to each other more solidly in today's peaceful construction. We should make efforts to especially value and to develop this revolutionary friendship. [applause]

Thanks to the many recent, kind meetings between the leaders of our two countries, deep and close friendly feelings between us have further developed. Mutual exchange and cooperation in various fields are strengthening with each passing day and are achieving new successes without interruption.

Marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, we wish that the development of Chinese-Korean friendship will be as perpertual as the blue water in the Amnok River and as firm as the rocks on the Mt Kumgang. [applause]

Long live the great friendship between the two parties, two countries, and two peoples of China and Korea! [applause]

Long live the studious and brave Korean people! [applause]

[Speech by Kang Song-san, member of the Political Bureau of the WPK Central Committee and Premier of the Administration Council, at a 11 July banquet at the People's Palace of Culture on the occasion of the 25th Anniversary of the Signing of the Korea-China Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance -- read by announcer]

[Text] Comrade, we are very pleased to gather here with the friendship envoys of the Chinese people who are visiting our country to mark the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korea-China Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance together with our people. With their authorization, I speak in the name of the WPK Central Committee, the Government of the DPRK, and the Korean people as I warmly welcome [yolyolhi huanyong hada] the PRC party and government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun, member of the Political Bureau, member of the Secretariat of the CPC Central Committee, and vice-premier of the State Council.

The visit to our country by the high-level Chinese party and Government delegation makes the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Korea-China Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance more significant and serves as great encouragement to our people. The conclusion of the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance between Korea and China was an epochal event in consolidating and developing onto a new higher stage the traditional relations of friendship and cooperation between the two peoples sealed in blood on the road of struggle against a common enemy.

We are satisfied with the fact that over the past 25 years, the Korea-China Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance has made a great contribution to accelerating the cause of socialism in the two countries, to strengthening world socialist forces, and to defending peace in Asia and the rest of the world.

The Korea-China friendship is an indestructible militant friendship between revolutionary comrades-in-arms who closely support and cooperate with each other, devoting everything, while sharing life and death and weal and woe in times of difficulty or joy and in times of war or peace.

The Korean and Chinese people have long cherished a firm revolutionary sense of obligation as class brothers and reliable allies in the common struggle against aggression and subordination by imperialism. We are proud that Korea-China friendship has sunk deep roots and is constantly being carried forward and developed with the passage of time by the party and state leaders of the two countries.

The China visit by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and dear Comrade Kim Chong-il and the Korea visit by respected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping in recent years have demonstrated more clearly the greatness and indestructibility of the Korea-China friendship.

The Korea-China friendship has developed and strengthened as an example of proletarian internationalism, not shaking in any storm. Today our two countries are vigorously accelerating socialist construction shoulder to shoulder as reliable class allies standing firmly together as close brothers in eastern Asia.

We rejoice that China is registering a great upsurge in socialist construction and greeting a new historic turning point since the third plenary meeting of the 11th party Central Committee. Today the great Chinese people under the seasoned leadership of the CPC are registering shining successes in their endeavors to realize the four modernizations and build a highly democratic and highly civilized socialist power. We warmly hail the steady development and prosperity of China, our rear, and express full support to and firm solidarity with the fraternal Chinese people in their struggle to have Taiwan returned to the motherland, reunify the whole of China, and defend world peace.

Our people are convinced that the fraternal Chinese people, closely rallied around the CPC, will experience greater achievements in their efforts to fulfill the Seventh 5-Year Plan, upholding the decisions of the 12th National Congress of the CPC.

Today the Korean people are effecting continuous innovations and advance in the struggle to expedite complete victory in socialism in firm unity with the party Central Committee headed by the great Comrade Kim Il-song.

Thanks to the wise leadership of our party with its firm organizational and ideological foundation, our people are vigorously carrying out the three revolutions -- ideological, technological and cultural -- and foresee a brighter future. We are strenuously struggling to achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the nation by smashing the two Koreas plot of the enemy.

Although a war may break out at any moment in our country and large obstacles lie along the road of national reunification owing to the ceaseless arms build-up and the heightening of tension by the U.S. imperialists and the South Korean puppets, our people will achieve the historic cause of national reunification without fail with the concerted efforts of the entire nation and with the active support and encouragement of the peace-loving people of the world.

Availing myself of this opportunity, I express deep thanks to the Chinese party, Government, and people for having helped our people at the cost of blood by sending volunteers during the rigorous fatherland liberation war against the U.S. imperialist aggressors, giving much assistance to our people during the period of difficlt post-war rehabilitation, and now actively supporting and encouraging our just struggle for socialist construction and national reunification.

It is our party's unshakable policy and our people's rock-firm will to consolidate and develop forever the great Korea-China friendship which was established based on Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism and which was firmly consolidated by the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

The Korean people who always value friendship with the Chinese people will, as always, make every effort to bring to a new higher state the fraternal friendship, militant solidarity, and relations of class alliance between the two parties, countries, and peoples.

At this gathering, where fraternal friendship is overflowing, I propose a toast to the immortal and everlasting militant friendship and unity between the Korean and Chinese people; to the prosperty of the PRC; to durable peace in Asia and in the world; to the good health and long life of respected Comrades Hu Yaobang, Deng Xiaoping, and Li Xiannian; to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song; to the good health and long life of dear Comrade Kim Chong-il; to the good health of the respected Comrade Vice-Premier Tian Jiyun; to the good health of all the Chinese guests, and to the good health of all comrades present here.

Over the past 25 years, this treaty has not only played a very important role in strengthening and developing the great friendship and close cooperation sealed in blood between the people of the two countries, it has also had great impact on preserving the security of the two countries and peace in Asia and the world.

Whenever we look back upon the course of the past 25 years since the signing of the treaty, we naturally come to think of the great leader of the Korean people, Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Chinese people, the late Comrade Mao Zedong, the respected and beloved Comrade Zhou Enlai, and other age-old leaders of the two countries. During recent years, the leaders of our two parties and two countries have uplifted this friendship and cooperation onto a new stage to further deeply develop them through their many kind meetings. Exchange and cooperation between China and Korea in various fields of politics, economy, and culture have increased in number, diversified their forms, expanded their scope, and enriched their substances as compared to those of 25 years ago. Friendly relations have been established in all major fields of the two sides; either agreements or protocols on exchange and cooperation have been signed in many fields concerned, and the volume of personnel exchange has also been increased to many times what it was.

China and Korea have further strengthened cooperation between the two countries concerning jointly developing and using the Amnok and Tuman Rivers. Not only have these two rivers firmly linked our two countries with friendly ties, they have also contributed to providing happiness for the people of the two countries for generations to come.

The people of China and Korea are vigorously pushing ahead with the development of the socialist construction cause in the two countries, while always learning from and helping each other, meeting each other's needs, and supplementing each other in friendly exchange and cooperation in various fields. As a result of uninterrupted development in economic construction and other works of various fields in our two countries, the potential and possibility to further expand exchange and cooperation between the two sides is increasing.

We have seen with joy the great successes your country has achieved in socialist construction and changes worth rejoicing are being wrought in your country. You are also actively broadening foreign relations and strengthening exchange and cooperation with various other countries.

The Chinese people pay great attention to the fraternal Korean people's struggle and construction cause and are greatly encouraged by all of your victories and successes. We warmly congratulate you on your successes with deep affection as your comrades and comrades-in-arms and most sincerely wish the Korean people a bright future.

Sympathizing with and supporting each other in the cause of achieving national reunification and preserving peace in Asia and the world is another embodiment of the spirit of friendship and cooperation between our two parties and two countries. We are always grateful to the WPK, the Korean Government, and the Korean people for lending valuable solidarity with and support for the Chinese people's cause to achieve peaceful reunification of the mainland with Taiwan.

The Chinese party, Government, and people consider it their obliged internationalist duty to consistently support the Korean people's just struggle to defend national independence against foreign aggression and to achieve independent and peaceful reunification of the country. The WPK and Korean Government have put forward many constructive proposals and initiatives to ease the situation on the Korean peninsula, to promote the North-South dialogue, and the achieve reunification of the North and South.

The Chinese party, Government, and people strongly support the just stand and reasonable proposals of the Korean party and Government and will make every possible effort of its own in this direction.

Dear comrades, common ideals and faith have firmly linked us to each other. We are convinced that the great Chinese-Korean friendship based on Marxism-Leninism and the proletarian internationalist principle will, without fail, develop forever from generation to generation, overcoming all sorts of grave difficulties no matter what storms may confront the world.

In conclusion, I propose a toast to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance: To the great friendship and close unity between the people of the two countries of China and Korea; to the prosperity and flourishing of the DPRK; and to the good health and long life of Comrade President Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people and close friend of the Chinese people; to the good health of the respected Comrade Secretary Kim Chong-il; to the good health of Comrades O Chin-u and Kang Song-san; and to the good health of various other comrades who here with us!

When the friendship envoy of the fraternal Chinese people arrived at the gathering site amid welcoming music, participants in the gathering warmly welcomed the envoy, and female soldiers presented bouquets of flowers to the guests.

At the gathering, KPA Colonel General Chon Mun-uk spoke first.

[Begin recording] Today, we are gathered here with pleasure for a meaningful meeting with the Chinese party and Government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun, member of the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee, secretary of the CPC Central Committee, and vice premier of the State Council, which is on a visit to our country to participate in the celebrations of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

As we have gathered here with the friendship envoy of the Chinese party and people, our intimate comrades-in-arms and brothers, we emotionally look back on those days which the people of Korea and China shared fates, joys, and sorrows in the struggle against the common enemy, and overcame mountains of trails together.

The communists and revolutionary people of Korea and China, with arms in their hands under the banner of the anti-Japanese struggle, waged a prolonged bloody struggle against their common enemy, the Japanese imperialists, and, during this course, became class brothers and the closet comrades-in-arms, firmly linked with blood relations which can never be severed.

The invincible vitality of the militant friendship and unity sealed in blood between the people and armies of Korea and China was more brilliantly displayed during our people's just fatherland liberation war against the armed invasion of the U.S. imperialists. [end recording]

He said that the Chinese party, Government, and people, faithful to their revolutionary duty, helped our people's just struggle with blood during the fatherland liberation war, during which severe battles were fought to shape the destiny of our people.

He said that the friendship and unity between the people of the two countries have been further strengthened and developed since the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, and that the vitality of the treaty has been clearly displayed in the beautiful garden of Korean-Chinese friendship.

He went to add: [Begin recording] We express deep gratitude to the fraternal Chinese people for the active support and encouragement which they have given to our people's just struggle to make the U.S. imperialist aggression forces withdraw from South Korea and to achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland. [applause]

Today the revolutionary tasks of the people and armies of Korea and China and the prevailing situation demand that the militant friendship and unity between the people and armies of our two countries be strengthened more than ever. The great Korean-Chinese friendship, upheld by the people of Korea and China, will shine endlessly as times passes and will last forever. Long live the invincible militant comradeship [u-ui], friendship, and unity sealed in blood between the people and armies of Korea and China! [applause] [end recording]

Xu Huizi, member of the Chinese PLA, spoke next. He said that he conveys the greetings of the soldiers of the Chinese PLA to the soldiers of the KPA unit. He extended his congratulations for the great success which the soldiers of the unit have won in the struggle to implement the self-defense military line of the WPK.

He went on to add: [Begin recording in Chinese with superimposed Korean translation] Comrades: The people and armies of China and Korea have shared fates, joys, and sorrows in the prolonged struggle against the foreign aggressors and established deep militant friendship by supporting and helping one another.

The traditional friendship between us is being ceaselessly strengthened and developed with each passing day in the struggle to defend the security of our countries, build socialism, and achieve the reunification of the countries, and in the cause of preserving peace in Asia and the world. The Chinese people and PLA are directing deep interest to and are firmly supporting the just struggle of the Korean people and KPA to alleviate the situation on the Korean peninsula and achieve the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland. [applause]

Some time ago the KPA Supreme Command, in its information, proposed the holding of the talks between military authorities of the North side of Korea, the United States, and the South side of Korea. This new initiative by the KPA Supreme Command is of significance for creating a favorable atmosphere and conditions to eliminate military confrontation on the Korean peninsula and to resume the North-South dialogue. The DPRK Government has also proposed to turn the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free zone and peace zone. As your comrades-in-arms, brothers, and comrades, we are firmly support your just stand and all your initiatives to preserve peace. [applause]

Comrades: We are endlessly proud of the great friendship sealed in blood between the people and armies of China and Korea. In the future, in any storms, the people and armies of China and Korea will firmly unite in accordance with the spirit of the Chinese-Korean Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, will help one another, and will make all efforts to defend the security of our two countries and peace in Asia and the world. [applause] [end recording]

[Text] Respected comrades, The Chinese party and Government delegation will return home tomorrow after concluding its unforgettable visit. Entertaining feelings of regretful parting, we have invited our Korean comrades to our embassy to extend farewell greetings and to express thanks to them for treating us to warm hospitality for several days.

Even though we have stayed only a short period of time, we spent those days very joyously thanks to the careful organization of events by the WPK and the government. Our visit has been very successful. Our Korean comrades have carried out much excellent work to arrange functions to mark the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance between China and Korea. We are very satisfied with this. In particular, despite his busy schedule, Comrade President Kim Il-song has met with members of the delegation, invited them to a dinner party, and talked with us for a very long time in a very warm and friendly manner, thus giving us a particularly deep impression. All comrades of our delegation consider this a great honor, and are happy because of this. Availing myself of this opportunity, I extend deep thanks for this to the respected and beloved President Kim Il-song, the WPK, the Korean Government, and all of the Korean comrades, who greeted us.

During our visit, we spent days in the sea of China-Korea friendship. Both in Pyongyang and Nampo, we have received ardent welcome from the Korean people as if we were their real brothers. They expressed the Korean people's deep feelings of friendship toward the Chinese people in various ways. Such fraternal friendship of comradeship and comrades-in-arms made us firmly believe that the great friendship cultivated in blood between the people of China and Korea has deeply taken root in the hearts of the people of the two countries, that no force can destroy it, that it will be inherited and developed generation after generation, and that it will shine forever.

During our visit, we witnessed many successes you have attained in socialist construction. The magnificent buildings in Pyongyang, the fresh appearance of the city, and the large-scale Nampo lockgate demonstrated the wisdom and talent of the diligent and courageous Korean people and showed the great success attained by the Korean people in socialist construction by displaying the fighting spirit of self-reliance. We sincerely wish you new, greater success in the future.

Bearing in their minds the Korean people's feelings of deep friendship toward the Chinese people, the Chinese party and Government delegation will return home. We will convey the Korean people's feelings of fraternal friendship to the broad strata of the Chinese people without fail.

It is the unshakable policy of the CPC and Chinese Government to continuously consolidate and develop relations of friendship and cooperation between China and Korea. I firmly believe that through our joint effort, Chinese-Korean friendship based on the principles of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism will demonstrate stronger vitality with the passage of time, promote socialist construction in the two countries, and continuously contribute to preserving peace in Asia and the world.

In conclusion, I propose a toast to the great friendship cultivated in blood btween the people of China and Korea; to the prosperity and development of the DPRK; to the good health and long life of Comrade President Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people and the close friend of the Chinese people; to the good health of respected Comrade Secretary Kim Chong-il; and to the good health of the Korean comrades present here.

[Text] First, I would like to express my deep gratitude to you for arranging this occasion overflowing with friendly feelings, kindly inviting us, and making an excellent speech just now in connection with the departure of the Chinese party and Government delegation that has participated in the celebrations marking the 25th anniversary of the signing of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

With the participation of the Chinese party and Government delegation and other Chinese delegations in the celebrations held in our country on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the signing of the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance, the celebrations have been held with great magnificence. A great contribution has been made to further strengthening the relations of alliance as class brothers between the peoples of Korea and China.

Because the great leader received the Chinese party and Government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun and because the dear leader comrades instructed how to arrange the event well, the celebrations could be observed with greater significance and greater splendor. Throughout the entire process of the celebrations, we strongly demonstrated once again that the peoples of Korea and China are full of firm resolve to wage an eternal struggle together as revolutionary comrades-in-arms and class brothers in the struggle against imperialism and for the victory of the socialist cause. The great Korea-China friendship formed and efflorescing in the blaze of the arduous and difficult revolutionary struggle is a lasting and indestructible militant friendship that cannot be destroyed as long as the warm hearts of the peoples of our two countries continue beating.

Our people warmly greeted the friendly mission of the fraternal Chinese people with feelings of real flesh and blood and promoted the feelings of friendship. The welcome shown by our people to the comrades of the Chinese party and Government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun is the expression of their resolve to wage an eternal struggle together as class brothers, remaining faithful to the revolutionary fidelity and duty and overcoming fierce hardships.

We are satisfied that the Chinese party and Government have added great significance to the celebrations held in our country, and have enabled us to commemorate this day with grandeur together with the high-level party and government delegation and other delegations they have sent. During their stay in our country, the Chinese comrades expressed their wholehearted support for and firm solidarity with our people's just cause of the socialist construction of the country and the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland, from the Chinese people's revolutionary friendship toward the Korean people and their fidelity as class comrades-in-arms. This support given us by the Chinese comrades encourages our people with faith and courage and affords them great strength of encouragement.

Through the meetings and events with the Chinese comrades, we came to be better aware of the lively spirit of the Chinese people accelerating the socialist modernization construction of the country, firmly uniting around the CPC. Our people enthusiastically hope that the fraternal Chinese people will brilliantly carry out the decisions of the 12th CPC Congress and the National People's Congress under the wise leadership of the CPC so that they can convert China at an early date into a modernized and highly civilized socialist power.

Our people will always highly value Korean-Chinese friendship. This friendship is being solidified and developed based on the special initimate friendship between the great leader and the dear leader comrade and the Chinese leaders. Our people will continue to make every effort in the future to solidify and develop it continuously from generation to generation.

We hope that Comrade Tian Jiyun, upon his return home, will convey to the fraternal Chinese people the desire and militant greetings of our people who intend to solidify and develop the relations of class alliance continuously and to struggle together in the future on the basis of the duty stipulated in the DPRK-PRC Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

Finally, on this occasion where the feelings of friendship are overflowing, I propose a toast to the immortal revolutionary friendship and unity between the peoples of Korea and China; to the good health and long life of the respected Comrade Hu Yaobang, Comrade Deng Xiaoping, and Comrade Li Xiannian; to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song; to the health of the respected Comrade Tian Jiyun; and to the health of the comrades who are present here.

[Speech by Pak Sung-il, responsible secretary of the Nampo City Party Committee and chairman of the Nampo City People's Committee, at a mass rally held in Nampo City on 13 July to welcome the Chinese party and Government delegation led by Tian Jiyun -- recorded]

[Text] Esteemed Comrade Tian Jiyun, dear Chinese guests, and comrades: Today, we have gathered at this place with the great joy of meeting with the Chinese comrades, our intimate revolutionary comrades-in-arms, who have come to our country to attend the commemorative functions marking the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

We, Nampo citizens, who have greeted the goodwill envoys of the revolutionary Chinese people at a time when the traditional Korean-Chinese friendship forged in blood is flowering and developing with each passing day, are now seething with a festive atmosphere. At this rally site where revolutionary fraternity and feeling of friendship are overflowing, I, on behalf of all of the working people and citizens in Nampo City, warmly welcome members of the Chinese party and Government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun, member of the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee, secretary of the Secretariat of the Party Central Committee, and vice premier of the State Council. [applause] I also extend, through you, the warm greetings of our working people and citizens in Nampo City to the fraternal Chinese People. [applause]

Today, our working people in Nampo City are significantly celebrating, together with the fraternal Chinese friends, the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. The respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song has taught: The conclusion of the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance between our two countries was an epochal event that has strengthened and developed the relations of fraternal friendship and cooperation forged in blood between the Korean and Chinese people onto a new stage, and it is also an expression of the firm determination of the people of the two countries to cooperate and support each other in the struggle against imperialism and for the realization of the socialist cause.

In retrospect, the entire period up to date since the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance was concluded has been the significant days during which the people of our two countries have further deepened the friendship and duty as revolutionary comrads-in-arms, have constantly consolidated and developed friendship and solidarity, and have struggled together, supporting and cooperating with each other on the single road of the revolution.

The people of the two countries of Korea and China have deepened the traditional relations of friendship and cooperation under any complicated circumstances by understanding and supporting each other under the principles of friendship, cooperation, and mutual respect. Thus, they have consolidated and developed the socialist system and have firmly defended the gains of socialism from the infringement by the class enemies.

Life has clearly proven that the treaty accords with the interests and peace of the people of the two countries. It has vigorously encouraged the socialist revolution and construction in our two countries, and has greatyly contributed to opposing imperialism and to preserving peace in Asia and the rest of the world. [applause]

We feel very safisfied with this and are greatly proud of having the great Chinese people as our intimate revolutionary comrades-in-arms and reliable allies. In the future, too, we will further expand and develop the friendly and cooperative relations with the Chinese people in all fields, based on the treaty of friendship concluded between the two countries of Korea and China.

Today, the Chinese people's revolutionary cause is vigorously advancing on a new developing stage. The fraternal Chinese people, who have won victory in their protracted revolutionary struggle under the correct leadership of the CPC, have achieved great successes in the struggle to implement the socialist modernization program set forth at the 12th Party Congress by highly displaying the revolutionary spirit of self-reliance and fortitude and by surmounting all sorts of difficulties and trials lying on the road of advance. [applause]

In particular, since the 3d Plenary session of the 11th CPC Central Committee, rapid development, and the country's stability and unity have been firmly achieved in China in all fields -- political, economic, and cultural -- and various nationalities in China are vigorously advancing [word indistinct]. Today, the Chinese people are vigorously accelerating socialist modernization construction with great ambition and firm faith in victory by firmly uniting and exerting themselves in accordance with the blueprint unfolded by the national conference of representatives of the CPC.

The Chinese people's desire to build China into a highly civilized, highly democratic, modern, and powerful socialist state is blossoming on the land of China today as a reality. The old China where exploitation and oppression were rampant and the people suffered from poverty and hunger has vanished forever and the appearance of a tremendous new socialist China has emerged on the wide land of China today.

All of the changes and the majestic reality taking place on the land of China today vividly show that the line and policies of the CPC are correct and in accord with the specific situation of the Chinese revolution and the interests of the Chinese people. [applause]

Our Nampo citizens greatly rejoice over all successes registered in China and warmly congratulate the fraternal Chinese people for all successes registered by them. [applause]

It is the unanimous desire of the Chinese people to reunify the entire country by recovering Taiwan. The CPC, the Chinese Government, and the Chinese people have made constant efforts to return Taiwan to the fatherland under the pattern of one-country-two-systems.

The Chinese people have actively struggled to preserve peace in Asia and the rest of the world and have greatly influenced the development of the international situation.

Thanks to the tested leadership of the leading group of the CPC, great changes have taken place in the life of the Chinese people and the Chinese revolution is vigorously advancing today. [applause]

We, Nampo citizens, sincerely wish the fraternal Chinese people greater success in their struggle to accelerate the socialist modernization construction, upholding the decisions of the 12th CPC Congress and the National Conference of Party Delegates, and to reunify the whole country by recovering Taiwan under the correct leadership of the CPC. [applause]

You have visited our country at a time when our people and the working people in Nampo City are vigorously accelerating the labor struggle to complete the annual quota with the spirit of having fulfilled ahead of schedule the quota for the first half of the year under the wise leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il. Our working people in Nampo City have successfully completed rice transplanting and young corn transplanting despite the unfavorable weather conditions and are seething with the weeding battle now. They are also constantly creating new miracles in the industrial field.

Not long ago, we declared to the world the historic completion of the construction of Nampo lockgate, a great monument of the era of the Workers' Party, amid great excitement and joy throughout the country. The Nampo lockgate, which was brilliantly built on the 20-ri rough sea of the west coast in accordance with the far-sighted plan of our party, is the great creative structure built from our own design, our own technology, our own materials, and our own efforts. The Nampo lockgate, which will be handed down forever together with the history of our party, is a precious asset which guarantees the prosperity and development of the fatherland and its brilliant future and will greatly contribute to developing the economy of the country and to improving the welfare of our people.

Our Nampo City, which has made rapid progress in all fields under the sunshine of chuche, has been turned into a people's paradise, a better place to live in, and a mighty industrial city with mighty heavy and light industries and socialist farm villages. All changes taking place in our Nampo City along with the prosperity, grandeur, and development of our fatherland, are entirely a brilliant result of the tested leadership of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il. [applause]

The working people and citizens in our Nampo City are filled with the firm determination to effect new miracles and innovations in socialist construction by more frimly rallying around the party in the future, too, as in the past, and by vigorously carrying out the three revolutions — ideological, technological, and cultural — under the tested leadership of the party, while upholding the militant tasks elucidated by the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song in his 1986 New Year address and the decision of the 11th plenary session of the 6th WPK Central Committee.

Comrades, the prevailing situation demands that the people of our two countries further strengthen their traditional relations of friendship and cooperation, based on the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance. Today's situation on the Korean peninsula and in Northeast Asia is very tense, and the danger of a new war is growing with each passing day.

In accordance with its policy of emphasizing Asia, the United States has not only reinforced its armed forces of aggression in and around its strategically important area of South Korea, but has also introduced various types of modern war equipment, including nuclear weapons, into these areas. The United States is also scheming to form a new military bloc in these areas and is staging various types of war exercises there every day.

In South Korea today, there are some 40,000 U.S. forces armed with the latest-type lethal weapons and more than 1 million puppet army troops. Along with this, some 1,000 nuclear weapons of various types have been deployed there. This year alone, the United States staged the "Team Spirit-86" joint military exercise, the largest in scale in history, in South Korea, mobilizing some 200,000 military troops and numerous modern war equipment. It has openly declared that it will further accelerate war preparations in the future in South Korea.

The armed forces confronting each other with the Military Demarcation Line in between have reached the highest level since the past Korean war, and such a military confrontation has reached a most serious stage. The United States and South Korea have deployed their armed forces in the forward area along the Military Demarcation Line and have increased their mobility. They have also reinforced their nuclear war capability and have sharply increased the combat capability of their special commando units. Along with this, new type military equipment, including missiles, rocket launchers, tanks, armored vehicles, and F-16 fighter bombers, as well as new military units have been deployed in South Korea. Their military troops' combat preparations have been stepped up. At the same time, various measures for mobilizing the U.S. armed forces in the U.S. mainland and the Asian and Pacific region into the Korean front have been stepped up. Such being the situation, on the Korean peninsula where the vast armed forces are in sharp confrontation, a tense situation, in which a war may break out as a result of an accidental happening, is prevailing today.

If a war breaks out on the Korean peninsula, it will become a nuclear war and will expand outside the boundaries of Korea. The danger of war on the Korean peninsula should be removed and the tension prevailing there should be rapidly alleviated. As has been widely known to the world, the government of the republic has made every possible effort to alleviate tension and to resolve the Korean question peacefully through dialogue and negotiations.

In this year alone, following its repeated clarification of the need to hold tripartite talks among us, the United States, and South Korea in an effort to resolve the basic problems in the achievement of the peaceful reunification of Korea, the government of our republic repeatedly advanced a series of new peace proposals to alleviate tension and to guarantee peace on the Korean peninsula, and to open a phase favorable for its peaceful reunification.

However, the United States and the South Korean authorities have accepted none of these proposals and, instead, are advancing toward the road of aggravating tension under the pretext of the nonexistent threat of southward invasion. This vividly proves that the clamoring about dialogue and alleviation of tension by the United States and the South Korean authorities is a lie and that they are in fact pursuing the policy of aggression and war.

The United States and the South Korean authorities should not adhere to the anachronistic act of clamoring about the nonexistent threat of southward invasion, of aggravating tension, and of seeking a war using the nonexistent threat of southward invasion as an excuse, but should respond to our peace-loving proposals and initiatives.

To alleviate tention and to prevent war on the Korean peninsula, the U.S. forces should be withdrawn from South Korea. As long as the U.S. imperialist aggression forces remain in South Korea, tension on the Korean peninsula cannot be alleviated nor can the danger of war be removed. Our people, who treasure national sovereignty more preciously than life, will never tolerate the criminal schemes of the U.S. imperialists who have trampled underfoot our people's sovereignty and who have hindred reunification by occupying South Korea illegally and by perpetrating the policy of aggression and war.

The United States should look straight at the firm will of the Korean people to achieve peace in the country and its peaceful reunification. It should no longer perpetrate the act of abetting the South Korean puppets to follow its two Koreas plot, and should withdraw from South Korea without delay, taking along all lethal weapons, including nuclear weapons. The independent and peaceful reunification of the country is the unanimous aspiration of all of the Korean people and the demand of the peace-loving people of the world.

Today, the Chinese people have extended firm solidarity to our people's cause of reunifying the country. China has extended active support and sympathy to our just initiatives for peace and peaceful reunification. These include the proposal for founding a Democratic Confederal Republic of Koryo, the proposal for holding tripartite talks, the proposal for holding parliamentary talks, and various other measures to alleviate tension on the Korean peninsula. China has made efforts for their realization.

Our people will smash the two Koreas plot of the splittists at home and abroad and achieve the sacred cause of national reunification without fail amid the active support and encouragement of the fraternal Chinese people, the people of the socialist countries, and the peace-loving people of the world.

I take this opportunity to express deep thanks to the fraternal Chinese people for their sincere assistance to our people during the fatherland liberation war and the postwar rehabilitation in the past and for their active support and encouragement of today to our people's struggle for the country's socialist construction and for the independent and peaceful reunification of the country. [applause]

Comrades, Korea and China are close neighbors linked by a river. The Korean and Chinese people are intimate comrades-in-arms and class brothers who have struggled together, shoulder to shoulder, against the U.S. imperialist aggressors. The people of the two countries of Korea and China have forged the unbreakable militant ties of friendship through the arduous and protracted course of struggle and have always supported and cooperated with each other.

The friendship between the people of the two countries of Korea and China is an invincible friendship provided for and fostered by Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of our people, together with Comrade Mao Zedong, the great leader of the Chinese people, and Comrade Zhou Enlai. Because of this, the Korean-Chinese friendship has taken deep roots in the hearts of the people of our two countries and is continuously blossoming. [applause]

The great Korean-Chinese friendship which has been firmly forged with its historic tradition, based on the Treaty of Friendship and Cooperation, is further strengthening and developing with each passing day amid the deep concern and care of the parties and leaders of the two countries. The visits to China of the respected and beloved leader Comrade Kim Il-song and the dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il and the visits to our country of esteemed Comrade Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping were epochal events which provided a new milestone in the Korean-Chinese friendship. [applause]

The splendid celebration by the people of the two countries of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance is another mighty demonstration of the invincible might and solidness of the fraternal friendship and solidarity between the two allies. [applause]

The current visit to our Nampo City of the Chinese party and Government delegation led by Comrade Tian Jiyun to celebrate together with us the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the treaty pleases us very much and greatly encourages the working people of the city who are vigorously carrying out the struggle for socialist construction. The working people in our Nampo City, who have maintained deep emotions of friendship with the Chinese brothers across the sea, treasure the relations of friendship with the Chinese people.

We will invariably abide by the duty as class brothers, will be faithful to the obligations of the treaty, and will struggle together with the Chinese people, shoulder to shoulder, against imperialism, for the peace and security of Asia and the world, and for the victory of the socialist and communist cause. [applause]. The invincible friendship and revolutionary unity between the people of the two countries of Korea and China which have been forged in blood through the protracted joint struggle and which have surmounted all sorts of trials in history will be eternal generation after generation, along with the rivers and mountains of the two countries.

Long live the great militant friendship and solidarity forged in blood between the people of Korea and China! [applause] Long live the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance! [applause]

Tian Jiyun Rally Speech

[Speech by Tian Jiyun, leader of the visiting Chinese party and Government delegation, member of the Political Bureau of the CPC Central Committee, secretary of the Secretariat of the party Central Committee, and vice premier of the State Council, at a Nampo mass rally held at the Nampo Stadium on 13 July to welcome the Chinese party and Government delegation -- recorded in Chinese with passage-by-passage translation into Korean]

[Text] Respected Comrade Yon Hyong-muk, respected comrade cadre members in Nampo, and dear comrades:

The Chinese party and Government delegation is very glad to participate in a function arranged by the WPK and the DPRK Government in Pyongyang to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance between China and Korea and to visit Nampo, a coastal city, located along the western coast of Korea and which has beautiful scenery. On behalf of the Chinese party and Government delegation, I, first of all, extend sincere thanks to cadre members in Nampo and all citizens in Nampo for affording us hospitality and for arranging such a splendid rally as we see now. At the same time, availing myself of this opportunity, I extend warm greetings and best regards to the Nampo citizens from the Chinese people. [applause]

Nampo is well known to the Chinese people, and it occupies an important position in the development of the people's economy in Korea. Under the leadership of President Kim Il-song and the WPK and upholding the banner of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- the people of Nampo have attained great success in socialist construction by displaying the revolutionary fighting spirit of self-reliance. [applause]

Nampo is beautiful; its streets are wide and are lined by apartment houses; and it has been turned into a modernized industrial city that possesses machine, steel, nonferrous, chemical, and light industries. We entertain feelings of high respect for Nampo. [applause]

The torch of the Chollima movement in Korea was kindled at the Kangson Steel Mill more than 20 years ago, and this torch spread to the entire country. The 8-km-long Nampo lockgate located at the estuary of the Taedong River has been completed in a short period of 5 years. This is the fruition of the spirit and strength of the Korean people. The people of Nampo have offered great manpower and material aid to the construction of the lockgate, greatly contributing to the quick completion of this magnificent edifice. As comrades-in-arms and brothers of the Korean people, the Chinese people truly rejoice over all the successes you have attained and wish you new, greater success in your future construction work. [applause]

Nampo is overflowing with feelings of China-Korea friendship with the Liaodong and Shandong peninsulas in China inserted in between across the sea. We know that many Chinese delegations visit this city and return every year, carrying the rich results of study and entertaining feelings of deep friendship after being warmly welcomed and treated cordially. Visits by many trade ships have been exchanged annually between littoral Chinese ports and Nampo, spanning the bridge of friendship between the two countries one by one. Thus, the city has positively contributed to trade and friendship between the peoples of the two countries. What has moved the people is the fact that defying severe cold, workers at Nampo Port jumped into the icy water and saved Chinese sailors. This is the vivid materialization of China-Korea friendship, and this has been told as a beautiful story. We firmly believe that the people of Nampo will much more greatly contribute to developing relations of friendship between the two countries. [applause]

While striving to achieve the fatherland's reunification, the Chinese people are deeply interested in the Korean people's cause of reunification. It is the ardent desire of all the Korean people to achieve the country's independent and peaceful reunification at the earliest possible date.

To fulfull this desire, the WPK and the government of the republic have exerted a steady effort for a long time. They have extensively won sympathy and support from international social circles by advancing a series of rational proposals, such as the proposal for founding the Democratic Confederale Republic of Koryo and the proposal for holding tripartite talks with the participation of the north and south of Korea and the United States. [applause]

The important proposals that you have recently advanced to hold the talks of three persons in military authority and to turn the Korean peninsula into a nuclear-free peace zone represent another important action taken by the WPK and the government to alleviate the situation on the Korean peninsula and to achieve durable peace in Korea and the unanimous desire of all the Korean people.

The stand of the CPC and the Chinese Government toward the Korean question is consistent and unshakable. We sincerely hope that the situation on the Korean peninsula will be alleviated much more quickly and the reunification of Korea be achieved peacefully by the Korean people themselves without interference by foreign forces. [applause]

By naturally taking the action of support [chiji haengdong], the United States and the South Korean side should provide favorable conditions and atmosphere for the peaceful reunification of Korea and for north-south dialogue. We firmly believe that thanks to the steady effort of all the Korean people, a reunified, independent, self-reliant, prosperous, and developing Korea will emerge in the Far East without fail. [applause]

Comrades, I would like to briefly introduce to you the situation of China. Since the 3d plenary session of the 11th CPC, the Chinese people have consolidated and developed the political phase of stability and unity in some 7 years through a diligent effort under the guidance of a correct line and policy and have developed the people's economy in a continuous, stable, and balanced manner along the track of socialism. Today a new task for the economic system has been carried out in a planned manner, producing a positive effect with the passage of time. The Chinese people have been wholeheartedly engaged in socialist modernization construction. We plan to increase the total industrial and agricultural production by four times from 1981 to the end of this century, to make our people's standard of living reach a middle level close to that of developed countries by the middle of the next century. [applause]

In order to achieve this magnificent goal, we require a lasting and peaceful international circumstance. China is striving to implement a peaceful foreign policy of independence and to develop relations of friendship with various countries of the world. The Chinese people are determined to naturally contribute to the cause of building their country into a much more prosperous country and to preserve world peace.

We have spent very significant days after participating in functions arranged in Pyongyang to mark the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance between China and Korea. We have once again warmly sensed how dearly the WPK and the government regard friendship between the two countries and how deep the Korean people's feeling for friendship toward the Chinese people is. [applause]

We have directly seen that, in accordance with President Kim Il-song's teaching, the Korean people are building socialism, displaying an unyielding spirit. We warmly congratulate you on attaining great success in this work and sincerely hope that you will build your fatherland in a much more prosperous manner. [applause]

Through the protracted revolutionary struggle against the common enemy, the people of China and Korea have maintained invincible friendship shoulder to shoulder with blood. While mutually supporting and aiding each other in the socialist revolution and construction, the people of the two countries have cultivated relations of close friendship and cooperation. The visits to China in recent years by Comrade Kim Il-song, the great leader of the Korean people, and by respected Comrade Kim Chong-il and the visits to Korea by the leaders of the Chinese party and government, including Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping, raised relations of friendship and cooperation between China and Korea to the new stage of development and much more deeply and extensively developed exchanges and cooperation between the two countries in all sectors, including the political, economic, and cultural sectors. [applause]

The CPC and the Chinese Government and people have very dearly valued these relations of friendship just as they do with their eyes, and they are overflowing with a resolve to exert every possible effort to develop this friendship generation after generation. [applause]

We firmly believe that thanks to warm considerations shown by the leaders of the parties and governments of China and Korea and to the wholehearted efforts of the peoples of the two countries, relations of friendship and cooperation between China and Korea will continuously develop and that the China-Korea friendship will blossom much more beautifully. [applause]

We hope that the DPRK will prosper and develop and that the people of Nampo will enjoy a happier life. [applause]

Long live the diligent and courageous Korean people! [applause, shouts]

[Text] We are very happy, because we have come together with many comrades of China -- our most intimate revolutionary comrades-in-arms and brothers -- who are visiting our country to attend the celebrations of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance.

On this meaningful occasion where revolutionary friendship and the sentiment of amicability [hyongmyongjok ujonggwa chinsonui chong] are overflowing, in the name of all working people of Nampo city, I once again warmly welcome the visit to our country of the Chinese party and Government delegation led by respected Comrade Tian Jiyun.

The conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance was an expression of the firm determination of the Korean and Chinese people to share fates, joys, and sorrows at all times, and was a historic event which has strengthened and developed relations of class alliance to a new high stage.

By the treaty, the blood relations of friendship and cooperation between the people of Korea and China established along the path of arduous but honorable struggle have been fixed legally. Over the past 25 years, the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance has greatly contributed to the revolutionary cause of the people of the two countries to realize the common objectives and ideals.

Today, under the tested leadership of repected Comrades Hu Yaobang and Deng Xiaoping and other leaders of the CPC, the fraternal Chinese people vigorously struggle to implement the socialist modernization program and win innovative success by upholding the decisions of the 12th CPC Congress and the National People's Congress and by possessing renewed confidence and ambition.

We truly rejoice over the fact that everything goes smoothly in the fraternal China and send full support and solidarity for the just cause of the Chinese party, government, and people at all times.

Today, our Nampo citizens vigorously struggle to successfully accomplish our honorable task of upholding the banner of the three revolutions -- ideological, technological, and cultural -- put forth by the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song and dear Comrade Kim Chong-il, and by maintaining the spirit with which the Nampo lockgate -- a great monument of the era of the Workers Party -- has been built.

Ending the division of the country and reunifying the fatherland are the most urgent tasks which our people face in their struggle. We will smash the two-Korea maneuvers of the domestic and foreign splittists and will achieve the historic cause of the fatherland's reunification -- the supreme national desire of our people -- without fail.

We consider it a great pride to have as a credible ally [midumjikhan tongmaengja] the Chinese comrades who give active support and encouragement to our people's struggle for socialist construction and the independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland at all times.

Reality shows that the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance displays great vitality. We will always be faithful to the duty of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance to the very end, and will further glorify Korean-Chinese friendship, which further blooms and develops with each passing day, generation after generation.

At the same time, we firmly believe that, in the future, by firmly basing on the spirit of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance and by credibly strengthening relations of class alliance, which can never be severed [kunullaeya kunulsu omnun], the people of Korea and China will jointly overcome all severe storms and trials.

In conclusion, availing myself of this opportunity where the militant friendship of amicability and unity is overflowing, I propose a toast to the invincible friendship and unity between the Korean people and the Chinese people; to the good health and long life of respected Comrades Hu Yaogang, Deng Xiaoping, and Li Xiannian; to the good health and long life of the great leader Comrade Kim Il-song: To the good health and long life of dear leader Comrade Kim Chong-il; to the good health of respected Comrade Tian Jiyun; to the good health of respected Ambassador Comrade Zong Kewen; and to the good health of Chinese comrades present here.

[Text] Today, with great pleasure, we are visiting the beautiful port city of Nampo. From the moment we arrived here, we have been deeply moved by the warm welcome and cordial hospitality rendered by the people of Nampo.

Availing myself of this opportunity, representing the head of the delegation, Tian Jiyun, and all comrades of the Chinese party and Government delegation, I once again extend sincere gratitude to the comrade cadres and all citizens of Nampo.

This is our first visit to Nampo. However, we are not unfamiliar with this city, because we heard about its beautiful scenery, its success in construction, and the people working with overflowing enthusiasm long ago. In particular, the magnificent Nampo lockgate, which was recently dedicated, is a noble fruition of the Korean people's wisdom and the spirit of Chollima.

Today, by visiting this city, we have witnessed the great success you have won, and personally felt your sincere friendship toward the Chinese people. We are very happy over this, and are greatly encouraged. We sincerely wish you renewed and greater success in future socialist construction.

Our Chinese party and Government delegation considers it a great honor to participate in the celebrations of the 25th anniversary of the conclusion of the Korean-Chinese Treaty of Friendship, Cooperation, and Mutual Assistance through the invitation by the WPK Central Committee and the government of the republic.

It has been 25 years since our respected and beloved Comrade Zhou Enlai and the great leader of the Korean people Comrade Kim Il-song jointly signed the treaty which was of great historic significance, and thus developed the friendly and cooperative relations between the two countries to a new stage.

Over the past 25 years, the friendly and cooperative relations between China and Korea have been further strengthened, and have vigorously accelerated the socialist construction in the two countries. We consider this satisfactory [urinun iedaehayo manjokhage sanggak hamnida].

The CPC and the Chinese Government hold the Chinese-Korean friendship dear at all times, and have made persistent efforts to develop this friendship ceaselessly. As in the past, we will continue to support your cause of socialist construction and the Korean people's struggle for independent and peaceful reunification of the fatherland.

We firmly believe that, through the sincere cultivation of our two parties and the governments of the two countries and by the joint efforts of the people of the two countries, the tree of Chinese-Korean friendship will certainly bear a richer fruit by sinking deeper roots and flourishing its leaves.

In conclusion, I propose a toast to the ceaseless development of the great friendship between China and Korea; to the greater success of Nampo in socialist construction; to the good health and long life of the president Comrade Kim Il-song -- the great leader of the Korean people and the intimate friend of the Chinese people; to the good health of respected secretary Comrade Kim Chong-il; and to the good health of all Korean comrades present here.
